After other clauses in the report had been passed, Alderman Phelan brought up the pump question again and his proposal to strike out the clause pending consideration and investigation carried.

Refuse Permit—Sign Is Up.

A communication was read from Duffus Motor Sales, asking permission to erect a sign, and Alderman McIntyre received corroboration of his belief that the sign had already been erected. A by-law was produced and read showing that signs must not be erected until approved and permission received from the City Engineer.

City Engineer Parsons reported that the sign as now erected violates a by-law if it is to be illuminated. He said he was informed that permission had been obtained to attach the sign to the Hydro pole, but had later found that no such permission had been obtained.

Alderman Greene expressed the opinion that Mr. Duffus took a very arbitrary stand in erecting this sign and afterwards asking permission.

Alderman Fife said the sign is up and he would suggest that the request be granted, but Mr. Duffus should appear before the Board of Works and give a reason to the Council for his action.

Alderman Phelan moved that the permit be not given. Mr. Duffus, as an ex-Mayor, he said, knew the rules and should abide by them.

The motion carried, refusing the permit.

New Light Standard.

Robert Hicks asked permission to erect a light standard in place of the gasoline pump he has removed from his premises, and the question was referred to the City Engineer with power to act.

Lost a Horse.

M. J. Leahy, Indian River, R. R. No. 2, said he lost his horse when it fell on Hunter Street Bridge. The horse was eight years old, and worth $80. He asked the Council to consider compensation, but Council did not feel obligated in any way.

A C.N.R. application to discontinue operating the gates at Hunter Street, Sherbrooke Street, and Simcoe Street crossings between midnight Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday was referred to the Board of Works.

PARLIAMENT TO DECIDE ON FLAG

Australia and New Zealand Have Their Own National Ensigns.

NO CHANGE NOW

OTTAWA, July 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Until the whole matter of a Canadan flag is discussed in Parliament and a decision reached, no further steps will be taken in the matter, said Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence, yesterday in discussing what he stated to be "considerable misapprehension" in the matter of the flag.

At present all merchant vessels registered in Canada fly the red ensign with the badge of the Dominion on the fly, and the blue ensign with the badge of the Dominion is flown on all government owned vessels. In Australia since 1903, the national flag of the Commonwealth has been the blue ensign with the southern cross of six white stars on the fly. In New Zealand since 1901 a similar national flag has been used. In British Columbia, Mr. Macdonald pointed out, a well known organization named the United Sons of Canada, had offered substantial award for the winner of a competition to produce a Canadian flag, and on the order papers of the House of Commons last session a resolution in the name of A. R. McMaster dealt with the subject.

The Minister of Defence explained that the position of the Government was that there should be no change until Parliament had made a decision in the matter.

EUROPE FACES CRISIS IN COAL

Miners Refuse to Accept New Agreements Offered by Owners.

SITUATION SERIOUS

(By Lloyd Allen)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 7.—Europe is facing a crisis in coal. While American miners are deliberating on the question of a possible strike similar problems are arising in England, France, Belgium and Germany.

The British miners have rejected owners proposals for a readjustment of wages based on division of profits after cost have been deducted The British miners claim this would mean a reduction of their income. And, this has led to a crisis which may require government intervention in order to prevent dwelling the army of 1,250,000 unemployed through the addition of thousands of miners.

The cabinet is scheduled to discuss today the coal crisis, and even now there is talk that William Clive Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, may be called to preside at tri-partite negotiations among government owners and miners, if the government is obliged to intervene.

Likewise the executive committee of the Miners International Federation will convene to discuss not only the British situation but also the German, Belgian and French situation since crises are developing in these countries at the same time the British coal crisis. Meantime there is a movement in British labor circles to form a "quadruple alliance" with the miners to join with the railroad men and with the transport workers to present an invincible front in the present labor situation.

NAVAL PRACTICE INCLUDES USE OF POISONOUS GAS

German Manoeuvres Included Tactics Based on Use of Gas.

SHORTEN RANGE

Military Record Says Admiral Will Now Flee to Windward, Laying Gas Screen.

LONDON, July 7.—(Special by United Press).—New naval tactics based on the use of poison gas is the most important feature of the annual German naval manoeuvres now taking place in the Baltic, according to the latest issue of the Naval Military Recrod, which sees in the progress of chemical science the means of seriously upsetting the calculations about the necessity of maintaining super capital ships as the nucleus of naval power.

The introduction of gas warfare at sea will very likely shorten the range of fighting, it is contended. It is said, "we may easily assume that the chief problem before the German admiralty these days is how to get the fullest possible value out of their obsolete fleet.

"There can be no doubt that poison gas plays a very large part in the new tactics. Hence our reason for suggesting that the plan of the German Admiral, in the face of a superior and faster force would be to try to lead it on a stern chase, dead to windward. He would form in a line abreast and keep clear of the poisonous clouds he trailed in his progress.

"Indeed the possibilities of chemical warfare bid fair to develop into another very strong argument against the value of super capital ships.

"The whole effort of the enemy would naturally be to avoid meeting a super capital ship or if that cannot be done, she must be met in such a manner as to minimize the advantage of her great powers.

"At 20,000 yards a ship equipped with 15-inch guns would have it all her own way against a ship with 11-inch guns. At 2,000 yards it might prove quite another story."

TWO MIRACLES AT HOLY SHRINE

Young Girl Cured of Displaced Hip at St. Anne de Beaupre.

YOUNG MAN HEALED

QUEBEC, July 7.— (Canadian Press).—Two miracles are reported to have taken place at Ste. Anne De Beaupre during the week just ended. Miss Mary McKenzie, eighteen years of age, of Detroit, Mich., who had suffered from birth from a displaced hip is reported to have been cured after she had spent a day in prayer at the shrine of Ste. Anne. The girl according to story told by her companions, had prayed in the Basilica Chapel during the greater part of the day and had later assisted at the evening office. Upon leaving that she went to the shrine where the relics of St. Anne are and had only been there a few minutes when her companion saw her sink to her knees for the first time in her life. At the same moment she uttered a cry that she was cured. Her injury had prevented her kneeling before.

On Saturday a young French Canadian from the New England States, Romeo Bilodeau of Biddeford, Maine, is reported to have been cured of a pedal infirmity. For many years he had walked only with the aid of a pair of crutches but after rising from mass on Saturday he found it unnecessary to use these.

TRIAL OF GERMAN MONSTER IS BEGUN

Murderer Tells Details of Killing Eight Members of Family.

BERLIN, July 7. — Another wholesale murderer was placed on trial yestreday in the small town of Limburg. He is Director Angerstein, of a cement factory, in whose home eight members of the household were found dead last December.

The courtroom was packed as Angerstein related in a calm, unconcerned manner how he murdered his wife and his other victims. He went into the most horrible details without betraying the slightest emotion. He admitted that only his wife was killed outright, the other victims groaned for some time after he struck them down.

Angerstein is a paralytic. According to the police he enticed his victims into a room separately, and killed them with an axe and a hunting knife. He then poured petroleum about, set fire to the house, stabbed himself with the dagger and then screamed for help. At first de declared a band of robbers had attacked the house, seeking the payroll of the factory, but after being questioned by the police he confessed.

FIVE ALREADY IN

MONTREAL, July 7. — Montreal's ten War Veterans' organizations, nine of whom are united in the Dominion Veterans' Alliance, all will become members of the proposed Canadian Legion, either by amalgamation or affiliation, S. D. Cunningham, secretary of the Quebec Council of the Alliance stated Monday. He says all are sympathetic to the Legion and five have already joined with it. These are four branches of the Great War Veterans' Association, and the Tuberculous Veterans' Association.

The French and Italian War Veterans' Associations, two other members are certain to join the new Legion, Mr. Cunningham thinks, and the Veterans' Civil Service Guild is willing to join as an affiliated member. The local organization of the Army and Navy Veterans is sympathetic to the Legion, Mr. Cunningham says and only await the decision of the National Council of their order. It is understood the Federation of Returned Soldiers and Sailors are seriously considering union with the new Legion.

"God bless you, father."

ALL TRIBESMEN CALLED TO ARMS BY RIFFS' CHIEF

All Able-Bodied Men Ordered Ready for Military Service in Morocco.

CLAIMS VICTORIES

Abd-El-Krim Wrings Support of Tribes by Severely Punishing Chiefs.

TETUAN, July 7. —(Canadian Press).—The disciplinary methods used by Abd-el-Krim in his efforts to keep his forces of tribesmen intact are described by messages, reaching here, which tell also of the recruiting of new men to replace the heavy casualties suffered by the rebels at the hands of the French and Spaniards. The tribal leader is pictured as inflicting heavy punishment upon the heads of the tribes who offer only slight resistance before the enemy and to other Caids suspected of making secret deals or maintaining relations with the French and Spanish authorities.

The Riffian war lord these messages say has held the caves of Ait Kamara and a number of prisons with delinquent tribesmen, who are kept prisoners until they agree to submit to Adb-El-Krim's command.

In its recruiting campaign the rebel high command has prepared circulars in which reference is made to victories by the tribesmen in the French zone. The circulars request all able-bodied men to be prepared for military service at the end of the orthodox Easter festival, which lasts seven days, and states that if the recruits have faulty arms they shall present themselves to their Caids to receive new guns and munitions.

This increased vigilance and the efforts to enlist new recruits are interpreted here as precautionary moves to prepare the rebel army for the possibility of an agreement for combined military action by the French and Spanish.

Abd-El-Krim is said to be receiving daily bulletins concerning the progress of the Franco-Spanish conference in Madrid together with the foreign press comment on the conference.

ARCTIC LURING AMUNDSEN'S MEN TO NEW EFFORT

Companion of Polar Explorer Eager to Make the Next Trip.

AIRCRAFT PROBLEM

Planes Proved Dangerous by Recent Experience, Some of Men Assert.

OSLO, July 7 (Canadian Press)—The lure of the Arctic has taken a firm hold on the men who accompanied Captain Roald Amundsen on his recent attempt to reach the North Pole by airplane. All of them are eager to join the next trip, but they declared it should not be made with airplanes, which, they hold, proved definitely that they were unsuitable and dangerous under Polar conditions.

Captain Amunsden displayed unwillingness to talk about the prospects of reaching the pole by seaplane, asserting that a great deal of close study was needed to determine the best type of aircraft with which to accomplish this great dream of a trans-polar flight.

Karl Feucht, one of the mechanics, is alone in devotion to the plane. He pins his faith to the flying machine for exploration purposes, even though landing facilities for such craft do not exist in the Arctic. He admits that planes used in the future must be much higher powered than those used in the expedition from which the men have just returned.

Stated Present Position of Practise and Reviewed Its Progress.

TORONTO, Ont., July 7—(Canadian Press).—The American Osteopathic Association opened its week's convention here today with addresses of welcome by civil officials and the president's address, delivered by Chester D. Swope of Washington, D.C. Two thousand five hundred officials are here from all parts of the Dominion and the United States.

Dr. Swope in his presidential address outlined the ideals of the Osteopathic Association, and reviewed the general position of Osteopathy. He stated that the system of treatment that has for fifty years withstood the onslaughts of prejudiced opposition and has also improved and progressed, must be based on sound and scientific foundation. In a scientific world we have established that Osteopathy lessons play an important part in the cause of disease, and that their removal plays an equally important part in the cure of diseases.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL FINDS ROAD FUNDS GREATLY REDUCED AND SUSPENDS CONSTRUCTION

Two Thousand Taken From Appropriation For Unlooked For Expenses.

TAKE RESIGNATION.

Will Call Meeting Soon to Nominate Successor to R. S. Southworth.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7—All work on the streets of Campbellford is to be abandoned for the present, until the members of the Town Council can ascertain where they are at financially. The sum of $6000 was set aside for the use of the committee on roads and bridges and now the council, owing to circumstances over which it has no control, finds that amount reduced by $2000.

Councillor Kingston, chairman of the finance committee explained the situation at the July meeting of the council last night when every member was present. The Council has to pay for repairing the bridge last fall, nearly $1000, which, it was expected would be received as a grant from the Ontario Government, and which may yet be placed to the credit of the municipality. At the last session of the Counties Council it was discovered that the town owed upwards of $900, its share of the cost of keeping up the bridges in Northumberland County. This reduces the local appropriation for roads and bridges to nearly $4000 and of this amount nearly $3300 has already been spent.

The town, however, stands to receive a provincial grant of $1300 which will be 50 per cent of the amount it will pay into the county road fund.

Councillor Kingston explained that as the fund was so nearly exhausted that there were no money left to pay for crushing stone. As the streets are in better shape than they have been for years he was in favor of stopping all work on them until it can be learned whether the $1000 owing on the bridge is to be paid by the Government and just how much of a road grant the town will receive.

On motion of Councillors Kingston and Palliser this action was decided upon.

R. S. Southworth Resigns.

R. S. Southworth, who left town last week, sent in his resignation as a member of the Council, and this was acception on motion of Councillor Kingston, who also moved that the necessary steps be taken to elect a successor and that regret be expressed over the loss of Mr. Southworth as a citizen and councillor.

A meeting of citizens to nominate a successor to Councillor Southworth will be called as soon as the necessary legal formalities can be arranged.

Councillor Abernethy was appointed a member of the Police Committee to succeed Mr. Southworth.

Allowed Damages.

When the town employees were blasting for the sewer on Tice Street, a flying fragment of rock broke a plate glass window in the grocery store of John Gay. Joel H. McArthur, who owns the building, was voted $25, the cost of patching up the shattered glass.

Special Meeting Monday.

A special meeting will be held in the clerk's office next Monday evening to arrange for the issue of sewer debentures and for the transaction of other business. The letting of the contract for constructing a sewer on Market Street and Oliver Road will also be considered. Deputy Reeve Palliser maintains that the charges for that sewer are too high and on his motion it was decided to ask the engineer to bring in an estimate for the cost of the Booth Street sewer in connection with the other and that the schedule of charges be revised.

agony..

Other Business Matters.

Town Solicitor Lynch was instructed to renew his correspondence with the C.N.R. asking for the refusal of the lots occupied by the road as a right of way for the spur line which it is proposed to abandon. The town has already made an offer for a portion of this property.

Clerk McGregor will write Major Belford, M.L.A., urging him to take up again with the Government, the overdue grant of $1,000 for repairing the bridge.

The Department of Highways wrote offering to rent the new road roller for a few days and asking for terms. Mayor Meyers had written to say that the Department could have the roller at a rental of $25 a day, provided it was not taken too far from town, the Department to pay in addition the wages of the Engineer and fireman and for the fuel.

Councillor Wiggins complained that when Front treet was graded recently, the grades for the gutters as furnished by the engineer had not been followed and that pools of water form after a rain. He also stated that citizens were complaining that since the three crossing on that street were removed there is no dry crossing for the use of pedestrians in wet weather. It is expected that the proper drainage for Front treet can be secured at nominal cost.

Filling a Vacancy.

When the question of securing a successor to ex-Councillor Southworth was brought up, Town Councillor Lynch explained that at the recent session of the Legislature, the law had been amended, giving the Councils the right to fill a vacancy by a majority vote of the members, provided that such vacancy occured after November 1st in any year. When the term to be filled, however, was longer than two months, the law remained as formerly and a special election would be necessary

Before the meeting began an adjourned session of the Court of Revision was held, to dispose of two disputes, with regard to the assessment for the new sewers on the west side.

A Question of Rent.

A discussion arose over the payment of the rent of an indigent family whose landlord was A. L. Rieneau, and who were to be dispossessed when the charity committee came to their rescue. Reeve Davidson contended vigorously that the payment of rent was a matter outside of the Council, but in this position, he stood alone.

Mr. Reindeau has already been paid $30 for rent by the town and claims a balance of an equal amount.

Finally, on motion of Councillor Moore, Mayor Meyers appointed Reeve Davidson and Councillors Abernethy and Moore a committee to intedview Mr. Reindeau and endeavor to induce him to abate his charges.

MILITIA MEN GONE TO CAMP

Forty, All Ranks, From Campbellford, Are Encamped at Cobourg.

HIGHWAY IMPROVED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — Thirty-six privates and four officers of the Campbellford Company of the Northumberland Regiment left on Monday morning for Cobourg, where they will go into camp for nine days. Major J. M. Bygott was in command. The band, which is the official musical organization of the Regiment, will go to Cobourg on Saturday to furnish the music at the annual inspection, remaining until Sunday to play at the church parade.

Last season the quota allowed to go into camp by the Militia Department was 180 men, but this year the number has been reduced to 120, and of these Campbellford furnishes one-third.

Fine Piece of Highway.

The steam roller has been working on the street leading from the C.N.R. depot to Grand Road, and when it is completed, that thoroughfare will be equal to any highway in the province. The surface is heavy, covered with fine crushed rock which the roller presses down until it is as smooth as asphalt.

With this street put in shape, the road to the down town district from the depot is in excellent condition, and strangers in the city riding over it in the 'bus for the first time will no longer make caustic remarks about a rough passage.

Business Changes.

H. C. Coveney, of the Queen's Hotel, has been granted a permit to sell the 4.4 beer, and started business Saturday.

C. A. O'Conner, who conducts a grocery business on Tice Street, is preparing to open a branch of Front Street in the building formerly occupied by R. R. Hutton as a tailoring establishment. J. A. Smith an experienced grocer, will have charge of this branch.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MARY DUCK.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Duck, who died Saturday, was held yesterday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Rev. Wesley Elliott, of St. John's United Church, conducting the religious services.

The late Mrs. Duck was born in Shingsby, England, over 93 years ago, but came to this country with her husband, who predeceased her, in 1885. At the time of her death she was living at the home of her son, John. Robert Duck of town is also a son of the deceased.

GEORGE HENDREN

The funeral of the late George Hendren was held on Sunday afternoon and was attended by a large number, both from the village and the surrounding country. After a short service at the family residence on Reid St., the funeral cortege proceeded to the Union (Methodist) Church where the main service was held with Rev. S. A. Kemp in charge.

After the opening hymn "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" Mr. Kemp prayed and Rev. Walter Cox read the Bible lesson.

The address given by Rev. Walter Cox by special request of the deceased was filled with a message of hope for the future, the deeper, fuller life robbed of the pain and suffering of this world, and in greater tune with the infinite.

Rev. S A. Kemp added a few words and the familiar hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were sung.

The bearers were all young men, friends of George's, grown to young manhood with him. They were: Percy Stenner, Frank Payne, Fred Wannamaker, Sam Sherin, Stanley Richardson and Roy Charlton. The organist, Mr. K.S. Madill, played the "Dead March" at the close of the service.

The cortege re-formed and proceeded to the Lakefield Cemetery where interment took place.

There were many floral tributes from friends who knew the love of the flowers sent him in his illness brightened many an hour for the young man.

George Hendren was one of the most popular boys in the village, always full of fun and a general favorite, and when he was stricken with the illness which, after many months, ended his earthly life, his cheery spirit never failed even amid great suffering, and the blindness with which he was stricken nearly six months ago and though his earthly vision was clouded, he saw even more clearly the better things.

WILLIS CROCKER.

Willis Crocker died suddenly at his home, 220 Rubidge street, on Monday evening, at the hour of 8.30. His death was caused by a hemorrhage, and although medical aid was summoned immeditely it was of no avail.

The deceased would have been 29 years of age on July 18th, and had been overseas with the 235 Battalion. It is thought that the young man never really recovered from his experiences on the battle fields.

To mourn his loss the e remain his father, Joseph Crocker, and two sisters, Mabel and Annie.

The funeral will take place at 1.45 p.m., Wednesday, proceeding from the house to the Little Lake cemetery where interment will take place.

Friends of Coolidge Say Succession to Harding Was Not Term.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 7 (Canadian Press).—There is every reason to believe, judged by the discussions had with his political advisors here, that President Coolidge is a receptive candidate for a second nomination for the presidency in 1928.

The argument of his friends is that he is serving his first term received at the hands of the electorate and they did not accept the precedent established by Roosevelt, who regarded his succession to McKinley as a term.

Home-Making Helps

By Wanda Barton

In many homes the sun parlor has to take the place of a porch for various reasons, so that its furnishings are a matter of great moment. As the windows are sure to be well screened, we may indulge in lamps for night lighting without danger of being annoyed with bugs, mosquitoes and other flying pests.

In most places, where the room is almost like an open porch with sliding sash windows all around the end an sides of the room, it is wise to leave the floor bare, polished or painted. Then put down fiber or other rugs generally used on the open porch.

The furniture to be used is sure to be one of the many willow combinations and painted according to individual taste. Yellows, reds and greens are Summer colors. These may be used freely, combined with a few of the paler shades of each.

Painted furniture, or that which is slipped with gaily flowered chintz or cretonne, is usually chosen where the choice willow combinations prove too expensive. The gay glazed chintz for curtains, lamp shades, and even pillows, is most popular for this room, and there are many color combinations to select from. The floor lamps made of bamboo or willow come with the open-work willow shades and are lined with very thin and colorful China silk.

The color used on the walls and woodwork is repeated in the smaller decorations. Even the floor flower boxes and pots are painted to match, especially if they are of the rough clay variety. Sunfast materials are apt to be selected for the chair slip covers and cushions.

In one sun room the outdoor feeling was accentuated by having a painted parchment ceiling with electric lights back of it that gave a soft, sunset glow at night.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE TELLS ABOUT A SUMMER'S AFTERNOON DRESS.

Madame has had many clients this season who choose a frock they like and then have the model made up in various colors and materials.

"Such a method would seem rather unimaginative," Madame commented. "But, then, my clients know I never run out of ideas and it is well to stick to a mode that is becoming."

"I rather like the method," I commented.

"It started first with hats," Madame explained. "Smart little felts have all been so simply made for the past few seasons that it seemed foolish to change to different shapes once one found the most becoming one. So the smartest clients would decide on a felt shape that was the most becoming possible and then order it in colors to go with every costume."

"Yes," I commented. "I remember what a start it gave me the first time I heard a client order fifteen felt hats all alike, except that they were in different colors."

"Well, now Miss Miller has ordered six country frocks, all made alike, in various materials," Madame informed me.

I asked her which model Miss Miller had chosen and she motioned to a yellow crepe satin which had just been brought in.

"Will you try it on?" Madame asked. "I'd like to see how it looks on you while I'm planning what colors and materials I will duplicate it in for Miss Miller."

I slipped out of the simple, open-front frocks we manikins wear when we aren't modeling, and had soon donned the frock, which went on over my head.

The dress had fagotting at the front and back of the neck, and again at the left hip, where the fagotting topped a pleated inset. It was repeated at the narrow band cuffs, which confined the long sleeves rather tightly at the wrists.

"You see, it's a new bersion of the Vionnet blouse which has been such a great favorite in the shop," Madame commented.

The blouse had been exactly like the upper part of the frock, except that it ended in a low waistline with a fagotted hem. We showed it in all colors and many clients ordered white or gray ones to wear with dark two-piece suits. Later we sold it in gay sports colors for Summer to wear with pleated skirts."

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

HOW PEER'S DAUGHTER ENTERED SLAVERY.

They found her in the river the other night—the dark river that slips so quietly through the dark streets of dark old London.

Young, beautiful, high bred, rich, desired, and desiring—yet she sought her bed in the dark river of her own accord.

The daughter of a peer, she was. Born in a castle and brought up in gorgeous places of comfort in all the great cities of the world and in her quiet home of beauty, in a quiet English shire.

Unusually clever, light hearted, generous and kind. As beautiful as a princess in a fairy tale. The heiress to a great name—and yet just because she smoked a pipe of opium once—"just for a lark," she was glad to lie down and die in the dark river before she was twenty-seven years old.

How many simple country girls in her native shire have looked at her do you suppose and wished they had had half as much to live for as she?

How many poor little pinched, half starved, dead-and-alive shop girls have envied her and wondered why she had "all the luck?"

And now one of them is perhaps a cherished wife in some humble and happy home and the other may be a loving mother, with all the happiness in the world in her two loving arms.

After all, it seems to be what we are and not what we have that counts, doesn't it?

This poor girl who died in the Thames River the other night—

She began to smoke opium—for a "lark"—with a group of other boys and girls, as foolish and as reckless as she.

Where did they get the idea—that isn't hard to guess.

They got it from the theatre and from the novels and from the "poetry" about "poppy dreams" and from the foolish talk of foolish folk who don't know a thing about the "poppy dreams" and how easy it is to dream them and how bitter hard to rouse from the dreaming of them.

And after the opium came morphine and then came cocaine. Finally it was was all gone—the beauty and the charm and the delicacy, the hopes and the ambitions and the innocent love and innocent friendship that this poor girl knew before she had dreamed the "poppy dreams."

She tried to cure herself; she tried to shake off the chains of the hideous slavery—but she failed—and so they found her in the river.

And someone will doubtless write a novel about it and make it something very beautiful and very wistful and very romantic and it is all just foolish and cheap and sordid.

Poor girl, I think she is all right—all last.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a young man three years my senior, for about two years. We have had a quarrel. Since we are engaged to be married, would it be right to ask him to "come back?"

BROKEN HEARTED.

BROKEN HEARTED: If you are engaged to this young man it is your privilege to learn just what the status of your friendship with him is now. I suggest that you ask him to call and then discuss the whole situation very frankly and freely. Tell him that, for the sake of your love, you are willing to overlook your quarrel and ask him what his attitude is. If you are tactful and kindly you cannot help but get a warm response.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Do you think a young man even if he really likes a girl has a right to kiss her if she objects?

DOUBTFUL.

DOUBTFUL: All demonstrations of affection should be reserved for people who are engaged to be married, my dear. If a young man asks this privilege, regardless of how fond of you he may be, you must explain how you feel about this. If he respects you and values your friendship he will not ask that you violate conventions which you hold to be sacred, and if he does not hold you in high regard his friendship is not worth while.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

A recipe that can be recommended from personal experience as making the nicest, flaky sort of dumplings to finish off a pot roast or a boiled dinner is used by Mrs. M. L. McCarthy, 379 Park street. For a family of three or four, take

2 cups flour.
1 scant cup sour milk.
½ teaspoon soda.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.

Drop in boiling broth or water and cook not more than seven minutes, turning them over while cooking.

All Aboard

HALL COCHRANE DAILY POEM

What a heap of haste is showing. Say, where's everybody going? Was there ever such a hub-hub in the nation? Men in doorways shouting loudly, People passing by them proudly. Yes. there's much ado in any union station.

"All aboard for this and that place!" Comes a man with glowing fat face, who is lugging both portfolio and grip. You can tell that he's a drummer who stops off most every summer, for the town is on his everlasting trip.

In the jam the crowd near smothers. Little tots hang on to mothers. There's a rush for day coach seats when trains arrive. Men who sell both fruit and candy, through the train are always handy, and the general scene of action is alive.

What a lark to read the faces of the people in such places. I have done it as they've in and outward poured. Meeting friends and old relations is the thrill in union stations, and the catch-word of all is, "All Aboard!"

The Secret of Speed in Electric Range Cooking

A quart of water raised to boiling point in 8 minutes on an electric range! And everything cold—range and water—at the start!

Doesn't a fast worker like that appeal to you. That's the new Beach Electric Range. It's a great range—a range you'll enjoy using every day in the week, every week in the year. It was designed to be "the Best"—to make housewives' work easier, their cooking better, their kitchens prettier.

Let Us Explain Its Quick Heat!

There are so many fine features in the Beach Electric that we hesitate to tell you about one and ignore others.

It uses the open element. That is, the heat comes directly from the white-hot coils to your cooking utensils. There is no covering in between to waste valuable heat and to check the flow of direct heat.

Every bit of heat generated in the coils is focussed directly on your cooking utensils. That is a big thing! In most electric ranges the coils have a large percentage of contact with the porcelain plate. Now porcelain absorbs heat. The result is, there's a lot of heat wasted, and it takes a long time to get the coils up to their proper heat, in addition to using up a lot more current than is necessary.

In the Beach, one coil in eleven in the element touches the porcelain, and then only at two points. The result is that waste heat is cut down to an absolute minimum.

One Coil in Eleven Touches!

Porcelain absorbs heat. Every coil that touches it means less speed in cooking. Only one coil in eleven touches porcelain in the Beach.

Ask a Beach Dealer

But you'll only fully appreciate the Beach by inspecting one at your nearest Beach dealer's.

When you do, notice what a sturdy, handsome range it is, with its embossed steel, its burners set in recesses at top and bottom of the oven to give you lots of room, its double action oven door spring, the convex edges of the cooking top, its easily reached switches and fuses, its big-grip door handles — its many other striking features!

Quickest Heat at Less Cost

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE BEARS. II — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

When Jimmy and Roy found that the Kingfisher had played a joke on them, by stealing the dozen or more small minnows from the pool where they were kept for bait, it was a case of, "Well, we might as well follow the bird who stole our bait."

When one starts to follow a Kingfisher up a long, narrow, winding stream, one has his hands full, and Jimmy soon yelled back to Roy, who was a little down stream, "Say, what's the matter with that bird anyway?" and even as he called, Roy saw the Kingfisher circle back down stream and behind them again, with a loud ill-mannered laugh, for that is a trick he has: he leads a fellow up stream and then laughs and doubles back; so the boys were more confused than ever.

All out of luck, the two lads started to undress to have a swim in a quiet pool, when who should come around the end of the high bank but Westley Johnson, "Wess" for short? Wess, Jim and Roy had been in the same room at school, so the boys began to compare notes on the day's doings.

"Oh," says Wess, "you didn't know the Kingfisher, eh? Well, I'll tell you. See that sandy bank just half around that bend? Well, come on up there."

So the three boys went up around the bend in the stream and Wess pointed out a hole in the bank, about as big as a big northern spy apple and running away back into the dark.

Just as the place was well located, there were a few dashes here and there of one of the parent Kingfishers, and Wess said it was the male because it seemed so rattled with company present, "And anyway," said Wess, "you can tell by seeing the female, for she has some reddish brown on her sides under her wings, and reaching across her chest to form a breast band, but he doesn't seem to be so fancy."

And even as they spoke, the female arrived with a small fish, went right to the hole, went in and promptly came out, minus the minnow.

"Ah ha!" said Jimmy, "I don't need to be told where my fishing bait is; it's all inside those little Kingfishers, inside that sandbank."

THE ORIGINAL POPULARITY OF AMBER GEMS.

America is known as the land of fads and fancies—and for good reason, too. But no fad has so gripped our fancy within recent years as the craze for antique jewelry.

The modern young woman is as molten wax before the shop window of an antique jewelry shop. Her feet are glued to the spot, and nothing in the wide world can animate them except that little old-silver ring with "the adorable turquoise," or the hammered chain bracelet heavily engraved.

Of semi-precious stones, that most in vogue is the hard, lustrous substance known as amber. Of lasting value, its utility is further enhanced by the artificial coloring it receives in the process of preservation.

Amber, now known to be a fossilized vegetable gum, which originally exuded from an extinct kind of cone-bearing tree, was first found in pre-historic times. The amber districts of the Baltic and North Sea were known before civilization, and led to early trade with the south of Europe. It was carried to Olbia on the Black Sea. Massilia on the Mediterranean and Hatria at the head of the Adriatic, and from these centers it was distributed over the whole world.

Although amber, in its raw state, is a very pale yellow, it has attained a deep yellowish or brownish shade through the action of centuries. That it was originally liquid is proved by the fact that flies, ants, and even lizards, are often found embedded in it. Scientists claim that these creatures had entangled themselves in the gummy substance, and it had hardened around them thousands of years ago.

Amber, perhaps more than any other semi-precious stone, was held in great awe by the ancients. The Greeks regarded it with superstitious reverance, owing to its mysterious origin and properties. Thales, the sage of Miletus, first observed, in 600 B.C., that when rubbed, amber becomes warm and attracts light bodies to itself. This observation was the foundation of the science of electricity.

A Greek myth explained amber as the tears dropped by Phaeton's sisters, sympathetically changed into poplar trees after Jove had hurled their brother into the Eridanus.

Both Greeks and Romans believed that amber was a cure for insanity, fevers and other disorders.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WHY COMPLAIN ABOUT THE WEATHERMAN?

Have you observed how many of your friends are victims of the weather. If it rains or is cool and gloomy, they get grumpy and depressed. The clouded skies appear to cloud their feelings.

The trouble is, the human can't bear not to be comfortable. If he is too hot, or too cold, or too anything, he begins to complain.

I wonder why the animals accept the weather so complacently? Of course, they seek the shade on a very hot day, but usually they roam about just the same, rain or shine.

You will see the cows grazing over the meadows, gathering in the food, regardless of wind or weather. Will somebody tell me why all the cows in a given herd head the same way during grazing time?

In his natural state, man was less concerned about the weather. It was not until he began to wear patent leather shoes, fine clothing and expensive hats that he got fussy about the rain.

It was not until women adopted flimsy garments and men abandoned heavy underwear that the human family began to shiver on the cool days.

So you see the weather affects us psychologically and physically. We worry about it and we really suffer from it.

Is there real need to do either? There are bound to be frequent changes in the weather. Why not be philosophical about it and dress sensibly in accord with it?

The health depends on contentment of mind and comfort of body. A worrying soul and a suffering body make for illness.

Select your wardrobe with an eye to the seasons and the variations in each season. Then try to dress in harmony with the thermometer and the state of the weather.

It is a foolish hazard to your health, to disregard heat and rain, cold and wind. You must take heed of your body and guard it against exposure of every sort. Having done that you will find real enjoyment in the seasons and in the variations of the weather.

You will have peace of mind and good health every day of the year.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

PEGGY MEETS A WEE LITTLE SOUTHERN WORKER.

Peggy blinked her eyes several times, finally she opened them wide and stared at the queer little creature crawling over the wall.

"What in the world can that be, I'd like to know?" she whispered to herself.

"I might come down and introduce myself," laughed the queer little creature, smacking his tongue against the palate of his mouth and making a funny little noise, "if I felt sure you wouldn't harm me." Then he crawled down the wall, a wee bit closer to Peggy's head.

"How do I know whether you'll bite me or not," said Peggy, stepping back a step or two. "You see, I don't even know who you are."

"Which only goes to show," chuckled the little creature, "that you haven't lived in the South very long, or you would know I'm Billy Geckoes, cousin to Betty Lizard. I wouldn't hurt you for the world."

"And I won't harm you, either," laughed Peggy. "Please do come down and let me get a good look at you. I've never seen a Geckoe before in all my life."

The queer little lizard crawled down the wall and upon the table in front of Peggy.

"Take a good look at my feet," and he held up his feet for Peggy to see. "See how my toes broaden at the edges and how their under surface is divided into a number of layers? Well, from these scaly layers comes a sticky fluid, which helps me to catch and hold to things."

"Your claws are sharp and crooked like my kitty's are," laughed Peggy. "Does that help you to climb?"

"Sure it does," replied Billy Geckoes. "I'll bet there isn't a swifter climber among any of my friends than I am. Why, I can scale the deepest wall in less time than it takes to tell it."

"Have you been in Auties' house very long?" Peggy asked. "I've never seen you before."

"Yes, I've been here quite some time," the little fellow smacked his tongue. "But, you see, I sleep in the daytime and do all my work at night." Peggy laughed, and the little fellow blinked his funny grayish black eyes. "Well, I do work," he declared. "You see, down here there are so many flies, spiders, mosquitoes and roaches, we Geckoes are kept busy getting rid of them. You'd be astonished to see how many I have eaten already this evening."

Just then Peggy's Aunt called her to come to bed, so Peggy bade her new friend good-night and ran up to bed.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8.

According to the conflicting positions of the planets reigning on this day, a contradictory state of affairs may be looked for. Although those in the employment of others are said to be under excellent auguries for promotion, preferment or favors, if qualified, and others may seek honors or recognition from those in authority, yet, generally, there may be discord, disappointment and sudden upheaval.

Those whose birthday it is may be under contradictory auguries for the year. If in the employment of others they may obtain favors or promotion if qualified. Shun law and strife and guard against accident and sickness. Postpone change. A child born on this day may be inclined to be rash, headstrong and unruly. It should make its best success in the employment of others rather than in business for itself.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burto

In the outer room she picked up her belongings, snapped out the lights, and went.

A cleaning woman was mopping up the floor of the corridor. Behind her was a small girl with enormous black eyes and a mop of straight black hair. As Susan Briggs passed her she held up her doll for her to admire.

"See Dolly?" she said. Miss Briggs brushed passed her and went on a few steps. Then she turned around and saw the small girl's eyes. They were the eyes that all children have for strange and sudden cruelties . . . hurt and bewildered.

Susan ran back and pressed a nickel into the child's small grimy palm.

"Poor baby!" she said. Her eyes were blinded with tears as she went down the stairs and out of the building.

Gloria darkened the house, turned the key in her bedroom door and lay down to try to go to sleep.

But it wasn't the kind of night for sleep. A ray of moonlight lay like a slim beckoning finger on the wall beside the bed. The darkness seemed to be filled with an expectant hush.

There was a high excitement in Gloria. She swung her naked feet over the side of the bed and crossed the room to the window.

A large white moon hung low in the sky like a Japanese lantern. It turned the fluttering leaves of the poplar trees to silver spangles.

The world outside seemed unreal—disturbing in its beauty, but the lonely woman at the window hardened her heart against its magic. She had a feeling that the only way for her to go on was to harden her heart against everything—not only against things, but against people—against Dick. She must never let the thought of him into her heart again, she told herself with a kind of dull anger. And then she went on thinking about him.

Somewhere out there in the breathing night, he was.

And suddenly Gloria remembered another night when she had stood at another window and wondered where Dick was. That had been long ago—on the night before she had married him. She remembered how he had driven up in the middle of the night and whistled softly in the darkness for her—a low "Bob White" whistle. He had begged her to come down stairs for just a second to kiss him—and she had refused.

"What a fool I was!" she told herself, "and how glad I'd be now if he wanted to kiss me! How glad I'd be! . . . But there's no chance of that ever again. . . ."

The tears that she had felt in her eyes all day—and in her heart—overflowed. She dropped to her knees on the floor and laid her head down on the window sill and sobbed.

And then she seemed to hear a low whistle—a long, clear note followed by a shorter one. She held her breath and listened. . . . Was it Dick's "Bob White" call?

Oh, no; it couldn't be. . . . And then it came again!

Gloria raised her head. Down on the lawn in the shadow of the trees was a darker shadow. It detached itself and moved out into the moonlight. It was Dick!

Gloria's heart leaped in her breast.

"Dick!" she said. And there was a note of relief and sudden happiness in her voice.

"Come down and open the door," he said.

Without stopping to put on her kimono or slippers, Gloria ran across the room and down through the darkened house where the moonlight lay in patches here and there on the walls and floor.

She unlocked the door and pattered out on to the porch. She stood there in the mingled radiance of the distant moon and a street lamp just in front of the house. . . . Some passing neighbors stopped to stare as she threw herself into Dick's arms. But neither she nor Dick saw them. For they in that moment were oblivious to all the world . . . . except themselves. Dick's arms drew her up. He bent his head and kissed her as if he never would let her go again.

Then, abruptly he freed her.

"I thought you never were going to kiss me again," Gloria said breathlessly.

"You said you never would, you know!"

"We say a lot of things we don't mean in this world," Dick's voice answered her. He put his arm around her and drew her into the dark house.

His hand groped for the lights. Under their glare Gloria saw that his eyes were almost black in his haggard face. There were lines there that the last weeks had written indelibly.

"We do a lot of things we don't mean to do, too," Gloria faltered. "Life seems to carry us along like bubbles along a wave. . . . Dick, I've done a lot of thigs I haven't meant to do . . ."

Dick made a gesture of finality. "Well, there's no use talking about it now," he said. "Spilled milk, you know. . . ."

He went into the living room.

Gloria followed him. "Have you come home for good?" She was half afraid to ask him that.

And in an agony of uncertainty she watched him fill his pipe . . . . waiting tremulously for his answer.

Slowly, as things seem to happen in a dream, she saw him strike a match, blow out its flame and lay it in the ash tray beside him.

"Well," he said finally, "it's this way, you see. This is the only place in the world where I feel at home, somehow or other . . . and I . . . ; can't get used to being without you."

Gloria laughed bitterly. "I'm a habit of yours . . . that you can't break . . . is that it?" she asked. "The most deadly dull of all things . . . a habit?"

Dick shook his head. "No," he said "it strikes deeper than that, Glory' You're my woman. There are a lot of men who can love a score of women in their time, but I'm not one of them. I'm the kind of a fool who can never care for more than one woman, I suppose. . . ."

"And am I that one woman for you?" Gloria asked. Her eyes were wide and eager. "Are you sure?"

Dick looked at her. His mouth tightened as he took her into the hard ring of his arms. "You are," he answered, and his voice was thick and tense.

Gloria leaned back in his arms and looked at him. "Then I won't be jealous of Susan Briggs any more and I'll stop heckling you about her," she said.

Dick waited a moment before he answered. "I've an idea that Susan Briggs stopped working for me tonight," he said then abruptly. "I don't know what makes me think so, but I do, somehow."

Gloria laughed. "She'll be right there when you get to the office tomorrow morning, just as usual!" she cried. "Unless she knows you've come back to me!"

"I think she does know it," Dick's voice was grave, "but don't worry about her. You know I never cared about Susan Briggs, don't you?" He put his hands under her elbows and held her away from him.

"And I never cared about Stan Wayburn, either!" Gloria broke in shrilly. "Ive thought it all out, Dick, these last two weeks. He was just a part of jazz to me, like cocktails and dance music. I was hunting for a thrill and he gave it to me. . . ."

Her small face with its uptilted lips sobered as she went on. "He told me all the things I wanted to hear from you . . . how beautiful I was and how I could knock him off his pins. Oh, Dick, we women need flattery and love . . . . or lovemaking! It's our job, you know! To keep you men in love

Dick laid his hand over her mouth. "All right, all right," he said impatiently. "And that about ends Stanley Wayburn and Susan Briggs for good, doesn't it? . . . What I want to know just now is whether you're going to be contented with me from now on?"

FARMER HURT IN BUSIEST SEASON

Thrown Under Wheel When Wagon Swerved, Suffering Broken Leg.

FATHER AWAY

CAVAN, July 7—Mr. Cyril Moore met with a bad accident on Thursday evening. He was driving a team of horses to which was drawing a wagon with a small load of rails. In going down a hill the wagon swerved and he was thrown under the wheel. His leg was broken above the knee.

It is particularly unfortunate as the time of year is so busy on the farm and his father has not yet returned from his trip to England, but was expected to sail about July 3.

Mr. Moore has a large farm and keeps a great herd of cattle and many sheep and hogs.

This means a great deal of work besides the field work.

The road work is completed in Cavan Centre. The stone crusher has been moved further north.

Haying is general. Sweet clover and alfalfa are an extra good crop.

Strawberries are becoming scarce and the price is slightly higher.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

If you are spending your vacation in the Rockies or other high altitudes, be sure and take along woolen underwear. It absorbs perspiration and prevents colds.

If wringing wet when camp is reached, it is well to change to dry suit. Two-piece are better than unions.

Wear heavy-soled street shoes rigged with Hungarian hobs and quarter-inch golfer's caulks for climbing. Avoid high boots.

Put on moccasins to rest your feet around camp at night.

Right of Way

A lot of people would have lived to a ripe old age if they hadn't had the right of way. And those who are living to an old age in spite of being addicted to car driving are people who early recognized that in the absence of a blue coat at the corner the right of way means little, if anything.

At the junction of Brock and Aylmer streets yesterday a car proceeding west on Brock was almost smashed because another turning east on Brock from south Aylmer thought he had the right of way. As a matter of fact the question of right of way does not arise until two cars arrive at an intersection at the same instant.

But rights of way, right or wrong, will be insisted on while roads and automobiles exist.

No rubbing

Stubborn dirt just rinses out with Gillex. It dissolves the oil that holds the dirt particles to the fabric threads. When rinsed the dirt drops off, leaving the clothes clean, white and sweet-smelling as when new.

Gillex costs less than other cleansers. At 15c a package Gillex goes farther, equals in efficiency four to five packages of ordinary borax cleanser. A teaspoonful to a gallon of water is strong enough for most cleaning—just a little more for hard water.

The fly makes 1000 stops per day

BUT Flit will quickly put a stop to the fly's travels.

Flit spray clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. It is clean, easy and safe to use.

Kills Household Insects

Flit spray also destroys bed bugs, roaches, ants, and insect eggs. The cracks and crevices where insects hide and breed are readily reached by Flit spray. Spraying Flit on garments kills moths and their larvae which eat holes. Extensive tests showed that Flit did not stain or injure the most delicate fabrics.

A Scientific General Insecticide

Flit is the result of exhaustive research by expert entomologists and chemists. More than 70 formulas were tested on various household insects before Flit was finally perfected. Flit is a 100% effective insecticide containing no inactive (inert) ingredients.

EUROPE'S PEACE CRAVING IS MIXED WITH FEAR AS LEADERS SEE HOPE IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS BUT DREAD POWER OF MILITARISTS FOR EVIL

Lord Balfour Says World is Still Dislocated After Gaining Nothing From War—Krassin Says Russia is Most Stable Country in Europe.

ELLIS SAYS EUROPE LOST ITS CHANCE

Writer Says Germany is Yearning for Peace and Only Poland is Ready to Fight—Militarism is Not Dead, Says Painleve of France.

Lord Balfour—"The World Has Not Gained Anything by the War. The World Is Still Dislocated."
Leonid B. Krassin—"Russia Is the Most Stable Country in Europe."
Dr. Albert Einstein—"The League of Nations Has Splendid Intentions and is Doing Some Work of Value."
Paul Painleve—"I cannot Say That Militarism Is No Longer a Menace to Europe."

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN.

In the course of a journey through England, France, Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Egypt and Palestine, where I interviewed some of the foremost statesmen and intellectual leaders, as well as a large number of unknown people, I endeavored to find answers to some of the following questions:

What are the statesmen thinking and planning? Are they working for durable peace or paving the way for another and more terrible war? What is being done to demobilize the war spirit, to check the lust for selfish gains, to make secure the advantages of peace, to avert the slaughter, or to prevent mankind from committing suicide? Is militarism dead? Is pacifism alive? Has Bolshevism failed? Has Fascism succeeded? What influence can America exert today and what contribution can it make to save the world from self-extermination.

Pacifist Sentiment Growing.

Europe, still suffering from the effects of the World War, is slowly recovering. Chauvinism and the spirit of militarism are gradually dying down. The people are working, the farmers are tilling the soil and the statesmen are beginning to realize that the people want no war in the near future and that it will not be easy to get full popular support for plunging a nation into war. While the statesmen know that the war spirit could be aroused again through inflammatory propaganda, they are conscious that most ruinous consequences would follow in the wake of another conflict, which would lead to civil strife.

Europe craves peace, though Poland is ready to fight for the maintenance of her present frontiers. She would look upon any revision of the boundaries fixed by the peace treaties as the beginning of a new partition of Poland. The recent election of General von Hindenburg will not tend to diminish the sense of fear that the French people entertain of the menace of a reawakened militarism in Germany.

Germany is rapidly recovering, working hard and yearning for peace for the purpose of regaining her economic and industrial well-being. The triumph of the reactionary elements at the recent elections is certain to retard the process of her recovery for some time.

Fascism and Bolshevism.

Fascism in Italy is weakened, undergoing modifications. Mussolini is still a popular idol, but his dictatorship has not developed any important disciples. Fascism rose with Mussolini and will fall with him.

Soviet Russia also wants peace at home, but would welcome war in other lands, hoping thus to gain new recruits for communism. Having failed to stir up the proletariat in the West, Russia is bending all her efforts to arouse the East. The propaganda of the Third International is now directed mainly to Turkey, Egypt, India, China and Japan. The recent trouble in the Balkans is also to a great extent due to the Russian Communist agitation. The Governments that have recognized the Soviet Republic and concluded commercial treaties with it have convinced themselves that there is little to be gained from such arrangements and that they have not helped the Russian people in any way by such recognition. For the economic condition of Russia under the Soviets has been growing worse and is approaching its gravest crisis. Only the Soviet Government has profited temporarily by these commercial treaties, for they have afforded the Government new opportunities for boasting of its diplomatic successes to the people of Russia. Russia's main export now is Communist propaganda abroad.

In England certain of Europe's problems were discussed with Lord Balfour and with Havelock Ellis, essayist, philosopher and psychologist.

Lord Balfour spoke of the lessons of the war, of the League of Nations and of America's role.

Wars Not Over, Balfour Says.

"The world has not gained anything by the war," he said. "We have gained nothing, but when we consider what might have happened if Germany had marched over us victorious, it is easy to answer the question as to our gain and losses. The world is still dislocated. It will require all the wisdom of the most constructive statesmanship to set it right again. But even now it is growing better; a certain measure of order is coming out of all the horrors that the world has experienced. Rate human folly as high as you like, I cannot believe that this war has not taught mankind a great lesson. I know it has left its deep imprint upon our people. I do not agree with those who say that as soon as this generation that has witnessed and endured the horrors and sufferings of the war is gone, the next generation will be quite ready to start a war all over again. Rate human wisdom as low as you like, but the dreadful experiences must count for something. And yet I am not naive enough to believe that this was the last war."

Concerning the League of Nations, Lord Balfour said:

"Without the participation of some of the powers and especially the United States, the League is maimed, and yet it is doing most useful, most important work which no other agency would have done. As far as America is concerned, and I speak objectively, taking into consideration the various reasons why America is not a member of the League, no one could persuade me to admit that we should be indifferent to her absence from the League. The League was created for all the powers, particularly for such a great power as the United States, and it cannot operate efficiently and effectively without the participation of some of the great powers. But maimed as it is, it is nevertheless a very vital factor for peace.

"The critics of the League are skeptical about our permanent success, and it is quite natural that they should regard the League with skepticism because we are pioneers in a new adventure. Our course is difficult, perhaps even perilous. I can understand our critics who are indifferent or skeptical, but I cannot understand those who are violently hostile to the League.

"I am informed by some of my American friends that there is a considerable change of sentiment among the American people in favor of the League. I do not say that, from its own viewpoint, the United States is pursuing a wrong policy in not joining the League at the present time. I can understand its viewpoint, and yet I will not admit that we are indifferent as to whether the United States joins the League or not. I hope that in the near future the United States may see its way clear to join it. I speak of the near future, for statesmen deal only with actualities, with the present, with the immediate future."

Views of Havelock Ellis.

Havelock Ellis analyzed Europe as follows:

"The immediate future is too troubled and uncertain. Europe missed its chance after the war. It will take a long, long time—and perhaps much conflict—to undo the mistakes of the past. Europe is at present crushed by an evil peace. Whatever may be said about Woodrow Wilson, the peace he proposed, with its associated League of Nations, was in essentials just and reasonable. If the defects of his temperament had not prevented him from bringing all political groups into line with him on this great non-political issue, and if he had then stood inflexible, as with united America behind him he could well have afforded to, Europe would today have been in a very different position.

"But as it was, he gave way, the spirit of his peace was killed and America now very naturally has a vague feeling of having been bamboozled by a few old European diplomatists who succeeded in carrying on into the present the tricks of the Old World. It is inevitable that America should at present prefer to stand aloof from Europe, although that attitude, in America's own interest, must eventually be modified.

"The ultimate international object to strive for, through whatever difficulties, remains still—exactly as it was before the war—a World Court with a League of Nations, a real League, behind it. It has taken a long time to establish law courts, in association with a police force, for the settlement of quarrels between individuals. But in civilization it is now held that this method works better than fights between individuals. It would be foolish to suppose that there can be any sound settlement of quarrels between groups of individuals other than that which is sound between two single individuals. In the one, as for the other, we need courts, and we need a police force. The firm establishment of the one is a promise for the future establishment of the other.

"We still hear occasionally of the 'sovereignty of nations.' But the 'sovereignty of nations' is rapidly becoming [illegible]. We don't much believe in 'sovereigns' nowadays."

Painleve Wants European Federation.

In France my interview was with M. Painleve, Minister of War during the early stages of the World War and the successor of Herriot as Premier.

"Militarism would be dead today if the European nations were more trustful of one another," said M. Painleve. "Their mutual distrust and the difficulties arising from the reparations have furnished the nationalist sections of the various countries, chiefly in Germany, with excuses for aggressive desires, so, unfortunately, I cannot say that militarism is no longer a menace to Europe. And I must add that France, through her geographical situation, is exposed to militarist undertakings more than any other European country.

"I am of those who are making the greatest efforts in order to maintain peace between Germany and France, and if the day comes when the French people will be convinced that they need no longer fear any aggression on the part of Germany, a great step will have been taken toward the realization of our dream of peace. But I must say that the French people have been deeply disappointed by the recent German elections, which have not permitted the formation of a democratic Government there. I repeat, the greatest blessing for both nations will come when these nations cease to distrust each other.

"I believe that Europe will have real rest and peace only when there shall have been formed a kind of federation, but a very extensive federation, among the European countries of Western Europe. Such a federation should leave to each nation its individuality, but it could establish, if not a customs union—which would take a long time to organize—then very extensive arrangements and agreements for the proper distribution of raw materials and the formation of unions among the various industries.

"I think that by uniting the interests of mankind it is possible to make a really effective experiment to prevent further conflicts, but it can be made effective only if America, in some form or other, participates in this experiment. I believe that it is possible to prevent war by international means if America will take part in this experiment, in whatever form she may think would enable her to say her word and make her influence felt by the world.

"I think the American people have not a clear conception of the difficult situation in which France finds herself today. The situation is difficult not only from the financial viewpoint, because of the heavy burdens which the war had left on her shoulders, but also because of the threatening danger in the event that France finds herself alone before an unreconciled Germany. That would be a terrible calamity to the whole world."

Rolland Predicts White-Yellow War.

Romain Rolland, French novelist and one of the world's leading pacifists, predicted the coming of a war that would destroy civilization:

"I am an outspoken enemy of Fascism at all times and in every country," he said. "I am not and never will be a Communist; my temperament, my ideas, my whole being are repugnant to communism.

"I believe that the war has not taught the Governments anything, and unless a miracle occurs, which we cannot expect, we are marching with great strides toward a new war that will surpass in duration and intensity that of 1914-18.

"It is no longer a question of a duel between France and Germany, which henceforth passes to the background. It will be a question of an enormous struggle between the European and Asiatic races. The Asiatic races will go with Russia, and the European races will undoubtedly go with the United States of America.

"This gigantic conflict has been in preparation for half a century. On the one hand it is being stirred up intensely by the Third International in Asia, and on the other by the blind haughtiness of English imperialism, which manifests itself openly today in the policy of its Conservative Government.

"Those who are preparing in Europe for this war (and I include Russia)—those who are preparing for this war of the worlds do not seem to suspect the oceanic immensity of the forces they may let loose at any hour—the whole Moslem world, 300,000,000 Hindus, 400,000,000 of the yellow races.

"The very fate of 'white' civilization is at stake, and this war will decide it. I need not add that on the whole earth the passions will flare up with a savagery that will leave far, far behind the barbarism of the nationalist wars in the past.

"Just as during the disastrous war of 1914—disastrous for the conquerors as well as for the vanquished— I tried obstinately to unite the Weltburger, the citizens of the world, of France, England and Germany, I will again stretch out my hand to all free spirits of Europe and Asia and the rest of the world. At the risk of being treated as an enemy by both camps, I shall defend the unity of mankind to my last breath. The cause of humanity and of progress, the grandeur of the human spirit, needs both these civilizations."

Einstein on Asia.

In Germany I discussed the Russo-Japanese agreement with Dr. Albert Einstein, scientist and author of the theory of relativity. He said:

"I think the coalition of Russia, Japan and China is quite natural, because they are in a defensive position against the more progressive economic conditions in Western Europe and the United States. They could not help themselves. Circumstances are stronger than political intentions, and I feel certain that there is great danger for the development of the civilized countries if they do not pursue a cautious and far-sighted policy.

"The people in the Far East should not be deprived of the possibility of existence. The danger can be averted only through mutual understanding and a bloc of the combined interests of the world. For instance, Japan is now like a great kettle without any safety valves. It has not enough land to enable its population to exist and develop. This should be remedied in some way if a terrible conflict is to be averted.

"As for Russia, it seems to me that economically she has made very little progress under the present form of government, and she has little show of a constructive nature. Her production in the industrial and economic fields has been decreasing. But as to the future of Russia, it is as hard and unwise to prophesy about this as about anything else."

Referring to the League of Nations, of the Intellectual Committee of which Dr. Einstein is a member, he said:

"Germany is wrong in thinking that the League is absolutely without merit. It has splendid intentions and is doing some work of value. But I wish to emphasize that I am absolutely convinced that without the stabilizing influence of the United States this and other international organizations cannot exist."

The Russian Viewpoint.

M. Rakovsky, the Soviet Ambassador in London, and M. Krassin, Ambassador in Paris, discussed present conditions in Russia and I also interviewed leading Russian emigres in various lands—authors, editors and economists. M. Rakovsky, the Soviet Ambassador, asserted that Russia wants peace above all else.

"Ours is the most pacific Government," he added. "As a Socialist Government we must justify our existence before the Russian people, and such justification can be attained only if we raise the economic, intellectual and political standard of our Union. We need peace to be able to concentrate our attention on the work of internal reconstruction. Any war in which we would be involved would be a most risky adventure for us. We would play with our very existence, and I express the view of the Government of the whole of Russia when I say that we are absolutely against war.

"I do not know whether the statesmen of the capitalist countries realize the great risk involved in another war. It is likely that such a war would develop into civil war, because the horrors of the World War and its consequences are felt everywhere. The working masses do not want to suffer again the unspeakable privations and hardships, and they will not make the sacrifices they made during the recent war."

Speaking of the conflicting policies of the Soviet Government and the Third International, M. Rakovsky said:

"It is not right to hold us responsible for the activity of the Communist International, just as it is not right to hold the American Government responsible for the Ku Klux Klan, or France for the activities of the Freemasons. Besides, the Third International is not a secret organization, and the Communist Party is recognized as a legal party in most countries."

Mr. Krassin, also discussed Russia's pacifism. He said:

"Russia is the most stable country in Europe. We have already done what no other Government has dared to do. We have reduced our army from 5,000,000, which was its strength when we defended ourselves against General Wrangel and other invaders, to about 400,000 men. No other country has decreased its armaments to such an extent as this. And we would be willing to make a further reduction if other Governments would also do it.

"Russia cannot regard the League of Nations in its present form as an instrument to secure fair treatment and peace for the nations. We cannot join it in its present form, because we do not want to assume responsibility for its actions as a member of the League. But if we were invited to send an observer upon the same terms as the United States of America I feel quite certain that we would agree to send our representative."

Kerensky Still Opposes Bolsheviki.

Alexander Kerensky, the former Premier of Russia, now the editor of a Russian daily newspaper in Berlin, recently was reported by a correspondent as having determined to follow Boris Savinkov to Russia and to recognize the Soviets as the Government of the Russian people. In the course of an interview Kerensky said:

"No reconciliation between myself and the present rulers at Moscow is possible because it is impossible to reconcile their principles with mine. I defend the principle of democracy (without which every Government is doomed), while they uphold the system of tyranny the rule of minority. This is of the essence of Russia's dramatic struggle for liberty.

"Leaving idealism aside, it is impossible from a practical viewpoint to work with the Bolsheviki. Their seven years of mastery in Russia proved that without elementary civic and economic liberties people are unfit for constructive work. They are like motors without oil or benzine."

Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, holds that the Russian revolution will continue for many years to come, that the revolution was made as an experiment and will continue as an experiment; that the people are starving and there is complete economic disorganization, that the revolution of the present regime.

He pointed out that the system tried in Russia was possible only in that country, and that other countries must continue to defend themselves against the influence and effects of the Soviet system, the aims of which are to revolutionize the world outside of Russia. And having convinced themselves that their plan will not work in Western Europe and the United States, the Soviets have turned to Asia, where they are meeting with a certain measure of success.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS OPENED YESTERDAY

Organized S ports Will Be Played— Hard Ball and Soft Ball.

Yesterday was an eventful day in the young life of the city. The School Playgrounds, where sport abounds unlimited, were opened. Boys and girls came in little groups and were soon all busy playing ball, volley ball, French tag, etc, farmers-in-his-den and all the other games in the large repertoire of games known by the supervisors. T[illegible] swings and 'teeters" were tried and found good, and little ones slid d[illegible] the slides, and built forts and houses in the sand pile.

There will be two baseball leagues among the playgrounds: one for the seniors over 14, in which hard ball will be played, and a junior, under 14, in which the softball will be used.

Three afternoons a week the boys and girls will be taken to the swimming beaches to swim, and to be taught to swim, under the watchful care of the supervisors.

CANCER GERMS DO NOT EXIST

Declaration Made by American Osteopath Who Suggests Different Treatments.

TORONTO, Ont., July 7 (Canadian Press)—"We must stop hunting for the germ o fcancer because it is not a germ disease," said Dr. Robert D. Emery of Los Angeles, addressing the general assembly of the American Osteopathic Association on the second day of its annual convention here this morning.

"We must go back to the child for the purpose of inculcating such perfect poise and equilibrium of every structure and cell of the body that malignancy will become impossible. Here again, osteopathic adjustive treatment is of inestimated service in the restoration to, and maintenance of, normal tissue relationship. However, this tissue relationship cannot under any circumstances be maintained if there is inadequate or improper exercise or inadequate nutrition and elimination."

A close relationship between syphilis and numerous automobile accidents was seen by Dr. Frank B. Colloten of oBston. "Syphilis is one of the greatest killing diseases," he said. "It is a source of great danger to the life and safety not only of the individual, but also of the community at large. Its danger comes not only from the possibility of actual infection, but also from accidents and fatalities, resulting from the acts of irresponsible syphilitic operators of automobiles, street cars, locomotives, elevators and other public conveyances."

The president's reception was held last night and tonight there will be a boat trip on Lake Ontario. Wednesday evening there will be a great number of fraternity and class reunions. Thursday evening, the new presidents' banquet will be held, and Friday evening will be osteopathic night at Sunnyside, Toronto's amusement beach.

PROPOSE DRASTIC CHANGE IN SCHOOLS

Complete Revision of British Columbia's System Urged.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 7.—Remodelling of British Columbia's educational system from top to bottom is recommended by Dr. J. S. Putnam and Dr. C. M. Weir, eminent Canadian educational experts, in their report on school conditions in this province made public Monday.

It is recommended that the entire system of financing educational be referred with a revision of school taxation so as to distribute the burden of school costs more equitably and that the present public school courses be completely revised, with the creation of an intermediate or junior High school to direct pupils into vocations for which they are suited.

Religious instruction for the young be started, it is recommended, only after the churches have agreed on what passages of the Bible should be discussed in class rooms. Revision of Normal school curricula and strengthening of Normal school staffs by the appointment of a specialist in educational psychology in each Normal school, and continuance of school management by school boards independent of control by the city council, are also recommended.

This B.C. Aviator is Able to Reach Good Fishing Grounds

(By William Gray)

The famed carpet of Bagdad was supposed to waft its owner to realms of happiness. Douglas Fairbanks and the movies notwithstanding, there is considerable question as to its reality, but it does exist today, for two ardent fishermen of Vancouver have its modern counterpart in the shape of an airplane fitted with pontoons which wafts its occupants to a paradist for fishermen.

British Columbia, partially surveyed and sparsely settled, has large areas of wilderness where innumerable lakes are found between high topped mountain. No railroads run to these places, no trails save only prospectors' or forest rangers' paths wind, and so landlocked and far from human habitation these lakes and tarns are ideal breeding grounds for game and fighting fish. Fed by glacial streams from surrounding snow-capped peaks they produce firm-fleshed fish that rise avidly at any kind of bait.

These lakes for the most part can't be reached except by tortuous paths and arduous climbing. But Major D. R. MacLaren, an aviator of world war fame, and his friend A. H. Peppar, a fisherman by predilection, not by profession, schemed a scheme to use the major's flying boat to try their luck on these inland waters.

They chose for their first venture a lake on Vancouver Island the major had spotted. It was some 80 miles away and looked large enough to permit a landing. They did land and were regarded with the finest sport the most enthusiastic fisherman could wish. They landed 19 trout, the smallest weighing three pounds, while some of the larger ones stepped up to nine and ten.

Now they go regularly. MacLaren is an insurance man, an aviator and a fisherman. Peppar is a street car conductor and a fisherman. If the insurance man had told the tale there might be some doubt. But says Peppar. "I climbed out on the wing of the machine as soon as the why should a conductor tell a fish story unless it was true. Anyway, he has a picture to prove his tale.

"We landed on a tiny lake after flying about an hour from the city," were quiet and made a cast. [illegible] fished fifty-pounders out of the sea, and done some fair fish-fighting in my time, but never anything like that strike and run. The reel ran as if the line had been dropped with a plummet. It sank like the whaling lines you read about. I let him run and then tried to reel him in. It seemed hopeless. He refused to break water and I played until my back and wrists were sore. Mac took a hand and tried, but nothing could get him to the surface.

Mac asked me between gasps if he thought we had made a mistake and got out into the Pacific and hooked a whale. Anyway, it took an hour and a half before we got him up to the fuselage. We knew he was a monster, but were scarcely ready for what we caught. We stuck him and hauled him into the cockpit, and when we got home weighed him at the float. He was 41 pounds, and as you can see from the picture, three feet long. A big grey trout who had been in the lake so long he grew that way. He had lost a lot of the characteristics of the trout family. His head was abnormal, his flesh coarse, but he was sure a fighter and gave me the hardest playing I ever had. I'm [illegible]ck there again to see if there are others."

There are hundreds of these lakes on which the two air-fishermen have [illegible]ated to land, but before the season is over they will try and cover as many as possible. They are always in hopes of finding something new in the way of fish which will be a good story for the days to come.

CHURCHMEN, SPORTSMEN AND MEN OF BUSINESS AT FLAVELLE GRAVE

Funeral of Lindsay's Outstanding Citizen Monday Was Final Testimony of Respect.

MOURNED BY HOSTS.

LINDSAY, July 7.—(Special).—A prince among his fellow-men—one of the first citizens of Lindsay, a business man of wide experience and a wise counsellor; a man who had served the public well and faithfully for many years; a dean of curlers and a recognized lover of good, wholesome sport, was laid to rest in Riverside Cemetery Monday afternoon in the person of the late J. D. Flavelle. He was a red-blooded man in every respect, beloved and respected by all who knew him.

Hundreds gathered at the family residence, 44 Bond Street, to pay their last respects to his memory and his work. All business men in Lindsay closed their places of business, pulled the blinds and gathered for the funeral service. The casket and the double room in which it rested, were laden with the most beautiful floral tributes, which, following the service, were conveyed to the seven waiting cars by members of the Lindsay Rotary Club. Glowing, yet worthy in every word, tribute was paid to the deceased gentleman by Rev. W. H. Barraclough and Rev. F. H. McIntosh, two spiritual advisers who knew him so intimately as a churchman and as a friend.

The large funeral concourse included many business associates from Toronto, members of the Board of License Commissioners, representatives of the Ontario Curling Association, representatives of the Toronto General Hospital; representatives of the Peterboro and Lindsay Curling Clubs; as well as the staffs of the various firm connections doing business in Lindsay.

Pastor's Eulogy.

Following the introductory prayer by Rev. F. H. McIntosh and Scripture lesson by Rev. T. E. Holling, a beautiful and eloquent tribute was paid to the late Mr. Flavelle by Rev. W. H. Barraclough, of Kitchener, for four years past pastor of the First United Church in Lindsay. In part Mr. Barraclough said: "I tread with reverence this sacred ground and I want to lay the wreath of remembrance on the bier of my friend, for he was a pure, kind friend. I am reminded of the passage of Scripture which refers to 'a good man,' for J. D. Flavelle was a good man. 'A good man out of the treasury of his heart bringeth forth that which is good.' I think of his unselfishness, his gracious generosity, his absolute fairness, his justice, his righteousness. He was the soul of honor; he despised sham and he hated hypocracy and meanness. He was always eminently fair and eminently honorable. He loved sport and he put the stamp of his own personality in his games, inspiring others. He sanctified sport. Men, old and young, who have grown under his tuition will admit this. He was regal in his generosity. Truly, he lived in a house by the side of the road and was the friend of man. Few knew the real generosity of his heart, and how he lavishly poured it out. He was a man of strong conviction. He was a wise optimist, and his outlook was broad and hopeful. He loyally did his part and served his day. He was a loving father and friend, with a tender thoughtfulness in everything he did about his home. He was a true friend known to thousands, and his name was widely known. He held the honor of the church most sacred and was a deeply religious man. He was deeply interested in education, in social service work and in missions, and it will be difficult to fill his place. He endeavored to make the most of his opportunities and privileges. 'Thy day has come, not gone; thy sun has risen, not set.'"

A Prince Is Fallen.

Mrs. W. E. Reesor sang sweetly the hymn, "Come ye disconsolate," after which Rev. F. H. McIntosh added a sincere and well-worded tribute, saying, in part: "I want to add a few words of tribute as one who knew him as a friend during the past ten years. I, too, recall a passage of Scripture, 'Know ye not that a Prince is fallen in Israel to-day.' He was a leader and a prince in the sense of being a leader in all public, social and moral movements and affairs. He labored for the people. We recall how, when near the end of his life, he took on a new bit of service, which took him away from home when he might have enjoyed his home life and retired among his friends. He was princely in disposition and character."

The pall-bearers were: Rev. Dr. J. W. Macmillan, Toronto; D. H. Cooper, Winnipeg; Sir Joseph Flavelle, Toronto, and Wm. Flavelle (brothers); Stewart Flavelle, Lindsay; Stanley McLean, Toronto; Prof. W. S. Millner, Toronto; and Flavelle Macmillan, Toronto.

Many Mourners.

Among the relatives and friends present from a distance were the following: Sir Joseph Flavelle, Mrs. Flavelle, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. F. Y. McEachren, Mrs. Elsworth Flavelle, Mr. W. S. Milner, Mr. J. A. Milner, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rundle, Miss Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. S. McLean and Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Macmillan, Toronto; D. H. Cooper, Winnipeg; Mr. Frank Hay, Mr. W. H. McEachren, Toronto; Howard B. Clemes, W. B. Sparling, Walter A. Strowger, Toronto; W. S. Dingman, George T. Smith, John A. Ayerst, H. J. F. The programme was given by some of the members, who have recently joined the Church from St. Andrew's. The chair was occupied by Mrs. Hugh Robb. After the devotional exercises, a report of the last meeting of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was given by Miss Stella Burgess. A duet was rendered by Mrs. John Weir and Miss H. L. FINAL FAREWELLS TO REV. MR. CLARE

Springbrook Congregation Gave Pastor Purse of Money.

MARMORA, July 7.—The final of the series of farewells taken of the Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Clare took place on Friday at the home of Mrs. A. T. Williams, Springbrook. A goodly number of church folk gathered to witness the presentation of a purse of money to their highly respected pastor and wife. Mrs. T. J. Thompson read the address, which was as follows:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Clare and family:

We, the members of your Springbrook congregation, on this the last evening of your pastorate with us, are gathered together to show in a slight way our appreciation of your services with us. It is with deep regret that we are parting with you. We feel that our church has prospered during the three years you have been with us. Our church has always been well filled and the Lord has blessed your labors. We all pray for your success in your new field of labor and ask you to accept this purse and when you distribute its contents we hope you will remember the warm hearts of your friends at Springbrook.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

Mrs. A.T. Williams.
Mrs. Chris. Burkett.
Mrs. Walter Heath.

Both recipients made suitable response, following which an enjoyable lunch was served. At the midnight hour the gathering dispersed after the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Earlier in the evening at Marmora Parsonage, Mrs. Clare was presented with an oak leather bound rocking chair by the ladies of the Marmora congregation.

The family left on Friday afternoon for their new home in Welcome.

FIRE DESTROYED STORE BUILDING

Warehouse of J. Finley and Sons, Norwood, Was Burned This Morning.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

NORWOOD, July 7.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the storehouse owned by F. Finley and Sons here at an early hour this morning. The building was used for storing the commodities manufactured by the firm, which makes spokes, shafts and other parts of waggons and buggies.

The fire was discovered at about 2.00 o'clock this morning, but had made such headway that it was impossible to save the building. The chemical engine was put in service and saved the adjoining curling rink, which was burned at one end. The main building of the company is located across a creek from the storehouse and was not damaged.

The cause of the fire is a mystery. The flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to state whereabouts they started.

COURT TO COME TO DEPOSITORS

Avoid Criticism That Lawyers Will Benefit Most in Home Bank Claims.

DISCUSS PROCEDURE.

OTTAWA, July 7. — (Canadian Prerss).—The procedure to be followed in regard to the Home Bank depositors, who, to secure relief, must establish their claims, was discussed here yesterday afternoon at a conference between Mr. Justice MacLean, of the Exchequer Court, and W. T. J. Lee and W. T. Kernahan, representing the depositors, and I. E. Weldon, joint liquidator. One of the criticisms made of the amended legislation was that the lawyers would benefit mostly from the prosecution of claims. It is intended to avoid this. The court, instead, will "go to the people."

All depositors of an amount of $500 or under will receive 35 per cent. from the liquidator without any argument. Payment probably will be made in a couple of weeks. To share in the relief seven thousand depositors of amounts over $500 will have to establish that they are now in straitened circumstances in consequence of the bank's failure.

CAR MISSED CURVE.

Cause of Canadian's Fatal Mishap in England.

LONDON, July 7.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—The coroner's jury investigating the death of John Fewster Lacky Mackay Edgar, son of Sir Edward Mackay Edgar, formerly of Montreal, who was killed in a motor mishap on Saturday, returned a verdict of accidental death Monday. Although no one saw the accident the evidence indicated that it was due to the failure of the deceased to take the sharp bend in the road after crossing a dangerous bridge. The car apparently struck a heap of stones at the side of the road, bursting one of the tires and Edgar lost control of the car which collided with a telegraph pole. G. N. Bennett, the Newmarket horse trainer, testified that the deceased had dined with him before the accident and left in perfect health and sober.

DOG FANCIERS MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Chamber of Commerce at 8 O'clock—If Interested, Please Attend.

Probably one of the very best features of the Industrial Exhibition was the Dog and Kennel Show held in connection with it last year.

Everyone who is interested in dogs, whether they are owners or just lovers, are requested to attend tomorrow night's meeting, at the Chamber of Commerce, when any suggestion they can make will be appreciated.

Y.M.C.A. CAMP BEST IN YEARS

Land and Aquatic Sports Bulk Large in Daily Programme.

There is no let-up to the unbroken stretch of good times being enjoyed by the fifty-odd boys at the Y.M.C.A. Camp at Camp Rotary on Clear Lake. Fred McNeely organizer and leader-in-chief of a string of "Y" camp successes in past years counts the present camp as "the best camp yet."

The day is literally "jammed full" of fun for the youthful campers. They arise at 7.30 to the call of the bugle. Take fifteen minutes "setting up" exercises under the trees. Then all stand at attention and salute, while the Union Jack rises slowly to the top of the flag pole and floats in the breeze, while the bugle echoes silverly its salute in the clear morning air from lake and wood. This is the official opening of the camp day. Swimming comes next followed by breakfast. Then the boys are detailed off in groups, each under a leader to do the odd duties which must be done in a camp. At 10.30 the whole camp gathers under the trees for devotional study given by Mr. McNeely.

Following the rest and talk under the trees the boys separate in four groups to pursue their sport in boating and baseball. There is a soft ball league of four teams each playing under big league names. The camp is well-equipped with boats having a large war-canoe, two racing fours, a single canoe and a punt. All are well-made sea-worthy craft, carrying the proud name of the Peterborough canoe. The war-canoe is a Hudson Bay freighter adapted for the purpose.

Needless to say the person whose friendship is most sought for is the cook who is truly the most popular one in camp and well deserves popularity and respect too.

Sunday the camp was thrown wide open to a host of visitors, parents and friends of the boys, who motored up. All were impressed with the camp.

It is safe enough to state there is not a bay or inlet on the lake into which a canoe from the "Y" camp has not nosed its exploring way.

CHURCH PRESENTS PLAY BANNED BY BRITISH CENSOR

Rann Kennedy's "The Chastening" Acted in Highgate Church

VICAR ON CENSORSHIP

Attacks "Archaic" Rules and Demands Clean Stage

Banned for ordinary theatrical performances by the Lord Chamberlain, Mr. Charles Rann Kennedy's devotional play, "The Chastening," was given in St. Anne's Church, Parliament Hill Fields, Highgate, on Sunday, June 21.

The play was presented by Mr. Ben Greet, the three characters, "A Carpenter," "His Wife," and "Her Son," being respectively filled by Mr. Kennedy, Edith Wynne Matthison and Margaret Gage.

"The Chastening' is a very beautiful play," said Father Adderley, vicar of St. Anne's, "but the Lord Chamberlain has refused to license it as it is 'too near the life of Christ.'

"As a matter of fact the play is symbolical, and there is no reason, except archaic regulations, why it should not be presented on the stage proper. For surely the stage needs clean plays.

"When I made the announcement of the forthcoming presentation of the play I quoted Mr. Bransby Williams, the music hall actor, to my congregation. Mr. Williams said that 'as compared with the theatres of to-day the music halls are as Sunday schools.'

"When 'The Chastening' was first banned last year it was played, by permission of the Bishop of London, at St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden; St. Alban's, Holborn, and St. Michael and All Angels, Bedford Park. What is known as a 'private performance' was given at the Mary Ward Hall Theatre, Tavistock square.

CURIO KING DEAD; SOLD KRUGER'S HAT

Henry Stevens, Aged Auctioneer, Handled Historic Relics

Mr. Henry Stevens, of Stevens' Auction Rooms, King street, Covent Garden, London, who was probably the oldest practising auctioneer in England, died at Addlestone, Surrey, at the age of eighty-two.

President Kruger's hat and King Charles' waistcoat were among the many curiosities that came under his hammer.

Mr. Stevens had sold every conceivable thing in his time, from an elephant to an auk's egg and a mummy. He sold the late Lord Derby's great menagerie of more than 1,600 animals and birds, the death mask of Napoleon, a piece of Queen Victoria's wedding cake, the spear that killed General Gordon, and one of Dick Turpin's pistols.

He sold twenty-four out of the known seventy-five auks' eggs in the world, one of these realizing £682 10s. An all-black cabbage butterfly was disposed of for £32.

As a child Mr. Stevens saw the Duke of Wellington's funeral passing along the Strand on its way to St. Paul's, and he often saw Dickens and Thackeray, who would visit the auction rooms on their way to the Garrick Club.

DURHAM COAL MINES MAY CLOSE

Twenty Thousand Miners Reject Owners' Terms and Get Notice

Twenty thousand men employed in the Durham coalfield are threatened with unemployment in consequence of the rejection by the men's leaders of the terms offered by the owners.

Th proposal was that the miners should work slightly longer hours and accept reduced piecework rates.

The men employed at four of the Pelaw Main Collieries, Birtley, have received a fortnight's notice, the owners being unable to carry on at the existing high cost of production. The terms offered by the management would have kept the pits going. The owners claim that had their offer been accepted the price of export coal could have been reduced by 1s. 6d. a ton, and enabled them to secure foreign contracts.

In northwest Durham a group of collieries employing 10,000 men may have to close. The owners and representatives of the men are to try to bring about an amicable settlement.

Fingerprints Tell Child's Parentage, Says Oslo Savant

A child's parentage can be revealed by its finger-prints, according to Professor Christine Bonnevie, of Oslo (Norway) University, who claims to have proved that certain characteristics of a baby's finger-prints are identical with those of the father.

Miss Bonnevie, who has been engaged for some time in trying to find data that would protect women in cases where the parentage of a child is at stake, says that her discovery would have saved months of costly litigation in the famous case of the Russell baby.

ESKIMOS NOW PAPERING HOUSES

Moravian Mission Vessel Sails With Varied Cargo for Labrador

Wall-paper to decorate the huts of Indians and Eskimos in the frozen wastes of Labrador is included in the strange medley of goods which the little mission ship Harmony will take out with her on her forthcoming voyage.

Captain Jackson, her commander, said that, among other commodities, he is carrying dolls for the women, churchwarden pipes for the men, and a large quantity of brightly-colored tartan, which the Indians are very fond of using for clothes.

Harmony, a tiny vessel of 223 tons, owned by the Moravian Mission to Labrador, is the smallest steamship regularly to cross the Atlantic. Two women, who are going out as missionaries, will sail in her in a week's time.

"I am afraid they will find that the little Harmony rolls and tumbles a good deal," said Captain Jackson grimly. Sometimes, too, the vessel gets jammed in the ice for as long as a fortnight at a time.

Describing the hardships endured by dwellers in Labrador, Captain Jackson said that during the great influenza epidemic of 1919, 233 persons died in a village, the population of which is only 266.

Not a single man was left alive, and only a few women. In another village 133 died out of 160. At a third village a little girl alone survived, her only companion being a wolf-dog. When rescued she was cooking her last piece of blubber.

TRAGEDY FOLLOWS FARM LOVERS' TIFF

Gamekeeper Shoots Poultry Maid and Blows Own Brains Out

James Macfarlane, aged thirty-two, an ex-gamekeeper employed on the Newstead estate, where Lord Byron lived, shot his sweetheart and later blew his brains out in a wood.

Macfarlane was in love with Constance Lunn, a poultry maid, and apparently they quarrelled. He called to see her and they went to the chicken-coops together. Then shots were heard, and the girl was found gravely wounded in a meadow. The police searched all night for Macfarlane and found his body in Castle Wood.

Miss Lunn lies in Mansfield Hospital in a critical state. She is wounded in the back and chest. Macfarlane, she asserts, shot her a second time as she lay helpless on the ground.

NEW PAINT STOPS COSTLY CORROSION

Saving May Be £100,000,000 a Year by Chemist Invention

A new paint which may stop the havoc of corrosion—which is estimated to cost this country £100,000,000 a year—has been invented by a chemist in the service of the South Staffs Mond Gas Company.

Years of patient research and experiment have resulted in the evolving of a formula for a bituminous paint which was found to possess the power to make itself part of the material to which it is applied and render it impervious to the effect of acids, gases, water and extremes of heat and cold.

When the new paint was applied to a gas plant registering a heat of 725 degs. Fahrenheit it remained for months as fresh as on the day of application. Other paints had blistered off in five days at the most.

Practical test has proved that the paint "keys itself" into the metal and wood to which it is applied, is capable of expanding and contracting with it, thus avoiding cracking, and prevents corrosion almost indefinitely.

TAXPAYERS LOOK IN GIFT HORSE'S MOUTH

Finchley Ratepayers Find Mansion Has Disadvantages

The gift of a 30-roomed house and large grounds to the Finchley Urban District Council has been found to have its disadvantages.

Avenue House, Finchley, the London residence of the late Mr. Henry Charles Stephens, the ink manufacturer, was left to the council on condition that it should be open for the use of the public.

Ratepayers objected to the cost of maintaining this 30-roomed mansion and its extensive grounds, and the council took steps to have it sold.

The Stephens family objected that this was not in accord with the will, and that if the council would not accept it on the conditions laid down by the will the property should become part of the residuary estate.

When the matter was raised in the Chancery Division, Mr. Justice Lawrence held that the Finchley Council could not now disclaim the gift. He ordered an inquiry into whether they could carry out the conditions of the will.

Sir Hugh Allen is to conduct the massed choirs at the Harlech Castle musical festival next month in place of Sir Walford Davies, who is ill.

Saying her husband had deserted her, a Middlesbrough woman confessed to the Court that she was paying 1,300 per cent to moneylenders.

BARONET FORBIDS HEIRS TO FOLLOW CATHOLIC CREED

Will of Sir John Rees Called Extraordinary by Judge

"POWER OF PRIESTS"

Court Decides New Baronet Observed Provisions of Will

"This will in the circumstances is the most extraordinary document I have seen," said Mr. Justice Lawrence in the London Chancery Division when a question of forfeiture arose in the will of the late Sir John David Rees, Bt., a former M.P. for Nottingham, who died from injuries received in a railway accident on June 2, 1922.

It was stated that Sir John, shortly before his marriage in 1891, entered the Roman Catholic Church, and his son, Sir Richard Rees, was baptised a Roman Catholic. Sir John, in a will of August, 1904, placed a forefiture clause directed against any beneficiary under the will entitled to a share of his residuary estate who should profess or practise the Roman Catholic religion. He added to the clause:—

"It being my wish that my dearest son, Richard, and my dearest daughter, Rosemary, may be entirely free of Roman Catholic influence whatsoever, such as priests, schoolmasters, governesses, and the like, of that persuasion."

In these circumstances the trustees of the will asked the Court to declare whether the present baronet, Sir Richard Lodowick Montague Edward Rees, was entitled to receive the income from the half-share of his father's residuary estate (£74,000) given to him by the will.

Sir Richard Rees, the present baronet, stated in an affidavit that, except that at different times he attended Roman Catholic services with and to please his mother, he had not professed or practised the Roman Catholic religion, and had no intention of doing so in the future.

Mr. Justice Lawrence said that after the date of the will the children were, to the knowledge of Sir John Rees, brought up as Roman Catholics, yet in his will he said that they were to be removed from the Roman Catholic influence.

"I cannot read this will as a cruel joke on the two children," he added. "In my opinion the present baronet has not practised or professed the Roman Catholic religion within the meaning of the forfeiture clause."

The judge stated that there would be an order on the trustees to pay to the present baronet his half share of the residue until he so practised or professed the Roman Catholic religion.

JEWELLERY DEALER GETS BIG VERDICT

Nella Pincus Awarded £18,522 for Loss of Gems

The hearing of the action in which Mrs. Nella Pincus, a jewellery dealer, of High Holborn, London, claimed £44,000 under an insurance policy from Mr. G. Simmons, representing a number of Lloyd's underwriters, has concluded in the King's Bench Division.

The jury found for Mrs. Pincus, and said that the value of the jewellery stolen was £18,522 19s. 6d. Mr. Justice Sankey postponed entering judgment until Tuesday.

Mrs. Pincus' case was that the jewellery was stolen from the room of her husband and business manager, Mr. Stephen Pincus, at the Prospect Hotel, Harrogate, in September, 1923. The underwriters denied that there had been a loss, and alleged that the claim was fraudulent.

HEIRESS WHO WED LABORER SELLS OUT

Mrs. William Whitmill, who, as Miss Burchell-Herne, the sole survivor of a former squire of Bushey, Hertfordshire, married a laborer recently, has decided to sell her mansion and £60,000 estate at Bushey. Mrs. Whitmill and her husband are still on their honeymoon tour in the Mediterranean.

The estate, which comprises many hundreds of acres, is likely to be purchased by a building syndicate who are planning an extensive housing scheme.

Before her romantic marriage Mrs. Whitmill had lived in a small villa at Bushey, but it was stated that after her honeymoon she intended to return to Bushey with her husband and reside again at the picturesque mansion. She has since, however, decided to live with her husband in a quiet seaside resort, the name of which is being kept a close secret.

PARENTS REUNITED BY CHILD'S KISS

Separation Orders Were Torn Up Outside of Court

Scraps of paper picked up in the yard of Tottenham police court revealed that a case had taken a romantic turn.

A woman had sued her husband for desertion, and both made allegations with considerable bitterness.

The court granted the wife a separation order and copies were served on both. Outside the husband took up his child and kissed it affectionately. Then father and mother looked at each other. The woman tore up her copy of the order, and the man followed suit. They walked home together, happy in their reunion.

Both Miss Stanbury, who is 19, and her future husband, who is 24, are keen lawn tennis players, and they first met on tennis courts in this country.

Mr. Norman Woolworth came over to England three years ago on leaving the University to assist in the management of the Woolworth business, following the death of Mr. Woolworth, senior.

BURIED A DAY, JOKES ABOUT IT

After being buried up to the armpits for over seven hours in a narrow eight-foot deep sewer trench, William Tolmie, aged 70, an Elgin gang overseer, was rescued, suffering only from bruises and shock.

Workmen were engaged in laying a new sewer, and Tolmie was directing the placing of a section of piping. Suddenly props on the side of the trench collapsed, and a ton of sand, wood, and gravel trapped him.

His mates worked unceasingly throughout a day of broiling heat to dig the fall away, but it was not until after 6 o'clock at night that Tolmie was brought to the surface. In spite of his dangerous position he laughed and joked throughout the seven hours, taking a hand even in directing operations.

Brandy and meat extract were passed down to him at intervals by the police surgeon, who stood by him all day. Twice at his own request fellow-workmen lit his pipe for him. When finally rescued Tolmie was loudly cheered.

TRAFFIC HELD UP BY VICIOUS VIPER

Bus Driver Stuns it and Policeman's Baton Ends it All

A large viper, more than a yard long, held up the traffic on the road across Keston Common, Kent.

It came off the common, apparently annoyed at the disturbance of its rest, and wriggled about the road, shooting out its tongue and intent on battle.

A number of cars pulled up, lest they should run over it, and the driver of a motor omnibus going to Lewisham, stopped and took up the viper's challenge.

He seized a destination board, and, after five minutes' dancing to and fro, gave the viper a blow that stunned it. A policeman then killed the viper with his truncheon.

Edgar Tynemouth, aged fourteen, of Devonport, was bitten by an adder while rambling over Yelverton Downs. He was treated by a doctor, and was motored to Plymouth Hospital, where he is reported to be in a fairly comfortable condition.

GLASGOW CROWD ATTACKS POLICE

Bottles and Batons Wielded in Serious Street Affray

A serious affray, in which bottles and batons were used, took place in the Plantation district of Glasgow recently, when two policemen were savagely attacked by a number of young men.

The affair was the result of the policemen cautioning a man who was behaving in a disorderly manner. The man sprang at one of the policemen, and called for assistance.

Within a short while the two policemen found themselves in the centre of a wild mob. They were kicked and jostled and thrown to the ground, but eventually gained the upper hand, after a civilian who went to their assistance had been struck on the head with a bottle had received a severe wound on the face.

Five arrests were made.

FIRST MAN SWIMS THAMES ESTUARY

Five Hours' Journey on Course of Thirteen Miles

Starting on the Kent side, Mr. Norman Derham, of Southend-on-Sea, succeeded in swimming across the Thames Estuary at his third attempt.

A week previous he was obliged to give up owing to cramp when two miles from the Kent coast.

The distance across the estuary where he crossed is seven miles, but during his swim he covered a distance of 13 miles in five hours.

When he reached Southend the tide was out, and he was obliged to walk 300 yards on the mud to reach the foreshore.

Mr. Derham's feat has never before been accomplished.

NEW HEALTH LAW REGULATES AERIALS

An important provision in the Public Health Act was passed yesterday by a Standing Committee of the House of Lords.

It provides that local authorities may make by-laws—

For the prevention of danger or obstruction to persons using any streets or public place from posts, wires, tubes, aerials, or any other apparatus in connection with, or for the purposes of wireless telegraphy or telephony installations, stretched or placed, whether before or after the commencement of this section, on or over any premises, and liable to fall on to any street.

It was also provided that the expression "public place" includes any public park or garden, and any ground to which the public have, or are permitted to have, access, whether on payment or otherwise.

EXETER ALDERMAN ENDED OWN LIFE

Alderman J. Stokes, of Exeter, a justice of the peace, was found hanged in the coachhouse of his residence.

He was a member of one of the largest firms of potato and fruit merchants in the southwest of England, and a staunch Liberal.

About eighteen months ago he underwent a serious operation, and his nerves, it is said, gave way.

SIGHTLESS WOMAN "SEES" COLORS IN HEARING SINGERS

Extraordinary Experiences of Bristol Girl in Sensing Colors

STRANGE SENSATION

Is Talented Singer—Goes to Movies and Visualises Pictures

Have people born blind a sense of color?

The experience of Miss Eva H. Longbottom, a young woman of Bristol, who has been blind from birth, suggests that the brain may have other methods of perceiving color than by the ordinary means through the optic nerve, for she "sees" voices and other sounds.

Miss Longbottom provides an extraordinary example of the great accomplishments that can be acquired even by the blind.

She is the British Helen Keller. She is an L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M., is not only a ballad singer but has appeared in oratorio—a great feat for a totally blind person who cannot see the conductor's beat.

Miss Longbottom told the reporter that it was as a child that she first became aware that sound was producing vision.

She had attended a concert at which Mr. Ben Davies sang.

"As he proceeded with his song," she said, "I became aware of a strange and mystic light shining near me, and felt an impulse to stretch out my fingers and catch it. Never having from my earliest days beheld a ray of light, I marvelled much at what I now saw so clearly, and thought it must be some creation of my own brain."

Miss Longbottom made up her mind to encourage this sensation of light, for, though she had no idea of light as such, yet she believed, by comparing impressions with her friends, that this was what actually had appeared.

Here are some main colors which Miss Longbottom sees, though she is conscious of infinite variations:

Red: Deep voice, contralto or bass. "Sometimes the red is almost physically painful."

Orange: A powerful voice with a full ring.

Violet: High notes with rapid vibrations. A most pleasing color. It is peculiar to the violin and piano, sopranos and tenors.

Apart from her color sense she possesses many other mystifying qualities. She goes to "see' the films, has the captions read to her, and, apart from that, dislikes any further information. She visualizes the picture play for herself, and astonishes other people by the correctness of her descriptions.

HOMING PIGEON SOLVED MYSTERY

Injured Man's Identity Established When Bird Flew Home

A released homing pigeon has been the means of identifying a seriously injured man after all other means had failed.

The injured man, Harry Castleton, of Allan-street, Sheffield, came into collision with a tramcar while cycling down a steep hill at Woodseats. He was taken to Sheffield Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain, and still remains there unconscious.

On the back of the cycle was found a basket containing homing pigeons, of which the police took charge.

All attempts to identify the man by sending out a police description and by an appeal from the Sheffield Relay Wireless Station failed, and so the police liberated two of the pigeons, with notes attached to their legs.

Shortly afterwards they received a message from one of the owners of the pigeons, Mr. J. W. Smith, living near Chesterfield, who telephoned information which gave a clue to Castleton's identity.

CROWD STOOD IDLE AS BOY DROWNED

Of Fifty People None Made Effort to Save Him

A statement that a crowd of fifty people, including twelve men, stood and made no attempt to rescue an eight-year-old boy from drowning in shallow water was made at an inquest at Smethwick on the boy, Francis Richardson.

The boy was climbing the ironwork of a canal bridge when he fell into the water, and, eventually, was brought out by Mr. Edwin Owen.

Mr. Owen said that when he arrived two boys were preparing to enter the water, but the older people made no effort to secue Richardson. Mr. Owen added that when he went into the water he was able to walk about in it.

After a restless night he asked the doctor if it would be possible to renumber his bed 12a, and to soothe the patient's mind consent was granted.

The operation was performed and was entirely successful.

Notice of this renunciation appeared in the London Gazette.

Collection Includes Number of World Famous Paintings

Representative specimens of nearly every British artist of repute are included in the late Lord Leverhulme's art collection at The Hill, which is to be sold in September unless some arrangement is made with a private purchaser.

Lord Leverhulme took forty years to collect these pictures. All the walls in the house are covered with pictures, and every room is filled with valuable furniture.

The collection has not been valued for many years, and since the last valuation was made many of the finest pictures have been removed to the Lady Lever gallery at Port Sunlight, while numerous additions have been made.

Experts believe, however, that the treasures are worth at least £250,000.

A FAMOUS MILLAIS

The best known picture is "Caller Herrin'," by Sir J. E. Millais, which Ruskin declared was "the highest of all yet" produced by the pre-Raphaelite school.

There are a number of portraits and landscapes by Thomas Gainsborough, and some good examples of the work of Sir Thomas Lawrence.

The Hoppners, of which there are a large number, include the portraits of the Misses Hollingsworth, Lucius Carcanon, and Squire Chomeley.

Most of the English watercolors hang on the walls of the drawing-room.

Many of the rooms at The Hill are furnished in definite periods. The Stuart room contains a fine collection of Charles II. and Queen Anne lacquer cabinets and framed panels of Stuart needlework.

THE JOHN PICTURE

The famous portrait of Lord Leverhulme, by Mr. Augustus John, which was returned to the artist with the head cut out, is not included in the coielction. "No one knows where it is. It has disappeared," said the art expert of the collection.

The return of the picture in a mutilated condition five years ago was considered one of the most intriguing art sensations of modern times. Mr. John wrote to Lord Leverhulme that he considered it an insult, and Lord Leverhulme replied that it was a blunder.

He said that he had intended to take the canvas from the frame and put it in his safe, but could not do so because of the internal partitions, so he cut out the head and placed it in his safe. The rest of the picture, he explained, was returned in error.

GUN RUNNING AT CAMBRIDGE RAG

Students of Selwyn College Offered German Trophy to Ladies

As a protest, it is understood, against the action of the officials of Selwyn College, Cambridge, on some question of discipline, between 60 and 80 students indulged in a novel form of rag. In the college grounds there is a large German field gun, a trophy of the war, and the students decided to remove this.

It is an unwieldy weapon, but they managed to get it out of the college grounds and into the town. Their troubles began there, however, for they seemed unable to decide what to do with the gun.

Someone suggested that it should be thrown into the river, but wiser counsels prevailed, and the gun was taken to Market Hill and handed over to the police.

Like the students, the police were puzzled what to do with the weapon, but later in the evening the "gun runners" came back, and, retrieving the weapon, pulled it back to Selwyn College.

On the way back to the college the students encountered a party of Newnham ladies, to whom they offered the weapon, which was, however, refused.

FAMOUS LAWYER SPOILS OWN WILL

Certain formalities in connection with two codicils to his will were neglected by Sir William Ryland Dent Adkins, K.C., the noted lawyer, who died on January 30, aged 82.

Affidavits of due execution were required before the codicils could be admitted to probate, and, consequently, the estate has just been proved of the gross value of £22,079.

In leaving a faulty will Sir Ryland erred in the company of other famous lawyers, including The late Lord St. Helier (former President of the Probate Court), Sir Richard Muir, the late Lord Halsbury, Judge Rentoul, Lord Brougham, Lord Lyndhurst, Judge Bacon, Lord Grinthorpe, and many others.

Sir Ryland was Recorder of Birmingham since 1920.

A domestic servant who nearly knocked down a policeman was fined at Crewkerne for dangerous motor-cycling.

BOY MURDERER CALMLY TELLS HOW HE KILLED BUTLER

"I Just Walked in and Hit Him," He Tells Court

Wilful Murder Verdict—Victim Sir George Lloyd's Butler

"It was a brutal murder. There seems to be a new generation of ruthless boys growing up. This boy not only takes the money, but for no reason whatever, except for being found out, he batters the man's skull in."

These were the words of Mr. Ingleby Oddie, the coroner, at a Westminster, London, inquest on Frank Edward Rix, butler to Sir George Lloyd, who was found dead in bed at Charles street, Mayfair, one Sunday morning with a hatchet wound in his head.

The jury returned a verdict of "Wilful murder" against Arthur Henry Bishop, the former page boy, who gave himself up to the police.

Detective Inspector Vanner, C.I.D., said that at Vine street police station Bishop made the following statement:

"I don't know how to say it, but I will tell my story in my own way. On Saturday night I was not thinking of anything in particular, just walking about, and then I got into Charles street for no special reason. I got in through the basement window about half-past one o'clock early on Sunday morning.

"I walked along the passage and opened the door of the wood cupboard and took the chopper out. Then I just walked round to his room. He was asleep. I stood outside the door for some time, and then I thought he was waking, as he started to move, so I went in and hit him with the chopper. Of course, the light was on all the time.

"I forgot that I put it on. I took the things away, and I went out of the area door and went away. I took his brown shoes from the trees and put them on in his room. I went out of the door because the window creaked and I thought it would make a noise. I left my rubber-heeled boots behind in the lavatory. What I said in the Seven Oaks police station about the property I took away from Mr. Rix is correct. He was good to the other servants but he was always teasing me about. That is all I want to say."

Inspector Vanner: I rather gather that the word "messing" means harassing.

The Coroner: Ordering him about? —Yes.

The statement concluded: "I have read the statement over and it is the honest truth. I gave myself up at Shoreham, and I confessed to the murder of Mr. Rix. All I have said is quite voluntary."

The coroner remarked that the murder was a very mysterious one.

"One would have thought," he said, "that it was a baffling mystery which would take a long time to solve, but thanks to the efficiency of the police they achieved what was little short of a miracle. Within twenty-four hours they had the boy, and he made a confession. It was wonderful work. When the boy was arrested he made statements which left no doubt he was the murderer."

SAXON KING'S COFFIN IS FOUND

Rested in Dorset Abbey for One Thousand Years

Workmen engaged in excavating the Lady Chapel at Sherborne Abbey, Dorset, have discovered a coffin which is supposed to be that of Ethelbert, King of the West Saxons, who died in 866.

The coffin is of Ham Hill stone, and contains human bones.

During a previous restoration, in 1858, the coffin of King Ethelbald was found. Ethelbert and Ethelbald, both Kings of the West Saxons, were brothers of Alfred the Great, who, it is believed, began his education at Sherborne.

The two brothers were buried at Sherborne by Bishop Eulstan, their kinsman.

THE TWO ETHELBERTS.

Sherborne's Ethelbert must not be confused with Ethelbert, King of Kent, under whose rule Christianity was re-introduced into England by St. Augustine. The Ethelbert whose coffin has now been found ruled the kingdoms of Wessex and Kent for five years.

His reign was marked by two serious attacks by the Danes, who destroyed Winchester in 860.

Restorations to the Lady Chapel of Sherborne Abbey, or Minster, were begun last year. The chapel had been turned into a residence for the headmasters of Sherborne School in the 16th Century, and were architecturally mutilated for the purpose.

The abbey itself is one of the most beautiful specimens of perpendicular architecture in the country.

TWO MOTHERS CLAIM BRIGHTON BABY

Two women claim to be the mother of the baby boy, aged four months, found in the street three weeks ago at Brighton.

Seeing the child's photograph reproduced in the newspapers, Mrs. Austin, of East Ham, whose child was stolen six weeks ago, went to Brighton on Saturday and declared the child found there to be her own, although she did not recognize its clothing.

Another woman, stated to live at Richmond, Surrey, and to be employed in London, arrived soon afterwards and satisfied the police that she was the child's mother.

PATIENT GRATEFUL FOR HOSPITAL AID

A shabbily dressed man called at a London hospital yesterday and asked for a collecting-box.

On handing it back he remarked: "One good turn deserves another. You cured me here twelve months ago, and as I've just had a bit of luck it's my turn to help you."

The box was found to contain £12 10s. in half-crowns.

NATIVE OF SMITH VISITS OLD HOME

Dr. Frank Sanderson is a Noted Authority on Actuarial Work.

STUDIED HERE

A native of Smith Township, who left this district 43 years ago and whose name now appears on thousands of life assurance policies all over Canada, Dr. Frank Sanderson of Toronto, re-visited his native haunts during the week-end.

Interviewed in the Empress Hotel by the Examiner, Dr. Sanderson commented on the tremendous strides taken by Peterboro since his early days in the neighborhood. It has grown up, he said, from a small town to a city. "To use a trite saying," he remarked, "it has been placed on the map." He spoke of the vast improvement in the general appearance of the town; the cleanliness of the streets; the development of the factories, the stores, the churches. He referred to several prominent features that had appeared in the city during the intervening years—the Lift Lock, the Quaker Oats Mills, the Armouries, the new High School buildings and Nicholls Hospital. Dr. Sanderson is optomistic regarding the future of Peterboro when the world gets back to normal. He spoke of the many and varied industries of the city, the energy of its inhabitants and its favored situation. "I met man here from Pittsburg today," he said, speaking of the attractive holiday grounds in the neighborhood. "In my day there were no cottages on the shores of Chemong. Now people are flocking here in hundreds. When things in Europe get settled, when international trade and currency are stabilized, there will be a real advance in all Canada and Peterboro will forge ahead."

Dr. Sanderson, the youngest of a family of seven, was born on his father's farm on the Chemong road, almost opposite the farm still occupied by his cousin, Alec Sanderson, and began his school days in the little wooden school that preceded the present brick building on the Chemong road. His brother was Chairman of the Trustee Board of that school section for many years. Passing through the rural school, he entered first the Public School and then the Collegiate Institute of Peterboro, from which he matriculated into the University of Toronto in 1887. At Varsity he graduated a B.A. and then M.A., and in later years received the honorary degree of L.L.D. from McMaster University.

On leaving the university he decided to take up actuarial work—the expert side of life insurance—and entered the service of the Canada Life Assurance Company. Ambition to excel in his chosen profession, Dr. Sanderson crossed to the Old Country and persued his studies in England and Scotland, and, in addition to his university honors, he now holds the degrees of Fellow of the Faculty of Actuaries of Scotland and Fellow of the Actuarial Society of America, and is a member of the Institute of Actuaries of Great Britain.

Dr. Sanderson was for many years chief actuary of the Canada Life Assurance Company. Of late years Dr. Sanderson has lived in semi-retirement. During the last ten years he has restricted himself almost entirely to doing consulting work. Over a long period of years Dr. Sanderson has been associated with McMaster University and is a member of the Senate and the Board of Governors of that institution, where his expert advice and assistance on investments have proved of invaluable service. Dr. Sanderson is at present Chairman of the Investment Committee and has been for 15 years Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Governors of the university. The late Dr. Gilmour, Professor of Homiletics and a member of the Senate of McMaster, was one of Dr. Sanderson's classmates in Peterboro and a personal friend until his death last November.

Dr. Sanderson has to his credit a unique work, arising from his investigations and years of experience with the Canada Life Assurance Company, on the various degrees of mortality of the different ages, occupations and races of both sexes—the first, and indeed the only work, of that nature published. As a result of this publication Dr. Sanderson received his degree of L.L.D. from the hands of the late Chancellor McKay of McMaster University.

Throughout a busy career Dr. Sanderson has retained a keen interest in social and religious work and is at present a member of the Social Service Council of Canada, an inter-denominational body made up of representatives from all the churches; a member of the Social Service Board of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec; and he has been for twenty years a deacon of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto.

Mrs. Sanderson was formerly Principal of Moulton Ladies' College, Toronto.

ASCENT TO UTOPIA EVOLUTION'S AIM, SAYS SAVANT.

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, July 7.—"Toward the new Utopia!" should be mankind's battlecry today.

While haggling goes on over "established evolutionary laws of the ages," the evolutionary processes of today and tomorrow are forgotten or overlooked by man, and only a handful of scientific pioneers battle with the unsolved mysteries of life and work toward the "new frontiers."

Man is too much inclined to believe that a static condition has been reached and to rest his oars on present-day education and environment.

Such are the views of Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, world authority on anthropology and biology and head of the American Museum of Natural History.

His ideas were expressed in connection with comments on the forthcoming evolution trial in Tennessee.

"It is a mistake to suppose that evolution is a process of the past which has now come to an end and that mankind faces a long static period in which present life conditions may be tolerated or improved through education and environment according to the various euthenic programs," he declares.

"As a matter of fact human evolution is a process of the ages to come as well as of the ages past.

"It is our duty, through discovery in the past of all forces working for human ascent and through the discovery in the future of new forces, to guide the human race to a new Utopia.

"Through past discoveries man has already redeemed his fellowmen from many devastating plagues and diseases; through future discovery it will be possible to raise mankind to a higher plane in which spiritual and intellectual, as well as moral and physical, forces will all take their due part.

"To my mind this cannot be done either through religion or evolution alone, but by the combined influence of a liberal and enlightened religion with a true understanding of the forces of evolution, which are ennobling when rightly understood."

Prof. Osborn points out that consideration of evolutionary problems can be traced through the centuries to the early Greeks. Evolutionary discovery cannot be credited to any one man, such as Darwin, but was scattered over the ages. Several years ago he traced the course of evolutionary thought in a book, "From the Greeks to Darwin."

With the Greeks, the evolutionary theory succeeds mythology, he points out. It began with teachings of Thales and Anaximander, two Ionians, and thence to Aristotle who was first to renounce "the survival of the fitest" law. These early theorizings were vague, tinged with mythological influence and born before natural history and scientific evidance were known.

With the Greek decay evolutionary interest declined, met with church interference in the 17th century and lay dormant through the middle ages, coming to life only in comparatively recent years.

Today the "new spirit and purpose of search of causes lies in the domain of energy," the professor says. For while science can trace "how" man evolved, there are still vast unwritten chapters on "why" he evolved. And so it is into the realm of energy forces and energy conceptions that the great scientific minds delve for new secrets of life.

In this work, points out Professor Osborn, it is man's duty to give all possible aid to "discovery in the future of new forces that will guide the race to its new Utopia."

This is the "family tree" of mankind which, in all probability, will blossom at the Dayton, Tenn., evolution trial. The chart, made up of skulls found in many parts of the world, establishes to the satisfaction of science the relationships of the principal branches of mankind and the anthropoid apes. It was prepared by Professor Fairfield Osborn, internationally noted anthropologist and president of the American Museum of Natural History (inset) and William K. Gregory, also a noted scientist.

When defense lawyers met in New York with John T. Scopes, defendant they went into immediate conference with Professor Osborn who, while unlikely to be a witness, is acting in advisory capacity. It was deemed inadvisable to allow material from the American Museum to be shipped to Dayton as prospective exhibits, but the defense has at its disposal photographic copies.

Of these, the photo here shown is considered most completely to trace man in his various stages of ascent and, if the introduction of such exhibits is found admissable, will be a reference chart at the trial.

Beginning with the tiny skull at lower left, the chart goes as follows: Northarticus, a primitive primate the fossil skull of which was found in Wyoming and which is traced to the eocene age. Just above it is the propliopithicus, which lived in the oliogocene age in Egypt. Here the lower branches break off to form the ape family, represented by the gibbon on the lowest branch and the orang-utan, the chimpanzee and the gorilla on the others. Again ascending the tree appear the Dryopithecus, of the Niocene period in India and the Trinil Java of the upper Pliocene era. Here, again, a branch shoots out with those two primitive types of man, the Heidelberg man, found in Germany, and the Neanderthal man, who lived in the Stone age in Europe.

The top branch begins its final blossoming with the Piltdown man, found in England, thence to the Cro-Magnon man and the white at topmost twig. On the same stalk, in lower order, are placed the Australian native, the negro and the Chinese.

TRY OUT NEW ALARM SIREN

Lakefield People Are Not Yet Accustomed to New Sound.

FINE EXCURSION

LAKEFIELD, July 7. — The new fire alarm was sounded on Friday afternoon between four and five oclock for the first time, as a trial, and to accustom the citizens to a siren instead of a bell as a call of danger. Opinions vary as to its efficacy, but one feels that the best policy is to follow out Asquith policy: "Wait and see." The installation is not yet completed and when all is in readiness the siren will sound every day at noon.

R. R. HALL K. C., ADVISES CITY COUNCIL TO SUE

As Counsel associated with Mr. Joseph Wearing, the City Solicitor, herein I beg to enclose you a copy of the opinion of the Court of Appeal that was delivered by the Honourable Mr. Justice Hodgins, where in you will note the reasons for Judgment of the Court in dismissing the City's appeal from the Judgment of the Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton, who granted an Injunction restraining the Corporation of the City of Peterborough from proceeding to investigate under Section 248 of the Municipal Act, into the supply of Power that was made by the Peterborough Utilities Commission to the Campbell Flour Mills, Limited.

Action Not Stopped.

This Judgment does not in any way preclude either the Peterborough Utilities Commission or the Corporation of the City of Peterborough from bringing an action against the Campbell Flour Mills Limited for the electric power that was consumed by the Campbell Flour Mills Limited and not actually paid for. In the event of the Peterborough Utilities Commission refusing to bring such an action then the Corporation of the City of Peterborough will have the right to bring an action under the provisions of Sec. 348 of the Municipal Act to recover the amount that may be justly due and owing by the Campbell Flour Mills Limited, but in that event the Peterborough Utilities Commission would have to be a party to the action, and no doubt the Court would direct that the money when recovered be paid over to the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

The real merits of the claim do not in fact come before the Court, and, whilst the facts are commented on by Mr. Justice Hodgins in his Judgment, yet at the same time the real merits of the claim are not disposed of.

Definite Agreement.

The contract between the Peterborough Utilities Commission and the Campbell Flour Mills Limited makes the Standard Interpretation of rates as used by Municipalities for electric service No. 201001, a part of the contract and in such standard Interpretation of Rates there is an express agreement on the part of the Campbell Flour Mills Limited that "in no case will the monthly bill be less than the cost to the Municipality," and the cost to the Municipality of Peterborough is fixed by the Hydro Commission at $22.50 per H.P.; therefore there is a definite agreement on the part of the Campbell Flour Mills Limited to pay for all power which is actually supplied to them.

George Ross.

We have an affidavit from George Ross who was engaged as a Miller in the employ of the Campbell Flour Mills wherein he states that during the year 1918 the flour mill was remodeled with a capacity for the manufacture of flour of 720 barrels of flour per day of 24 hours, and that during the years 1919-1920 and the first eleven months of 1921, the flour mill was operated constantly to its full capacity with the exception of certain months when it was closed down for a few days at a time and occasionally the mill only operated 11 hours during the day, and once or twice or perhaps oftener, owing to shortage of power the mill was operated at night, and not in the day time during short periods.

He further states that the flour mill consisted of one unit only, and in order to manufacture flour it was necessary to operate the mill constantly to its full capacity during the time it was being operated.

He further states that the electric motor to operate the rolls in the flour mill had a capacity of 200 H.P., and that the electric motor to operate the purifiers, wheat cleaning machinery and flour packers had a capacity of 50 H.P., and the electric motor to operate the sifters, reels and conveyors, etc., had a capacity of 40 H.P., which makes the total motor capacity of the flour mill alone, 290 H.P. The motor to operate the feed plant, the elevator and the unloading of the grain, had a capacity of 100 H.P.

He further states that during the time in dispute that the flour mill was manufacturing flour the whole 290 H.P., of motor capacity were running and utilized for the respective purposes and that the 100 H.P. in the feed mill was operated from time to time during these three years, but he is not in a position to say personally the extent to which they were continuously operated in the feed mill.

John B. Horne.

We have the further evidence of John B. Horne, who is an expert miller, and who read over the affidavit of George Ross, wherein he stated that from the description and capacity given of the flour mill by Ross, he is of the opinion that it would require between 240 H.P. and 290 H.P. to operate the flour mill alone to its reasonably full capacity, and of course the motor to operate the 100 H.P. motor operating the feed plant would be in addition to that.

Hydro Engineer.

Then we also have the report of the Hydro Engineer who states that one third H.P. per barrel to be the ordinary milling practice in power installation for milling, that is to say if a mill had a capacity of 720 barrels a day it would take at least one-third of a Horse Power per barrel to operate it which would be equivalent to 240 H.P. in the flour mill alone, to say nothing about the power to operate the Feed Mill which in the opinion of Mr. Meyers would require in the neighborhood of 80 H.P. to operate to its full capacity and Mr. Meyers was further of the opinion that to operate the flour mill it would require from 250 to 290 H.P.

Therefore it clearly appears that the Campbell Flour Mills during this period actually consumed from 320 H.P.

Ample Evidence.

From enquiries that I have made I am perfectly satisfied that there is ample evidence available to support the sworn statements made by George Ross.

As has already been pointed out according to the Standard Interpretation of Rates the express agreement between the Company and the Utilities Commission provides that "in no case will the monthly bill be less than the "cost to the Municipality" that is it should not be less than $22.50 per H.P.

According to these facts, the Campbell Milling Co. should have paid during each of these years all the way from $7200 per year to $8325 per year, but as a matter of fact, in 1919 the Campbell Milling Co. only paid $3402.27, and in 1920 only $2750.87, and in 1921 only $2805.07; making a total of $8958.21, whereas in fact they should have paid between $21,600 and $25,175, or, in other words, the City of Peterborough has made a loss of over $12,600, during these three years.

Advise Action.

From my intimate knowledge of the facts and from the ample evidence that is available I have no hesitation in advising the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to bring an action against the Campbell Flour Mills Limited, and the Peterborough Utilities Commission under Section 348 of the Municipal Act and upon delivery of the Statement of Claim we could get an examination for discovery of the Manager of the Company who was in charge of the mill during these three years and who could be compelled to produce his records to show that the mill was in fact operated to its full capacity and who could be compelled to produce the records that will prove from day to day exactly what the mill did produce.

If the Members of the Peterborough Utilities Commission will not perform their duty upon demand then I submit that it is clearly the duty of the City Council to see that the Tax-payers of Peterborough are not deprived of their just rights.

I shall be very pleased at any time to confer with the Committee of the Council who have this matter in charge.

Yours faithfully,
(signed) R. R. HALL.

Solicitor's Opinion.

City Solicitor Joseph Wearing, asked for his opinion, said there are two issues. First is the question of the right of the municipality to conduct investigations in general, decided against the city. Mr. Wearing regretted this decision, saying that more and more municipal councils are being limited in their powers regarding other money spending bodies, and more and more becoming mere collectors of money from the ratepayers. He could not, however, advise regarding taking the demand for an investigation to the supreme court. It is an interpretation of a statute on which a dozen courts might differ, each higher court giving a different interpretation from the one under it. "If," he added, "you had the other municipalities in Ontario backing you in the costs I would say 'Go to the supreme court.'

The second viewpoint, the question of the Campbell Flour Mills, is a different matter, he said. We cannot go ahead in the simple method that appeared obvious, through a judicial investigation, and the only other method is that suggested by Mr. Hall in his letter.

My own honest opinion is, I'm extremely doubtful about the advisability of the Council following Mr. Hall's advice, because I'm doubtful whether the city has the right under that section. It would be immediately involved in another issue, as to the right to proceed. Then would come the main issue.

If the Council could have obtained the facts in the case through a judicial inquiry, and based its further actions on these facts, that would have been different from the proposition now facing it, Mr. Wearing said. Going ahead without knowing the facts is different from getting the facts from the judge first. "You should have sufficient facts before asking for discovery. I could never advise a client of mine to run the risk and incur the expenses involved on the facts shown here."

Mr. Wearing mentioned as reasons for not advising further action along the lines suggested by Mr. Hall, the uncertainty, the time involved in waiting for decisions, and the many side issues that might open up. "It looks to me like a piece of litigation that might stretch out for months," he declared.

Alderman McIntyre: "You think we are right, but the expense is too great?"

Not Sufficient Evidence.

Mr. Wearing: "We have a prima facie case, but not sufficient evidence to make it a good case to go ahead with. There is a theoretical case—not a practical case made out. On our evidence it seems clear this power has been used, but there is no practical evidence for the city to go on." He added that the carrying of the case to the Supreme Court might cost $1,500 if the city lost.

There was no answer to Alderman Greene's question as to whether anything that may have been wrong has been remedied so that a recurrence of any error, if there was one, would be impossible.

Alderman Phelan, who has consistently opposed the investigation and every movement in connection with it, said the Utilities Commission is elected to look after the power interests of the city, and the City Council is infringing on its territory and business in this question. The City's case has been heard and the other side has won everywhere. He moved that the matter be dropped.

Alderman Fife recalled that he had from the first advocated taking the citizens into the Council's confidence on the matter and laying all the facts before them. He had been ruled down by the majority, and the result is that the people have nothing on which to form an opinion as to the Council's actions. He had prophesied that the whole matter would be like a bubble, and now it has burst. He is convinced the Council will get nowhere unless it goes to the source and has proper legislation put through. "Our legal advice was to go on," he said, "and now we're wavering."

Never Gave Advice.

Mr. Wearing: "I've never given any advice to go on or stop before to-night, have I?"

Alderman Fife: "No. But there's always some legal advice strong enough to go into anything."

Alderman Meyers: "I have not decided tonight whether it would be wise to appeal to a higher court or to go on the other way, but I am very much in favor of calling a meeting of the committee of the whole council to discuss the matter. I am certain the people of Peterborough should know the facts. This is as of as much importance to me as anything in my life has ever been. I have stood behind it and claimed there is something wrong."

Alderman Meyers' amendment that the matter go to Committee of the whole Council carried, Aldermen Phelan, Jones, Turner and Hancock dissenting.

"The Shepherd's Dream" to Be Presented at Chautauqua

"The Shepherd's Dream," original musical production, presented with special scenery and costumes, will be a feature of a grand concert to be given at the coming Dominion Chautauqua here by the well-known Harp Ensemble Company. In addition to "The Shepherd's Dream," a program of a classic and popular character is presented featuring the music of the harp. Two harps, cello, violin, organ and piano, as employed by members of this company, lend themselves to beautiful instrumental ensembles, quartets, trios, duo and solo numbers. Vocal solos with ensemble and piano accompaniment give pleasing variety.

THEATRES

RICHARD BARTHELMESS IN "SOUL FIRE."

Adapted from the play, "Great Music," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre, "Soul Fire," is a production quite out of the ordinary, with exceptionally good acting by its two principals, the handsome Richard Barthelmess and the dainty Bessie Love, who has an effective role in this picture different from anything she has been seen in heretofore.

"Soul Fire" is the title of a concerto composed by a young American musician, Eric Fane, who weaves into it all the experiences of a checkered career that has led him from the wealthy home of his father to Italian and Parisian society circles, then to the haunts of the down and outers in Port Said, and finally to the tropical islands of the Southern Seas. A wide range of atmosphere and a variety of companions are included in the wanderings of the hero, who "seeks his soul" in many lands and among many peoples.

The young man who made such a hit in "The Bright Shawl" and "The Fighting Blade," does a good deal of "emoting" in this picture, possibly a little too much. However, the theme calls for a considerable display of emotion of one type or another, and Eric and his sweetheart, Taita, the lovely maiden of the South Seas, are a very exuberant pair of young lovers.

The Princess Rhea, the inamorata of Fane in his Parisian days, is the last word in modernity. Her glistening, mannish hair cut, combined with a frilly lace frock, very decollete, make a combination calculated to arouse the wonderment of future generations, harking back to old styles in dress and hair-do. She craves for money and position, and spurns the young man whose musical ideals conflict with the plans of his wealthy parent, and he departs to other lands, in search of his soul.

In Port Said, he runs foul of a drunken sailor and almost kills his opponent in a drunken brawl, taking a berth on a ship to escape from the consequences of his quarrel. On a tropical island he finds Taita, the daughter of a dead Englishman, and falls madly in love with her. Then the shadow of a fatal disease hangs over the heads of the young lovers. The solution comes quickly and gives the hero ample opportunity to register a variety of mixed emotions.

"Soul Fire" might be called a "picturesque picture." Young love, music, romance, perils by land and sea to distract the hero from his ideal, all draw to a close triumphantly. Eric Fane yearned to express his soul, and he found a way through suffering and finally, through love. The only fault to be found with the production, possibly, is the fact that its underlying meaning might have been expressed in stronger terms by a different type of hero. Richard Barthelmess is romantic and interesting in "Soul Fire," but he isn't very strong.—Jeannette.

AT THE ROYAL

"SANDRA" STRIKES AT HUMAN APPEAL.

An absorbing study in human nature is afforded motion picture audiences starring Barbara La Marr, which opened at the Royal Theatre last night.

This picture visualized from the novel by Pearl Doles Bell, strikes an intensely human note in the naturalness of the variety of characters which it presents.

The story is enacted in the main, by ten principal characters, all of them distinct personalities which will immediately be recognized as prototypes of the real thing by motion picture audiences.

The character of Sandra is invested with a dual personality—one woman content with common places of home and domesticity; the other, a restless, diversion-seeking type, who believes that happiness lies beyond the bend in the winding road.

Then there is Mate Stanley, a girl of 16 or 17, sweet, wholesome, full of fun, and to whom the world contains no evil; and Bobbie, her brother, is a typical Tarkington boy, 17, at the age where he takes himself and his clothes very seriously; while their mother, Eve Stanley, is a contented, home-loving woamn, colorless and conservative. Her husband, Peter Stanley, is of the roly-poly, self-satisfied type, conventional in the extreme, and who would view as a radical departure the changing of his brand of cigars.

Stephen Winslow is a man-about-town, suave and charming, immaculately dressed, and the direct antithesis of David, husband of "Sandra," who is a simple, sport loving outdoor man, intensely devoted to his wife, and whose idea of a good time is fishing.

Then we have the Reverend William J. Hapgood, a serious-minded, sincere type of young minister, more interested in his work than he is in erecting a magnificent edifice as a tribute to his money-raising powers.

In "Sandra, a First National victure, these characters present a drama from the pages of life, moving about and always acting as human beings and not puppets of the screen.

Bert Lytell is Barbaras leading man in the picture. Others in the cast include Leila Hyams, Leslie Austin, Leon Gordon, Flora Finch, Edgar Nelson, Maude Hill and Augustin Sweeney.

The first was a slugfest by the Tribe, laying on the ball for 19 hits. Moore went the distance, but Buffalo tried to stop the tide of runs and wallops with three heavers. Rochester made an early start to annex the second half, getting enough runs in three frames to staye off the Bisons' late rush. Home runs were made by Anderson, Lake, Haines, Onslow and Walsh. LEANDER CREW'S THAMES RECORD

Won Grand Challenge Cup From Thames Rowing Club.

DIAMOND SCULLS.

HENLEY, July 6. — (Canadian Press).—In the record time of 6 minutes 53 seconds for the new course of one mile and 500 yards, W. P. Mellen stroked the Leander crew to victory, in the final heat for the grand challenge cup. The leaders defeated the crew of the Thames Rowing Club by three-quarters of a length after a stirring race, with never more than a length separating the two boats.

In the finals for the Diamond Sculls, Jack Beresford, Jr., of London, holder of the trophy, defeated G. H. L. Gollan, of the Leander Club. Gollan led at the start, but was soon overhauled by Beresford, who crossed the line an easy winner in 8 minutes 27 seconds. Beresford on Friday defeated Walter M. Hoover of Philadelphia in the eliminations for the Diamond sculls in the same time.

It seems almost certain that there will be no race for the Philadelphia Gold Cup, Beresford having returned the cup to the United States. Hoover, who came to England especially for this race, is naturally disappointed, and is trying to induce a reconsideration of Beresford's decision. Rowing men here are keenly interested, but are generally of the opinion that Beresford's decision is final.

Hoover, after a conversation with Beresford's father Sunday, said he hoped the matter would be smoothed over in spite of the action already taken, and that a race would be arranged with Beresford, Jr. He discussed the subject fully with the elder Beresford, pointing out to him that his club had backed him financially to come to England with the sole object of challenging for the cup.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Central Ontario League averages to date show that, although the Petes are last in club batting, in which department Kingston leads, with Belleville second, the talent led by Manager Shiner Johnston are away out in front defensively, leading the league with the fine fielding average of .943, which is seventeen points better than the second team, Kingston. The Petes lead also in home runs with six and in sacrifice hits, while the home pitching department is miles in front from the viewpoint of control.

* * * * * * * * *

In seven games Frank Whitehouse has issued but four passes and hit only two batsmen, while Al. Heckman in four games has passed three and hit one. On the contrary, Cairns of Kingston in six games has passed thirteen and hit five and Dainty of Oshawa in eight games has given fourteen bases on balls and plugged five men.

* * * * * * * * *

Right now three of the Petes' infield are leading the league in their respective positions. Purvis of the Ponies was the leading first baseman in the first twelve games, but his error Saturday, while Harrison handled ten chances without a skip, allowed the Petes' first sacker to pass him and "Hap" now ranks as the leading first sacker from a fielding standpoint, and he is also ahead of all his rivals in batting. At second base Ray Rose is well ahead of the other keystone performers, having 40 points lead on the next nearest, Kip Rowden of Oshawa, while Shiner Johnston tops all the short-stops in the six games he has played. In the outfield Wolfe ranks in the top flight without an error this season.

* * * * * * * * *

It looks as if the Petes will have a taste of right-handed pitching tomorrow after having faced left-handers in their last six starts. Either Hughie Keon or Killy Goyer will probably do the heaving at Belleville, with Heckman on the mound for the Johnstonites.

* * * * * * * * *

Oshawa and Kingston, tied for second place, will hook up in a two-game series this week, and two red-hot battles should result. The first game is in Kingston tomorrow, with Cairns working for the Ponies against Dainty. The last time the two left-handers clashed the Ponies won 2 to 1, while Dainty had his revenge later on, beating Kingston 4 to 3 in a thirteen-inning duel, with Young, the Ponies' right-hander.

* * * * * * * * *

With Belleville here Saturday the fans are assured of another exciting tussle. The Railroaders may be tailenders, but they never play like it in Peterboro, and two of the hardest fights of the year at Riverside Park have been the pair of games already played with Belleville who split fifty-fifty with the Petes in the local series. Jeffrey, Belleville's leading pitcher, will probably be sent in against the Petes here, while Jeff Hardill may get the assignment for the homesters.

—F. D. C.

* * * * * * * * *

Saturday's game with Belleville will be the only home fixture until July 22, when Oshawa are scheduled to play a mid-week game here. Next week the Petes take the road for two games, playing in Kingston Wednesday and Oshawa on Saturday.

* * * * * * * * *

The consecutive hitting record of Hap Harrison and Del Cherry is still safe, the pair having come through in thirteen games in a row. Cherry left no doubt as his getting four safeties Saturday. At that his quartette of blows did not do as much damage as Ray Rose's double with the bases loaded.

* * * * * * * * *

The pitching averages show Cairns, the Kingston southpaw, leading the twirlers with five wins in six starts, while Al. Heckman and Frank Whitehouse of the Petes are close behind. The records, including Saturday's games, are as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Cairns, Kingston	5	1	.833

OUTLAWS STILL LEADING LEAGUE

Absence of Regular Players Shows That Subs Are Equally Good.

HYDRO WON.

CAMPBELFORD, July 7.— The Outlaw team still continue their winning streak. Even in the face of the fact their three best players were off the line-up last night and the W. and L. Com. were strengthened by additional reinforcements, the Outlaws were still able to come out on top, mainly due to the fact that their subs are as strong as their regular line-up. However, the W. and L. Com. were no mean contenders, as the score will show, and they will need watching before the season is out.

The Hydro easily took the Oddfellows into camp and are showing a well rounded out team. They will not be far behind the pennant winners when the drop of the curtain closes the season's activities in softball.

C.G.E. GIRLS DEFEAT OTONABEE MILLS

League Leaders Add Another Victory to Credit—Score 16-9.

The C.G.E. girls' team defeated the Otonabee Mills' nine 16 to 9 in a fast game in the Softball League played at the Central Park diamond last evening.

Miss Grier twirled nicely for the Electricians, while the Otonabee battery, Scott and Evans, alternated on the mound and behind the plate, each turning in good work. Miss Taylor, "the Long George Kelly" of the C.G.E. outfit, had two homers to her credit, but she fell down badly once when she appeared at the plate with the bases loaded and then struck out. Miss Jay, the Otonabee first sacker, also starred, her fielding being of exceptional class. She instituted a fast double play.

Score by innings:

C.G.E. Heading.

The C.G.E. are riding pretty on the top of the Girls' Softball League, with the Thistles and Woollens tied in second place and the Otonabees in the bottom berth. The C.G.E. team is composed of veterans, each a star from long practice in this and former seasons. The Thistles loom up as a real contender for the C.G.E. honors as champions, and the Woollens also have a big following. The Otonabees' play is improving vastly, and they may yet prove their strength.

To-morrow evening the fans are offered a good game when the fast Keene aggregation will hook up with the League - leading C.G.E. squad in a scheduled game. These farmerettes on the Keene team are real ball players, and have won a reputation for themselves by the string of victories they have won. While nothing need be said about the C.G.E. team. Alex. Kay will handle the game.

Girls' softball teams are being formed throughout the whole Peterboro district. The Indian girls at Hiawatha have a smart team who don the bloomers and middy just as their white sisters do. The young braves of the village give them a game as practice each evening after the day's guiding is done.

KEENE TEAM TO PLAY WOOLENS

Fast Team From Eastern Village Has Not Yet Been Defeated.

TO JOIN LEAGUE.

There will be a fast softball game to-night when the Keene girls, who have been sweeping all before them in the eastern part of the county, and who have yet to taste defeat, will meet the Woollens, of the Ladies' Softball League. The Woollens teams is one of the strongest in the league and a fast game should result.

Arrangements have been made whereby, it is expected, the Keene team will play in the local league, adding greatly to the interest and competition among the teams.

ONE HIT, ONE RUN OFF TREBILCOCK

Kiwanis Beat Rotary 10-1 and Are Now Leading Midget Series.

GOOD PITCHING.

One hit and one run was all that the Rotary midgets could collect off the fine pitching of "Dimp" Trebilcock, while the Kiwanis entry in the Midget series was collecting twelve hits and ten runs from the best efforts of "Lefty" Sturgeon.

Trebilcock pitched good ball. He struck out thirteen of the opposing batsman and in only two of the seven innings did more than three face him. In the fourth and sixth, he retired the side on strikes but in the latter frame the strikeouts were mingled with the Rotarians lone hit and his only charity, a poke in the ribs for pinch-hitter Hollingsworth. The Rotarians' only run resulted when, after Sowden missed an easy roller, McGee missed the last strike on Barrie and, in the carnival of throwing which ensued, Howden crossed the plate.

Sturgeon also hurled a nice game, striking out nine of the opposition. He depended more on his support, permitting them to fatten their fielding averages with 13 assists. Up until the last inning it was anybody's game but then the Kiwanians got to Sturgeon for five hits, which, with a couple of errors, were good for seven runs. A tendency to throw wild with men on the bases kept turgeon in hot water, he having three wild pitches marked against him, while his catcher had a couple passed balls and had to throw two strikeout victims out at first.

Some wicked work with the willow was done by the winners. Every man on the team except Jack Hall, a raw recruit from the Juniors, obtained at least one hit. Sowden with 3, and McDuffee and Dormer with 2 each were the leading batsmen.

A snappy double play on the part of each team helped subdue the baserunners when they became dangerous, although a little dumb baserunning helped in their execution. Solmes and Hall contributed flashy stops of hard hit balls, Solmes stopping a couple while off his balance that, while he was too late to throw out the batters, would otherwise have gone for doubles.

Pittsburgh Team Getting Good Pitching—Hold Two-Game Lead.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Pulling up to the half-way station it begins to look as if the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Washington Senators are to supply the amusement in the world's series next fall

There is an old legend of baseball, believed by all players who have any faith in superstition, that the two clubs in position No. 1 on July 4 will be in the same position when the race ends in October. There is no magic attributed to July 4, but it is taken merely as an arbitrary mid-season point, and the clubs are expected to be running in their real form with one-half the race behind them.

The Pirates, moving with full steam ahead, are holding a lead of two full games over the champion New York Giants and they are showing no signs of faltering. Good pitching, such as the Pirates have been getting, combined with some of the hardest hitting that a major league club ever has assembled, are keeping the Pittsburgh club out in front on merit.

The Pirates won six out of eight games last week and in the same time the Giants lost four out of seven games. McGraw's team is feeling the lack of steady pitching again and is not hitting enough to overcome that weakness of the defense.

The Brooklyn Robins played the best ball in the National league last week, winning six out of their seven games, while the Cincinnati Reds were having a terrible slump, winning only one out of their six games. The St. Louis Cards moved into the first division under the inspiring leadership of Rogs Hornsby.

In regaining the lead in the American league, the champion Senators played almost perfect ball in winning seven out of their last eight games. Three of the choice antiques of the game—Walter Johnson, Stan Covelskie and Dutch Reuther, are winning so many games for Washington that it looks like the Senators are an odds on choice for the pennant.

Pitching isn't the only thing in keeping the world's champions out in front. They are playing smart baseball and hustling.

The Philadelphia Athletics are hustling, too, of course, but the pitching is falling down. Lefty Groves is still unable to win a game and Sammy Gray has lost two games since he returned to the line-up. The team has also slowed up in its hitting, as was to have been expected when two or three players obviously were hitting over their heads in the early season.

The Athletics won only two of their last seven games. The Browns won five out of eight games last week and the Yankees won four out of seven.

SPORTS AT EXCURSION.

Bethany Tabernacle and Auburn Union School Prize Winners.

A fine programme of sports was furnished at the combined excursion on Friday last of Bethany Tabernacle and the Auburn Union Sunday School, held to Gore's Landing for dinner, with sports at Wallace Point. The game played between the young men of Auburn and of Bethany Tabernacle resulted in a final score for Auburn, one run in the lead.

A splendid programme of first-class music was supplied by the church orchestra, led by Mr. J. W. Boorman. The weather was ideal for the occasion, and a splendid time was recorded by all who attended. The following is the list of prize-winners in the various events:

Girls' races, 2 to 4 years—Anna McLeod and Winnie Glover; 5 to 7—Marion Curtis and Phyllis Pink; 8 to 11 years—Edna Calvert and Winifred Wood; 12 to 15 years—Elsie Gates and Ruby Curtis; 16 years and over—Minnie Hudson and Nellie Boorman.

Boys' races: 2 to 4 years—Clinton Curtis; 5 to 7 years—Philip Bristol and Norman Routly; 8 to 11 years—Edward Ascott and Gordon Armstrong; 12 to 15 years—Willie Millen and Buster Munden.

Young men—Edgar Simons and Ray Derrick.

Married men—Charlie Collins and Pastor Mills.

FRENCH WON DOUBLES.

Barotra and Lacoste Defeat American Pair.

WIMBLEDON, July 6.—France has won five finals honors in this year's all-England lawn tennis championships, the climax coming today when Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste won the doubles by defeating Ray Casey, of San Francisco, and John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, in a stirring five set match that required 56 games for decision. The score was 6-4, 11-9, 4-6, 1-6, 6-3.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French star, was crowned queen of the women's singles for the sixth time on Friday, by defeating Miss Joan Fry of England. Lacoste took the men's singles title from Borotra, and Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Elizabeth Ryan took the doubles from A. V. Bridge and Mrs. C. G. McIlquham, of England, on Saturday, while before the big match today, Mlle. Lenglen and Borotra took a two set mixed doubles from Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Baron de Morphugo, of Italy, 6-3, 6-3.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

A cure for a persistent hook is something to be found by playing a more open stance with the ball played back more. Jock Hutchinson often takes the ball from a point off his right heel, but the average player will find this to be awkward. Put it about midway between the feet or just slightly back of that. Keep the club-head low to the ground in the back swing and then swing the club on around behind you rather than up. Let the club take a natural swing with the arms. Many players get the club about half way back when they lift it uward instead of letting it swing on around and this practice in itself causes hooking and topping. When the ball is played back a better follow-through is sometimes obtained.

TENNIS TIPS

RECEIVING

After the ball is served (and we will suppose it is "good") it becomes the problem of the receiver to get it back over the net to his opponent and within the bounds of the court. That is, he must strike it in some way. If possible, he should strike the ball in the center of the racquet and, as a rule, the striker should not try to make a "kill" on returning the service. It is both difficult and risky tennis to do so.

Be content, at first, to get the ball back over the net. And, remember, there was never a player born who could lose if he could put every ball back over the net. Try to increase the percentage of balls you get back. William Larned, seven times national champion, used to say that he let his opponents beat themselves by making mistakes, while he was content to put the ball back over the net so they could have another chance to make a mistake.

In receiving, it is usually advisable to stand about three to four feet behind the base line (unless a very "ladylike" server is serving)—and stand about in the middle of a line drawn down through the service court. If a shot is played to your backhand, do not run around it and play it forehand, because in this way you foster and coddle your weakness. Play the shots as they come, using the correct stroke for that particular ball.

PICNIC HELD BY WARSAW ANGLICANS

Rain Held Off Long Enough for Sports to be Run Off.

WARSAW, July 7. — The Anglicans held their picnic on Mr. Thos. Cuffe's lawn on Wednesday afternoon; nearly all the congregation being present.

The sports, mostly races were over before the rain began.

The married men's race was won by Wm. Harborne, prize, box of chocolates; married women's, Mrs. Charles Foster, box of stationery; older boys, Gordon Cuffe, necktie; older girls, Evelyn Hawthorne, cushion top; younger boys, Archie Sinclair, ball; little girls, Madeline Clements, fancy handkerchief.

There was a baseball game in which all who wished took part.

Lunch was served in the house on account of the rain. The lunch was free to all and the children had their ice cream free.

Rev. Mr Cox gave a short address

A vote of thanks was given Mr. and Mrs. Cuffe for their kindness in giving the use of their lawn, field and house. Mrs Cuffe had the house very prettily decorated with flowers.

Lawn Social.

On Friday evening the United Church Sunday School held a lawn social to welcome the new minister, his wife and little daughter. Mr. Harrington comes from Cordova, where he was Methodist minister.

The tables were set on the lawn; ice cream and cake were served and for some time friendly conversation, during which Mr. and Mrs. Harrington met many of the people.

Mrs. James Greystock, who knew Mrs. Harrington as a little girl, and whose brother married Mrs. Harrington's sister, took special pains to have her meet those present.

A good programme was given in the church, consisting of recitations by Miss D. Lloyd and Mrs. Lloyd; solos by Mesdames Foster, Munro and Rufus Payne; a trio le quartette by Messrs Henry Batten, Clarence Watts, David Miller and Rufus Payne and adresses by Dr. Munro and Mr. Harrington.

EVOLUTION TRIAL EFFORT AT TRUTH

Age Old Search is to be Revived on July 10th.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Associated Press).—The age-old effort to define truth will be revived when Professor John T. Scopes, Tennessee evolutionist, has his day in court.

His indictment for teaching the Darwinian theory in public schools contrary to the statute has precedents which reach back for centuries. In America they date virtually from Plymouth Rock; in the world at large, from the dawn of the Christian era.

The now nationally known "Scopes case" is recognizably akin to prevailing differences between modernists and fundamentalists, which have increased with the rise of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

The last actual trial occurred in Cleveland, O., in May, 1924, when William Montgomery Brown, former Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, was pronounced guilty by a church court of holding beliefs at odds with the accepted doctrine of his denomination. He publicly avowed communism and so-called atheism.

In the '90's, Professor Charles T. Briggs, a Presbyterian seminarian of New York City, was charged with having expressed himself at variance with the Westminster Confession. The New York Presbytery cleared him, but the General Assembly of the church reversed the decision and pronounced a verdict of suspension.

Dr. Richard Heber Newton, a New York Episcopalian, of the same period, cut short charges against his "broad churchmanship" by demanding a formal trial. His demand was set, but the plaintiffs failed to appear.

David Swing of Chicago left the Presbyterian faith to preach independently in the '70's when those citing him for alleged heresy refused to abide by his acquittal at the hands of the Chicago Presbytery and threatened to appeal to the Synod.

Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, Sunday School worker, was haled before the Presbyterian authorities in San Francisco about 1870.

Theologians to survive heresy proceedings and gain what was reported as a firmer position were Horace Bushnell, Congregationalist of Hartford, Conn., in 1849; Prof. Philip Schaaf, whose acquittal in the German Reformed Church in 1845 was echoed for thirty-five years in the "Mercersburg controversy;" Lyman Beecher, father of Henry Ward Beecher, and Presbyterian pastor in Cincinnati, in 1835; and Rev. Albert Barnes, Presbyterian of Philadelphia, 1837.

The witchcraft delusion in Salem Village was the tragic climax of controversialism in Colonial days when nineteen were hanged and one "pressed to death" in A.D., 1692.

Henry Dunster was forced to resign as the first present of Harvard College in 1654 after he publicly doubted validity of infant baptism. He was also indicted by a grand jury as a heretic and sentenced to "a public admonition" and placed under bond for good behavior.

Samuel Gorton, religionist, about 1640 was virtually deported to England because of the unpopularity of his temperament and views. He returned to America under letter of safe conduct issued by the Earl of Warwick to the Massachusetts magistrates. Gorton's trouble started in Plymouth Colony when he came to the defense of his wife's servant who had smiled in church. He suffered successive banishments from Plymouth, Newport, Rhode Island and Boston. A sect which adopted his antinomianism survived him one hundred years, records show.

England was stirred in 1407 when Master William Thorpe, priest, was "examined of heresy" before Thomas Arundel, Archbishop of Canterbury and Lord Chancellor.

The first heretic of Christian times was Simon Magus, the magician, of Samaria, according to the writings of St. Alphonsus M. Liguori. Simon was cited in Acts of the Apostles as having attempted to buy the secret of the laying on of hands from the Apostles Peter and Paul. The sale of holy things ever afterward became known as "simony."

NORMAL TONSILS SHOULD BE KEPT

Perform Function of Protection Against Germ Invasion, Says Doctor.

TORONTO, Ont., July 4.—(By Canadian Press).—"Normal tonsils perform a function of protection against germ invasion. When tonsils are healthy, they should be kept and when they are not they should be restored, in all cases where it is possible,' said Dr. Charles M. LaRue of Columbus, Ohio, addressing the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryagology here on the last day of its convention.

"But the tonsil is a part of the lymphatic circulatory system, and when it becomes infected, it is simply an incubator for breeding dangerous bacteria which pass directly into the general lymph and blood circulations, and thus be supplied to any part of the body all the time. The benefits to be derived by the individual from the complete removal of badly infected tonsils cannot be overestimated.

Trench mouth is not uncommon in this country any more since so many soldiers contracted it on the other side, according to Dr. F. E. Burkholder of Sioux Falls, S.D. "In the treatment of this as in any other condition," he said, "the all-important thing is diagnosis. To make an accurate diagnosis of Vincent's angina or trench mouth, the microscope is indispensible as the appearance of the sore itself is exactly like that of follicular tansillities, or diphtheria or syphilis, according to conditions, and the germ itself must be isolated."

One reason that focal infection in the nose and its sinuces, is such a common cause of eye trouble, is their anatomical relationship, both to the socket of the eye, and to the optic nerve said Dr. H. C. Gilchrist of Detroit, Mich.

"The existance of infection in the noseor throat always constitutes an active possible cause of ear disease, and the wise aurist will not wait until it develops before urging rigid treatment to clean out any infection in the nose and throat," said Dr. A. C. Hardy of Kirksville, Mo.

Other speakers on today's program were Dr. George W. G. Goode of Boston, who demonstrated tochnic for the osteopathic adjustment of subluxations in the neck and upper back; Dr. J. D. Edwards of St. Louis who said that deafness resulting in muteness, if often due to the reattchment in the throat of a slight membrance closing the eustachian tube, which normally ruptures at birth.

Dr. T. J. Ruddy of Los Angeles spoke on finger technic in eye, ear, nose and throat diseases for the general practitioners and the specialist.

Today's session closed the four day meeting of the American Osteopathic Society of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology. This will be followed by a week's convention of the American Osteopathic Association.

BUMPER CROP IN PROGRESS

Increased Consumption of Sugar Indicates a Year of Large Production in All Lines.

According to local grain merchants, the prospects for a bumper crop this year are excellent. "Everything looks splendid for the best crop in years", is the assertion of one buyer, who recorded alsike, alfalfa and peas in this district as being especially promising, with fall and spring wheat both coming along in fine shape.

Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, speaking of general conditinos, also points to better times ahead. There is an encouraging atmosphere to the outlook, with a splendid volume of trade in wholesale grocery lines.

Two items which might be taken as index figures for general styles are down in price; flour and sugar. A lack of export demand keeps flour prices low. This is chronicled as a bad year for the millers, on account of the rapid and unexpected fluctuations in the markets which caught many of them with large supplies bought at a premium, facing a sliding scale. A decrease of 30 cents on the barrel in flour was registered last week. Prices on cereals, particularly rolled oats, are, on the contrary, on the increase.

A low sugar price in the preserving season should bring broad smiles to the face of every housewife. The sugar market at present is described by wholesalers as "nice", with a steady trend. Sugar, it appears, is an accomodating commodity. When the crop is large and prices are low, people eat more sugar, and when conditions are the reverse, they curb their appetities. So that a year of large production, like the one just ended, makes for decreased rates and also for increased consumption. In the United Kingdom, from October last to February of this year, sugar consumption increased by over 10% over the previous year, Holland increased over 12%, Germany over 50%, Poland nearly 30% and France over 8%.

Raisins and currants are the only two items whose prices will be affected by the coming into being on of the new Australian-Canadian trade treaty, recently ratified by the Senate after being passed in the Commons. Owing to large stocks on hand, prices have not yet been raised.

Dairy produce is up in price. Last year, at the beginning of June, butter was selling for 29 cents a pound. This year, it was priced at 34 cents and the increase is still being registered, until 38 to 40 cents is the general price in the stores at present. Eggs are also on the up grade.

In the wholesale fruit and vegetable lines, local garden stuff is coming in, in good quality and fairly cheap. Cabbages and beets, green peas, carrots and cauliflowers from district gardens roll in to the whole sale dispensary and roll out again to retail stores and to the households where they are finally consumed. Excess motion rules don't apply to the supplies which grace our tables at meal times.

Old potatoes are cheap, and still good, but the new spuds are fairly high in price, selling at a dollar more a barrel wholesale than at this time a year ago.

Lemons, which took such a precipitate flight skyward about a month ago, their wholesale price increasing from $4.50 for a box of 300 to a quotation of $12, have settled back to a comparatively fair price, at about $6.50 a box. In the stores, they may be purchased for 40 to 50 cents a dozen, just about half the price of a few weeks back.

In the stores too are the fruits of far-away gardens and orchards, pears and plums from California and peaches from Georgia canteloupes and watermelons from Florida. There is an abundance of cherries this year, the sweet Black Tartarians, the white Sweets, the red Early Richmonds, plentiful and cheap.

trawberries, drawing to a close, are on the up grade, their price having increased from this season's 'low' of 12 cents a box to 18 an 20 cents. Black cherries sell for $1.25 to $1.40 a basket, white Sweets at 75 cents to $1 ,and Richmonds sell at the same price. Peaches from California are 30 and 50 cents a dozen, pears are 40 to 50 cvents, and harvest apples from Illinois are 35 cents a measure, or $1.30 a peck.

String beans are in the list of table luxuries, priced at 50 cents a pound. Hothouse tomatoes are 40 cents a pound and field "love apples", as they used to be called, from Leamington, are 30 cents a pound.

CORONER'S JURY GIVES VERDICT

Find That Bell Died From Gunshot Wound at Hands of Unknown Party.

FOX UNDER ARREST.

TORONTO, July 7. — Canadian Press. — "We find that William Bell met his death by gunshot wound from party unknown t. us."

So read the open verdict returned by a coroner's jury last night after a brief deliberation.

Bell, it will be recalled, was an employee of the W. A. Dallimore service station, and was on duty in the office when he was shot down by a bandit. Much evidence was adduced by the Crown as to Fox's domestic relations with his wife after his release from Kingston penitentiary, where he had served a five year term for burglary, and as to Bell's alleged intimacy with Mrs. Fox while her husband was still a convict.

"Fox said when he got him (Bell) he would hit him once, and he would never get up any more," was one of the threats alleged by Mrs. Elizabeth Dicks, Fox's mother-in-law, to have been made by James Fox, in the presence of herself and her daughter,

Around The City.

The band concert, while providing a great counter attraction, did not prevent the assembly of a large gathering around the Gospel Hall song service in Central Park on Sunday night. The promise of hearing Mr. Bentley sing, in his pleasant voice, the old favorite "The ninety and nine" was sufficient to draw a good programme of gospel songs, in good programem of gospel songs, in solos, duets and quartettes filled out a most attractive and interesting service of song.

A great improvement has been made in the appearance of some of the mail boxes, and shortly all will be fixed up. The old unsightly method of slinging them to a post by means of wires has been discarded and a neater, more permanent method has been employed. Each box is now fastened to a board and the boards are nailed to the posts. When a new coat of the familiar red paint has been applied to the boxes and boards the outfit will present a much better appearance.

The trek to Nicholls Oval still continues. Two parties called last night, looking for the animals in the zoo there, only to learn they had been taken away.

Mr. A. Mowat announces that results of this year's entrance examinations will appear early next week.

GERMAN PAPER LAUDS WILSON

Says, "If the World Wishes to Live in Peace It Must Return to Wilson's Theories."

BERLIN, July 7 (Associated Press)—Gradual exoneration of President Woodrow Wilson, "whose reputation had been badly injured by the Treaty of Versailles" is pointed out by the Frankfurter Zeitung in its review of a book compiled by Theodore Hahn covering the statements, writings and publications of the American war president.

The Frankfurter Zeitung says "this gradual exoneration is keeping pace with the growing realization of the dangers today besetting European politics by the very general disregard for his ideas. If the world wishes to live in peace it will have to return to Wilson's theories."

Triple Tragedy At Corunna When Three Children Drown

SARNIA, July 7.—(Canadian Press).—The toll of deaths by drowning in the St. Clair River was raised to five in two days by a triple tragedy near Corunna, about six miles from this city, last night. The victims were James Falconer 16, Margaret Falconer 7, both of Petrolia, and James Bell, 9, of River Road. They were out in a row boat and were returning to shore when the boat capsized a few feet from the dock from some unknown cause.

Edith Bell, a sister of one of the victims, was rescued by Robert Bell, who was standing on the dock, but he was unable to reach any of the others before they disappeared.

The body of Margaret Falconer was recovered, but dragging has so far failed to locate the other two bodies.

The other two fatalities occurred on Sunday when Lloyd and Clifford Andrew, brothers, of this city, were drowned while bathing.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Rust Reports Set Wheat Prices Mounting Again

CHICAGO, July 7 (Canadian Press)—Unfavorable reports about black rust development led to higher prices for wheat today in the early dealings. Adverse crop reports came from widely scattered territory northwest and together with higher Liverpool quotation gave the market a decided upward trend. Buying was of no great volume, but on the other hand offerings were scarce. The opening 1-8 to 1c higher, Sept. 141 7-8 to 142 1-4, and Dec. 143 1-2 to 144, was followed by slight reaction and then by rise which carried September to 143 1-4 and December to 144 3-4. Corn and oats went up with wheat. After opening 1c off to 7-8c up Sept. 101 to 101 1-4 corn sagged a little but later scored gains all around. Oats started at 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher, Sept. 45 7-8 to 46. Later all months showed some advance. Lower quotations on hogs pulled down provisions.

Winnipeg Railway Still Leads On Toronto 'Change

TORONTO, July 7 (Canadian Press)—Winnipeg Railway continued the market leader on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, but some slight reaction took place. Opening at 5 1 1-2, Winnipeg receded to 50 1-2 and closed at noon at a net loss of a point and a quarter. British Columbia Fishing and Brazilian were also prominent, the former closing at 45 1-4, up 3-4, and Brazilian also holding steady at 55 1-2 to 7-8. Elsewhere trading was light, though some dealing took place in Canada Bread "B" preferred stock, which after easing a quarter point closed at noon unchanged at 86. Consolidated Smelters sold steadily at 85, a quarter point advance.

Dividend Expectations Raise Prices Of Stocks

NEW YORK, July 7.—(Canadian Press).—Bullish sentiment predominated during the morning with leaders brought forward whenever the old favorites showed signs of wavering on profit-taking.

'Frisco Common, on which a higher dividend is expected before the end of the year, led the brisk upturn in southern and south-western rails by touching a record top at 85. Coppers responded to a reported increase in European demand for the red metal by moving up 1 to 3 points the special strength of Kennecott being based on expectations of an increased dividend. Virginia-Carolina Chemical Preferred recorded a sharp gain in anticipation of an early announcement of re-organization plans, and Pierce-Arrow Prior Preferred, F. G. Shattuck and U.S. Industrial Alcohol extended their early gains to 2¼ to 4 points before noon. Mack Trucks turned heavy on the announcement that Common stock-holders would be given the right to subscribe for $75,000 additional shares at par. Call money renewed at 4 per cent.

Steady Trading In Mines On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, July 7.—(Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was steady this morning with transactions numbering 110,576 shares. Seventy-three thousand shares of Algonquin were traded in at 2½, while Argonaut also showed considerable activity, selling ½ point higher at 26¼. Barry Holly was down 2 points to 42 and Vipond advanced one point to 106, as did also Castle Trethewey at 86. McKinley Darragh made fractional advance to 29, while Victory Silver sold one point down to 7.

GREAT VARIETY IN HEAT DEVICES

Thermometers Say Temperature Varies 14 Degrees in a Short Block.

NO TWO ALIKE.

If the temperature of day were to become as important a factor as the time of day there would necessarily result a greater standardization of heat gauging devices as was shown by an inspection of advertising thermometers carried on today in the vicinity of George Street.

While the mercury of an official looking instrument rested at 75 not a solitary column corroborated the statement. As a matter of fact no instrument recorded the same temperature as any other instrument but all observed showed a fine sense of independence and no desire whatever to copy the results achieved by neighboring devices.

The heat recorded, varied from 64 degrees, a declaration by Purity First, to 78 which height was achieved by an upstanding specimen labelled Telegram and it must be admitted that the mercury in this case must have been merely conforming in its sensational statement to teachings which must have been inculcated in its early youth.

Excelsior Life also made a high mark of 77 and as it recorded the figure one could almost hear it intone the famed words of the ballad "Excelsior."

Furnace Ad Low

On the other hand Durham Heating cheerfully proclaimed it to be 68 degrees in an evident desire to assure the populace that the furnaces should be in active operation. Soon the thermometers will be scanned with greater apprehension than is observed at present.

Old Chum, Stephens Inks, and Dyspepsia Tablets approximated the true state of affairs when they placed their estimates at 73, 72 and 76 degrees, respectively, while Barrie's was also near the mark at 74.

These little diversions all lend a pleasing versatility to mercury gymnastics and if the heat recorders do prove variable they should be lauded for their entertaining intentions and not be taken too seriously by a critical public.

REHABILITATE FRANC.

PARIS, July 7. — (Canadian Press).—Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux announced last night that he will head a commission to the United States to negotiate a gold loan for France, as well as to deal with inter-allied debts. Following Premier Painleve's July 4 declaration in favor of "a Dawes plan for France," Caillaux's announcement that he will seek funds in the United States is interpreted to mean that he intends to ask aid of American financiers on rehabilitating French finances and stabilizing the franc as well as in restoring devastated regions.

TRADE TREATY CREATES BOND OF NEW UNITY

Representatives of Canada and British West Indies Affix Signatures to Pact.

TARIFF PREFERENCE.

Canada Gets Preferential Tariff on Farm Produce, West Indies on Tropical Fruits.

OTTAWA, July 7. — (Canadian Press).—A new bond of unity between the component parts of British America was created with the signature, shortly after midnight, of a trade treaty between Canada and British West Indies. Signatories for Canada were Right Hon. George Graham, Hon. James A. Robb, Hon. Thomas A. Low and Hon. J. E. Sinclair, and for the West Indies six or seven representative men from 30 delegates from those islands present during negotiations.

The full text of the treaty will be cabled to London, and to-night it will be released for publication Wednesday morning simultaneously in Canada, Great Britain and the West Indies. Under the new agreement increased tariff preferences and better steamship services are to be mutually granted. Increased preferences to Canada are mainly on agricultural products, fish, lumber and articles of which the produce of the land forms a basic part, such as flour, dairy products meats, boots and shoes and cordage. Canada grants the West Indies and other colonies preferential treatment on tropical fruits, bananas, cocoa, sugar and other products. The West Indies grants to Canada substantial increases on such products as butter, cheese, lard, apples, potatoes, meats, confectionery, cement, lumber, boots and shoes, flour, and cordage.

GAME OF PUTTING GOLF'S OFFSPRING

New Pastime Evolved From Ancient and Honorable Sport Gives Pleasure.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 7. —(Canadian Press.)—The progress of sport has shown that out of all athletic pastimes particular features have often been selected and have themselves been developed in a new form and gradually into a new branch of sport altogether, and in this respect golf is no exception. Scotland, the "fons et origo" of the "gowfin' game," has taken the art of putting and by a process of evolution putting has now become a separate department from golf. It has developed into a pastime all its own and putting greens have been established all over the country, giving pleasure to countless thousands.

Competitions have already been inaugurated and prizes put up. The new game has been taken up with enthusiasm in offices, workshops and warehouses. In Edinburgh the game has taken a firm hold, and last year Bailie J. D. Philip Smith, who is honorary president of the Brunsterfield Putting Club, presented a silver putter for annual competition among the various clubs. This year the competition takes place on the Brunterfield links and will be played in four-ball foursomes.

Weddings

CROFT—JOSLIN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's Church at four o'clock this afternoon when Theresa, eldest daughter of Mrs. F. M. Joslin, 483 Elm Street, and the late Mr. Joslin, became the bride of Francis H. Croft, son of Mrs. G. Davis, 309 Burnham Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Langford.

The bride was charming in a gown of poudre blue georgette, heavily beaded, with large hat to match and bouquet of ophelia roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. S. C. Joslin, wore poudre blue georgette, caught with rosebuds, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. S. C. Joslin supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, attended by a large number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Croft, who received a number of handsome gifts, left later for a honeymoon trip. They will reside in Rochester, N.Y.

CLANCY—McCALL.

A pretty wedding took place at 8 o'clock this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Daisy May, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McCall, 507 Bethune Street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Joseph Vincent Clancy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clancy, Hunter Street East. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Moloney.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white flat crepe with orange blossoms catching the skirt draperies. Her hat was a petalled shape of white flat crepe and she carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marita Grisdale, was attired in orchid crepe de chine, with hat of the same and bouquet of columbia roses.

Mr. Michael Clancy, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

The wedding march was played by Miss L. Hurley, and, during the ceremony, Mr. J. Minicolo sang an Ave Maria.

A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to about forty-five guests. The bride's table and the rooms were decorated with a profusion of daisies, roses and Canterbury bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Clancy left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for Windsor, followed by a trip down the Saguenay River. The bride travelled in a dress of French voile, in poudre blue and black, with black felt hat touched with blue embroidery.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a beaded bag, to the bridesmaid a gold vanity case, and to the best man a fountain pen. The young people received a quantity of beautiful gifts, which included a cabinet of silver from the staff of the Peterboro Lock Works, where the bridegroom is employed.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Clancy will reside in Peterboro.

ELM STREET IS PROLIFIC

Short Thoroughfare Guiltless of Race Suicide, Says Directory Official.

105 CHILDREN

There is no such thing as race suicide on Elm street. It's a safe bet that if fifty per cent. of the inhabitants of that thoroughfare were asked if they knew the meaning of the term they would vigorously deny such an insinuation.

According to the directory official who is at present occupied in making his annual round of the city, Elm street has no less than one hundred and five children, between the ages of five and seventeen years, who are attending school. The total was high enough to arouse the outspoken admiration of a man who might be regarded as blase in the work of compiling facts and figures of such a nature.

Elm street is a short street, not more than two blocks long, and the 1924 directory gives it fifty-one dwelling places with only four vacant houses in the list. Taking into consideration the number of adults who reside there and others who are not of school age, Elm street is certainly doing its bit in helping to populate and also, it may be observed, to educate the young Dominion.

Seven Scholarships In Five Year Course.

"The Souris Plaindealer," of Souris, Manitoba, runs a cut and the following article, with regard to the scholastic success of one of Souris' citizens, Dudley S. A. Young, nephew of Dr. T. W. H. Young of this city:

"Dudley S. A. Young, only son of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. A. L. Young, whose graduation from Manitoba University was announced last week, is possibly one of the most successful students the Souris district has ever produced. Born here in 1904, he attended the Public School and Collegiate, won honors in every grade, and in his final year was awarded the Governor-General's medal. Last month he completed a brilliant five-year course at the Manitoba University, winning in all seven scholarships. He graduated with 1A standing, won the University gold medal for the highest marks in the final year, and was awarded the Hudson Bay Fellowship of $1,500 for research work in science. This, we understand, he has decided to decline as he has already accepted a position as one of the assistant electrical engineers on the Winnipeg Hydro system, his thesis on the Standby Plant and Central Heating System having won first prize from the Canadian Institute of Civil Engineers."

Use Fierce Gold Fish To Fight Mosquito Torments

FORT WADSWORTH, Staten Island, N.Y., July 8 — (United Press). — An effective antidote for the swarms of New Jersey mosquitoes that have made life miserable for the soldiers stationed here has been discovered after endless experiments.

The goldfish which have been placed in the reservation pond have ended the insects' siege, according to army officers. The mosquitoes have ceased to breed since the water was stocked with the second cousins of the carp.

BOOZE FLEET AT PORT COLBORNE

Liquor Armada To Attempt Dash To The American Side.

17 VESSELS READY.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., July 8. The largest rum armada ever seen in these waters is mobilized and loading here for a dash to the dry frontiers of the United States.

In all, there are 17 craft of many types, ranging in cargo capacities from 250 to more than 1,000 cases of ale, or liquor. It is estimated that the total value of the combined cargoes is more than $250,000.

There are powerful launches, lean, fast cutters and just ordinary every-day motorboats. The vanguard of the armada began to arrive last week. Every day, one or more has joined the mobilization.

A system of espionage on coastguard chasers, dry agents and custom officers is maintained by bootleggers on both sides of the river and wig-wagging with lights is in evidence nightly.

News to Coastguard.

BUFFALO, July 8—Captain R. F. Crowley, of the coastguard, said the mobilization of the rum armada was news to him. He said he would send scouts out immediately to check up on reports.

FEWER CANADIANS CROSSING BORDER

U. S. Report for Montreal District Indicates Decline.

MONTREAL, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—A decrease in immigration of Canadians to the United States is indicated by figures in the annual report of the United States Immigration Commissioner of the Montreal district.

Residents of Canada entering the United States for permanent residence during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, at border points from Halifax to Cape Vincent, N.Y., totalled 49,047, as against 77,624 for the previous year.

Eighty per cent. of the 49,047 were Canadians.

Arrests for violation of the immigration laws in the district were 379 and convictions were obtained against 343.

Patrol inspectors on the border captured 47 smugglers and 369 persons being smuggled. They also seized 109 automobiles containing 6,000 bottles of intoxicants.

BRITON'S BABY PLANE

Man Can Lift It, Flies 70 Miles An Hour.

LONDON, July 8. — A baby airplane lighter than any previously produced, which can be lifted by a man of ordinary strength, will be by F. H. Wallis, a young designer at by F. H. Walli, a young designer at Portslade, near Brighto . "Flying for the million is the motto inspiring the young man.

The airplane will be flown by a 6-horse power motorcycle engine. The wing span is 20 feet and the plane measures 16½ feet from the engine to the rudder. The expected speed is 65 to 70 miles an hour and the landing speed 25 miles an hour.

First started as a spare time job the young inventor and two helpers are now devoting all their time to the machine. "If a success I think we can produce these planes for $1000 each, the price of a light motor car," he said to-day. "I estimate the flying will cost one cent a mile and a four gallon petrol tank will give a range of 300 miles.

Eighteen Palaces To Be Sold By Vienna Nobles.

BERLIN, July 8—A large proportion of the Austrian nobility has gone bankrupt.

This is glaringly shown by the fact that no less than eighteen palaces in and around Vienna have been placarded for sale, according to a news despatch.

Many of these are offered through foreign legations, notably the American, in hope that American millionaire purchasers may aspire to own an estate or palace. The prices range from 4,500,000,000 to 15,000,000,000 crowns.

TROOPS CALLED BY NOVA SCOTIA

Dominion Government Had Nothing To Do With It Says Mr. Gordon.

SPOKE IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government had nothing whatever to do with the sending of troops to the troubled mining districts of Nova Scotia' declared George N. Gordon, deputy speaker of the House of Commons, at a gathering of the Toronto Men's Liberal Association yesterday.

By an amendment made to the Militia Act some four years ago, he said, the Attorney-General of each province if he foresaw danger to life or property from any threatened trouble, was empowered to appeal directly to the officer commanding the regular troops without going near the Militia Department. The province thus assumed the responsibility and became at once liable for all expenses incurred in connection with the employment of troops for patrol or other purposes. He added that the Empire Steel Company was incorporated under the laws of Nova Scotia, and here again the Federal authorities had no power to interfere with any procedure it might follow.

Mr. Gordon's remarks followed an earnest appeal by W. J. McPherson, General Organizer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, that the Dominion government take some action towards settling the dispute. Mr. McPherson drew a touching picture of conditions among the miners and their families and said that hundreds of children were in actual need of the first necessities of life.

Supported Betting Bill.

Touching upon the recent session of the Dominion Houe, Mr. Gordon referred to legislation that had been nullified by action of the Senate. Regarding the bill on racing information he said the House was united in its support of legislation that would check one of the greatest evils working to the detriment of the Canadian people. Hon. Mr. Lapointe's bill, he said, had the approval of the best interests in the country. Heads of manufacturing concerns favored it, as they realized the ravages of the betting habit among their employees. All who made a study of the welfare of the Canadian people had given their influence to the passing of Mr. Lapointes measure. H declared that members of the Cabinet, including himself, had tried to persuade the Senate to accept the bill and why it did not do so remained a mystery to him.

Regarding soldiers' pensions and general welfare, he continued, the House had adopted what it had considered advanced legislation, but again the Senate had nullified the good work accomplished; and the reasons given he considered totally inadequate. Mr. Gordon announced that this fall a conference would be held, and that next session legislation based upon decisions reached and upon the report of a committee which had been presented to the House, would be introduced.

Sees Big Crop Prospect

The Deputy Speaker said that with the enormous national debt and the expense connected with the National Railways it was obvious that every source of revenue must for a time, be made use of. In the face of this, he added, there could not be any great change in the essential features of the tariff. He spoke with optimism of the outlook in the west, with its practical assurance of a record crop.

PREFERENCE TO CANADIAN GOODS BY WEST INDIES

Details of Trade Agreement To Be Made Public On Thursday.

SUBSIDIZE SHIPS.

Canada to Give Indies Tariff Advantages On Some Natural Products.

OTTAWA, July 8 (By Canadian Press)—The Canada - West Indies trade agreement, details of which will be made public Thursday, prepares the way for greatly extended trade between the Islands and the Dominion. Trade will be extended by mutual preferential tariffs and by steamship subsidies to which both parties will contribute.

Canada will benefit by increased market facilities in receiving tariff preferences on flour, lumber, boots, butter, cheese, meats, apples and cement. It is understood that lumber and boots will have a two-thirds preference; butter, $1.50 a hundred; Meats, $1.50 a barrel; apples, 50 cents a barrel and fish, 50 cents per hundred.

West Indian products entering Canada will receive approximately a 25 per cent. preference, and in the case of bananas, already admitted free, the tariff against other countries will be increased. It is also notable that sugar will be under this general preference. Grapefruit, spices, coffee, raw cocoa and limes are on the free list. Rum has a two-thirds preference.

Speculations as to the amount of the steamship subsidy and the nature of the service vary. Some estimates of the amount to be contributed by the Islands for the improved steamship service are as high as $200,000, others $125,000. In any event, it is understood, that ships of a 5,000 or 6,000 ton capacity, with passenger and cold storage accommodation, will provide a fortnightly service all the year round. The agreement, which was signed last night, is subject to the ratification of parliament and will come into effect upon a date to be mutually agreed upon by the contracting parties. As signed, it provides for a ten-year contract which can be terminated thereafter on a years' notice.

WAR VETERANS TO HONOR DEAD

First Decoration Parade To St. Peter's Cemetery on Sunday.

NEW FEATURE.

Peterborough Great War Veterans will hold their annual decoration services at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Cemetery on Sunday next, July 12, and will on the following Sunday decorate the graves of comrades in Little Lake Cemetery. The programme has been prepared and indications point to the biggest attendance of veterans in the history of the city.

There has of late years been a reviving interest in the different public parades of war veterans, both among the veterans themselves and among citizens generally. The Armistice Day services last year drew a huge crowd, and there was a big muster of uniformed men for the Church parade to St. Luke's Church in April.

On Sunday next the veterans will parade at the G.W.V.A. hall at 1.45, with the Peterborough Rangers and Salvation Army bands in attendance under Lieut. Peryer and bandmsater Robinson respectively. A selection will be played by the bands, during which time flowers may be placed on the Cenotaph. This will be followed by a salute to the flag, and at 2 o'clock the veterans will march off. The monument in Central Park to Capt. Brown will be first decorated, when the parade will proceed to St. Peter's Cemetery, where the service will be under the direction of Captain Paul Costello. On the return march the parade will be dismissed at the corner of Park and Albert streets.

The program for the ceremony at Little Lake Cemetery will be published next week.

A New Feature

A new feature that strikes a note of apparent fitness will be introduced this year, when the roll will be called of all Peterborough's service men who have died. It was suggested that to each name the survivors of Peterborough's war veterans answer "Present," but because of great number of names, and the length of time necessary to call the roll, a more suitable response may be arranged.

Modern Young Englishman Is a Snob and a Fool Says London Express In Denunciation Of Type.

LONDON, July 8 (United News)—There is something wrong with the modern young man between the age of 18 and 23 years, The Daily Express is positive, but what it is and why, the newspaper is not sure.

So great has the army of ultra modern, patent leather haired, ballooned trousered English youths become, that The Daily Express has decided that it is indeed time to do something about this counterpart of the Amerisan post war "cake eater."

"Everyone with eyes must be familiar with this new type of young Londoner, who is a veritable social phenomenon," The Daily Express declares editorially. "There is something wrong with him between the ages 18 and 23, and his distinctive characterstic is a lack of masculinity.

"Hostesses find him an affected nincompoop, while he does not even appeal to girls, nor they to him. At first we laugh at him, but he is becoming a cult.

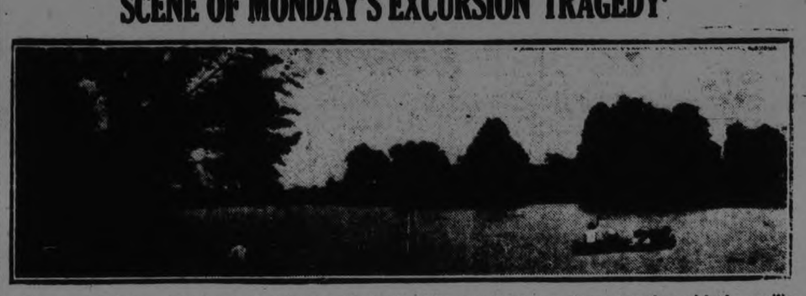
"His exaggerated dress is the least of his peculiarities. His voice is weary and affected, his pose is feminine, his outlook anemic and his general attitude toward life is bloodless.

"This vain, self centered, unworthwhile creature is interested to a ridiculous extent in nicetes and unimportant snobberies of life. It isn't suggested that he is sexually depraved yet, the altiture of his mind is not normal.

"Is he a social curiosity due to the war? The dandies of the time of George IV. were men, but he is an exquisite without being masculine. His languid poise, his silly, clipped, weary voice, his affected gesture, even the perfume which he has begun to employ, can be seen any place in London.

"He is a snob and a fool and wouldn't be worth discussing except that some persons consider him symptomatic of modern life."

SCENE OF MONDAY'S EXCURSION TRAGEDY



The peaceful little artificial lake in Pinafore Park, St. Thomas, is shown above, together with the pavilion built for the convenience of picnickers. The lake, which was formed by damming a creek and thus flooding a deep gully, is only a stone's throw across in places, but it winds along through the surrounding hills. Boats have for many years been rented to picnickers who desire to row on the lake, but swan-boats were introduced only during the past week. It was in an improvised type of one of these craft that seven children and one woman lost their lives Monday night. This portion of the park was formerly owned by the St. Thomas zoo, which, however, sold out recently.

ELECTION WILL BE DURING FALL

Ottawa Report Says October or December Will See General Vote.

DELAY PERILOUS

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—A report from Ottawa says:

A Federal general election will be held this fall. The question has passed the stage of conjecture, the actual time is for the King ministry to determine. October is the month most frequently mentioned, with December as the only alternative. So that it is quite within the realm of possibility that not more than two months will elapse before the dissolution of the fourteenth parliament. This latter step may be even expected early in September, and, with forty-five days provided by the amended Dominion Elections Act to elapse before the actual machinery of the election is set in motion, the contest itself possibly may occupy the middle part or the latter part of October. "It is held by those who are pulsing the situation that this Fall is the logical time for the contest, and that to wait until after another session of parliament would be to court an exceedingly perilous situation. With the prorogation of this last session many members felt that it was the end of this parliament."

FERGUSON TO TOUR BRITAIN

LONDON, Eng., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, who has been visiting the battlefields on the Continent, will return to London tomorrow to attend the annual meeting of which Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., is chairman.

Premier Ferguson will leave for Devonshire after the meeting of the Nickle Company. On July 17 he will attend the Duke of York's garden party at St. James's Palace.

Later he will visit Scotland and probably Ireland.

APPOINTMENT MADE

TORONTO, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, this morning announced the appointment of Major Evan E. Fraser, of Niagara Falls, and a former member of the Ontario Legislature, as registrar for the County of Welland. Major Fraser was overseas with the Canadian railway transport troops.

Change Route Of Walk To Help Roman Catholic.

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—Out of consideration for Peter Ryan, well known Roman Catholic, who is lying ill, the route of the Orange parade in Toronto next Saturday has been changed. For years the parade has gone past Mr. Ryan's house, but it was thought the playing of the bands would be hurtful to him. He has always had decorations up for his friends in the parade.

CONFLAGRATION IN GLASGOW AS MAJESTIC TEMPLES FALL PREY TO SIX SEPARATE FIRES AT ONCE

City's Exhibition Buildings, Covering Several Acres, Among The Ruins.

KELVIN HALL GONE.

Kelvin Grove United Free Church, Quarter Mile Away Also Destroyed.

GLASGOW, July 8 (Canadian Press).—One of the biggest fires in the history of Scotland last night destroyed Kelvin Hall and the corporation's exhibition buildings, covering several acres, while one of Glasgow's finest churches, the Kelvin Grove United Free Church, was gutted. The church, which is a reproduction in miniature of the famous Rheims Cathedral, is a quarter of a mile distant from where the fire broke out, and was ignited by sparks. Two huge towers fronting on the street crashed to the ground and the whole roof caved in.

Flames from Kelvin Hill spread to Blantyre Street, the tenants being obliged to flee for safety. At one time, six separate fires were blazing.

Glasgow's art galleries, containing priceless treasures are located opposite Kelvin Hall and were saved only by the fact that the wind was blowing in the other direction.

So far as is known, there were no casualties.

Divorces, Flappers, Birth Control; All Condemned.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. — (Canadian Press)—The Catholic Daughters of America, in resolutions prepared for presentation to their convention here today, deplore the laxity of the civil courts in granting divorces, oppose birth control, criticize the present-day customs of young women, and call for a return to the ideals and customs of a decade ago.

An anti-flapper resolution offers a number of practical suggestions for working girls to take the place of the flapperish mode of living.

WILLARD HEAD OF OSTEOPATHS

Montana Doctor Is New President. Diet Lecture Given.

SWEETS NOT FOOD.

TORONTO, July 8. — Canadian Press. — Dr. Asa Willard of Missoula, Montana, was to-day elected President of American Osteopathic Association in convention here.

To-day's sessions were addressed by Dr. Perrin T. Wilson of Boston, Mass., and Dr. Karl Johnson.

Sweets for children were deprecated in the public health lecture of the association.

"Eat green vegetables, whole wheat bread, good milk and butter and escape disease," was the advice of Dr. Karl Johnson, who spoke on "Foods."

BRITAIN COULD GET BUSINESS

Canadian Tells Advertisers That Canada Prefers British Trade.

FOURTH IN WORLD.

LONDON, July 8 (Canadian Press Cable)—J. S. McKinnon, Canadian Director of Industrial Exhibits at the British Empire Exhibition, speaking at a convention of British advertising men at Harrogate, Yorkshire, today said that while Canada lived in the greatest harmony with United States, the Canadian people would rather do business with Great Britain.

Great Britain could get a good deal of Canada's trade amounting to £102,000,000 which she now did with the United States if the effort were made, Mr. McKinnon said.

While before the war Canada was the tenth country in the world in the matter of foreign trade, she is now in fourth place, Mr. McKinnon said.

VICTIMS BURIED.

Funeral Services Follow Boston's "Dance of Death."

BOSTON, July 8. — Gangsters, taxicab drivers, sailors and pale women in shoddy black, moved hesitantly through the funeral services for Boston's "dance of death" victims yesterday, while and city officials continued to wrangle over responsibility for the catastrophe which cost 43 lives early on Saturday morning.

Most of the victims were buried in humble graves for the notorious "Pickwick Club' whose members were swept to sudden death in the collapse of the old Dreyfi Hotel building drew its guests for the fatal party largely from the citys underworld.

Two score of witnesses have been summoned before the Suffold county grand jury.

GOB HATS BRING NEW FASHION TO PETERBOROUGH FROM U. S.

Only Those Are Immune Who Object to Mob Methods of Dress.

SKIRTS UP-DOWN

Men's Fashions Are Not a Whit Less Freakish—Some Cases.

After all these years Gob hats have arrived in Petrborough—and not only arrived, but they have swept through the confines of the city like a plague and have taken their toll of old and young alike. None seem immune and there is apparently no inoculation by which the spread may be checked.

One day drygoods stores were noticed, their windows filled with the gobbish American gear and the next day the population of Peterborough must go strutting jauntily about capped with the nobby United States importation.

Like all fads, it must run its course, scorned only by those who constitutionally object to mob methods of dress and actions, while those who are so constructed that they must keep pace with the best efforts of the Joneses will heartily endorse the Gob hat and will continue to wear it sedulously until some new attraction crops up, when perforce the Gob hat will fade, becoming a relic of a hectic past.

May such a day speedily come, is the wish of many who while tolerant of the States, dislike, the wholesale adoption of their ideas by freethinking Canadian.

And, incidentally, the Gob hat calls to mind other ideas which have run their gamut and faded into oblivion.

Skirts, within a period of one year, have traversed the limits of length and brevity. A year ago, of sweeping length and voluptuous fulness, now of such a brevity as to make them an almost negligible and indiscernable element of the feminine wardrobe.

Brilliant-Hued Shoes.

In the Spring there blossomed, together with other things which were natural, a horde of pumpkin colored shoes. Black had hitherto been the only accepted shade in pedal gear, but the first males appearing in the flame colored leather upholstery were greeted with a soprano chorus of approval which quickly popularized the shade to such an extent that all others became automatically obsolete.

The ladies then appeared in mannish styles and accordingly there was much bobbing of hair and thinning of figures to fit the new mode which demanded a general lithe and lissome construction. Masculine blouses and suits topped with Prince of Wales coats became the correct thing, while the occasional swagger stick was borne to lend the impression that milady had been riding in the park or was about to ride in the park.

Long under-arm purses are having their day, together with countless bracelets which lend a decidedly Cleopatrian air to the young lady as she steps forth for the purpose of making an impression. Long ear rings enjoyed prominence for a time, which would give a Canadian citizen the idea that he was traversing the wilds of Patagonia.

Men Have Innings.

Now that the men are all smiling with a supercilious mien, they will now form the subject of discussion.

How about the bell bottoms which flopped their way through a term of years, and the country was manned by an aggregation of fandango artists with trousers tight of knee and wide of bottom, frequently decked with lace and pearl buttons?

Flat hats moulded into fancy shapes were the accompaniment of bell bottoms and shieks vieid nightly on crowded dance hall floors in a complication of Tango steps to say nothing of privately owned inventions.

Oxford bags followed capacious trousers designed to hide any distinctive shape which might compliment masculine nether, appendages, while the coats are of a tightness which throw the torso into high relief.

In the spring Prince of Wales hat, were pre-eminent, a type of headgear especially designed so that the vision would be partially obscured. This type of headgear was effective as used by swains who practised the art of ogling young ladies from underneath the chapeau's drooping brim. The young men knew that they were lending a distinct thrill to what might ordinarily be a dull routine day.

Mah Jongg, that dark Oriental game about which no one knows anything, left its character on apparel, and society people appeared in costumes which when translated meant, "The South Wind" or "The North Wind" or any of the other two winds as the case may be. Ties, socks and 'kerchiefs were all stamped and embroidered with the Cabalistic heiroglyphics.

Cross word puzzles have not occupied the attention of the world without leaving their impress on the world's wardrobe. Cross word nats, stockings, blouses, blazers, jumpers and middies have all conformed to the craze and garments which swept nations crazy, and garments must suffer the imprint of the popular cross word pastime.

Funny that no one has ever thought of putting the music of a great oratorio or a chapter out of a well-known book on a shirt.

Why could not the picture of a new building or some other architectural marvel be blazoned on the pocket handkerchiefs and neckties of a nation?

While these ideas may not have occurred to designers it is quite possible that the innovation will now be carried out and one will be able to hum his favorite aria or read his favoured poetry while in the course of his everyday duties.

Heretofore the prisoners have received a cent and a half for a ten hour day, or nine cents per week. In the future they will be paid a nickel a day so that a two year sentence will net them $30.

EARLIER DATES FOR OTTAWA EXHIBITION

Creatore and His Band As One of Many Features of the Big Fair.

Earlier dates than usual have been selected for the Ottawa Exhibition.

For many years it has been the rule to have the Ottawa Exhibition follow the Canadian National at Toronto with the result that the Ottawa dates frequently were marked with decidedly cool and rainy weather. This year the fair will come on ahead of the Toronto dates, August 22 to 29. With the many good roads leading into the Capital it is felt that the August dates will appeal to motorists not only from Ontario and Quebec, but also those from the United States and from more distant Canadian points.

Another innovation this year is Creatore and his band. This magnificent organization with its peerless leader will be heard each afternoon and evening from a new bandstand being erected in the main grounds. In the past, Creatore and band have commanded $1.00 to $1.50 prices, but with the exhibition engagement the two concerts many be heard each day for the small admission of 25 cents, in fact for less than this amount as strip tickets giving six admissions for a dollar are now on sale and may be had from merchants or directly from the exhibition office.

The directors are aiming at a half million attendance and the program is being arranged accordingly The fair will open on Saturday, August 22, with automobile races, and will continue for seven full days and nights. On the closing day there will be a special program of sports in addition to the other attractions.

Educational features and competitions in various lines of endeavor will be above the usual standard of excellence, several new factors being added. Special attention is also devoted to the amusement side of the big exhibition. The midway will be replete with new shows, new rides and a hundred and one things to surprise and please old and young. In front of the grandstand the strongest program ever arranged by the exhibition is promised. This will include high class comedy, thrilling aerial acts, horse racing, auto races, the day concluding with a spectacular fireworks display.

Prize lists are now available and may be had, with all other information, from J. K. Paisley, secretary-manager, City Hall, Ottawa.

TOWNSHIP REFUSED TO PERMIT DANCING UNTIL SUNDAY STRUCK

Seymour Council Maintains Regulation for Trent Bridges Saturday Night Closing.

TAX RATE FIXED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8.—At the regular meeting of the Seymour Township Council, held Monday afternoon, with Reeve Grills in the chair and Deputy Reeve Peake, Councillors Innis, Linn and Allan present, the tax rate for the year was set. This shows a slight increase over the figure of last year, but this was a matter beyond the control of the Council.

There are more bridges to maintain in Northumberland than in Durham County, and the cost of these is paid, 25 per cent. by Durham and the balance by Northumberland. The difference has been accumulating for the past five years, and to clear the slate the Counties Council at the June session made a special levy of one and one-eighth mills on Northumberland ratepayers. Seymour Township's share of this is $1,819.00.

The township's county rate this year is 13.3 mills as against 11.6 mills in 1924. The township rate is 11 mills, one mill less than a year ago, while the general school rate, 7.2 mills last year, was set Monday at 6.6 mills. It will be seen that in spite of the special county levy, the increase this year is merely nominal.

Asked For Reduction.

Harry Greenis of Cobourg, who is managing the dancing pavilion at Trent River this year, appeared before the Council with two requests: that his license be reduced from $125 to $75 for the season, and that he be allowed to keep his place open until midnight on Saturdays, instead of closing at 11 p.m., as the by-law now compells him to do. Mr. Greenis stated that on Saturday nights the patrons do not gather until 10 o'clock, and as a result, their time for dancing is short.

No action was taken to change the present regulations. Monday morning Mr. Greenis was before Magistrate Payne, charged with non-payment of his license, and was fined $10.65, costs included.

School Officer's Report.

School Attendance Officer George Anderson submitted a detailed report of the attendance at the various schools in the township during the month of June. Upon the whole this was satisfactory, but an epidemic of measles kept a number of children out of school.

In two schools the situation is peculiar. One of these has only six pupils on the roll, and the average attendance during June was 2.25. In 1924 the teacher of this school sent her entire class to write at the entrance examination, and all were successful, so that she suddenly found herself out of a position. The school was closed for some time last year for lack of pupils, but was opened again in the spring.

In the other school there are 21 on the roll, and the average attendance during June was 14, although for one week, owing to an outbreak of measles in the section, the teacher was forced to carry on with only one pupil present.

COMMISSION HAS SURPLUS WHICH GROWS STEADILY

Warkworth Hydro Commission Has Now $2500 To Dispose Off.

NEW MEMBER BUSY.

C. J. Boyce Brings in Many Resolutions About Light Service.

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, July 8. — The Warkworth Hydro Commission finds itself in possession of a surplus of $2,500, which is constantly growing. What to do with this money and how to rearrange the service so as to get it on a cost basis is now the problem which faces the Commission. As the local body is tied up with the big organization in Toronto the members here are not given a free hand, but must take orders from headquarters. The Hydro people early in the year promised to reduce the cost of electricity furnished this village from $85 to $44 per horse power, which would mean a corresponding decrease in the charge to consumers, but so far no change has been made in the schedule.

Mr. Boyce Steps In.

When Dr. C. C. Armstrong resigned as a member of the local commission a short time ago the other members, W. A Kelly, chairman, and George L. Walker, held a special meeting and elected—as they had power to do—Charles J. Boyce to fill the vacancy. Mr. Boyce is a man who can be depended upon to do things and he at once got busy.

Circulates Petition.

One of the first official acts of the new commissioner was to circulate a petition among the Hydro customers who criticized the system of distributing light. Then at the regular meeting Monday night, the first he attended as a member, Mr. Boyce appeared with a whole portfolio of resolutions, the adoption of every one of which he himself moved and each was seconded by Commissioner Walker and carried.

The first resolution contained a polite request to the Bowling Club not to use Hydro on Saturday night, or to use it only to half of their installed capacity. The resolution added that there is a suspicion that if the club turns on all its lights on Saturday night, that the peak load will be increased unreasonably. On Saturday nights all the stores and other public places in the village are, as a rule, lighted up to the limit of their capacity.

No Double Service.

Another resolution rejects the theory that there are any small stores in Warkworth with dwellings attached and quotes the opinion of the assessor to corroborate this view. One service for a store and dwelling is no longer to be tolerated and consumers having such contracts are to be notified that these will be cancelled on August 31.

This action is, of course, subject to the approval of the Toronto commission. It is claimed here that the system leaves the way open for sharp practice. If a consumer has one service for house and store, he pays the commercial, or higher, rate if the installation is greater in the store than in his residence, or the domestic rate if the house installation is the greater. In order to get the domestic, or cheaper rate, all that is necessary for the customer to do is to equip his home with a few extra lights. As there is only one meter for this double service, there is no means to detecting the practice.

To Return Surplus.

One of Mr. Boye's resolutions was seconded by Chairman Kelly. This sets forth that too much money has been collected from the consumers, that there is a large surplus on hand, that the rates should be reduced and that 75 per cent. of the surplus should be returned to the patrons. It is also recommended that house and store service combined be discontinued and that a meter be installed in each of such places where electricity is used.

By the terms of another resolution the Hydro is requested to send an electrical expert to Warkworth to advise with the local commission with regard to improving the service.

The Hydro, in another resolution, is asked to give the local commission authority to loan to the Township of Percy, the accumulated surplus until such times as the final disposition of this money is decided upon.

Mr. Boyce's Petition.

The petition referred to above, which was circulated by Mr. Boyce and whose signature is the first to appear upon it, calls attention to the abuses that are possible under a single service for house and store, and asks that no rebate be allowed by distributing the surplus among the consumers at least until it is ascertained which of them have paid for all the electricity that they have really used.

A copy of this petition, with copies of the above resolutions, have been sent to the Hydro Commission at Toronto, with a request for early action.

NORWOOD MAN SEVERELY HURT

Thrown Against Wall Of Factory, Injuring His Shoulder.

TAKE X-RAY .

NORWOOD, July 8. — Osborne Ferguson met with an accident on Monday at H. G. Buck's cheese box factory. Mr. Buck had purchased an engine to replace the one destroyed in the fire a short time ago. While endeavoring to put it in place, Mr. Ferguson was unfortunately thrown against a wall, severly injuring his shoulder. First aid was given him, and he was then taken to Peterboro to have an X-ray to determine whether the shoulder had been broken or not.

QUIET SESSION PERCY COUNCIL

Passed Accounts and Appointed Thomas McMillan As Collector for Year.

WILL SET TAX RATE.

WARKWORTH, July 8. — The Percy Township Council held a quiet session on Monday, the greater portion of the time being devoted to dealing with the monthly accounts. Bills to an aggregate of $388.34 were ordered paid. The members present were: John McCubbin, Reeve; W. H. Nelson, Deputy Reeve; eorge Poole, James A. Sykes and Oscar Laver, councillors.

On motion of Councillors Sykes and Poole, Thomas McMillan was reappointed collector for the current year.

At the August meeting, the Council will set the tax rate.

Radio Banned from Game.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Radio broadcasting is prohibited from the parks of the American League. This was revealed yesterday when The Chicago Daily News station, WMAQ, was denied permission to broadcast from the White Sox Park. The club owners voted to prohibit broadcasting because they figured it would affect patronage.

TRAMP EMPTIED FARM CUPBOARD

Broke Into M. Begley's House in Emily And Left Larder Bare.

AVOIDED WORK.

KING'S WHARF, July 8— Tramps are again making their rounds. There was one last week through this locality and spent several days. He did not want work as he was offered work by several farmers. The farmers will have to keep cross dogs to protect their places. He broke into M. Begley's house while he was away. He broke the locks of the two doors and took all the eatables and provisions in the house and when Mr. Begley returned he had nothing to eat in the house. If some of those tramps face into some farmers places at night they will be mangled by the savage dogs at a few places in this section. With so many farmers looking for help these days and able bodied men tramping from place to place asking for meals the farmers do not feel justified in either giving them shelter or food.

The strawberries are gone and it was a very short and poor season for them. The weather was too cool. They sold high, selling around here at 20c per box.

Need Warm Weather

This warm weather is needed here for the fall wheat and other grains. The wheat is pust turning and promises an abundant c rop. Crops in general look splendid and it being so near the lake the recent frosts did no harm.

The Maple Leaf factory shipped their first cheese last Monday to Mr. Flavelle of Lindsay for which they received 18 9-16c per lb. for the cheese. There is a large supply of milk coming and the cheesemaker had to purchase an extra truck. We hope it will continue.

Cutting Clover

The hum of the mower is heard on all sides as the people are cutting their sweet clover and red clover. The sweet clover is an abundant crop but red not so good. There are some beautiful fields of alsike through here and if the weather is favorable promises to be a splendid crop.

The cool weather with so much rain is not so good for the crops. They did look promising but if warm weather does not come they will be very poor for the rust will strike them.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo. Flynn of Toronto spent the week end the guest of the former's mother, Mrs. M. Flynn, here.

Miss Violo Herlihey of the Peterboro Normal School has returned to spend the holidays with her parents here.

SWINDLER MAY BE EXTRADITED

"Dr. H. Counts" Wanted In Brooklyn, N.Y. Now at . . . . Prison Farm. . . . .

IS J. F. DUNBAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8.— A session of the Division Court was held here Tuesday afternoon, with His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough, presiding. A number of cases involving the payment of overdue accounts, were disposed of, the defendants being ordered to pay a portion of the debts every month.

Judge Huycke will wait over today and will go on a fishing trip with Dr. E. J. Free.

"Counts" Is Wanted.

Chief Brown has received a letter from District Attorney Charles J. Dodds of Brooklyn, N.Y., saying that the photograph of "Dr. W. H. Counts", the young man arrested in Campbellford for attempting to swindle a farmer, and who is now serving a six months' sentence on the prison farm, proves that he is J. F. Dunbar alias "Eddie Devlin" who is wanted in the United States on a charge of swindling. Richard H. Harding, a resident of King's County, N.Y. says that the man now in prison in Ontario, sold him Florida real estate which he did not own and that he did not turn over the money to the rightful owner.

District Attorney Dodd adds that the United States authorities will endeavor to secure the extradition of "Counts" when his term is up here.

WEDDING BELLS.

EASTON—HARTLEY.

WOOLER, July 8.—On Tuesday June 30, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terril, Floral Hill Farm, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Mabel Hartley was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Easton of Rochester, N.Y., in the presence of sixty guests, Rev. Harry Perry of Newmarket, Rev. J. R. Bick and Rev. Asa Rogers officiating. The bride was dressed in white silk canton, with bridal tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Graham of Trenton wearing rainbow rose georgette, carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Little Elizabeth Carrell of Whitby made a pretty little flower girl, carrying a basket with lilies of the valley and baby breath. The groom was assisted by Mr. Jack Rowe of Rochester.

The bridal party entered the lawn to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march (played by Mrs. S. L. Terrill) and stood beneath an arch of evergreens and ox-eyed daisies. After the congratulations were bestowed upon the happy couple, and the signing of the register, a luncheon was served, followed by toasts, Rev. Mr. Black acting as toast master.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, showing the esteem in which she was held. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a bar-pin, to the groomsman cuff-links, to the little flower girl a ring and to the pianist a choker of pink pearls.

The young couple left by motor amid showers of confetti and good wishes to spend a week at Algonquin Park.

The bride's going-away costume was black satin and colored printed crepe with black satin hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Easton will be at home to their friends September 15, in Rochester, N.Y.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1925.

THE 21ST BATTALION.

The announcement that the annual reunion of the surviving members of the 21st Eastern Ontario Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force is to be held in Peterboro has been received with much interest by the citizens, and there will be a general desire to have the members of this famous unit suitably entertained.

Peterboro has always taken an especial interest in the 21st Battalion, which left Canada with the Second Canadian Contingent after training in Kingston.

It was made up originally of Eastern Ontario soldiers, Peterboro supplying a large quota, and after it reached the firing line was frequently reinforced by troops from this part of the Province, including, of course, many from this city.

The 21st had a fine record throughout the war, serving with distinction in some of the most notable engagements of the struggle, and throughout its long service overseas Peterboro was always well represented, so that it is natural that local citizens should always be interested in anything that concerned this splendid unit.

It is to be hoped that when the ex-members of the 21st get together in Peterboro their reception will be such as to leave no doubt of the warmth of the spot they hold in the hearts of local people.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE.

Although the Examiner had not intended to say anything more for the present in its editorial columns about the question of Sunday bathing, the statement made by one of the Aldermen at Monday night's meeting that the opinion of the press could not be forced upon the Council, calls for some attention.

It is one of the duties of a newspaper to interpret public opinion and make it vocal, and in its stand on this question the Examiner has not been attempting to force its opinion upon the Council, but rather to demonstrate to the Aldermen that public sentiment favours the opening of the civic beaches on Sundays.

It is not our views, but the views of the people of Peterboro that we have been endeavouring to set forth—and the Examiner has no hesitation in saying that its attitude much more accurately represents public opinion than does the action of the Council in refusing to provide facilities for Sunday bathing.

That this point may be cleared up beyond a shadow of a doubt the Examiner respectfully suggests to the members of the City Council that at the next municipal election the people of Peterboro be given an opportunity through a plebiscite of expressing their opinion of Sunday bathing, Sunday band concerts and daylight saving.

Let the people decide.

GETTING TOGETHER.

The desirability of a better understanding and a closer entente between farmers and city dwellers is generally recognized, and anything that tends to bring about a closer relationship should be welcomed.

In such a category was last week's meeting of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club when Farmers' Day was celebrated, and each member had the privilege of inviting a farmer friend to be present.

The result was that between 30 and 40 farmers were guests, and both they and their hosts benefitted by the intercourse.

Such get-together meetings between rural and urban residents might profitably be held much more frequently.

They would tend to link up much more closely the man who lives on the farm and his neighbor who resides in the city—and both classes would gain materially.

There is, unfortunately, too great a tendency on the part of each to misjudge the other—largely due to the lack of social intercourse between city and country.

They are all Canadians, all people who are much the same at heart.

Anything that brings prosperity to one must of necessity bring prosperity to the other; their dependence on each other is none the less strong because it is not always acknowledged.

Let farmer and city man get to know the other fellow's viewpoint and Canada as a whole will be the gainer.

THE ST. THOMAS TRAGEDY.

It is, of course, always an easy matter to be wise after the event, but from the published description of the ill-fated pleasure boat which capsized in a St. Thomas lake and caused the death of eight people, seven of them children, the craft does not seem to have been stable enough to have warranted the use to which it was put.

Constructed as it was of two rowboats lashed together with a wooden platform between them, it might perhaps have been safe enough to carry a number of adults with presence of mind enough to compel them to keep still, but its very nature should have caused it to be condemned so far as use by children was concerned.

Those who have watched children on a steamer know the childish tendency to rush to one side of the boat if anything of interest happens to be visible, and that tendency might have been expected to crop up on such a craft as was employed in the Pinafore Park Lake.

It did crop up—the unfortunate little folks rushed to the front to see a mud-turtle, and the boat capsized with tragic results.

It is not as surprising that such an accident occurred as it is that the tragedy did not happen sooner, seeing that the boat has been in use since Dominion Day and has carried many passengers during that time.

The people of Ontario, with hearts sickened by the accident, will extend their deepest sympathy to the St. Thomas families whose loved ones were so suddenly and tragically snatched away from them.

The Rotary Carnival offers a big package of amusement for a quarter—and the money all goes to a good cause.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

"The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting more children," was a slogan with which a communistic orator travelled in a recent election in the United States. He was a liar on the first count, says the Ottawa Journal. Many good people do not think so. They are under the impression that it would be true to say that the rich are getting richer. It is possible that a few rich men in the world today are richer than any person who existed in previous stages of the world's history. But both in Britain and the United States, the wealthiest countries in the world, the results of enquiry into the subject have been recently published and they leave no doubt that wealth is all the time becoming more equally divided in those countries. An enquiry of this nature in Canada would unquestionably lead to similar findings.

The American Academy of Political Science devoted the whole of its last meeting to a discussion of the popular ownership of property, and the conclusion was that a change of the utmost consequence was being brought about silently but very rapidly. Ownership and ultimate control of the great industries of the United States is, it was demonstrated, passing out of the hands of the few into the hands of the many and ownership would ultimately be followed by control. Formerly most American corporations had few stockholders, but, where they were once numbered by the tens, they now go up into the thousands. A statistical record of typical corporations in ten of the principal industries shows that between 1918 and 1925 there was an increase in those holding stock therein from 2,537,105 to 5,051,499.

Among the reasons given why such a development was progressing were cited high wages, prohibition, suppression or restriction of gambling and of sale of fraudulent securities, and curiously enough, Professor Carver of Harvard, a noted economist, said "a general increase in intelligence respecting the part which capital plays" and this the professor regarded as the most important influence of all.

It will be noted that these findings and opinions are not those of moneyed men.

THE RED MENACE IN BRITAIN.

The recent Communist conference at Glasgow, and the extraordinary circumstances attending it, together with other manifestations of "Red" militancy in Britain, have revived, or rather intensified, public interest in a movement concerning which it seems difficult to learn the truth.

There are those who, haunted by the spectre of Russian terrorism, regard the Communist wing of the Socialist party as an organized and subsidized gang of wild and reckless revolutionaries aiming at the destruction, not only of the capitalistic system, but of society itself, and prepared, like their Soviet brethren, to go any length to attain their nefarious object. There are others disposed to treat them with indifference, if not contempt, as a collection of windbags and harmless fanatics, "full of sound and fury signifying nothing."

Among the alarmists are to be found such prominent publicists as Lord Rothermere and Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary in the Baldwin Cabinet. To judge from the lurid articles appearing in the newspapers of the former, the Old Country is swarming with Soviet-hired Communists, whose ruthless extermination is the only hope of averting a bloody revolution and the overthrow of Britain's most cherished institutions, from the Throne down to the property rights of the humblest citizen. And in several speeches recently, the Home Secretary has dealt with the activities of the "Reds" in a manner calculated to frighten timid lieges out of their wits.

On the other hand, we find the Manchester Guardian—a newspaper of high standing but rather given to the preaching of "peace at any price"—pouring ridicule upon the anti-Communist campaign, deriding the alarmists, and pooh-poohing the fears excited by the frothy talk and melodramatic actions of Socialist extremists of the Clyde-side type, pointing out that at the recent conference of the Communist party its membership was declared to be less than 6,000, not all of whom were in good standing.

There is, perhaps, as great a danger in taking the "Reds" too seriously as in not taking them seriously enough. Fanatics and fools thrive on publicity and find encouragement in advertisement; and there is force in the argument that the most effective way to suppress them is to leave them severely alone. But that is not the view taken of the Communists by those in a position to appreciate the significance of their aims, methods and propaganda. And, apparently, it is not an attitude approved by lenders of the party with which the Communists are ostensibly affiliated.

No one, probably, knows more of the true inwardness of Communist activities in Britain, and out of it, than Mr. Philip Snowden, himself once suspected of sympathies almost revolutionary; and what he has to say about the "Reds" is not to be ignored. In an article, contributed to a London journal, he rightly insists that the influence of a political organization must not be judged by its numerical strength.

In numbers, the British Communist party is, as he says, "contemptibly small," but it has an organization and a press which are exceedingly active. Both, he declares with a knowledge of the facts, are supported and maintained "by funds supplied from Bolshevik sources," the party being "a branch of the Third International, whose headquarters are at Moscow," and from which it takes its instructions.

As to the aims of the British Communist party, there is no secret, says Mr. Snowden. "They are out to 'smash' everything—the capitalist machine, Parliament, the Labor party, the British Empire; and their latest avowed object is to overthrow the Irish Free State and establish a revolutionary republic." But, according to the former Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer, the special object of their attack is the Labor party. "They desire to get inside that they may carry out their declared purpose of destruction," and "similar tactics are being employed to capture the trade unions for Communist aims."

From these observations, stamped with the authority of one of the ablest leaders of Labor, it is clear that, if the Communist movement in Britain need not keep the people awake o' nights, it should not be treated with indifference. Its meaning and purpose have only to be understood by the British public to ensure its failure, for, in the words of Mr. Snowden, it is a movement that is "utterly alien to British tradition, sentiment and outlook."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ottawa rumours indicate that Mr. King will have to do some Cabinet making before appealing to the country. That job generally follows an election.

The story that the city authorities frightened away the Barnum and Bailey circus because they asked an exorbitant fee for the street parade is best answered by the fact that the B. and B. circus doesn't have a parade, abandoning that feature some time ago.

A THOUGHT.

DRINK DEEP OF THE TONIC

Work is a wonderful tonic that possesses extraordinary bracing qualities and remarkable restorative powers. It has saved more men from disease than all the concoctions brewed and compounded in the pharmacist's prescription department. No work causes the mental breakdown so alarmingly frequent in our day, but rather worry about the successful outcome of an undertaking. Men need not fear work, for it is their best friend. Worry, however, is an insidious enemy.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

BANDS IN SOUTH END.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

Alderman Fife deserves credit for endeavouring to obtain more band concerts for the south end of the city. This is one of the most densely populated sections of the city, and has been very much neglected in the making of park improvements. Is it not possible for the City Council to heed his requests and ask the bands to visit us more frequently?

We don't want everything, but would like a fair share, since we share equally in the expense.

POOR SCHOOL RESULTS.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

The results of the County Entrance Examinations announced in The Examiner yesterday, even allowing for a great number taking the step into Collegiate without the formality of a test, does not reflect great credit on the calibre of the pupils. Only 155 out of 329 sitting for the tests passed, less than 50 per cent. In the city I understand the ratio is about two thirds pass.

Is there something wrong with the educational facilities? Indeed it would seem that there must be, because no one would suggest that our country students are less able than pupils in the city.

It seems to me that this is a question that should be taken up by educational authorities with a view to remedying a bad state of affairs.

SOMEBODY'S TOES TRAMPED.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I do not approve the too flippant way in which you discuss the great and important question of evolution in your "Line-O-Type." Evolution is not something to be joked about. It is a question that is of immense and growing importance in our lives, and much hinges upon the outcome of the case now pending in a United States court.

Presumably you do not deny the present progress of evolution in all else but human kind? Why poke fun at the great possibilities?

If it were not for evolution, where would we be?

Joke about the City Council, speeding autoists, and even 4.4, but do not transgress on something which touches us as closely as does evolution.

DARWIN.

BEAR FACTS.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear sir,—I was one of those who went to Nicholls' Oval to see the bears I had heard were there, but during my absence from the city the small zoo had been disbanded. I would not have minded so much for myself, but I took some week-end visitors as a treat, and then to have them told that the authorities didn't approve the very thing we were looking forward to seeing was rather embarrassing.

Can't something be done to give the people of Peterborough a zoo?

We spend money sending fish down to the New York Motor Boat Show to attract tourists here, but we do nothing for the permanent residents. How many hundreds of children and grown-ups would be delighted in an aquarium showing the fish that are native to this part of the country? Anyone who visited Toronto exhibition last year and saw the aquarium there will tell you it was always crowded.

A few small tanks, a few fish, and running water, with the small amount of food needed by fish, would not cost nearly as much as the trip to New York, and little attentions like that would make Peterborough a better place to work and live in. And surely there can be no excuse for depriving the people of the fun afforded by the antics of the bear cubs.

Let's wise up the people who are running this city, tell our wants, and see that we get them. We are being humiliated so that a man is almost ashamed to say he hails from Peterborough, or if he does admit it he says it with a laugh.

TRAVELLER.

LOOKS FOR STAMPEDE.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

Please leave the City Council alone on the bathing beach and Sunday band concert question. One of the members says the press cannot cram its opinions down the Aldermens' throats, collectively or individually. I have also been told that one of them said if the agitation had not been raised the beaches might have been open long ago.

What's the use?

If ever you had public opinion behind you in any question you have ever advocated, it is in this condemnation of the narrow minded, priggish, action of the Council in prohibiting Sunday relaxation for the citizens. The sentiment everywhere in the city is the same—the blue laws are regarded as infringements on personal liberty.

But whats' the use?

Because the public want the mistake recitified at least one Alderman is ready to buck it. Elected representatives of the people are kicking up their heels in a little orgy of reckless law making. Let them buck.

The stampede will come later.

IT'S A SPECTACLE.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

What a spectacle is this! Men elected by the people disowning time and again the hands that fed them their votes! Aldermen flying in the face of public opinion to foist their own picayune views and ideas—they have no ideals—on a city of 21,000 people! A body of laymen daring to do what no city minister or preacher ever in his most daring moment suggested doing?

Saner thought is rejected by the City Council because of stubborn determination not to recede from a position that has been ridiculed from Halifax to Vancouver and from North Bay to the Mexican border. And this in inconsistency itself. The Council is not even consistent in inconsistency. At Monday night's meeting, according to your reporter, the council rejected a motion to allow certain gasoline pumps to remain in their present positions. On the actual vote they declared against it. Then, after five or ten minutes they returned to an already decided piece of business and reversed their position without apology. The gasoline pump question affected only two persons. The Sunday bathing question affects the entire city. So does the Sunday band concert issue. And the gas tanks in east city affected a whole community. So perhaps there may be a standard of a kind guiding the Aldermen. Where a question affects only one or two, you may change your mind if not agreeable to the one or two; but if by any chance the entire city is affected, stand pat against all their importunities.

A square deal in return for the people's confidence would be none too much to ask of the Council, and it is up to the people to see that they get representatives who will play the game.

ONE VOTE.

SLUR ON ALL THE PEOPLE.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Mr. Gordon did not address the Council in his capacity as Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons when he asked that the bathing beaches remain open on Sunday. He was there as one of the 21,000 citizens of Peterborough, clothed with all the rights and powers of an elector, to ask that the people's elected body do what the people require. He was spurned. There was no consideration given his representation; only an Alderman declares his intention not to be swayed by the power of the press, which is the voice of the people.

The insult to one of the people is a slur on all the people.

The wishes of citizens are paramount. The City Council is not a morality board, or a board of censors. We have the Board of Health to look after our health; the Police Commission to attend to our safety; the Utilities Commission to see that we have light and water; the Charity Board to look after our poor; and the City Council to transact the financial and executive business of the city.

Has the Ministerial Association made any declaration on the moral questions taken in issue by the Council? If the men who are placed in authority over the spiritual affairs of the community do not see well to form new commandments "Thou shalt not bathe on Sunday", and "Thou shalt not hear band music on Sunday", by what rule or authorty does the City Council intrude on our personal liberty of conscience and action?

The Aldermen, or some of them, persist in the absurdity of claiming they have not stopped bathing; only taken away the caretaker from the beach. Settle it once for all by saying that no respectable man is going to undress behind the scanty covering afforded by private land and trees and wood piles. Such a proceeding would be more immodest, more immoral, and more dangerous than all the Sunday bathing done in a twelvemonth under proper supervision.

The City Council knew that in removing the caretakers it was putting a ban on bathing, and that must, by the common rules of logic, have been its intention.

I hope that you will excuse this lengthy letter, first because of its length, and also because of the obvious absurdity of wasting ink and space in an effort to right a great public wrong when the perpetrators deny the title of the electors to any rights commonly ascribed to civilized communities under self government.

STRENUOUS TIME ON APSLEY VISIT

Archdeacon Davidson Made Several Addresses and Paid Many Calls.

APSLEY, July 8.—The Venerable Archdeacon Davidson returned to Toronto on Tuesday after a three days' stay in the mission of Apsley, and he will not soon forget his visit if only on account of the strenuous time he put in. After his arrival on Friday evening he addressed an informal gathering of citizens in the Parish Hall, at which adrresses were also given by the Revs. J. W. Ogden and C. A. G. Spence. On Saturday, in company with Mr. Spence, he traveiled the mission from one end to the other visiting about thirty families, and on Sunday assisted in conducting services of the four churches in the mission and also gave an address in the United Church after the evening service. On Monday he visited families in Clydesdale, and in the eevning attended a congregational meeting in the Parish Hall at Apsley. The Archdeacon also met and renewed acquaintance with most of the men of this district who served overseas in the 93rd Battalion, of which he was Chaplain, a renewal of comradeship which gave mutual pleasure and satisfaction. The Archdeacon was much interested in the plans being formed for the commemoration of the Jubilee of the Mission and gave valuable advice on the project.

A meeting was held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening to discuss the Jubilee celebration of the Apsley mission, but a heavy thunderstorm prevented a very large attendance. Although St. George's congregation was not very well represented, several came from St. Stephens', Chandos, and after several ideas had been presented, it was finally decided to create a Jubilee Commemoration Fund, to be used for the remodelling of the front of the Parish Hall, and the erection in St. George's Church of a memorial table bearing the names of the clergy who have had charge of the mission since its beginning. Mrs. Golvett was appointed treasurer, and Archdeacon Davidson headed the subscription list.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 7—The market simply overloaded with rough cattle and no more should be shipped in this week. Of yesterday's receipts of practicaly about 8,000 cattle, including billed through stuff, there was left over about 2,000. This shows about 6,000 cattle absorbed, not bad trade at this time, with a hot weather spell on, but still leaving too much of a holdover for the mid-week markets. Trade was very draggy today. Prices are 25c lower than yesterday or 50c lower than last week on practicaly all grades of cattle.

Export trade was quiet today, a few heavy steers being picked up at $7.50 to $8.

Butcher steers were going at $7 to $7.50 with few choice quality offerings.

Calves firm and 50c higher for a few choice tops.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs steady at $14 off cars, thick smooths.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 7—The feature of the export grain market here today was the demand from United Kingdom buyers for Canadian Western Barley at an advance of sixpence per quarter for shipment in all positions. Owing to the strength of the Winnipeg market and the advance of 3c per bushel; in the July option no new business was reported. Quite a few orders were also reeived for oats which could not be accepted on account of the rise of 3 1-2c per bushel at Winnipeg. It was reported that New York buyers secured 50,000 bushels of No. 1 feed and a few loads of No. 2 at C.IAMF. prices Montreal.

Because of the strength in July option for oats in Winnipeg a much stronger feeling prevailed in the local market at closing and car lot prices were advanced 4c to 5c per bushel.

In the local egg situation today the undertone to the market was firm at recent price changes. Owing to warm weather the demand for supplies was limited and the volume of business smaller. Sales of specials at 41c, fresh extras at 39c, firsts at 35c and seconds at 31c per dozen were made. The receipts yesterday were 1,778 cases as against 2,305 for the same day last week, and 2,651 for the coresponding day a year ago.

A fair trade was reported in cold storage dressed poultry in a wholesale jobbing way. Sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys were made at 40c to 43c per lb., 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32c to 39c per lb. Milk-fed Chickens at 35c to 40c per lb., selected chickens at 34c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24 to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

Trade in honey was slow. No. 1 White Clover in comb quoted at 22c to 23c per section, No. 2 grade at 17c to 18c per section, white extracted in 30 lb. tins at 11c per lb., 10 lb. tins at 11 1-2c per lb., 5 lb. tins at 12c per lb., and 2 1-2 lb. tins at 12 1-2c per lb.

Dairy Products

Receipts of butter were 5,161 packages, as against 6,128 for the same day last week, and 1,565 for the corresponding day a year ago. Prices were unchanged and steady at the recent reduction. Demand was limited and business quieter. Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 3 71-2c per lb., Eastern No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37c to 37 1-2c per lb., No. 1 Creamery at 36c to 36 1-2c per lb. and No. 2 Creamery at 35c to 35 1-2c per lb.

Receipts of cheese were 16,915 boxes, as compared with 15,716 for the same day last week, and 23,239 for the corresponding day a year ago Foreign demand quieter, but there was some trading between houses on spot and the tone of the market was steady with sales of Western No. 1 white and colored at 22c to 22 1-4c per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21 7-8c to 22c per lb.

Offerings on the local curb market amounted to 3,000 boxes of cheese and 2,000 packages Creamery Butter which were all absorbed by export houses. No. 1 pasteurized Creamery Butter sold at 36 1-2c per lb., No. 1 Creamery at 35 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 Creamery at 34 1-2c per lb. which prices were 3-8c per lb. lower than a week ago, and the cheese sold at an advance of 1 1-4c per lb. at 21 1-4c per lb., delivered here.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, July 7 — Ontario country shippers report a sharp decline in receipts during the past few days. They are paying extras 30 to 31, firsts 29, seconds 24 to 25, and making sales, extras, 32 1-2, firsts 30 1-2, seconds 25 f.o.b., cases returned.

Toronto jobbing specials 41, extras 39, firsts 36, seconds 32.

Montreal market strong, jobbing extras 40, firsts 36, seconds 33.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 7—Increased export buying, together with fresh misgivings relative to possible serious damage from black rust had much to do with a sharp late upturn in wheat values today and even a bigger upturn in rye. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2 7-8 to 4 1-2c net higher, Sept. 144 7-8 to 145, and Dec. 146 1-8 to 146 1-4 with rye at 3 3-4 to 5 1-4c advance, corn 5-8 to 3 3-8c up; oats showing 1 to 1 7-8c gain and provisions unchanged to 5c lower.

Union Official prophesies Refusal Of Miners Demands By Owners.

HOLD CONFERENCE.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 8 (Canadian Press).—The anthracite mine owners will refuse to grant the demands of the miners involving wage increases and complete recognition of the union including the "check off," and there will be a strike, but not an extended one in the anthracite districts beginning September 1.

This was the prediction here yesterday of Ellis Searles of Indianapolis, Editor of The United Mine Workers' Journal, official organ of the United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Searles came to the shore to attend a joint conference between the anthracite miners and the operators, beginning in the Ambassador Hotel, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

ALBERTA WILL SELL GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Folly of Abandoning It After Cost of Construction Pointed Out.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 8. — (Canadian Press). — The Alberta Government is offering Government House for sale, and the Journal says anent this, editorially, that while it would have been better for the province to have waited for some years before expending so much money on the building, yet now it would be folly to abandon it. "An official residence of some kind is required if the Lieutenant-Governor is to discharge properly the duties incumbent upon him. There is no basis whatever for the talk that has been heard about the snobbery to which it gives rise. There has been nothing narrow in the hospitality which has been extended there. The amount which would be saved by informing the next appointee that he could look after his own household arrangements and was not expected to do any entertaining at all would be very small as compared with the loss which this would mean in a variety of ways."

BY CO-OPERATION WITH BRITISH AND NOT BY VIOLENCE MAY INDIA REACH GOAL OF SELF GOVERNMENT

Revision of Indian Constitution Not Contemplated By Britain Before 1929.

POLICY UNCHANGED.

Lord Birkenhead, Secretary for India, Says Indians Not Ready for Autonomy.

LONDON, July 8. — Canadian Press. — Great Britain no longer talks of "holding the gorgeous East in fee, but asks India to march side by side with us in fruitful harmonious partnership which might create the greatest and proudest days of Indian history," declared the Earl of Birkenhead, Secretary of tate for India in an important debate in the House of Lords on Tuesday.

The session was expected to reveal the government's decision regarding the revision of the 1919 Act for the government of India, before 1929,the date stipulated in the act itself for the revision of Indian constitution but the long pronouncement made by Lord Birkenhead only, showed that the British government has not yet formulated a policy for dealing with the problem that confronts it in India.

The Viceroy of India, the Earl of Reading, has been in England for two months engaged in conferring with Lord Birkenhtad and other members of the Baldwin Cabinet on the difficult questions arising from serious friction in the working of the act of 1919, which gave partial self-government to India. The system of Diarchy embodied in this act, giving the Indian provinces a large control of their own local affairs, has proved partly unworkable.

Demands for Revision.

There have been serious sedition disorders in Bengal and the act has been suspended in that province, while from all over India there have been demands by Nationalists for the revision of the act before 1929.

Lord Birkenhead in announcing that the cabinet had not yet arrived at a decision said that before a decision could be reached the advice of the government of India must be formally invoked and the opinion of the Indian legislative assembly elicited.

In the question of ante-dating the revision of the act he emphasized that the "door of acceleraion was not open to menace, and still less could it be stormed by violence.

He also insisted that communal differences dividing Moslem and Hindu would result in a struggle and outrages even if the British withdrew from India to-morrow. Thus an immediate repudiation of British responsibilities in India would be at least as fatal to the interests of India herself as in any year since the British gained control there.

Insist on Co-operation.

Arguing that the 1919 Act had not failed but had never had a chance because of the refusal of the Indians to co-operate with the British, Lord Birkenhead continued that the door of acceleration was open but only when "we see everywhere among the responsible leaders of Indian thought the evidence of sincere and genuine desire to co-operate with us in making the best of the existing constitution."

He appealed to the Indian people with deepest sincerity for good-will and co-operation. "We shall not be niggardly bargainers if we meet the generous friendship which is near and dear to our hearts," said the Secretary for India. "We no longer talk of holding the gorgeous East in fee but ask India to march side by side with us in fruitful harmonious partnership which might create the greatest and proudest days of Indian history."

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—With Tuesday's shipments of 1,038,000 bushels, the total grain shipped from the ports of Fort William and Port Arthur has reached a figure of over 70,000,000 bushels since navigation opened this spring. The grain yesterday went forward on six boats, of which the Berryton took 460,000 bushels of oats and rye, and the Bayton took 238,000 of wheat, flax and rye, both cargoes for Port Colborne.

LIQUOR BAN ON LINDSAY LIFTED

Two Doctors Still Deprived Of 'Script' Privilege. Disciplined by "Meds."

STRICT RECORDS.

LINDSAY, July 8.—The ban under which the local druggists and physicians were placed some months ago by the Provincial License Department, relative to the issuance of scripts and the sale of liquor, has been lifted. Information to this effect was received Tuesday.

It will be recalled that Lindsay earned a Province-wide reputation because of the wide-open methods resorted to by a couple of physicians in the issuing of prescriptions. Vice-Chairman Dingman, of the License Board, visited Lindsay and his investigations disclosed the fact that the two physicians in question practically did nothing else but hand out prescriptions to an army of "patients." The result was that Lindsay was converted into a regular oasis so far as the liquor dispensing business was concerned. The druggists' supply from headquarters was made extremely small, and this resulted in considerable inconvenience for those who wished to obtain liquor for purely medicinal purposes.

Now that the ban has been lifted, the druggists are permitted to receive more liberal supplies, but the physicians are obliged to keep a stub for every order issued.

The two doctors who were responsible for the "deluge" which obtained for Lindsay such undesirable publicity, have been deprived of the privilege of issuing prescriptions for liquor, and according to reports, have been suspended by the Ontario Council of Physicians and Surgeons as a result of the report of the Discipline Committee.

VETOED DANCING.

Dancing Foot Wars On Praying Knee.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 8—"Can a dancing foot and a praying knee go together?" demanded a fervent young man from the floor of the International Christian Endeavor convention, touching off quite an argument among those present as to the attitude the truly pious should adopt towards modern amusements.

A girl in a crinkly white dress, with a modest black bow in her long hair, rose and responded that the believed in "home dancing, but not in public dancing."

"In our town we think dancing is all right—when it's watched," she explained.

"Why should it have to be watched?" demanded several delegates.

A youth attempted to explain that dancing was merely rhythm in the hyman body, but a negro arose and asserted that ancient tribal dances were pagan, designed to arouse the passions.

The Endeavorers vetoed everything in the way of amusements except home and church social games, fishing, educational films, pageantry and "good" reading.

LAWYERS ARGUE SUKLOFF CASE

Estrangement After Marriage Agreement Unforseen, Defence Contended

TRIAL IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—The trial of Louis N. Sufloff, Toronto lawyer, on a charge of obtaining money from his prospective father-in-law under false pretences, continued in special sessions court here yesterday.

Crown Prosecutor Brais argued that Sukloff had falsely stated he owned real estate in Toronto and had used a marriage contract with May Sablotsky of Montreal to extract $1,500 from her father. Joseph Cohen, counsel for the defence, replied that the Crown had failed to prove that Sukloff had no property in Toronto. Cheques produced showed he said that the $1,500 transaction between Sukloff and Sablotsky was an advance of the $5,000 dowry which the latter had promised to pay his daughter within six months from the marriage. Nobody could have foreseen that estrangement would ensue between the engaged couple and that the wedding would be off. The case is continuing.

HOLD EXHIBITION OF BACON HOGS AT WARKWORTH

Northumberland is One Of 8 Counties Where These Events Take Place.

SUPPORT PROMISED.

Fair Directors Want Hogs Shown as Part Of Fall Exhibition.

(By a Staff Reporter)

WARKWORTH, July 8—Northumberland is one of the eight counties in Ontario in which the Live Stock Department at Toronto has decided to hold a bacon hog exhibition this fall and Warkworth, as the recognized centre of the live stock industry for the county has the honor of being selected as the point where that Fair is to be staged. All that is necessary to secure it is the co-operation of the Percy Township Agricultural Society and this is assured from the start.

District Representatives Heard

When the directors of the Society met here last evening to arrange for the field day which will be held on July 29, they were addressed by Walter Smith of Brighton, District Representative for Northumberland. Mr. Smith explained that 14 bacon hog clubs have been organized by him in the country. The conditions are that if at least 10 farmers combine and agree to breed not less than 20 sows the Department will furnish a sire of the most approved bacon type, the only charge being sufficient to pay the wages of a caretaker. Eight fairs are to be held in Ontario this year, one in that number of counties, and Northumberland is one of these.

To the support of each Fair the Dominion Government will make a grant of $100 ,the Live Stock Department at Toronto a similar amount provided the county would also put in $100. Mr. Smith is satisfied that he will be able to raise $100 or more among the 14 clubs already organized.

The directors present received the proposition favorably but preferred that this Fair would be held either on the first or second day of their own exhibition. Mr. Smith stated that the manager of these bacon hog fairs were inclined to insist that they be held as district events. He promised, howeevr, to take the matter up with them again, reporting the attitude of the Warkworth directors, and to lay the result before the latter at a meeting to be held within the next two weeks.

W. S. Nelson, one of the directors and a leading live stock dealer, told Mr. Smith that his office should be located in Warkworth instead of in Brighton, the latter place being in the centre of the fruit belt, removed from the part of the county which specializes in live stock. Mr. Nelson believed that even the members of the clubs referred to can stand further education in the raising of bacon hogs. One of these recently delivered to Mr. Nelson a load of 15 hogs the total weight of which was over 3400 pounds, enough in excess of the standard to put them out of the class for which they were intended. He added that a bacon type hog, finished for market should weigh not more than from 190 to 200 pounds.

Preparing For Field Day

When it came to arranging for the field day, H. L. Walker reported on behalf of the committee on sports but nothing definite was decided upon. This committee and the committees on horse racing and advertising were instructed to hold a meeting on Friday night to arrange final details for the event.

On motion of Directors H. L. Walker and W. H. Nelson it was decided to offer $450 in purses for the horse races.

The board adjourned subject to the call of the president. President George Poole was absent and the chair last night was occupied by Vice-President W. A. Kelly.

HUGE CARGO OF LIQUORS SEIZED

Several Actions for Alleged Smuggling Pending in St. Johns, Nfd.

SOUGHT FLIGHT.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., July 8—Several actions are pending as the result of the seizure of the Herbert Green, a steamer owned by J. T. Moulton, of Burgeo, which cleared for Havana early on Saturday with a cargo of 11,000 kegs of rum, 10,000 cases of champagne and 1500 cases of whiskey.

Suspicions of the customs authorities having been aroused, the police were sent for. On their arrival the Green threw off her bow line and going ahead broke the stern hawser which held her to the pier. Constables Jenney and Russell made a pier head jump to her deck and ordered the ship back but it was not until she had reached the narrows that the officers persuaded Captain Nauffts to drop anchor. Captain Nauffts and super cargo Ryan will in consequence have to defend an action for carrying off the police, and Captain O'Brien, of the four master Orleans, which also came under suspicion, will be proceeded against for smuggling.

CANADIAN TEACHERS' ANNUAL CONVENTION

Federation Will Assemble at University for Sixth Annual Session—Aug. 10 to 15.

TORONTO, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—The sixth annual meeting of the Canadian Teachers' Federation is to be held in Toronto from August 10 to 15. Official delegates will be in attendance from all the Provincial Associations, and in addition to these, it is expected that a number of teachers throughout the Dominion will be present, many having indicated their intention of coming to the gathering while on their vacations.

The University of Toronto has granted the use of the Senate Chamber for the business sessions. Convocation Hall for the public meetings and the residences for the accommodation of the delegates; and Hart House has arranged to provide meals for the attending teachers.

An attractive programme has been arranged for the opening session on Tuesday morning August 11. An address of welcome will be given by the acting Premier of Ontario, Mayor Thomas Foster of Ontario, the chairman of the Toronto Board of Education and others.

The business sessions will be held morning and afternoon of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday, August 14, a trip to Niagara Falls and Queenston Heights is to be tendered to the delegates. Social functions, including dinners and motor drives around the city, will be provided.

While the Canadian Teachers' Federation is officially limited to the number of delegates appointed from the Provincial Teachers' Associations, the sessions are open to all teachers throughout Canada, who will be welcome as unofficial delegates; and so far as possible the Toronto Teachers' Council is prepared to entertain at social functions all the delegates, official and unofficial, to the conference.

Teachers who wish to attend the conference as delegates, official or unofficial, are asked to advise the president of the Toronto Teachers' Council not later than July 15.

MATERNAL DEATHS SUBJECT OF STUDY

Dr. Helen McMurchy Makes Investigation That High Mortality be Reduced.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 8. Canadian Press. — Dr. Helen MacMurchy, of Ottawa, chief of the division of child welfare of the federal department of health, while in the city, made an investigation in regard to maternal mortality and the care of mothers throughout Canada. The federal health department is seeking to co-ordinate that work in all the provinces and Dr. MacMurchy interviewed officials of the provincial health department with a view to securing co-operation, in securing all information possible regarding births, conditions affecting the mother, etc. that will enable the health department at Ottawa to try to reduce the high maternal death rate and eliminate it altogether if possible. Information will also be given which may enable the Dominion authorities to trace each case and find out if precautions had been taken to prevent deaths.

BLIND OSTEOPATHS GUESTS AT BANQUET

Sightless Physicians Graduate With High Honors and Practise With Success.

TORONTO, Ont., July 8. — A group of blind osteopathic physicians were guests at a banquet given to-night by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in its headquarters at Pearson Hall, 186 Beverley Street.

Many sightless men and women have graduated from the various osteopathic institutions with high honors, have passed the tests held by state examining boards with good grades, and have practiced the healing profession with success.

It is necessary, of course, for one of these physicians who engages in general practice, to be associated with some one elese when it comes to the making of laboratory tests, microscopic examinations and such things which require sight. As to the purely mechanical part of the work, however, they make unusually good diagnosticians and their handling of patients is also excellent because of their highly educated sense of touch.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is an organization with centers in Winnipeg and Toronto. Connected with Pearson Hall there is a large free library for the blind, but the chief work of this institute is to teach sightless adults trades, and to read and write, as well as giving assistance in every way possible.

RECOVERY OF VATICAN TREASURES WINS WARM PRAISE FOR CITY'S DETECTIVES

Pope Pius Reported Delighted Over Swift Reparation. Reform In Protective Measures Will Be The Immediate Result.

ROME, July 8.—(Canadian Press) —There was rejoicing at the Vatican and in ecclesiastical circles generally yesterday over the finding of valuable sacred objects which were stolen from the treasury of St. Peter's last Friday night. It is even rumored that a solemn ceremony of thanksgiving will be celebrated in the near future, this having been recommended by Pope Pius, who is reported to be delighted over the speedy reparation for the violation of the sacred territory of the Vatican.

Throughout the day the story of how the Roman detective corps succeeded in apprehending the culprits, thus bringing about the return of the stolen articles, was the chief topic of discussion. Other questions of the moment, such as the value of the lira, were completely lost sight of in the chorus of commendation for the detectives who brought about the arrest of Mariano Stella, a former shoemaker and the other men who are held responsible for the robbery.

The Vatican officials are taking steps to provide for closer vigilance over the irreplacable church treasures. The Vatican police service will be improved and the places where the treasurers are kept will be made more difficult of access. It is expected also that reform measures with a view to preventing such robberies as that of Friday night will be adopted by the City Police force.

WINNIPEG STREET HAD 3 V.C. WINNERS

Women's Canadian Club Proposes Change of Name and Erection of Memorial.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Discovery that one street in Winnipeg has been the home of three Victoria Cross winners may lead to the erection of a permanent memorial and the changing of the name of the street, according to proposals made to the city by the Women's Canadian Club. It is proposed to place memorial lights on the street for Marshal Haig's visit. Pine Street, in the west end, has been found to enjoy the unique honor of having three residents whose valor won them the highest decoration of the British Empire. Two of the heroes fell in action during the war, but the third, Major Robert Shankland, V.C., still is living in this city. The other two were F. W. Hall, who was decorated for bravery at the Ypres salient, April 23, 1915, and Leo Clarke, who won the Victoria Cross at the Somme in 1916.

WOMEN SUPERIOR SAYS DR. GRENFELL

Cites Case in Point Where Nurse Saved Life After Hope Was Abandoned.

MONTREAL, Que., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—"Women are usually equal to and sometimes superior to men when the needs for courage, common-sense and devotion arise," said Dr. W. T. Grenfell, medical missionary, of St. Anthony, Newfoundland, who has just returned to Canada after a tour with Mrs. Grenfell around the world, a trip which proved a delightful vacation after 33 years of service to the British settlers in the Canadian and Newfoundland Labrador.

"The way in which Miss Jardine, a nurse at the St. Anthony Hospital, co-operated with Rev. Father Thibault, a French-Canadian priest from Quebec, in saving the life of a man who, in delirium, had gravely mutiliated himself when medical aid was 60 miles distant, is one instance which makes me say: "Give the woman the challenge and she will always rise to the occasion," continued Dr. Grenfell.

'Miss Jardine said to the priest: 'You administer the last rites and then give him the chloroform,' which the priest did. Thereupon the nurse attended to the man who was very close to death, and shortly afterwards the patient was quite well."

PEREGRINATION AND MUSICIANS

Peculiar Relation Between Walking and the Effervescence of Music.

STICK COMMON SYMBOL

To sing, hum, whistle or generally adumbrate music is at once the distinction and the pride the duty and the pleasure of walker ....the most moderately and modestly musical of men become on a walk encyclopedic in their range of melody and Protean in the variety of tone-color. There is surely some natural kinship between walking and music; the musical terms—andante movement, accompaniment—are full of suggestive metaphor, and the sacred symbol of both arts in the wooden stick which marks the stride of the walker and pulsates to the heart-beats of the orchestra.

The most obvious ground for this kinship is rhythm. The simple beat of the foot on the ground, while the natural swing of the body above it, suggests inevitably the beat of the musical bar. It is difficult to walk for long under the sway of the regular "one, two, one, two," without witting a melody to it; it is even more difficult to hear a melody played or sung when walking without dropping instinctively into its ryhthm. A London crowd, the most apathetic of masses, begins to march in unison when a barrel organ strikes up "The Soldiers of the Queen" or the Intermezzo of Mascagni or some other item from the repertory of mechanical music; and if ever you wish to deride, condemn, tramp on and ....triumph over a tune (which happens to all of us sometimes), there is nothing more satisfying than to walk past the band or gramophone from whence it issues at a step cutting clean across its rhythm.

The FLAPPER WIFE

"Contented? I'm going to be happier than any lark!" Gloria bubbled. "Why, it seems wonderful to me to be here in your arms again! I thought I'd lost you forever and ever—just when I found out how much I love you . . ."

"Yes, but there's more than just love to this marriage business," Dick answered. "Love's only an occasional flash to brighten the whole. . . . You're going to have to do your own work, for I shall always be poor, I suppose. And there'll be worries . . . and illness. . . ."

"And babies and bothers . . . and all the things that make life worth living!" Gloria went on. She had one of her penetrating flashes.

"And I shall grow old and lose my looks, and you'll grow staid and pompous and prosperous," she went on with a wry little smile. "But we'll still love each other, won't we? . . . And let me tell you something . . . you'll have to set your foot down harder than you ever did before with me! A woman loves a man to run her to a frazzle! If you'd done that in the beginning I wouldn't have got into so much mischief!"

Dick threw back his head and laughed. "Glory, you're a wonder!" he said, his eyes twinkling. "I knew that, somehow or other, you'd lay all this trouble we've had on my doorstep. . . . Well, all right, it was my fault you got into mischief. What else did I do that I shouldn't have done?"

"Your technique as a husband was all wrong." Gloria made a sweeping gesture with one small dramatic hand. "You shouldn't have let me leave you and go home to my mother. . . . But thank heaven, we've both fallen on our feet, and we're here together at last! . . . Oh, I can't believe it. I thought you were gone for good."

She drew his head down to hers.

. . . Ah, it was good to be here . . . to be held . . . to surrender herself! Gloria felt as if she were in a globe of happiness.

"Dick," she said drowsily, contentedly, from the shelter of his arms, "did you ever stop to think how it is for two people to care for just each other . . . and to have little children because of their caring so? Don't you think there's something very fine and sweet about it?"

Dick held her closer. "Of course I do," he answered. "I've been trying to tell you that all along, Flapper, but you never would believe it before, would you?"

She shook her head. "Oh, my dear, to think that I almost lost you!" she cried, half strangling him with her arms. Most surprisingly she burst into a storm of crying.

"What a simp I am to cry like this!" she sobbed against his coat. "What am I doing it for when I'm so h—happy?"

Dick patted her soft hair. "There, there, cry all you want to!" he said. "I know. . . . I understand."

He raised her hidden face and kissed the tremulous scarlet mouth . . . the wet white eyelids. Then he moved away from her, toward the outer door.

"Where are you going now?" Gloria cried in follish panic.

"Just out doors for a second," Dick answered. "Wait here for me. . . . I want to pull that "For Sale" sign out of the front lawn."

And so the story of Gloria, the Flapper Wife, ends, and the modern chronicle of Gloria, the Wife and Mother, begins.

We say today that we have a New Woman who votes and drives her own car, who plays golf and—sometimes—smokes a cigaret. But she's not a New Woman at all! At heart she is the same woman who brought up her stalwart young in a cave; who reared them in log cabins on the New England coast three centuries ago; who took them with her into the Covered Wagons that were part of a westward moving army almost a hundred years before our time!

. . . And she is the same woman everywhere, whether you find her in an igloo in an Eskimo village or in many-towered Manhattan . . . or in the romantic islands of the southern seas.

THE END.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, JULY 9.

A very likely and very fortunate day may be forecast from the dominant lunar and mutual aspects. Change or travel of importance are presaged and the financial outlook is said to be promising, Jupiter being in friendly rule. Mercury, also favorable, should bring quick action in commercial transactions, encouraging new contracts and affiliations. However, it would be well to be on guard against fraud or treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly fortunate year, with business satisfactory and the financial prospects fortified. New business and contracts are encouraged, but beware of fraud and treachery. A child born on this day should be quick, clever and versatile. It should be fond of travel and make many advantageous changes in life, being generally successful in its undertakings.

There'll come a moment when your feet must be seen!

That moment is close at hand. No concealing stockings, no sandals even—just bare feet. . . . You will slip into your new bathing suit and step out onto the sand. All eyes will be upon you, will appraise your stockingless legs and feet—for it is no longer the fashion to cover the feet for bathing. Are your feet well-cared for, shapely, without disfiguring blemishes? If you have even one little corn it will be noted and remembered against you. . . . For no one need have corns. Nice people don't have them. At the first hint of one, they apply a Blue-jay plaster. It is now removing half the corns that grow. They're off because they're out. Dainty shoes may cause new corns, but a corn that Blue-jay removes is gone forever.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BETTY LEARNS A GOOD LESSON.

Betty was a smart little girl in school, but she had one bad fault. Betty liked to whisper, and when the teacher caught her whispering Betty would have to stay after school.

One day her Mama had promised to take Betty downtown after school. But when she forgot and whispered, the teacher made her stay long after the other children had gone.

Betty lay her head on her desk and began to cry, when a tiny hand touched her shoulder. Looking up, Betty saw a merry little elfin standing at her side.

"What's wrong now?" he asked.

"Oh, Gocomeback," Betty sobbed. "I was going to go downtown with Mama and I have to stay after school just because I whispered, as if that would hurt anything," and great big tears ran down Betty's cheeks and dropped on her desk.

"Pshaw, that's too bad," sighed Gocomeback. Then, before Betty knew what was going on, she found herself sailing right through the school-room window, over across the fields, mountains and seas, and when at last Gocomeback let her down on the ground, Betty found herself standing in a strange country.

As far as she could see, there were a few tents scattered over a sea of sand. A queer-looking hut, fashioned of mud and palm leaves, stood over among a few trees.

"Where in the world are we, anyway?" Betty asked, looking around her. "This looks like a desert of some kind."

"So it is; the Sahara Desert," replied Gocomeback. "I thought you might like to visit one of their schools," and he led Betty down quite a way over the sands until they came to an oasis. Here the streets were very narrow. He opened a flap that hung down in a doorway and led Betty into one of the schools.

About fifteen little black faces looked up as they entered. Betty thought them very funny, in their long white robes and white turbans. They were all seated, tailor fashion, on the floor around their teacher, and were all studying out loud.

You never heard such a hubbub in all your life, and Betty had to laugh.

"How can they remember anything they study?" she yelled to Gocomeback. "I should die if I had to study or recite with all that noise."

"Of course, you would," agreed Gocomeback. "And while your whispering in school isn't very loud, if everyone whispered what kind of work could you do?"

Betty never answered, but hung her head.

"You know, Gocomeback," she said sadly, "I never thought of it that way. I'm cured forever of whispering." Then, before Betty could say another word, a hand touched her shoulder and she looked up into her own teacher's face.

Betty knew it would never do to tell the teacher what she had just seen, so she told her that she was sorry she had whispered and promised never to do it again, so Betty never had to stay after school again.

Three-Minute Journeys

WHERE THE ELEPHANT BUYER NEEDS SAGACITY.

To the Western mind, the elephant s just another inhabitant of the Zoo. The East Indian, however, has a different attitude toward this great beast. He has at once a utilitarian purpose, a decorative purpose, and a position as an object of veneration.

Before the era of railroads and motors, the elephant was used extensively as a means of transportation. He is comparatively unimportant now as an animal of service, but, for all that, a good elephant will sometimes bring as much as $6,900, and the average, full-grown animal brings $3,000 at a sale.

This is because the Hindu requires elephants for all his big ceremonies and processions. They are essential to weddings with any pretentions to style.

When bought for these purposes, the elephant is magnificently decorated. He is bedecked with royal blue and scarlet and gold trappings. His face is oiled so that the skin of his forehead shines like a bald pate. Then a design of brightly colored chalks and paints is applied to cover the oil.

It takes a wary buyer not to be deceived at an elephant sale, for there are innumerable tricks that the clever dealer may practice. There may be scars on the elephant's back that have been covered with a black liquid ename . The soles of his feet may be plastered with putty to conceal the cracks that have been worn in them. Missing toes may be glued on. Any of these defects would bring the price down greatly, and so the purchaser must wa ch for them.

You can tell something of an elephant's age by his ears. They begin to fold over at about the age of twenty-two. At twenty-five he is full grown, but he does not achieve his full strength until about thirty-five.

In the course of the hundred years or more that is the average span of life of an elephant, he consumes over a thousand pounds of green fodder and twenty-five pounds of un-husked rice every day. So you can easily see that he is an expensive animal.

However, the Hindu feels that he is an investment well worth the expense, for there is something rather sacred about him. There are innumerable religious stories about the elephant and he is generally regarded as the sum of all wisdom.

SCHOOL STAFFS ALWAYS CHANGE

Annual List of Resignations and New Appointments for Board Meeting.

SEVEN APPOINTED

School teachers will get married, as there is nothing in the contract to prevent them, according to G. Harry Thompson, secretary of the Board of Education, so that the annual list of lady teachers who had resigned, and with the corresponding list of new appointees was read at the July meeting of the Board last night.

The application of L. J. Pettit of the Collegiate staff for leave of absence until January 1, 1926, was granted, as Mr. Pettit has been ordered by his physician to take a rest. It was decided that his salary should be paid to him until the end of the year. Advertisements for a temporary teacher to fill his place brought forth four applications, none of which were satisfactory to Mr. Kenner or the Appointment Committee. If no suitable person can be engaged, Mrs. Kenner has offered to step back into harness again for a few months.

In view of the long service of Miss Mary Erskine, it was recommended by the Committee on appointments her salary be paid to December 31st, which was passed.

Open Tenders Next Month.

It was moved by E. B. Fowler and seconded by Dr. F. C. Neal, that the Board adjourn until the first Tuesday in September, unless called by the Chairman. Mrs. Morris, on behalf of the building committee asked for instructions, as tenders for the proposed extension to the Collegiate were to be opened by the committee on August 3, and while a recommendation to the board was in the committee's power, she did not feel that they could take any further step. The members present concurred in her opinion that the Board should consider the tenders before submitting that accepted to the Department of Education for information regarding the amount of the Provincial grant towards the building and maintenance of the school.

When full information has been received, so that a definite cost can be submitted to the council, a round table conference is to be held, so that the Aldermen may have a chance to think over the figures before acting on the matter.

It was expected that a deputation would be present from several school sections of North Monaghan Township, notification of its intention to come having been received, but no one appeared. The purpose of the deputation was to ask what arrangements could be made for High School pupils from the surrounding district. It was said by J. A. McKone that no accommodation could be possible this year, and that unless new facilities were provided, this accommodation could not be given next year, either. The desire of pupils who put in two years in surrounding continuation schools for admittance into the higher forms of the Collegiate cannot be filled.

Tenders Let.

The contract for school supplies was let by the Supervision Committee to Messrs. Trebilcock Brothers, while the Property Committee reported that J. E. A. Fitzgerald had been awarded the contract for fuel.

Some interesting figures were shown in the report of Dr. J. C. Greene, school dental officer. During the term of 1923-1924 he made 2,803 examinations, found 6,481 cavities in the permanent teeth, and found only 248 pupils with teeth O.K. There were 90 per cent. of the pupils needed dental treatment. During the term of 1924-1925, he made 2,609 examinations and found 3,955 cavities in the permanent teeth. Six hundred and forty-seven of the pupils were O.K., only 69 per cent. needing any dental treatment.

Good Attendance.

The report of the Public School Inspector showed 2,898 pupils enrolled and an average attendance of 2,783, or 96 per cent., while at attendance at the Collegiate Institute averaged 513 on an enrollment of 521 being 98 per cent.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

To relieve irritation and pain caused by the bites of insects, such as ants, spiders, bedbugs and mosquitoes, use carbolic acid, one-half dram; glycerine, three drams, and rose water sufficient to make three ounces.

Mix the solution and apply freely to the bite or sting.

Mosquito bites are often rank poison, especially upon the delicate flesh of children.

Discomfort is obviated by rubbing the exposed parts with a mixture of one part oil of saassfras with five parts of proof alcohol. Every three or four hours slight rubbing must be repeated.

A paste of baking soda and water is good for bites of spiders and other insects, unless they are of the unusually virulent type. Listerine also is good.

Irritation that is caused in some persons by mosquito bites may be relieved by the application of ipecacuanha, made into a paste with water or vinegar. Purchase the ipecacuanha at the drug store.

Weak ammonia water, oil, salt water or iodine are other remedies for insect bites.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Forgetting for the time being all about speeches against Sunday bathing (which are dry things anyhow), and in opposition to Sunday band concerts, let us unite in reading about the speech of animals as set forth in the London Spectator. .."The little pipistrelle that now begins to hawk about lawns, shrieks like an owl", says the writer. "..The feet of insects clatter on the ground; a million wings swish and sough like the wind; the shrews shrill their hunting notes, and under the waters (it is maintained) the fish bark and yelp to call stragglers to the pack."

We presume the Spectator is indicating a nice, quiet place to spend the summer.

Well, while we were pasing a picnic ground at Bewdley last Sunday—and in spite of the Aldermanic board of censors we still dare to say we had a picnic on Sunday—the noise sounded like the chairman of committees striking estimates. We investigated and found there a number of ants expressing their opinion of a picnicking party that had left behind nothing but a dill pickle. But when it comes to pipistreiles disturbing the peace out on the lawn, we maintain that they never have gone so far as to drown out the 5 a.m. lawnmower.

When it comes to fish, wherever they may be, that is a different matter. That they converse, that dog fish bark, that cat fish meow, and that stragglers may be called to get their bullheads together—all of this is admitted. In fact we will go so far as to admit that as if with one mighty voice the fish in the last lake we fished bade it "Good-bye", although they left behind none to wave to and yell "Don't forget to write."

On another occasion we recall, personally, that one whole night in in a tent for us was ruined by a dogfish baying at the moon. We threw a bootjack at it and the bootjack, from force of habit, hit a catfish.

Leaving all joking aside, though, in talking of animal voices, if there is any sound more distracting than that made by a human eating celery, it is that of a moth gnawing at a nail on a married man's trousers believing it to be a button. And returning to a contemplation of fish conversation, once upon a time in our youthful days people were interested in what the wild waves might be saying, when, as a matter of fact, it was not the wild waves at all, but a school of minnows imploring an amateur fisherman to send them down some more angleworms. Or it may have been the bleachers shouting at a duel between two sword fish.

We are fortunate in the city that our nerves are not shattered by the clattering of the feet of insects over the ground. Think of the din where there are centipedes disregarding the signs that announce "Zone of Quiet" and think of these clattering insect feet in Holland, where they wear wooden shoes.

We are indebted to The London Spectator.

Well! Peterborough isn't the only place! Down in Grand Rapids they still allow Sunday bathing, but what do you think? They have made a regulation that all demonstrations of affection in front seat of automobiles in public streets are to be subject to fine, imprisonment, or both, according to the flagrance of the offence. These half measures annoy us. Why didn't they stop the practice completely by sentencing the culprits to marriage?

Then right on top of the new decree a Grand Rapids motorist bit the finger of a police officer who admonished him on the subject. Maybe he did it in a good natured, playful way by accident, while being patted on the head.

Up A Tree

This evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., we presume, will be called to order by the judge, who will rap on his bench with a cocoanut. Then quartet will sing: "It makes no difference what you were, it's what you are today", accompanied by a hand organ. The names of the jurors will be drawn out of a tin cup, held by a man at the end of a chain and wearing a little red cap. Then the trial will begin and each party will try to put the other up a tree.

There are many signs that men have not evoluted as far as they should. For instance you never see a man in a group of "bathing beauties." And now the old-fashioned man who had to die to get into the parlor has a son who breaks a leg occasionally trying to worm his way into the breakfast alcove.

And animals and birds have gone too far—witness the Peterborough parrot that can say 45 words. One is "climate" and the other 44 are adjectives.

We were flattered to receive a letter yesterday from Darwin himself, around whose teaching a court case is seething in United States.

Monkey Talk

There is, of course, reason to doubt the authenticity of the signature, no originals of the great Darwin being available for comparison. None of the banks in the city carried his account, so his signature cannot be reached. However, some weighty truths are put forward by this "Darwin", whose letter will be found under "The Voice of the People". He asks, for instance, "If it it were not for evolution, where would we be?" Ah! Where indeed! Perhaps we would now be amoebe, the singular of which is a protozoan having a simple protoplasmic body and effecting movement by finger-like extensions of its substance. Then we would have all the Sunday bathing we wanted.

Darwin took our harmless writing in a wrong spirit. Not for anything would we "poke fun" at an amoeba. You never know the comeback in dealing with things like that. Maybe it might refer to the foolishness of moderns, or the imbecility of shieks, bobbed hair, or the delusions of electors—and then what could we say?

Nix, brother Darwin, evolute all you like.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THE RELAATION BETWEEN DEEP BREATHING AND MORALS

Do you believe that the breathing capacity bears any important relationship to goodness of character?

My friend, Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., has studied 4,000 chest measurements to show the connection between breathing and delinquency in women. Dr. Hoffman is a conservative man and would be the last to make a positive conclusion in a matter of this sort, but what he found is very interesting.

The investigations show that the breathing capacity of delinquents is distinctly less than in normal women. In women over thirty years of age, the delinquents have a chest expansion of three inches, as against four inches for normal women. Under thirty, the normal women have an expansion of four and a half inches, at least a half inch more than the delinquents possess.

You will recall that I am all the time preaching to you the importance of deep breathing. I have done this because of what it means to your physical well being. I have not thought of its relationship to morals.

It is easy to see, however, that there can well be a connection. Unless the brain is well irrigated with pure blood it cannot operate as it should.

The nourishment of the body and the proper functioning of all the vital organs are dependent on the purity of the blood supply. The blood cannot be rich and capable unless the lungs give it an abundance of oxygen.

It is reasonable to believe, then, that delinquency which depends on wrong operation of the mind, or on wrong impulses due to perverted stimulation of certain organs, might well come from shallow breathing. To have the quantities or oxygen essential to normal blood supply and proper flow of nerve energy, there must be the fullest use of the breathing machinery.

The chest expansion is an index of the degree of lung deevlopment. If there is not free expansion there is no likelihood of obtaining the necessary oxygen.

A healthy body and a clear brain depend on an abundance of fresh air.

HEADS ROTARY

Elected President of Rotary International.

JAIL IS CITY'S COOLEST PLACE BARRING ONLY REFRIGERATORS BUT WHO WANTS A JOB THERE?

Hot Months Make People Long for a Dip in Beautiful Snowdrift.

SOME HOT WORK.

Even Mixer Of Ice Cream Sodas May Become Heated In Rush.

When the mercury begins making altitude records in the torrid months of July and August is the time when the perspiring populace with one accord longs for a dip in a pure white snowdrift—or for a cooler job.

It is perfectly natural for everyone to imagine that his or her job is the one position in all the world to be abhorred and ridiculed, and it is quite probable that summer jobs are compared favorably or otherwise for the degree of comfort which can be maintained throughout the performance of duty.

The bricklayer perched on the scaffold, exposed to the direct and reflected heat rays, may bitterly denounce his $10 a day pastime and wish fervently that he had been an iceman, while the iceman as he hustles the cakes from home to home, may be perspiring equally as much as the disgruntled builder.

While there are jobs that seem but a preparation for a torrid after life, there are many others which make summer merely a passing incident, a slight surcease from obligations to the coal man and heavy underwear outfitters.

Those whose duties involve cruising up and down the Trent Canal depart with the gleeful knowledge that cooling breezes will tone down the scorching rays. Yet on the same steamers there are stokers stripped to the waist who strive to satiate the steam monster and perspire copiously while doing so.

Truck drivers and taxi cab men patrol the streets stirring up a breeze as they move. Only when they stop do they experience discomfort from the heat.

Work in saw mills is usually comfortable, as the logs come up dripping from the water and a coolness results from the rapid evaporation of the moisture.

Refrigerators Cool.

In the C.P.C. there are numbers who work in the storage and refrigerating rooms, the temperature of which hovers around the zero mark. These men are unaware of Old Sol's best efforts, although discomfort may be experienced when they step out of the cool areas after work is done, due to the rapid change of conditions. A man sawing ice cakes at the sanitary plant said that the change might interfere with the health.

Men who work in storage plants experience slightly more comfort as the place where they work is cool, but not necessarily too cold, and operations might be carried on in comfort.

Grocery stores, restaurants and soda fountains are usually cool places in which to work, providing that the rush of trade does not come, as it usually does, all at once. On those occasions the vendor of cooling drinks and ices may become much more heated than the importunate customer.

Jail Is Delight.

The civic buildings are all noted for their coolness. Churches, the Library, the Armouries and the City Hall are the abiding places of a deep and grateful coolness, while the jail is a positive delight, and sojourners there should be content and happy that they are not out on the county road or shingling a house as the sun's darts flash earthward.

There are hot jobs in Peterboro. A moulder in a foundry has to deal with melted metal which requires the heat of blast furnaces to reduce it to that state. When this artificial heat is added to the natural product a super-changed atmosphere results and the laborer perforce earns his bread in the approved fashion, by the sweat of his brow.

In boiler shops where electric rivet heaters add their glare, competing with the sun, rivetters and brickers-up toil mightily, often engaged in piece-work production, wherein the men generate great quantities of heat units. Small wonder that these men cherish a cool evening on the porch when their day is spent in a veritable hades of industry. Yet these men are usually happy and take a genuine interest in their tasks as they try to improve on previous records.

One thing is certain, that wherever man's tasks may lead him, the world's work must go on, and there will always be some one to perform the jobs whether the conditions are favorable or not, and the compensating fact that the hard jobs are the best paid adds some modicum of salve to what might otherwise constitute a grievous injury.

"Which would you rather do, or go fishing?" said Roy to Jimmy, a few days after they had found the Kingfisher's nest in the sandy bank.

"Well, if you ask me," said Jimmy, "I'd still like to go fishing, if some bird would be sure to come along and start something—just start something, that's all."

"Let's go out to Wess Johnson's place," said Roy, "maybe he knows where to find a fox or something or other."

So that's how it turned out that Jimmy and Roy turned up in Johnson's farm yard, one summer day.

Wess was up in the barn, watching some barn swallows feeding their young ones, "about fifty mosquitoes a minute," as Wess puts it, "and that's why we like them about the house." "What's on your mind, Jimmy?—hello Roy—say, come on up and see my new rope trick," but Jimmy and Roy were inclined to the woods, and Wess was invited to come down and lead the Way.

"Let's go and see the Kingfishers again, Wess," said Jimmy, "I hate a thief, but when it is a Kingfisher, well, that's different, and anyway, don't they have the swell crest sticking up on their heads, though, and don't they have a terrible hoarse laugh when they fool a fellow? and say, can't they dive and catch fish and juggle them in the air so they will go down their throats head first?"

By this time, the three boys were fairly on the way to the gate of the barn yard and soon passed through the yard, over the rail fence and beyond and into the woods.

The boys had reached the winding creek, and were just beginning to draw near to the bend where the Kingfishers had their nest in the hole in the bank, when Wess, who was leading, held out his arms, as a signal to stop short. His very attitude was enough. Silence reigned.

"What is it?" said Jimmy, who could not notice anything.

"Voices of boys up the creek," said Wess, "and it sounds too near that nest to suit me. Let's hurry."

The boys hurried, Wess in the lead; then he stopped suddenly and said, "If I get in a fight, just for nothing but a bird, will you back me up?"

"Lead on, MacDuff!" said his followers, and to-morrow's Nature Lore will tell the result.

Irritations

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

When real satisfaction's controlling your mind, I wonder how often you've found that a person can say things, though not meant unkind, and change all your feelings around.

It isn't so bad to be doin' the things round the house that the Missus is wishin', but then comes a neighbor, whom restlessness brings, by sayin', "Come on, let's go fishin'."

"This grass cuttin' job is my favorite task," a home-body man often thinks. But just at that time an acquaintance will ask, "How come you're not out on the links?"

You don't mind it much if a tire blows out while you gaily are drivin' along, till some passerby very loudly will shout, "Hello, there, has something gone wrong?"

'Tis nice just to take things that hit you, and grin. You might just as well, on the whole. But, always some person will stick their nose in and knock all your thoughts for a goal.

MERMAID TO MERE MAID

By Juanita Hamel

How enviously Father Neptune's daughter gazes on the fairest product of Mother Nature. Never for the little mermaid the joys and pleasures and love which are the lot of the earth-maiden. Never can she know the divine witchery of a moonlight night or the soft lilting strains of a dreamy waltz or the thrill of a first kiss. She knows of these things, but knows, too, that they are never for her. And she gazes on her earth-sister with wistful, longing eyes, wishing, wishing as hard as ever she can that she might change places for one little hour. But that, too, is never to be. Always for her the cool depths of the ocean bed and for the mere maid the warmth of love and happiness and life. So they gaze on each other wonderingly, enviously, pityingly. Can you blame them?

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am engaged to a young man whom I love very dearly. He has left town and although he has promised to write I haven't heard from him.

Shall I write him?

BOB.

BOB: Since you are engaged to this young man it is your privilege to write him and find out just why he has not written you. Ask your fiance what his plans are. If you do this tactfully he will not feel that you are too bold or forward, and in all probability he will respond immediately.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

How should a girl answer a young man if she wishes to give him permission to take her home?

DOLLY.

DOLLY: If a young man has asked permission to escort you home, it's merely necessary to say, "Thank you. I should love to have you come," or some such pleasantry.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper, and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

Mrs. Geo. McRae of Allan, Sask., a reader of The Examiner, sends this recipe for Scotch Short Bread:

2 cups flour.
1 cup butter (salt washed out.
½ cup fine granulated sugar.
Put flour and sugar together.
Add butter and work together. Knead like bread for a long time. Place on paper in pan, prick with fork clear through. Let stand overnight and bake to a light brown.

TODAY'S FASHION

By Vera Winston

This Simple Black Satin Summer Frock Is Trimmed with Ecru Net and Lace.

A simple frock which is dark in color and light in weight is almost a necessity for street wear during the Summer especially if one is in the city. Such a model is shown here. It would also be good for traveling.

The dress is made of black satin, a thin quality which does not impart unnecessary warmth. It is straight until it flares into a circular inset at the hem. The collar, cuffs and jabot are of ecru net, edged with dainty ecru lace.

This dress would also be attractive in navy georgette, worn over a crepe de Chine slip of navy.

Mr. L. J. Pettit, who has been ill, not with pneumonia, as stated yesterday's paper, is rapidly recovering and will very shortly be out as usual.

Let's Talk It Over

SHOULD OFFICE GIRLS DO CHORES AT HOME

Jane and Betty want to know if we think this is fair:

Don't they do enough working eight hours at the office without being expected to pitch in and wash the supper dishes when they get home at night? And sometimes even help cook the supper before they can get a bite to eat? And there's Mother and Amy sitting around all day, without anything to do but take care of a four-room apartment, and expecting Jane and Betty to do part of the work as well as pay the bills.

Are Mother and Amy cripples? No, indeed. Mother is plump and pretty and doesn't look near her forty-eight years. And Amy is as spry as a six-year-old, even if she is a bit more sallow and wrinkled than she should be at thirty. Amy, in fact, looks older than Mother. It's hard to realize that she is Mother's daughter and half-sister to Betty and Jane. Betty and Jane are only seventeen and nineteen themselves, and full of it. They're particularly full of it every night when they have to tackle that pile of dishes.

What if Amy had a nervous breakdown three years ago and has been a "chronic invalid" ever since. It doesn't interfere with her eating like a house afire and taking in a movie most every day, does it? I'll say it doesn't. And what's the big idea of Mother acting as if she was suddenly paralyzed the minute supper's over? What's she done all day to bring on a collapse?

Other girls' mothers don't act that way—lots of them, at any rate. Lookit Grace Emery's mother. Takes care of Grace every night just as if she was a wax doll. Won't let her touch a thing around the house. Gee! Some girls have all the luck. They're getting sick of it, that's what they are. Sick of doing a man's work at the office and then coming home and doing the woman's job in the house. And when they kick about it, Ma and Amy act as if the end of the world was coming. The very idea! A coupla kids kicking because they have to do a few dishes! Why, just lookit the dishes they was doing when they was seventeen and nineteen! That's gratitude for you! Here Ma and Amy slave all day long to make a nice home for them, and all they can do is kick because they're asked to do a few dishes!

So Jane and Betty have decided that they'll have to do something more than kick. How about taking a room like the Ellis girls are doing? Or maybe going in with a coupla more girls and getting an apartment? Say, that would be Some Life! Sure, they'd have to do dishes then, too, but it would be different. They'd be getting something out of it. And that would be fair. But this isn't fair, is it? ask Betty and Jane.

No, it isn't! If you earn the money and pay the bills, Jane and Betty, it's up to Mother and Amy to carry the load at home. They weren't working in offices in those days when they served their turn at the family dishpan. They were living in homes and dishwashing was part of their regular job. But it shouldn't be part of yours—any more than it should be part of a tired man's job. And although I have no desire to break up a fine home, I'd earnestly advise you to take a vacation in rooms if you can't enforce your argument any other way.

GOOD MANNERS

Making an especial effort to entertain a guest who is to stay for a week or longer has gone out of custom in the fashionable world except for an important personage. A visit from some high official, for instance, would necessitate formal etiquet and a series of entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher will be pleased to greet friends on the occasion of their golden wedding Saturday, July 11th, between two and six p.m., at their home, Bensfort, South Monaghan.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

FOR MUSHROOM LOVERS.

The abundant supply of fresh mushrooms at this season, in most all city markets, insures a treat to those who are fond of them. The price is also attractive, and as the mushrooms can be used as substitute for meat, they are really economical.

Peel the mushrooms break off the stems and wipe stems and gills with a fine cloth, wrung out of clear water, and they are ready to cook in any way desired. For simple frying, put a tablespoonful of butter into a steel frying pan and when melted put in a pound of the mushrooms prepared as directed, cover and cook gently five minutes; then uncover, sprinkle with a little pepper and salt and lightly brown for four or five minutes. Lift the mushrooms to a hot dish and garnish with parsley and toast sippets. Or turn a cupful of light cream into the gravy, thicken it with a little cornstarch and turn it over the mushrooms.

Prepare the mushrooms as directed if they are to be broiled, then dip each flap in melted butter and place it on a fine mesh buttered broiler; place it over the coals, or under the gas flame, and delicately brown them. Serve on slices of dainty toast and garnish with parsley. This is a very delicious and simple way of cooking the dainty mushrooms.

Stuffed Mushrooms.

Peel, cap, stem and dip in melted butter eighteen flaps. Prepare a forcemeat of a small cupful of minced cold boiled chicken, a teaspoonful each of minced red pepper, celery leaves and parsley. Add pepper, salt, juice of a large onion, two teaspoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, a saltspoonful of curry powder, and just enough rich cream sauce to moisten the mass, adding also a tablespoonful of dry fine crumbs. Lay each cap on a buttered baking dish, gill side up, and make a mound of the stuffing on top of each. Cover and cook in the oven for five minutes, then baste with a little melted butter and cook gently for about twenty minutes in a medium oven, basting frequently so that they do not brown too quickly. Serve as an entree. Garnish with sprays of parsley and lemon quarters.

About Ourselves And Other People

DOES MODERN MUSIC REFLECT THE TIMES?

The man with the silver in the edge of his hair was cross.

"What in the world is the matter with all this jazz music?" he said.

"I thought it was supposed to be gay and full of pep and all that sort of thing. Well it isn't—not the jazz that I hear.

"A friend of mine came to stay in my apartment with me for a week or so and he's brought with him the very latest word in phonographs and all his up-to-the minute records.

"This morning when we were having our coffee, my friend wound up the phonograph and put on a record.

"The name of it was 'My Mexicala Rose,' It was dedicated to a prosperous, happy, healthy American. As I listened to the song I learned that said American was married to a beautiful woman. That they drifted down to Tia Juana where he lost said wife by her eloping with a chauffeur or somebody—well, you could believe it when you heard the music. Oh, the saxophone and the way it moaned and groaned and bawled.

"Then he put on a record, 'I Wonder What's Become of Sally.' This song reminds the listener that Sally and the vocalist were years ago great pals, that he longs for her company and through some circumstances over which he has no control, he has lost both her telephone number and her mailing address—and that's that.

"That saxophone felt awfully about it. It brayed and bawled and sobbed and groaned—not at all 'peppy' to my mind.

"Not one of 'em—all about I'm lonesome or I'm blue or Wait till you Hear About Me or Something—no, to my mind the 1925 jazz music is far from being a bracer.

"I wonder if the music of to-day is the voice of the spirit of the times.

"Resentment, restlessness, dis-satisfaction, what's the use, who cares—is that what it all means? I wonder," said the man with the silver in the edge of his hair.

I wonder too—do you?

SECRETS OF CHARM

SOME POINTERS ON BEAUTY.

A famous wag of the day has said that the good die young, because the really good in this world are the ones who bother to keep young. No matter what their age in years, they are young because they have kept themselves looking young, and this, in turn, acts upon their spirits and keeps the owner young in mind as well as in appearance.

What a happy way of looking on the thing!

Of course, it's a woman's duty to keep young, and I'm so glad the men of the age realize this as well as the women. Then, perhaps, husbands will be kindlier in their comments on the wife's rolling vigorously about the bedroom floor in the mornings or earnestly applying the rolling pin to keep her hips in trim. He should not mind if she occasionally dips into the household budget to pay for an extra jar of cold cream or gets home late to prepare his dinner because she has been out sunning her hair in the park or taking a swimming lesson for grace and beauty.

Every husband wants a wife he can be proud to introduce his friends to, whether the friends in question be men or women. Therefore he should look upon all attempts to aid beauty with kindly eye—and he should never make facetious remarks about his wife's rolling pin or ankle reducing exercise if she is inclined to be at all sensitive about them. He should be glad instead that she cares as much as she does about her personal appearance and that he can be proud of her whether they are at home or abroad.

And all this advice to wives holds good for girls who are as yet unmarried. Don't let your families laugh you out of your beauty improvement measures, for if they do it is they who are behind the times and who should realize that it is your duty and pleasure to make yourself look as well as you possibly can. Of course, like all things, this practice of beauty should not be run into the ground. That is, don't make yourself a bore to others by talking about your diet or your strenuous exercises. Just stick quietly to them and leave it to others to remark upon the improvement in your appearance.

I once heard a young girl say that it was rather fun to diet, because the made such good dinner-table conversation when one was at a party and had to pass by most of the good things. This, my dears, is the wrong idea. Don't talk about it. I realized, upon hearing such a remark, that the girl who made it must be a terrible bore to her companions, and that other things besides too much flesh stood in the way of her and attractiveness.

Why is this little bottle on 3,000,000 toilet tables?

WHAT is this rite of the toilette which 3,000,000 women so fastidiously observe? This little bottle, so ever present—what is it?

A means to preserve one of the most powerful of feminine appeals, ageless, always potent in womankind. It is the appeal which is your person—dainty, sweet, immaculately clean.

And it is a thing which is not attained by soap and water, by perfumed baths, alone. For there is a trouble maker here which calls for corrective measures. — Perspiration always leaves the lingering mark of its presence.

Under the arm it is particularly troublesome—due to the fact that the perspiration glands here are very active and normal evaporation in this shut-in hollow is impossible. Physicians call this condition Hyperidrosis and say it is entirely harmless to control excessive perspiration in so small an area.

As a safe, scientific corrective of excessive perspiration Odorono was formulated by a physician. It is now widely used in hospitals by physicians and nurses.

One application gives you complete relief from all perspiration annoyance for at least three days. Its regular use just twice a week will safeguard you from distressing perspiration moisture and unpleasant underarm odor.

No more stained and ruined clothing; no more doubt of your perfect daintiness! Enjoy this assurance. You can get Odorono at any toilet counter, 35c, 60c and $1, or sent by mail postpaid. Address The Odorono Company, Ltd., 107 Duke Street, Toronto.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Long ago I adopted a trick in my own play which, so far as I know, is not generally made use of as it well could be by the average golfer. When I tee a ball I always choose a spot where there is a weed, a dandelion or something about one foot directly in front of the ball in the line of direction. When I swing I then aim at this spot, through the ball. It is one thing to merely tell yourself you till hit through a straight line, but it is mush more helpful, I have found, to have the definite mark out there in front of the ball—it can be followed on the fairway; there is always a weed, a blade of all grass or something to provide the follow through objective. Try it.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

With Belleville coming here Saturday the week-end crowd should be larger than ever, in view of the scrap put up by the Railroaders at Riverside Park this season. Many fans passed up the earlier Belleville games figuring Walter Gerow's men would be fairly easy picking for the Petes, and thus they missed two of the most thrilling battles of the year. Belleville proved about as tame as a bottle of moonshiner's hootch, and, incidentally, as dangerous, and both games were fights from the announcement of the batteries. As Belleville must win to stay in the running and the homesters to keep up near the top, there will be plenty of fireworks here Saturday. If Al. Heckman goes to the mound in Belleville today, Jeff Hardill will do the gunning on Saturday.

It has remained for the Mercantile League Executive to decide that a ball game played with seven men a side is a legal fixture. This discovery, if confirmed by Judge Landis, will be hailed as a life-saver by big league ball clubs, who can immediately begin to cut down the size of their squads and eliminate some of the overhead.

The Keene girls' baseball club showed softball fans a smooth-working team in their game with the Canadian Woollens at Central Park last night, when after spotting the Peterboro girls four runs in the first inning, they proceeded to hand the Woollens a sound walloping, the final score being 17 to 4. The Keene girls' fielding was snappy and steady, they got good pitching from Miss McCarthy, and on the offensive they hammered the Spalding with a vengeance. Woollens failed to score in the last eight innings, and to put an artistic finish on their performance, the girls from Otonabee's capital wound up the last inning with a fast double play.

Peterboro lost one of its most devoted hockey fans in the sudden passing of Willis Crocker, who rarely failed in recent seasons to accompany the Peterboro team on its trips away from home. Often, indeed, he was the sole representative of Peterboro fandom, and he was always willing to act in any capacity that would assist the team. He will be greatly missed by the officers and players of the Peterboro club, who found in Mr. Crocker a warm friend and an invaluable ally. Members of the team acted as pall-bearers at the funeral this afternoon, and among the floral tributes was a wreath from the Peterboro Hockey Club, decorated with the colours for which the deceased had so often cheered.

Haig Shows Personal Interest In 56.

VANCOUVER, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Displaying a personal interest in the welfare of each war veteran, Lord Byng, Governor-General of Canada, conversed with fifty-six returned soldier employees of the Vancouver Harbor Commission who lined up for inspection here on Tuesday.

Among them was Michael O'Rourke V.C., D.C.M., M.M., hero of several valorous exploits in action during the world war.

"You should get married," the Governor-General advised him.

"Oh, I am too old now," replied O'Rourke, "besides I can hardly keep myself let alone a wife."

The Governor-General asked about his pension, and on finding that he was getting only $10 a month, asked the Victoria Cross winner to meet him afterward to discuss the subject more fully.

WOOLLENS LOST TO KEENE TEAM

Visiting Girls Held Peterborough Team Scoreless After First Inning

SCORE WAS 17-4.

The fast Keene team, undefeated after a long series of games in the eastern part of the county, came to Peterboro last night and added another to their long string of victories, defeating the local Woollens team 17-4.

The Peterboro girls got away to a good start, scoring 4 runs in the first inning and holding the Keene girls scoreless. That one inning was the last time the Woollens had a look in. Eight runs for Keene in the second were enough to win, but they went ahead again in the fifth and added a pair, got three more in the sixth and eighth, and one in the seventh. During the last eight innings they kept the home team away from the scoring station.

SEEK FOOTHOLD IN BRITAIN FOR FISH

New Outlet for Canadian Product Advocated At Convention.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 8.—(Canadian Press).—"Present indications are that daily supplies of 500 to 1,000 tons of fresh fish from Canada could find a market in Great Britain," declared J. J. Cowie, of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, speaking here Tuesday before the convention of Canadian Fisheries Association. J. J. Harpell, also of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, the other speaker, urged the necessity of developing the co-operative spirit in the fishing industry. Honesty, intelligence and co-operation, he contended, must be taught. The producer, he stated, should have a reasonable thought for the consumer with whom co-operation was necessary.

Mr. Cowie, in making his plea for new markets for Canadian fish, said it was his opinion that the question of shipping Canadian fish to Great Britain was one well worthy of serious consideration and full investigation. "If we were able," he said, "to secure a foothold in the British market for the fresh product, it seems that this would go far towards preventing the outflow of our young fishermen to the United States." He advocated that this new market for Canadian fish be developed by such methods as would employ the individual fisherman all along the Atlantic coast and that care should be taken against glutting the English market. There was reason, he stated, why the trade could not be developed if sufficiently low freights could be arranged. The advisability of shipping fresh fish from Halifax to Liverpool and London markets, he added, has already been proven.

PETERBORO'S PUP POPULATION SHOWS NO SIGN OF DECREASE

Local Kennel Club Encourages Breeding of Best Breeds of Dogs.

COLLIES LEAD AGAIN.

Boston Bull is Favorite Breeding Dog. Fashions are Changing.

Peterborough is going to the dogs! While the human population ebbs and flows in accordance with the changes in social and industrial conditions, the number of canine inhabitants of the city shows a steady increase year after year. The police dog tag work gives its figures as 562. Interest in the breeding of dogs was never so keen as at present. Peterborough now has its Kennel Club of its very own, which meets every Wednesday in the Chamber of Commerce. Last year, at the Exhibition, this Kennel Club staged the first dog show ever held in Peterboro, which was a tremendous success from every point of view, being eclipsed only by the show held in Toronto. This year on September 18 and 19, the experiment will be repeated, the aim this time being to attain the dignity of a three point show. A three point show it should be explained is one at which at least 350 dogs are being actually benched.

So far as numbers are concerned, pride of place must be given to the collie of which there are 83 specimens in the city. But the consensus of opinion among local dog fanciers unanimously and unhesitatingly gives the palm to the Boston Bull as the favorite breeding dog of the moment in this and every other city. The smooth haired terrier who once enjoyed considerable popularity in Peterboro, now finds himself pretty much left out in the cold as the hound, the spaniel and the pomeranian have come to the fore.

Waves of Popularity.

Dogs seem to be carried over the country in waves of popularity. Witness the way in which the police, of which there are now ten among our city dogs, recently jumped into favor. These dogs were formerly known as merely German Shepherd Dogs. They were introduced to this country in 1904, but attracted little attention. Then the war broke out, everything German, of course, was taboo, nevertheless, shrewed observers saw the worth of the animals which some astute opportunists immediately labelled Belgian police dogs under which name they were used in war service and leaped into fame and subsequent popularity.

The police dog is a splendid and eminently useful animal when properly trained," said a Peterborough veterinary surgeon, the other day. "But untrained he is ignorant, vicious and dangerous." He quoted examples of the use of these dogs in Germany and other countries where the policeman walks on one side of the road while the dog trots down the other; and on a sign from the policeman fastens an unshakable grip on the evil-doer. On the other hand a police dog in charge of those who do not understand how to manage it might easily become a public menace. Instances have been known of children being killed by a wild, improperly trained police dog.

One of His Kind.

Through the streets of the city perambulates in state, a solitary Newfoundland, eyeing with lofty indifference the lesser canines who audaciously jostle him in passing. There is also one husky who looks with a bored air at the fox terriers and wonders what on earth the dog family is coming to, when such are these are still so numerous. According to the police dog tag records, there is only one individual in the city who regards his pet as "just a dog." There is another class listed as "mongrels" which it is suspected a strictly accurate and scientific classification of all the local "friends of man" would swell considerably in excess of the 27 entered under that heading. Now and then one many still see on George Street, the unhandsome features of an English Bull dog, usually accompanying a lady, and one instinctively thinks of beauty and the beast.

A comparatively recent arrival is the English Springer Spaniel, practically all imported from the Old Country. Herb Routley has brought over no less than 16 of these immigrants. One of them went last year to New York and carried off third prize in a show wherein were exhibits from Canada, Great Britain and some other European countries, as well as from the States. Curiously enough, the dog that got second prize at this International Show was a brother of the Peterborough competitor while Mr. Routley is at present the owner of the mother of both.

Don't Mind By-Law.

With few exceptions, the owners of good dogs have no kick against the by-law of the council which ordains that a dog must not be allowed to run unaccompanied through the streets. As one man who owns an animal which he values at $1000 pointed out, no persons who owns a really valuable dog would allow the animal to wander about, at the risk of it being lost or destroyed. On the subject of the unnamed, untamed curs that are occasionally seen at large, however, several prominent dog fanciers at some length, very plainly and forcibly indulging in "curses not loud but deep."

Some Strange Names

When it comes to naming a dog, Peterborough owners show a great deal of ingenuity. In fact, some of them seem to have ransacked through ancient and modern history literature and mythology in seeking a name for their pets. There is a Russian Wolfhound in the city who bears the appropriate title of Nicholas Aledig Romanoff. A foxhound called ompey, and a Boston terrier known as Barney Google illustrate the descent from the sublime to the ridiculous. A Springer spaniel has some of the spring taken out of it, as it responds to the cognomen of Hickmerelands Snap, while one of a similar breed belonging to the same owner made its bow to the judges at the Dog Show as Trent Valley Abinger. Bunavista Bubbler is a cocker spaniel, Queen Beulach is a rough collie, as is also Commanding Style. An Alsation shepherd dog goes through life staggering under the name of Palisade Nisko, while another proudly proclaims his native habitat in Peter V. Peterboro. An English bulldog wags his tail where he hears himself addressed as Bosum's Mate. Bluenose Joffre is a French bulldog, and Vimy Ridge also suggests a memory of the Great War. Appropriately enough Ulster Boy is an Irish terrier, and Lady Liftlock seeks to advertise Peterborough's most spectacular attraction. There is Blink's Pride and —shades of Bud Fisher—Mutt and Jeff. The property of a prominent legal figure in the city is Warrow Demon, and Society Orange got into high society by winning a prize among the puppy dogs. Mah Jongg and Pittee Sing lend a Celestial flavor and form an effective contrast to Mossend Dick.

The unusual names are accounted for largely by the fad that a dog entered in a competition must have its name registered as well as all the other particulars and the owners in many cases desire to have a distinctive name on the entry.

After reading some of the names inflicted on the inoffensive animals however, one is quite ready to agree that the qualification of distinctiveness has certainly been met. Of course all the name are not so ambitious or high sounding. There are Jacks galore and Laddies, Busters, Daisies and so on right through the entire list of common-place names among the pets of the city.

The fluctuations of favor among the various breeds of dogs in the City of Peterborough seem to be paralleled in most cities of its size.

Fashions Change.

Every dog seems to have his day, as records of bench shows prove. The number and kind of entries vary surprisingly with the years.

There was a time when the noble mastiff was the pride of the British show ring and was also a favorite here. For twenty years he has steadily, and apparently with reason, declined. There are the harriers, once a great favorite with sportsmen, and now almost extinct. The pug was once the favorite of the lady of fashion and is now entirely out of disfavor.

The poodle and the skye terrier, two former stars at bench shows are now out of the limelight, but there's a reason. They were too difficult to care for, and milady of fashion wearied of the constant washing and brushing of their hair and oiling of the skin to keep the silky gloss on the little animated muffs. The skye terrier, in addition, seemed to contract a peevish disposition with the years.

Some Pushers.

It is curious how certain varieties of the same family attained popularity while their less fortunate relatives have stayed home, neglected. There is the Irish water spaniel, smart appearing, faithful and intelligent, but never able to make any headway in this country, through his relative in the cocker spaniel is always a favorite.

Bench shows have spelled the ruination of some favorites, too. The Irish setter was bred for years for its color and show qualities, and ended by losing its pep and value as a field dog. Almost the same thing happened to the Boston terrier, which was originated in 1894 and became a tremendous commercial success.

Fox terriers seem to keep an endless chain of followers. The wire-haired terrier has been coming rapidly to the fore for some time. The airedale, a special breed which came only a short time ago from the north of England, has had a reign of popularity but is slipping a little, in spite of airedale clubs formed everywhere.

Native Sons.

The Japanese spaniel, a queer little foreigner, had his vogue a short time ago but is declining. And with his fall rises the Pekingese, the national dog of China. Another dog bidding for public attention is the Pomeranian, which, caught popular fancy in 1921. He has been bred to a smaller size than his Spitz ancestors and seems likely to hang on for some time. Another variety is the chow, especially the red one.

Different countries have their own favorites, too. The Great Dane, of which there is only one in Peterboro, will always be popular in Germany, and the Russian wolfhound, known as the Borzoi, an aristocrat of dogs, reigns over Russia. Then, too, Germany has its dachshund (so-called because it hunts dachs, an animal similar to the badger)—and so far as this country is concerned can keep it.

NO PROSECUTION OF DIRECTORS OR BANK PRESIDENT

Mr. Nickle Says Further Proceedings Would Waste Public Funds.

AMEND BANK ACT.

Time Has Come For Revision Showing What Are Duties Of Directors.

TORONTO, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—There is to be no further prosecution of the Home Bank directors upon conspiracy charges, charges against the former president M. J. Haney under the Bank Act, or charges levelled under Section 414 of the code for publishing false statements. Neither is there to be any appeal from the recent findings of the Appellate Court setting aside the decisions of the trial judge.

In a lengthy, detailed and vigorous statement—vigorous for an Attorney-General commenting upon the decision of an Appellate Court—Attorney-General Nickle gives reasons in each instance for his belief that further proceedings would be futile and a waste of public funds, and in a concluding paragraph calls upon the Parliament of Canada to amend the Bank Act.

"If Mr. Justice Hodgins is correct in his statement," Mr. Nickle says, "then the time has come for Parliament making clear for the protection of shareholders and depositors, what the duties of the directors really are. In one pointed paragraph Mr. Nickle politely disputes the interpretation of the Appeal Court, from my knowledge of the feeling of Parliament in 1913 when the Bank Act was revised," he says.

"I am satisfied that neither the members of the banking and commerce committee, nor of the House, had any thought that the Act would, as to directors, bear the construction the Appellate Division has given it."

BESEIGE CONVICT ON ROOF OF CHAPEL

Daring Burglar Climbed Pulpit And Rafters To Skylight.

LONDON, July 8 (Canadian Press).—A convict "cat burglar" during a service in the prison chapel at Pankhurst, took a flying leap to the pulpit, swung to the chapel beams above and climbed through a skylight to the roof. Once there, he could not get down, and he is here yet. He has accumulated a pile of roof slate to use as ammunition. The prison guards, having formed a cordon around the chapel, are waiting until hunger forces him to surrender.

EVOLUTION FIGHT IS DUEL TO THE DEATH

Has Been a Grapple In the Dark 'Till Now, Says Bryan.

BAYTON, Tenn., July 8 (Canadian Press)—The contest between evolution and Christianity is "a duel to the death," William Jennings Bryan declared last night in an address at a dinner given in his honor by the Progressive Dayton club.

"It has been in the past a death grapple in the dark," said Mr. Bryan, who arrived in preparation for the trial of John T. Scopes, charged with violating the Tennessee statute against teaching evolution in the public schools, "From this time on it will be a death grapple in the light."

FIRE DAMAGED FREIGHT SHEDS

Fire Doors Prevented Spread Of Flames In C. P. R. Sheds.

DAMAGE HEAVY.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., July 8 (Canadian Press).—A fire which started in No. 3 freight shed of the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday afternoon was brought under control at 4 o'clock, an hour and a half after the first alarm had been sounded. Fire doors prevented spread of the flames.

The loss to the building is estimated at $50,000, while it is believed the contents of the shed, including 27,500 bales of binder twine valued at $280,000, will be a total loss. Several box cars alongside of the structure were destroyed. The twine, shipped from Holland, was destined for the western harvest fields.

CONDEMN POLICY OF GOVERNMENT

Expect Naval Protection For S. Africa But Curtail Preference.

LONDON, July 8. — (Canadian Press Cable). — The Daily Mail's Cape Town correspondent says there is sharp comment in South Africa on the Hertzog Government's serious curtailment of the British preference and the candid avowal of the Minister of Defence, Col. F. H. P. Creswell, that the Union of South Africa will continue to depend on the British Navy for sea defence.

The Cape Argus says: "It is hardly in accordance with commonsense, to say nothing about fair play, to expect Great Britain to guarantee the safety of our shores at the sole cost of its own taxpayers and yet display a tendency to stimulate foreign trade with South Africa at the expense of British industry upon which the real burden of such immunity from danger as we enjoy, actually rests.

EDITORS JAILED BY CENSORSHIP

Censors Make Drastic Cuts in Brazilian Election Reports.

CUTTING COPY.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 8 (Associated Press).—A staff of censors has been distributed among the local newspapers by the Brazilian government in order to prevent the publication of attacks on President Arthur Bernades and the Brazilian government. An unofficial statement secured at the foreign office explained the move as a guarantee for public order. "The public at present is an easy prey to newspaper propaganda," it was explained, "and some Brazilian editors take unjustifiable advantages of the freedom of the press. If the newspapers were not restrained, their contents would create a bad impression about Brazil when read abroad."

Editors say that most of the cutting is in copy dealing with administration polices and revolutionary plotting.

The government's power to stop publication of an unfriendly newspaper was checkmated recently by Octavio Kelly, a judge of the federal courts in Rio de Janeiro, who made a decision which permits the reappearance of The Correio da Manha, after a ban of nine months. The newspaper was closed last year shortly after the revolutionists were driven out of the city of Sao Paulo, and many of the editorial staff have been in jail. The owner and editor, Edmundo Bittencourt, escaped after seven months and is now a political refugee at the Chilean embassy. His son, part owner and managing editor, has been confined for nearly one year.

The decision of Judge Kelly was based on the opinion that the closing of a newspaper by the government is a violation by the government of the private property rights guaranteed citizens of Brazil by the constitution. Mr. Bitencourt claims to have last $200,000 as a result of the ban against his newspaper.

The city editor of O Jornal, an important commercial paper of Rio de Janeiro, was arrested a few days ago, the day after the censor stopped the appearance of a story dealing with one of the candidates for the forthcoming presidential election.

GOOD AIRPLANE OIL GOT FROM CRICKETS

Very Valuable Oil That Won't Congeal At High Altitudes.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (Canadian Press).—A very valuable oil, suitable for aviation since it does not congeal even at very high altitude, can be extracted from crickets, according to advices received here yesterday by the Department of Commerce from Algiers.

Recently about eighteen tons of crickets were sent to Holland from Algiers. Part of this quantity was fed to poultry and from the remainder, oil was extracted.

FILM STARS GALORE IN HOLLYWOOD PLAY

Beery, Stone, Moreno, Hughes, Lyon and Sterling Support Anna Q. Nilsson.

Anna Q. Nilsson has five leading men, including several stars, in one scene of "Inez From Hollywood," the First National picture to be shown at the Royal Theatre on Thursday.

Antonio Moreno, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Hughes, Ben Lyon and Ford Sterling all appear in one sequence, having luncheon in her studio dressing room. It affords an intimate glimpse of studio life and goes a long way to prove that one cannot judge motion picture people by the personalities which they register on the screen.

Most producers fort their stars to appear before other cameras than their own. However in this case such legal formalities were waived by all parties concerned. Who could resist Anna Q.? So if you want to see this aggregation all at one time: the "world's worst"—that is to say, best —villain, a great comedian, and three of the handsomest leading men, you must see "Inez" on the screen.

Lewis Stone is co-featured with Anna Q. in this production, and although he does not appear with the above mentioned stars in the "vampire's" dressing room, his role supplies one of the finest dramatic characterizations of his eminent career.

Miss Nilsson plays in this picture the part of a woman who has won notoriety as a home-wrecking 'vamp,' but who as soon as her work is done throws off her mask of meretricious appeal and becomes a very human and likeable young woman.

The picture was directed by Alfred E. Green, and has in his supporting cast Mary Astor, Laurance Wheat, Rose Dione, Snitz Edwards, Ray Hallor, E. H. Calvert and Harry Depp.

AT THE CAPITOL

BARBARA LA MARR IN "THE WHITE MONKEY" WILL BE HERE TO-MORROW.

Beautiful Star and Big Support Cast in Film of Galsworthy Novel.

"The White Monkey," which is the third of the series of Barbara La Marr features being made by Associated Pictures Corporation for First National release, has been completed at the Sawyer-Lubin Fort Lee studio, and cutting and titling of this important production will begin at once. The picture is scheduled for showing at the Capitol Theatre to-morrow.

Adapted from the novel by John Galsworthy, it has lent itself admirably to screen treatment, and with the aid of an excellent cast, under direction of Phil Rosen, bids fair to duplicate the success of the book, which has been prominent in the list of best selling fiction for almost a year.

Thomas Holding has the role of Michael Mont. George Marion, skilled veteran of the theatre, especially remembered for his work in both the stage and screen versions of "Anna Christie," is cast in the role of Soames Forsyte, and Charles Emmett Mack, the D. W. Griffith "find," has the role of Bicket, pathetic hawker of toy balloons. Tammany Young and Colin Campbell handle the comedy scenes.

In Flora Le Breton and Henry Victor, playing the respective roles of Victorine and Wilfred Desert, picture-goers will see two players who are making their first American screen appearance. Flora Le Breton was the beautiful blonde actress brought from London by Henry W. Savage to appear in several of his stage productions, and whom the New York critics raved over in "Lass O'Laughter," which she will shortly take on tour.

Her role of Fleur, pampered daughter of English aristocracy, gives Barbara La Marr every opportunity to display the talent and beauty that have carried her to stardom, and there is little doubt that with the gorgeous settings the producers have given "The White Monkey" it will be one of the finest of her productions.

Around The City.

Two Peterboro lads were brought up before Magistrate O. A. Langley at the Police Court on a charge of stealing hay from Nicholls Oval on Dominion Day. The discovery that the younger lad was under 16 led to a revision of the information laid against them, as the statute forbids a joint trial of two accused when one is under the age of 16.

The case of the younger boy was adjourned until Saturday when his parents will be called on to appear before the court. The other, a youth of 17 pleaded guilty and will come up for sentence on Saturday.

E. R. Stocker of Addison street, Chicago, brother of Walter Stocker, of this city, reports that 5000 American cars crossed the border at Port Huron on Saturday, for the purpose of touring in Canada.

A new vault, composed of 18-inch brick walls, is being constructed in the office of the City Engineer for the ues of Tax Collector Green and Treasurer Adams.

The offices of the Gas Company will be moved from their position on George street and will occupy the western portion of the city buildings on Simcoe street, while the street railway office will be moved down to the car barns.

The Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of this district will take its annual outing on Saturday, July 11th, when they will motor to Campbellford for the purpose of visiting the power houses there and inspecting the automatic system of switches.

City Engineer Parsons reports that excavation for the pump house and sump of the sewage disposal plant have been almost concluded though considerable remains to be done on the site of the main building.

He also reported that the building permits for the month of June while equal in number to those issue for June, 1924, valued less than half the amount for the same period:

The figures are:

June, 1925, 42 permits valuing $35,-630.

June, 1924, 42 permits valuing $74,-798.

The discrepancy is due to the fact that no big construction jobs have been undertaken.

The Fire Department had a run out this morning at 9.21 to 293 Townsend Street, where a fire originated from a defective oil stove. No damage was done.

SEEKS THE TRUTH

The new book that has been published by the German ex-Crown Prince, "I Seek the Truth," is an uninterrupted assailment of the Treaty of Versailles. The ex-kaiser's heir expresses the conviction that the day will come when the truth he is seeking will be "pounded into the brains of millions who thought it a lie during the war."

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Investment Buying Is Reducing Stock Supply.

NEW YORK, July 8 (Canadian Press) — Taking advantage of a strong under-current of investment buying which was steadily reducing the floating supply of many high grade stocks and the further easing of money rates, operators on the long side extended their operations to a wide assortment of issues during the morning. Standard industrials were again in good demand, U. S. Steel common touching 117 on buying influenced by a reported improvement in steel trade. "That consumption will continue through July and August on a scale above that of the summer of 1924," Iron Age says, "is indicated as the steel trade enters on the second half of the year. The rapidity of the rise in some of the high priced issues encouraged profit-taking by professional traders, Havana Electric and Mack Trucks falling back three points from their early highs and Woolworth 4. Additional new 1925 highs were recorded by Utah Copper Spicer Mfg. preferred, and U. S. Hoffman Machinery while American Radiator, International Telephone, Stewart Warner and Kennecott Copper extended their gains two points or more before noon. Call money renewed at 4 per cent and then dropped to 3 3-4 per cent.

Smelters and B. C. Fish Led on Toronto Exchange.

TORONTO, July 8.—(Canadian Press).—Consolidated Smelters and British Columbia Fishing were the features of this morning's session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Smelters, on dealings over the 800 share mark, was run up to 91, and it closed at noon at 90, a net gain of three points.

B. C. Fishing advanced steadily to 49½, and likewise receded before the close, but at 48½ at noon, it showed a two-point gain. Winnipeg Railway, after opening strong, eased off to 50½, down a quarter, and Atlantic Sugar closed a quarter easier at 31.

City Dairy in moderately active trading advanced to 82, and closed at 81½ for a gain of 1-8.

Most Of Trading Was In Algonquin Shares.

TORONTO, July 8. — Canadian Press. — With two thirds of the total transactions centred in Algonquin, trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day was very quiet. Algonquin strengthened half a point at 3. A few slight gains were scattered among the moderate list dealt in, noticeably being the buoyancy of Kenora at 11. Silvers were inclined to be fractionally stronger.

Initial Rise In Wheat Followed By Setback.

CHICAGO, July 8 (Canadian Press)—Although wheat prices had an upward slant at the outset today the market soon underwent a decline. Initial gains were ascribed to numerous reports about black rust attacking the leaves and the stems of wheat. No actual damage as yet was noted and the early advances in price failed to hold. The opening unchanged to 7-8c higher, Sept. 135 to 140 3-4, and Dec. 146 3-4, was followed by slight further gains and then by a setback which carried September down to 143 3-4 and Dec. to 145.

Corn and oats eased with wheat. After starting at 1-4 off to 3-8c up, Sept. 104 1-4 to 104 3-4 the corn market scored additional gains but then receded to below yesterday's finish. Oats started unchanged to 1-4c off, Sept. 46 5-8 to 46 3-4. Later there was a general sag.

Lower quotation on hogs weakened the provision market.

BURGLARY CHARGE IS BEING HEARD

Two City Men Charged With Breaking Into Dublin Street House.

Arthur King and Edward Howard, who both pleaded not guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, and were remanded, on July 2, on the charge of breaking into the house of John Johnston, 316 Dublin Street, on June 30, were brought up for trial this morning in the Police Court, when the case against King was considered. G. W. Hatton, K.C., acted for the Crown, while J. F. Strickland appeared on behalf of King.

Grace Simpson, the first witness called by the Crown, stated that on the night of Tuesday, June 30, about 8.30, she was in the company of her sister, Beulah, in front of their father's house at 605 Rubidge Street. An automobile came up Rubidge Street and stopped in front of a house near by. Two men got out and walked down the east side of Rubidge. Another car came up and turned in further down the street. When the lights of this car showed the two men stepped into a clump of bushes. When they came out from among the bushes they walked down the east side of the street to Dublin and went west on Dublin. She watched them until they got as far as a house, which stopped her view. She ran round the side of her own house into the lane behind, from which she saw the men go down to about 5 yards below Mr. Johnston's house. They stopped and lit cigarettes. She lost sight of them until they went back to their own car, where they lifted the hood and began fussing in the inside of the car. Witness thought that from the time the men left the bushes until they returned to the car, an interval had elapsed of 15 or 20 minutes. Her parents' house backs on Mr. Johnston's with a little lane between.

In answer to Mr. Strickland, witness said the bushes referred to were a little north on the opposite side, and were a clump of small maples covering about 10 feet by 15. Some of the bushes were about 8 feet high and others were very small.. At this stage His Worship drew a small sketch of the neighborhood, and Miss Simpson indicated the features to which she was referring in her evidence. Questioned about the second car she saw, witness said it was driven into the avenue of another house near the junction of Dublin, Rubidge and Stewart Streets. This driveway would be about 50 yards from the corner of Dublin and Rubidge Streets. She thought the two men remained about a minute among the bushes. Her parents' house, with the additions at the back, would extend 40 feet going right back to the lane. There was no fence separating Johnston's house from that of her father's. She went into the house and told her mother what she had seen. From the time the men lighted their cigarettes until they returned and commenced working at the car, about 10 minutes had intervened. She had lived in Rubidge Street for 3 years. The Johnston family had lived in the neighborhood before her people moved into Rubidge Street. Asked by Mr. Strickland, she said it was not unusual to see men enter Johnston's house at all hours. She agreed with counsel that more men went there than ordinarily go to people's houses. She had no knowledge as to why these people should visit Mr. Johnston. Pressed by counsel, she said she could guess.

Mr. Hatton interposed with an objection to the form of counsel's examination. Mr. Strickland maintained he was quite in order.

"I am instructed, Your Worship," he said, "that this man is a bootlegger."

Continuing, witness said she did not know, but someone had suggested to her that Mr. Johnston kept liquor in his house. Only one person had said this to her.

In answer to Mr. Hatton, she said the remark had been made to her on a date subsequent to June 30. She did not know whether the person who said this to her was a friend of accused. She did not see the faces of the men whom she was watching.

Another Saw It.

Beulah Simpson, sister of the former witness, said she saw the automobile on the night in question come north and stop at a place a little further north than her father's house. The two men got out and walked south until they saw another car drive up from the south, upon which they jumped into the bushes.

When this car turned out of the street into the driveway, the men came out of the bushes and walked towards Dublin Street. The men had jumped into the bushes just as the approaching car which had both lights on, came up the hill. She was 25 or 30 yards away from them when the men came out of their own car. She could see them distinctly, but could not see their faces. She was only 10 yards away when they went into the bushes. She was sure the men who came out of the car were the men who went into the bushes, they went down Rubidge Street and along Dublin to Johnston's home, walked about three yards past the house and began to retrace their steps. She then went in the lane, and came out again and saw them disappear into Johnston's house. They were there 10 to 15 minutes. She could not see them all the time but she heard sounds as if they were knocking wood about in the shed. She went on to the verandah of her father's house and saw the men climb over a fence. They were the same men who came out of the bushes. One had a cap, the other was wearing a Fedora. One was a little shorter than the other.

Mr. Hatton requested that accused be asked to put on his hat. Mr. Strickland objected, and His Worship reserved his decision on this point."

Witness said she did not see which one was the shorter. She waited to see if they would go away and five minutes later the police car came up. The men were then at their car. She watched until both cars drove away.

The case is proceeding.

JEALOUSY THE CAUSE OF MURDER BELIEVED

HAMILTON, July 8. — Canadian Press. — There were four witnesses of the stabbing who stated that the woman dropped the knife beside the body of Taylor and screamed "Let be! he's dead!"

She was taken before Magistrate Jelfs later in the morning and formally charged with murder. The police believe jealouy was the cause of the crime. She is said to have heard that Taylor had been paying attention to another woman.

BRITISH AND JAPANESE ARE INCENSED BY REPORTS MADE BY A "COMEDY" COMMISSION

Blame Opening of Chinese Troubles on British and American.

WANT PUNISHMENT.

Three on Board Formed a Special Shanghai Investigating Committee.

LONDON, July 9 (United Press)—Blame for foreign police firing upon Chinese strikers at Shanghai—the start of the present Chinese troubles—was placed upon two British and one American by a special Shanghai investigating committee, according to the usually well-informed "diplomatic correspondent" of The Daily Telegraph.

The commission was composed of the French and Italian ministers at Peking, and American representatives.

They found, according to the correspondent, that blame rested upon the British police officer who ordered the firing upon the demonstrators, upon the British Chief of Police of Shanghai, for not being present at the time of the incident, and upon the American chairman of the Shanghai Muncipal Council because he was nominally in charge of police administration.

The British and Japanese and Colonies not represented on the investigating commission were said to be incensed at the report of the other foreign diplomats.

The Telegraph declared yesterday, "The British Government cannot tolrate the comedy of this commission to go on."

Today it adds "We gather that the commission of three died a not unnatural death and not a day too soon." Apparently hinting that its labors would have been forced to cease if it had not closed the investigation when it did.

Meanwhile The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent cabled a report that the "Peking diplomatic corps" had recommended punishment of British officials at Shanghai for their course in connection with the strike. It is believed The Daily Mail's message refers to the commmission investigating cited by The Telegraph.

SPANKING WON'T CORRECT A CHILD

Judge Gary Advocates Locking in Dark Closet For Correction.

HIS REACTION.

NEW YORK, July 9 (United Press).—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, occasionally turns his attention to discourses on subjects somewhat removed from the realm of big business. This time it is "Spanking."

"Spanking a child is not the proper way to correct it," Gary said.

Told of being punished in this manner, when a small boy, for the offence of saying "damn." I immediately went out back of the house where I was alone and said "damn" until I was hoarse, he continued.

He said he punished his own children by locking them in a dark closet.

SQUATTER RIGHTS REGARDED BY LAW

Patent Granted to Aged Woman Giving Legal Possession After 31 Years.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—For probably the first time in the history of the province, an aged woman has been granted patent to an Alberta homestead. After years of tireless effort in her behalf, Mrs. Madeline Desjardins, 80 years of age, received word that the little 50-acre plot of ground "squatted" away back in 1894 finally comes legally into her possession. Mr. and Mrs. Desjardins staked out and settled upon a 50-acre homestead near Cold Lake, even now more than 60 miles from the nearest railway centre, St. Paul de Metis. Although in the eyes of the law merely "squatters", they were permitted to remain undisturbed on their little farm. After Mr. Desjardins' death outsiders tried to purchase the land, and Ottawa was communicated with in behalf of the widow, with the result just announced.

Overhauls Rum Smugglers But Finds Cupboard Bare

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 9.—(Canadian Press). Captain John Daly, commandant of the local Coastguard Dry Navy, to-day reported that during a cruise on Niagara River last night, he encountered two liquor smugglers going up-stream. Captain Daly said he overtook the rum smugglers' craft, ascertained they were empty, and then forced them into Canadian waters at Fort Erie. The captain said that indications were that the rum boats had landed their cargo before he reached the scene.

STOP ALL CARS AT BUSY TURNS

Proposal by Alderman Crowe Last Year May Be Revived.

LIVES ENDANGERED.

Last year, Alderman Crowe proposed to the Council that, in view of the increasing danger resulting from motor traffic, a by-law should be passed enforcing vehicles to stop momentarily before crossing busy intersections. The proposition met with disapproval, and consequently motor traffic continues to dash through crowded cross streets, to the peril of life and limb.

Accidents, which would not have occurred under Alderman Crowe's plan, have happened. There can be recalled the mishap on George and McDonnel Street, which resulted seriously; less serious smashes have taken place on Hunter and George Streets, Hunter and Water, George and Charlotte, McDonnel and Aylmer, while many near crashes were averted by some little trick of fortune.

When interviewed to-day, Alderman Crowe said that other cities have adopted with success a similar enactment to that proposed by him, and he has the satisfaction of seeing his judgment vindicated.

Not Enough Police.

It is certain that with the present personnel of the police force, it would be impossible to have traffic regulations at all dangerous points, and as this protection is non-existant it is only right and just that some provision should be made to safeguard the lives of those who must use the down-town streets, he says.

Alderman Crowe was pronounced in his denunciation of present methods, and is still an active exponent of the view which he expressed to the Council last year.

Expresses Approval.

When Leon Fraser, as secretary of the Motor League, was approached, he gave hearty endorsation to the plan, which was an evidence of the fact that the motoring public were in favor of the proposed plan.

At present the pedestrian is at the mercy of reckless drivers, who thread their perilous path through intersections with scant ceremony, Alderman Crowe thinks, and he believes that he will yet see in Peterboro a by-law based upon the principle which he slated a year ago, and which received such small consideration at that time.

RHODES IS GOING TO CAPE BRETON

Premier-Elect Says He Will Stay There Until Trouble Is Over.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 9 (Canadian Press)—Immediately after I am called upon to assume the responsibility of administering the affairs of this province and having full regard to governmental duties I shall be the first to remove myself to Cape Breton and I shall remain there until this strike is settled." NEWHALL FORCE SOLVE PROBLEM ON SLIGHT CLUE

Campbellford Car Bumped In Peterboro By Another Apparently Painted White.

OWNER AT LUNCH.

Offending Car Located Here and Driver Agrees to Settle Damage Claim.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9 — T. E. Hall motored to Peterboro one day last week and parked his car in an alley off Hunter Street between George and Water Streets while he ate his dinner in a neighboring restaurant. On his return trip to Campbellford when near Hastings one of the wheels of the auto dropped into a hole and Mr. Hall noticed that the fender on that side was rubbing on the tire. He stopped to investigate and found that not only was the fender bent but the front of the car was badly damaged and the headlight broken, his conclusion being that some one had backed an auto into his car while it was parked in the alley.

Mr. Hall reported the matter to Chief Brown on his arrival here and the officer found that the damaged car showed that the vehicle which had caused the injury had been painted white. He wrote to Chief Newhall of Peterboro asking him to look out for a white car that bore signs of having been in a collision.

Chief Brown yesterday received a communication from Chief Newhall stating that his detectives had found such a car and that it was owned or driven by Thomas Painter of the "Downey Flakes," Peterboro. Mr. Painter admitted that last week he had backed into and injured a parked car and that if the owner would send in a bill he would pay the damages.

Mr. Hall is in Peterboro today settling the matter. The white paint, the only clue upon which Chief Brown had to work solved the problem.

BANK ACT MUST BE MADE CLEAR BY GOVERNMENT

Attorney General Nickle Says It Is Duty of Federal House.

ONE INTERPRETATION.

Duties of Directors Must Be Stated in Unmistakable Language.

TORONTO, July 9. — (Canadian Press).—It is the duty of the Dominion Government to make clear in the interests of the people what the Bank Act means. It should be stated in unmistakable language not possible of any interpretation other than the one intended, what the responsibilities of bank directors are.

This was the emphatic assertion of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, after he had read Ottawa despatches to the effect that the 1923 amendments to the Bank Act covered the situation created by the recent acquittal of all the Home Bank directors. This acquittal resulted in the Province abandoning all prosecutions against the directors on the conspiracy charges under the criminal code, and in the dropping of all charges against M. J. Haney.

WOMEN WILL REALIZE THAT ONE WIFE WILL NOT MAKE CONTENTED HUSBAND, SAYS FAMOUS SAVANT

Professor Low, in Book on "The Future," Foresees Great Changes.

WOMEN IN TROUSERS.

More Evolutions in Next 1,000 Years Than in Last 10,000.

LONON, July 9 (United Press) —Evolution in the next 1,000 years will work more changes in man, mentally and physically, than in 10,000 years past, Prof. A. M. Low, F.R.G.S., declares in a new book called "The Future."

He foresaw among other radical changes for the next ten centuries, in the evolution of man the following:

Education of children will begin before birth.

Legs will gradually be atrophied from non-use. Men will become bald.

Men and women will wear one-piece or two-piece suits, mostly alike and capable of donning or divesting in a minute.

Both men and women will wear trousers. Men and women will compete in every walk of life. A man will not hesitate to stop a woman on the street and ask for a "light."

All workers will be skilled, for unskilled labor wil be done by machine.

Men's eyes and ears will become weaker. Radio will be a necessary commonplace and most business will be done through it.

Man will arise by a radio alarm clock and take a radio bath.

Telepathy will be more exploited, thereby speeding up life and increasing its joy and efficiency.

Love, marriage will be on a different plane. Low thinks the marriage contract ought to have a "strike and arbitration clause."

The State biologist will have certain women create children to order. Women will realize that "one wife will never make a contented husband."

Interplanetary communciation will probably have been established. Warfare will be conducted by "flying submarines."

CHRISTIAN YOUTH A GREAT FORCE

With All Denominations United All Problems Could Be Solved.

B.Y.P.U. SESSIONS.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9 (Canadian Press).—The consolidation of all young people's denominational organization in America and the formation of the Christian youth movement of America was urged by Rev. Mark F. Sanborn, Detroit, in his presidential address to the Baptist Young Peeople's Union of America, here today.

He held that such an organization would "be one of the mightiest forces for good in the world."

"With an aroused, trained, and united group of ten million Christan young people, industrial, political, religious and racial problems could be solved, idealism would supplant the menace of materialism and Jesus Christ could be crowned Lord of All."

"The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes belong together," Dr. Sanborn declared, in urging the continued fellowship of the Baptist Young People's Union. "An esprit de corps among the Anglo-Saxon peoples is the greatest guarantee of political equilibrium in the world today."

The speaker said he believed the outlawing of war and solving of race relations rest with North American. "I am convinced that a referendum of this subject in North America would give us an overwhelming majority in favor of outlawing war."

BRYAN AT HOME WITH FOLKS OF SOUTHERN TOWN

Declares Evolution a Pestilence That Walketh in the Darkness.

SINISTER THING.

Dayton Is Prepared For Its Great Hour of Scopes Trial.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9 — The Great Commoner is here.

And no citizen of Dayton was commoner than William Jennings Bryan as he beamed over a strawberry soda in Robinson's drug store and then strolled down Market street in the afternoon.

He was clad in the pants part, striped worsted, of the statesman costume. The coat was discarded. So was the vest. His only concession to dudery was that he wore the kind of galluses that go underneath the shirt. Instead of the plug hat, too, he wore an African jungle sun helmet. And the sun was not brighter above its brim than was his smile beneath it.

For William Jennings Bryan is at home with these good folks of the Tennessee mountains. Even the barrier across Dayton's new sewer bears a sign:

"Read your Bible every day."

And at a banquet given in his honor, Mr. Bryan rolled forth in contended periods, the sort of unctious evangelism these people love.

He declared that evolution and its results had been for a generation "the pestilence that walketh in darkness."

"Now," he thundered, "this great trial will make it the destruction that wasteth at noonday."

Dayton Praised

All Christians, he declared, would now know it for the silly and sinister thing it is. He praised Dayton as a place for the trial.

"These scientists would throw out the Bible," he said at another time, "on evidence that would not convict a habitual criminal of a misdemeanor. Look at Osborn and his tooth! Osborn found a single tooth out West in a sandpit, just a single tooth and not another bone. So he called in seven other devils like himself and they conferred, and they decided they had the tooth of the missing link."

Just before Mr. Bryan came John Randolph Neal covered with the red dust of the Tennessee roads. Two days' growth of stubble adorned his chin. He has been chasing Federal judges over the mountains for two days.

With the arrival of these two—whom Dayton regards as the chief protagonists of this case — Dayton settled to the business of being center of the world. It has been getting ready for it for weeks. Its efforts are now blooming unbelievably.

Judge Neal explained that he was not disappointed with the refusal of Judge Gore to grant a Federal injunction because the way is now open, clear and sure, to bring the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. Dayton, too, has its great hour.

CONSCRIPT RESOURCES.

Proposed Principle in New French Preparedness.

PARIS, July 9 (Canadian Press) —One of the principles of the new national defence plan which Premier Painleve has sent to the Chamber of Deputies is the right to requisition all the country resources, not only material, but intellectual and scientific. This scheme of national organization has been prepared by the council of national defence presided over by M. Boncour, and is designed to outline in advance what can be done automatically if, and when, war is declared, in order to avoid costly mistakes and confustion such as arose in the last war.

The plan deals with the distribution of labor and war materials and prescribes systems for transportation and the manufacture of munitions.

Danger in Escapade Through Spreading of Fames in Dry Grass.

About two feet of charred wood, standing in the yard of the Queen Mary School, with sundry pieces of charred cloth and scraps of wood around it, was the only relic of the fiery cross burned by people, supposedly members of the Ku Klux Klan, last night about 10.30.

The cross was originally ten feet high and the cross arm seven feet long, an oil mark on the grass, where it had been laid, giving the dimensions.

Among the cloths used to wrap it was a part of a man's vest, which had been burned where the label should have been, and the upper part of a lady's cloth coat, which the label showed to have been a "Rogers' Garment," sold by the Cressman Company. The date was missing and so it is impossible to trace the owner. The cross had been soaked in some heavy oil, carried to the spot in two one-gallon cans which had contained fender enamel and varnish originally.

No one in the neighborhood saw the cross placed there, and when first seen none of the party was at the scene of the ceremony. A track in the grass of the school yard appeared to be the mark where some object had been dragged to the spot.

Owing to the hard clayey soil, which was quite dry, no tracks of recent origin could be seen although a heavy car had passed along the school drive when the ground was moist.

No Notice Taken.

Mrs. Elliott, who lives in the house behind the school, saw a light when going to bed, but thought it was the light of a street lamp reflected through the trees, and pulled down the blind, and heard no more of it until the morning.

W. S. Hill, who lives on the Monaghan Road, nearly opposite the place, heard a car out on the road, but took no notice of it. When he was locking the door a short time after, the cross was burning brightly but no person was around it, and there was no car in sight. Residents of Murray street, just around the corner, saw nothing of the occurrence.

STORM KILLS 4 IN MINNEAPOLIS

Pavilion Collapsed on Crowd — Man Blown 50 Feet From Crane.

DAMAGE $100,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9. — Canadian Press. — Wind, rain and hail, took heavy toll on Wednesday in several districts of Minnesota, including the Twin Cities.

In Minneapolis, four persons were killed, eighteen were injured, and one was reported missing, in a terrific wind and rain storm, which struck the southern part of the city shortly after six p.m. A trail of wreckage representing more than $100,000 property damage was left. The streets were flooded and for several hours during the evening were blocked by the uprooted trees.

Sections of Harriet Municipal Pavilion, one of the most popular of the city's playgrounds, collapsed on fifty persons, killing Mrs. Emma Miller, her three year old daughter, and injuring six other persons.

Charles Fiester, druggist, died of heart disease, after the wind had wrecked his store.

The fourth person killed was Willard J. Ford, 30, who was hurled 50 feet from the cab of a travelling crane.

The fury of the storm had abated by the time it had crossed the river into St. Paul.

BRITISH AND JAPANESE ARE INCENSED BY REPORTS MADE BY A "COMEDY" COMMISSION

Blame Opening of Chinese Troubles on British and American.

WANT PUNISHMENT.

Three on Board Formed a Special Shanghai Investigating Committee.

LONDON, July 9 (United Press) —Blame for foreign police firing upon Chinese strikers at Shanghai—the start of the present Chinese troubles—was placed upon two British and one American by a special Shanghai investigating committee, according to the usually well-informed "diplomatic correspondent" of The Daily Telegraph.

The commission was composed of the French and Italian ministers at Peking, and American representatives.

They found, according to the correspondent, that blame rested upon the British police officer who ordered the firing upon the demonstrators, upon the British Chief of Police of Shanghai, for not being present at the time of the incident, and upon the American chairman of the Shanghai Muncipal Council because he was nominally in charge of police administration.

The British and Japanese and Colonies not represented on the investigating commission were said to be incensed at the report of the other foreign diplomats.

The Telegraph declared yesterday, "The British Government cannot tolrate the comedy of this commission to go on."

Today it adds "We gather that the commission of three died a not unnatural death and not a day too soon." Apparently hinting that its labors would have been forced to cease if it had not closed the investigation when it did.

Meanwhile The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent cabled a report that the "Peking diplomatic corps" had recommended punishment of British officials at Shanghai for their course in connection with the strike. It is believed The Daily Mail's message refers to the commmission investigating cited by The Telegraph.

SPANKING WON'T CORRECT A CHILD

Judge Gary Advocates Locking in Dark Closet For Correction.

HIS REACTION.

NEW YORK, July 9 (United Press).—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, occasionally turns his attention to discourses on subjects somewhat removed from the realm of big business. This time it is "Spanking."

"Spanking a child is not the proper way to correct it," Gary said.

Told of being punished in this manner, when a small boy, for the offence of saying "damn." I immediately went out back of the house where I was alone and said "damn" until I was hoarse, he continued.

He said he punished his own children by locking them in a dark closet.

SQUATTER RIGHTS REGARDED BY LAW

Patent Granted to Aged Woman Giving Legal Possession After 31 Years.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—For probably the first time in the history of the province, an aged woman has been granted patent to an Alberta homestead. After years of tireless effort in her behalf, Mrs. Madeline Desjardins, 80 years of age, received word that the little 50-acre plot of ground "squatted" away back in 1894 finally comes legally into her possession. Mr. and Mrs. Desjardins staked out and settled upon a 50-acre homestead near Cold Lake, even now more than 60 miles from the nearest railway centre, St. Paul de Metis. Although in the eyes of the law merely "squatters", they were permitted to remain undisturbed on their little farm. After Mr. Desjardins' death outsiders tried to purchase the land, and Ottawa was communicated with in behalf of the widow, with the result just announced.

Overhauls Rum Smugglers But Finds Cupboard Bare

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 9. — (Canadian Press). Captain John Daly, commandant of the local Coastguard Dry Navy, to-day reported that during a cruise on Niagara River last night, he encountered two liquor smugglers going up-stream. Captain Daly said he overtook the rum smugglers' craft, ascertained they were empty, and then forced them into Canadian waters at Fort Erie. The captain said that indications were that the rum boats had landed their cargo before he reached the scene.

STOP ALL CARS AT BUSY TURNS

Proposal by Alderman Crowe Last Year May Be Revived.

LIVES ENDANGERED.

Last year, Alderman Crowe proposed to the Council that, in view of the increasing danger resulting from motor traffic, a by-law should be passed enforcing vehicles to stop momentarily before crossing busy intersections. The proposition met with disapproval, and consequently motor traffic continues to dash through crowded cross streets, to the peril of life and limb.

Accidents, which would not have occurred under Alderman Crowe's plan, have happened. There can be recalled the mishap on George and McDonnel Street, which resulted seriously; less serious smashes have taken place on Hunter and George Streets, Hunter and Water, George and Charlotte, McDonnel and Aylmer, while many near crashes were averted by some little trick of fortune.

When interviewed to-day, Alderman Crowe said that other cities have adopted with success a similar enactment to that proposed by him, and he has the satisfaction of seeing his judgment vindicated.

Not Enough Police.

It is certain that with the present personnel of the police force, it would be impossible to have traffic regulations at all dangerous points, and as this protection is non-existant it is only right and just that some provision should be made to safeguard the lives of those who must use the down-town streets, he says.

Alderman Crowe was pronounced in his denunciation of present methods, and is still an active exponent of the view which he expressed to the Council last year.

Expresses Approval.

When Leon Fraser, as secretary of the Motor League, was approached, he gave hearty endorsation to the plan, which was an evidence of the fact that the motoring public were in favor of the proposed plan.

At present the pedestrian is at the mercy of reckless drivers, who thread their perilous path through intersections with scant ceremony, Alderman Crowe thinks, and he believes that he will yet see in Peterboro a by-law based upon the principle which he slated a year ago, and which received such small consideration at that time.

Campbellford Car Bumped In Peterboro By Another Apparently Painted White.

Offending Car Located Here and Driver Agrees to Settle Damage Claim.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9 — T. E. Hall motored to Peterboro one day last week and parked his car in an alley off Hunter Street between George and Water Streets while he ate his dinner in a neighboring restaurant. On his return trip to Campbellford when near Hastings one of the wheels of the auto dropped into a hole and Mr. Hall noticed that the fender on that side was rubbing on the tire. He stopped to investigate and found that not only was the fender bent but the front of the car was badly damaged and the headlight broken, his conclusion being that some one had backed an auto into his car while it was parked in the alley.

Mr. Hall reported the matter to Chief Boown on his arrival here and the officer found that the damaged car showed that the vehicle which had caused the injury had been painted white. He wrote to Chief Newhall of Peterboro asking him to look out for a white car that bore signs of having been in a collision.

Chief Brown yesterday received a communication from Chief Newhall stating that his detectives had found such a car and that it was owned or driven by Thomas Painter of the "Downey Flakes," Peterboro. Mr. Painter admitted that last week he had backed into and injured a parked car and that if the owner would send in a bill he would pay the damages.

Mr. Hall is in Peterboro today settling the matter. The white paint, the only clue upon which Chief Brown had to work solved the problem.

WOMEN WILL REALIZE THAT ONE WIFE WILL NOT MAKE CONTENTED HUSBAND, SAYS FAMOUS SAVANT

Professor Low, in Book on "The Future," Foresees Great Changes.

WOMEN IN TROUSERS.

More Evolutions in Next 1,000 Years Than in Last 10,000.

LONON, July 9 (United Press) —Evolution in the next 1,000 years will work more changes in man, mentally and physically, than in 10,000 years past, Prof. A. M. Low, F.R.G.S., declares in a new book called "The Future."

He foresaw among other radical changes for the next ten centuries, in the evolution of man the following:

Education of children will begin before birth.

Legs will gradually be atrophied from non-use. Men will become bald.

Men and women will wear one-piece or two-piece suits, mostly alike and capable of donning or divesting in a minute.

Both men and women will wear trousers. Men and women will compete in every walk of life. A man will not hesitate to stop a woman on the street and ask for a "light."

All workers will be skilled, for unskilled labor wil be done by machine.

Men's eyes and ears will become weaker. Radio will be a necessary commonplace and most business will be done through it.

Man will arise by a radio alarm clock and take a radio bath.

Telepathy will be more exploited, thereby speeding up life and increasing its joy and efficiency.

Love marriage will be on a different plane. Low thinks the marriage contract ought to have a "strike and arbitration clause."

The State biologist will have certain women create children to order. Women will realize that "one wife will never make a contented husband."

Interplanetary communciation will probably have been established. Warfare will be conducted by "flying submarines."

Canada has the largest railway yards in the world, at Winnipeg—no less than 258 miles of track, nearly equal to the distance from Winnipeg to Regina?

Canada has a permanent Government representative at Geneva in connection with the League of Nation, in Dr. Riddell?

Canada has nearly 50,000 civil servants in its federal pay roll?

The Latest In Laws To Regulate Bathing

KINGSTON, July 9.—The township of Pittsburgh has passed a by-law regulating bathing. It prohibits bathing or washing the persons in public waters, within one hundred yards of a dwelling house or summer cottage, unless the consent of the owner is first obtained.

A clause to prevent any trouble for the owners or occupants of cottages which are situated less than one hundred yards apart, has been added. Any violation of the by-law will be dealt with severely.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH A GREAT FORCE

With All Denominations United All Problems Could Be Solved.

B.Y.P.U. SESSIONS.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9 (Canadian Press).—The consolidation of all young people's denominational organization in America and the formation of the Christian youth movement of America was urged by Rev. Mark F. Sanborn, Detroit, in his presidential address to the Baptist Young Peeople's Union of America, here today.

He held that such an organization would "be one of the mightiest forces for good in the world."

"With an aroused, trained, and united group of ten million Christian young people, industrial, political, religious and racial problems could be solved, idealism would supplant the menace of materialism and Jesus Christ could be crowned Lord of All."

"The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes belong together," Dr. Sanborn declared, in urging the continued fellowship of the Baptist Young People's Union. "An esprit de corps among the Anglo-Saxon peoples is the greatest guarantee of political equilibrium in the world today."

The speaker said he believed the outlawing of war and solving of race relations rest with North American. "I am convinced that a referendum of this subject in North America would give us an overwhelming majority in favor of outlawing war."

Radio broadcasting has been banned in major league parks for a year.

BANK ACT MUST BE MADE CLEAR BY GOVERNMENT

Attorney General Nickle Says It Is Duty of Federal House.

ONE INTERPRETATION.

Duties of Directors Must Be Stated in Unmistakable Language.

TORONTO, July 9. — (Canadian Press).—It is the duty of the Dominion Government to make clear in the interests of the people what the Bank Act means. It should be stated in unmistakable language not possible of any interpretation other than the one intended, what the responsibilities of bank directors are.

This was the emphatic assertion of Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General, after he had read Ottawa despatches to the effect that the 1923 amendments to the Bank Act covered the situation created by the recent acquittal of all the Home Bank directors. This acquittal resulted in the Province abandoning all prosecutions against the directors on the conspiracy charges under the criminal code, and in the dropping of all charges against M. J. Haney.

MARK EQUALLED.

Coaffee Covers 100 Yards Course in 9 4-5 Seconds, Equalling Record.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 9. — (Canadian Press). — Cyril Coaffee, one of the best sprinters Canada has produced, is said to have equalled the Canadian grass track record for 100 yards here Wednesday, covering the distance, it is claimed, in 9 4.5 seconds in an exhibition run. Coaffee also did the 220 yards dash in 22 seconds, it is said. Coaffee is now running under the colors of the Illinois Athletic Club.

Alberta Coal On Its Way To Coal Bins of Ontario

TORONTO, July 9.—(Canadian Press). — The shipment of 25,000 tons of coal for Ontario has left Alberta, J. A. Ellis, Ontario Fuel Commissioner, reported to the Minister of Mines to-day. The shipment is being made at a freight charge of $7 per ton, and it comprises the entire 25,000 tons. The first train load is expected in the province early next week.

BRYAN AT HOME WITH FOLKS OF SOUTHERN TOWN

Declares Evolution a Pestilence That Walketh in the Darkness.

SINISTER THING.

Dayton Is Prepared For Its Great Hour of Scopes Trial.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9 — The Great Commoner is here.

And no citizen of Dayton was commoner than William Jennings Bryan as he beamed over a strawberry soda in Robinson's drug store and then strolled down Market street in the afternoon.

He was clad in the pants part, striped worsted, of the statesman costume. The coat was discarded. So was the vest. His only concession to dudery was that he wore the kind of galluses that go underneath the shirt. Instead of the plug hat, too, he wore an African jungle sun helmet. And the sun was not brighter above its brim than was his smile beneath it.

For William Jennings Bryan is at home with these good folks of the Tennessee mountains. Even the barrier across Dayton's new sewer bears a sign:

"Read your Bible every day."

And at a banquet given in his honor, Mr. Bryan rolled forth in contended periods, the sort of unctious evangelism these people love.

He declared that evolution and its results had been for a generation "the pestilence that walketh in darkness."

"Now," he thundered, "this great trial will make it the destruction that wasteth at noonday."

Dayton Praised

All Christians, he declared, would now know it for the silly and sinister thing it is. He praised Dayton as a place for the trial.

"These scientists would throw out the Bible," he said at another time, "on evidence that would not convict a habitual criminal of a misdemeanor. Look at Osborn and his tooth! Osborn found a single tooth out West in a sandpit, just a single tooth and not another bone. So he called in seven other devils like himself and they conferred, and they decided they had the tooth of the missing link."

Just before Mr. Bryan came John Randolph Neal covered with the red dust of the Tennessee roads. Two days' growth of stubble adorned his chin. He has been chasing Federal judges over the mountains for two days.

With the arrival of these two—whom Dayton regards as the chief protagonists of this case — Dayton settled to the business of being center of the world. It has been getting ready for it for weeks. Its efforts are now blooming unbelievably.

Judge Neal explained that he was not disappointed with the refusal of Judge Gore to grant a Federal injunction because the way is now open, clear and sure, to bring the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. Dayton, too, has its great hour.

WOMAN GETS COMPENSATION

Injured by Machine, Irene Lavery Will Receive $1,325 for Loss of 3 Fingers.

ASKED FOR $3,000

MONTREAL, July 9 (Canadian Presss).—Mr. Justice Cousineau in the Superior Court condemned A. F. Burns, engraver, to pay $1,323 to Irene Lavery who was injured by a metal perforating machine while in the defendant's employ. Her left hand was caught in the mechanism and three fingers cut off above the second joint. She asked $3,000 under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

CONSCRIPT RESOURCES.

Proposed Principle in New French Preparedness.

PARIS, July 9 (Canadian Press) —One of the principles of the new national defence plan which Premier Painleve has sent to the Chamber of Deputies is the right to requisition all the country resources, not only material, but intellectual and scientific. This scheme of national organization has been prepared by the council of national defence presided over by M. Boncour, and is designed to outline in advance what can be done automatically if, and when, war is declared, in order to avoid costly mistakes and confustion such as arose in the last war.

The plan deals with the distribution of labor and war materials and prescribes systems for transportation and the manufacture of munitions.

AGAINST BY-LAW.

Danger in Escapade Through Spreading of Fames in Dry Grass.

About two feet of charred wood, standing in the yard of the Queen Mary School, with sundry pieces of charred cloth and scraps of wood around it, was the only relic of the fiery cross burned by people, supposedly members of the Ku Klux Klan, last night about 10.30.

The cross was originally ten feet high and the cross arm seven feet long, an oil mark on the grass, where it had been laid, giving the dimensions.

Among the cloths used to wrap it was a part of a man's vest, which had been burned where the label should have been, and the upper part of a lady's cloth coat, which the label showed to have been a "Rogers' Garment," sold by the Cressman Company. The date was missing and so it is impossible to trace the owner. The cross had been soaked in some heavy oil, carried to the spot in two one-gallon cans which had contained fender enamel and varnish originally.

No one in the neighborhood saw the cross placed there, and when first seen none of the party was at the scene of the ceremony. A track in the grass of the school yard appeared to be the mark where some object had been dragged to the spot.

Owing to the hard clayey soil, which was quite dry, no tracks of recent origin could be seen although a heavy car had passed along the school drive when the ground was moist.

No Notice Taken.

Mrs. Elliott, who lives in the house behind the school, saw a light when going to bed, but thought it was the light of a street lamp reflected through the trees, and pulled down the blind, and heard no more of it until the morning.

W. S. Hill, who lives on the Monaghan Road, nearly opposite the place, heard a car out on the road, but took no notice of it. When he was locking the door a short time after, the cross was burning brightly but no person was around it, and there was no car in sight. Residents of Murray street, just around the corner, saw nothing of the occurrence.

C. D. Cook of Weller street, had all the blinds drawn down and nobody in the house saw anything of

STORM KILLS 4 IN MINNEAPOLIS

Pavilion Collapsed on Crowd — Man Blown 50 Feet From Crane.

DAMAGE $100,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9. — Canadian Press. — Wind, rain and hail, took heavy toll on Wednesday in several districts of Minnesota, including the Twin Cities.

In Minneapolis, four persons were killed, eighteen were injured, and one was reported missing, in a terrific wind and rain storm, which struck the southern part of the city shortly after six p.m. A trail of wreckage representing more than $100,000 property damage was left. The streets were flooded and for several hours during the evening were blocked by the uprooted trees.

Sections of Harriet Municipal Pavilion, one of the most popular of the city's playgrounds, collapsed on fifty persons, killing Mrs. Emma Miller, her three year old daughter, and injuring six other persons.

Charles Fiester, druggist, died of heart disease, after the wind had wrecked his store.

The fourth person killed was Willard J. Ford, 30, who was hurled 50 feet from the cab of a travelling crane.

The fury of the storm had abated by the time it had crossed the river into St. Paul.

CHEMONG PARK IS DESECRATED

Picnic Parties Strew Ground With Rubbish—Undress in the Open.

DISREGARD OTHERS

The difference between "meum et tuum," the everlasting distinction between "mine and thine," has been the cause of trouble between individuals, as well as nations, since the beginning of time. An effective illustration of this attribute of human nature is afforded in the divergent treatment given a neighbor's property, as compared with the care exercised with one's own, by the majority of mankind.

A neighbor will borrow a book or a piece of music and either forget to return it or sends it back with dog-eared edges and smeared pages. His own books and music are carefully guarded. A woman with an impending card party hanging over her head requests the loan of a bridge cloth, and the owner receives it some time later, plus a coffee stain in one corner. A park committee puts up signs to "keep off the grass" and the public wears a path over a section newly sown with seed. City dwellers invade peaceful farm orchards and despoil the trees of apple and cherry blossoms, or hack the limbs from overhanging lilac boughs. Their own gardens in town are kept unmutilated. So it goes.

Picnickers are among the worst of the species that consistently disregards the Golden Rule. Picnic in the dictionary is defined as "a short excursion into the country, etc., by a pleasure party carrying their own provisions," also as being "a kind of biscuit."

We don't know just what the derivation of pic-nic is. A contemporary has kindly informed us that one "picks" what one wants to eat in preparation for the event, and then the assembled company "nicks" the supply provided. Another suggestion is to the effect that an Old Country slangism, "nick," means to steal or grab.

Out at Chemong Park, the transient picknickers are making hay while the sun shines and leaving behind them many evidences of their passing. Such things, even, as an upturned boiler, mark the flight of one jolly party which must have been large in numbers. Boxes of all descriptions, mussed-up papers and odds and ends of food are strewn about the fenced-off portion of the Park, and the boxes which are supposed to hold such offshoots of the feasts are broken down evidences of the rough hands of passing vandals.

Other complaints are to the effect that visiting groups have a habit of undressing for a swim behind any available bit of greenery, and thereby failing to add to the general picturesqueness of the view.

At the closing session of the biennial meeting of the Grand Camp Sons of Scotland, Colonel D. M. Robertson was re-elected grand chief.

W.M.S. MEETING IS HELD AS A PICNIC

Omemee Ladies Held July Session on Lawn of Member.

OMEMEE, July 9. — The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, held its July meeting in the form of a picnic at home of Mrs. David Weir, with 38 members and two visitors present; also a number of children. Chairs were placed on the spacious lawn and the meeting was held in the open air. The president, Mrs. Rowland, presided, and the meeting was opened by singing the Doxology and repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. A hymn followed after which Mrs. Brandon led in a short prayer. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. T. A. MacPherson, from Luke 14th. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given after which the heralds read the message of the "Watch Tower."

Following a second hymn, Mrs. G. N. Earle read a devotional leaflet entitled "Unselfishness and Prayer."

An interesting feature of the programme was a mite box convention in which several ladies read the reports of the various mite boxes which were supposedly meeting in convention and showing too for what good or poor purposes these boxes may be used.

At the close of the meeting a duet was splendidly rendered by the Misses Mabel and Myrtle Weir which was much enjoyed.

A social half hour was spent on the lawn and an abundance of dainty viands was provided by the hostesses, Mrs. D. Weir, Mrs. J. Nichols and Mrs. R. Carey.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Weir for the kindness shown in the use of her home, and was heartily endorsed by the entire gathering.

The August meeting will be held on the lawn of Mrs. T. A. MacPherson.

Communion Service.

On Sunday morning last the first communion was administered in the United Church to a large congregation by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland. Many unionists presented their certificates of membership and united with the former Methodists in observing the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

MAY USE CAR IN CARRYING GOODS

Not Illegal For Farmer to Bring Produce to Town in Touring Car.

THE LAW STATED.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

WARKWORTH, July 9.—When a Percy Township farmer brought to the village in his auto a bag of grain to be ground at the mill, a friend warned him that he was liable to a fine under the amended Motor Vehicles Act for operating a truck without taking out the proper license. It was added that farmers who had carried produce to town in their cars in other towns in the district had been summoned and fined for this alleged breach of the regulations.

Farmers and others who have been utilizing their cars for other than pleasure purposes naturally felt somewhat alarmed over these rumors. C. E. Meiklejohn, a local merchant, has a dual purpose car, the body of which can be removed and replaced by a truck platform which he uses in delivering goods. In order to settle the question as to the legality of this procedure Mr. Meiklejohn had Bert Armstrong, secretary of the local Fair Board, write the Department of Highways.

Mr. Armstrong has received a reply, stating that there is no law to prevent a man from carrying merchandise or farm produce in his car, and that a truck license is not required. The communication adds that a garage man can pack his tools in a car, drive out to the county to the aid of a stranded auto which he can tow into town. This looks like a case of using his own car for commercial purposes, but the Department rules that the higher license is not required.

DROWNED WHILE RESISTING ARREST

Alleged Bootlegger Dived Into River and Sank—Officer Couldn't Swim.

CORNWALL, July 9 (Canadian Press)—Furiously resisting arrest, Benny Stacey an alleged bootlegger, was drowned in the St. Lawrence River while Constable J. A. Kenny, powerless to aid his victim saw him disappear never to rise again.

Stacey was in a row boat and when the officer attempted to make the arrest he struggled. The rowboat upset in the shallow water and the scuffle continued. Stacey broke loose, dived into the water, swam a few strokes, and disappeared. Kenny was unable to swim.

ENTERS APPEAL ON SEWER RATE

Campbellford Man Carries Court of Revision Decision to Judge.

NO BENEFIT TO HIM.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9. — G. A. Payne, as solicitor for Arthur Tripp, has served notice on the council that he has appealed to the County Judge against the assessment made by the Court of Revision against the property of his client for the construction of the sewer on Kent and Napier streets. Mr. Tripp was first assessed on a frontage of 66 feet, the charge being $2.71 for both sewer and water main. He appealed against this ruling of the Court of Revision and it was found by actual measurement that his frontage was only 51 feet. As he was already supplied with town water he objected to the extra tax for the new water main and by way of concession the court reduced his frontage to 33 feet. Against this finding Mr. Tripp now appeals on the ground that his property is not benefitted by new service and for that reason he should pay nothing.

The case is a rather complicated and unusual one. In 1912 the town purchased from C. E. Bonnycastle, owner of the property in question, the right of way for a sewer in order to get an outlet to the river, the consideration being $50.

Mr. Bonnycastle lat.. sold the land to James Bell, who in turn disposed of it to Mr. Tripp.

Claim Assessment is Illegal.

In his notice of appeal Mr. Payne sets forth:

That the assessment is contrary to law.

That no report has been made by the council before the undertaking of the work as required by the statute.

That the provisions of Section 32 of the R.S.O. have not been carried out;

That the said sewer was constructed through the appellant's lands by deed of grant from the appellant or his predecessors in title and the appellant's lands have no frontage on the sewer, and no report has been made as to what benefits the appellant's lands derive by reason of the sewer, and in any case it was understood and agreed that the right to enter and run the sewer across said lands was granted with no agreement, intention or expectation that the lands should be charged with any sewer rates.

The charge against the appellant's lands is contrary to the Local Improvement Act.

CHURCH IS SPLIT BY UNION VOTE

Burnbrae Unionists Are Leaving Church to Go Elsewhere.

TROUBLE CAUSED

BURNBRAE, July 9—The final split in St. Andrew's congregation took place at a congregational meeting here Monday evening. Following an announcement on Sunday, the non-concurring members met in the basement for one hour, after which a joint meeting was held in the auditorium. The anti-unionists drew up two resolutions to present to the joint meeting. One, to enter the new Presbyterian Church; the other, to extend a cordial invitation to the unionists to continue with them. Mr. Hume, speaking for the Unionists, stated that they had no wish to quarrel over the matter and could not expect to reach a settlement regarding the resolutions presented so moved an adjournment following which the Unionists rose in a body and left the meeting.

Considerable trouble has been caused here by the union question. About the end of May, everyone thought the matter would be settled peacefully as the anti-union members brought forward a resolution to remain independent for one and one-half years or until January, 1927, at which time a vote would be binding on either party. This resolution was broken by some of their own number, however, who went to the Assembly meeting in Toronto and virtually committed the congregation to the new church.

The unionists felt that staying longer would only aggravate the situation as no indication of an amicable understanding could be seen. Consequently they have decided to withdraw their names from the membership of the congregation and in the course of a few days this action will probably be taken by about 90 per cent of the unionist body. Invitations have been extended by all the neighboring Union Churches so that those leaving will be assured of a congenial church home wherever they care to go.

It is a matter of regret to all concerned either in Burnbrae or elsewhere, that this splendid old congregation should be broken, but the question at stake was one in which the personal regrets of those leaving were of minor importance compared with future of the United Church in Canada to which they felt they belonged.

ENGINEERS VISIT CAMPBELLFORD

Annual Excursion of Peterboro Branch E.I.C. is on Saturday.

A GOOD TIME

The town of Campbellford is to be invaded on Saturday, July 11, by a contingent of Peterborough engineers, the members and friends of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada having arranged to visit their Campbellford brethren on that date.

Arrangements have been made by the committee in charge for the party, who intend to motor from Peterborough, to visit various points of interest in the vicinity of Campbellford, the itinerary, including the automatically operated gates at Dam No. 10, the Ranney Falls Power attion, and the automatically operated station at Dam No. 8.

After the more serious business of the day, an opportunity will be given to the members of the party to display their prowess at softball and other more or less strenuous sports, after which supper will be served at Christ church parish hall by the Christ church Ladies' Auxiliary.

Arrangements at Campbellford have been in the capable hands of A. E. Caddy, M.E.I.C., and if the weather man smiles on the proceedings, a good time is assured. Any friends of the local branch who wish to accompany the party should communicate with A. H. Munro, 352 Brock street. 'Phone 965J or 'phone 83.

nightly mail, passenger and freight service between St. Lawrence ports in summer and other Canadian ports in winter, calling both ways at Bermuda, the Bahamas, and Kingston, Jamaica, alternating with fortnightly freight services between the Canadian ports and Kingston direct. The passenger steamers for this service will be similar to those mentioned in the former service, with accommodation for 100 first-class passengers and refrigeration for 70,000 stems of bananas and also cold storage for Canadian meats and perishable products. Each of the freight steamers shall also have a speed of ten knots and refrigeration for 50,000 stems of bananas. For this service the following annual subsidies must be paid: Bermuda £2,000, Bahamas £2,000, British Honduras £2,000, and Jamaica £12,000.

Pending the establishment of the steamship services, "the Canadian Government will use its best endeavors to maintain a service every three weeks on the existing lines.

Bananas are to be admitted free to Canada from the colonies mentioned in the agreement, as against a general tariff to all other countries of 50 cents per stem. The Government of Canada, however, reserves the right to inquire into any alleged combine, and if it is found that a conspiracy in the matter of rates exists, the Governor-in-Council may admit imported bananas from all countries free of duty "to give the public the benefit of reasonable competition."

Advantages For Indies.

Cocoa beans not roasted, crushed or ground, are given a preference of $1.50 per hundred pounds as against $2 general tariff. Raw lime juice, concentrated, not refined, 15 cents per gallon preference; fresh limes free; arrowroot free; cocoanuts free if they come by ship direct to Canadian port—otherwise they have a preference of 50 cents per hundred; grapefruit "if imported direct by ship," preference $1 per hundred pounds; "grapefruit N.O.P. if not imported by ship direct a preference of 50 cents per hundred pounds"; preferences of $2 per gallon and 60 cents per gallon on rum or specified standards; onions admitted free against a general tariff of 30 per cent. Cocoa butter free as against a general tariff of three cents per pound; ginger and spices unground free. Nutmegs and mace, whole, or unground, free. Pineapples in air-tight cans or packages, half a cent per pound. Angostura bitters, $5 per proof gallon. Marine sponges free.

The agreement states "the Customs tariff of Canada shall provide that sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard in color when imported by a recognized sugar refiner, for refining purposes only, upon evidence satisfactory to the Minister of Customs, shall not be subject to these duties, i.e., the duties on sugar over No. 16 Dutch standard, specified in item 134 of the Canadian tariff. Provided that sugar as defined under item 134 shall receive a preference of not less than 25 per cent. of the duty charged on foreign sugar."

Jamaica, the Bahamas and British Honduras grant to Canada:

(1) On flour a preference of two shillings per barrel of 196 pounds.

(2) A preference of not less than 50 per cent. on butter, cheese, lard, condensed milk, meats of all kinds, fish, apples and potatoes.

A POOR TEACHER

A young lady, singing at a concert one night, was accompanied at the piano by an old German musician. After her song, the old man approached her and said, heatedly:—"You did sing pretty badly — no warmth, no style — poor singing." The affronted vocalist replied sharply—"I sing as Nature taught me, sir." And the German musician rejoined—"I did not hear very well your teacher's name. But whoever he was, he taught you badly!"

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1925.

ONE WEEK FROM TODAY.

A week from today, Thursday, July 16th, the Rotary Carnival will be held at the Exhibition Grounds, and the Examiner suggests to the citizens generally that this event, both as an entertainment pure and simple and as a means of helping a splendid cause, is well worth the support of the community.

The proceeds will all be used in the interest of Rotary's activities, the work of giving crippled children a new chance in life, the summer camp, and other work on behalf of the under-privileged boys of the city and other Rotarian objects.

The carnival takes place on the weekly half-holiday, which will permit of a large attendance in the afternoon of the business portion of the city's population, while the evening's events will give everybody a chance to attend.

It has been suggested that the event be used as a family outing.

The head of the family who may not be able to be present in the afternoon is advised to send his wife and youngsters down and join them at supper-time.

Make it a big day for every one, and the result will be a memorable outing and much subsequent happiness for the less fortunate of Peterboro's youngsters.

THE COUNTY RESULTS.

Judging by the results of the entrance examinations in the schools of Peterboro County, the tests set by the examiners this year must have been unusually severe, or more probably of the type technically described as "tricky."

Three hundred and twenty-nine pupils from the different schools in the county entered for the examination, and the Entrance Board reports that only 185—or 57 per cent. of the total—were successful in passing.

Furthermore, it is announced that of the 155 successful candidates, the remarkably low total of eight secured honours.

It is not very likely that dry rot should have set in among the teachers of the whole county.

Neither is it probable that all the bright pupils passed out of all the county schools last year.

The showing at the recent examinations, so much below last year's record as to be outstanding, seems to suggest that the explanation lies in the examination papers themselves.

In this connection complaints have been heard that the examination in arithmetic was the stumbling block over which most of the unsuccessful candidates fell—and the inference is that this test, while perhaps not unduly strict or unfair, was "tricky" enough to cause very serious trouble for the entrance pupils.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The significance of the statement of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that the wheat crop in Canada this year will reach a total of 350,000,000 bushels has perhaps not been fully grasped.

If the prediction is verified—and the prospects before the wheat crop have never been better—it means even at $1.00 per bushel, and the price is likely to be much better than that, $350,000,000 for the farmers of Canada for their wheat alone.

The pessimist, of course, will point out that the crops have not yet been harvested.

Drought, rust, hail or frost may intervene and 1925 may still be a lean year, like so many of its predecessors.

But what's the good of always looking at the gloomy side of things?

Just now let us rejoice that the wheat crop never looked better at this stage of the year, that the estimated yield is 10,000,000 bushels better than the average for the past five years, and that higher prices can be confidently expected.

It is not necessary to go very far to find verification for this latter statement, in view of the announcement that the United States will not have an exportable surplus of more than 11,000,000, and that India's crop is less than last year's total by 44,000,000 bushels.

Canada should have 250,000,000 bushels to export at higher prices than usual.

There is every reason to feel happy over the outlook.

VACATIONS—WRONG AND OTHERWISE.

Peterboro people leaving shortly on their annual holiday trip would do well to follow the advice handed out by Toronto's Health Department and make it a safe and sane vacation.

The principal object of a holiday should, of course, be to repair the wear and tear of the year's work and to re-charge the run-down batteries with fresh vigour.

A vacation from which one returns feeling more tired than when he left is worse than a waste of time.

Yet in these dance-mad times it is to be feared that the majority of young people get but little real benefit out of their holiday period.

Most Peterboro people go to one or other of the lake resorts, where the conditions are just right for a restful recuperative holiday—but, unfortunately, the opportunity is not always taken.

Instead of days spent in healthful recreation on the water and nights of refreshing sleep, the younger generation at Ontario resorts seem to be turning night into day.

The lure of the dance wins them night after night, and the result is they are too tired to take advantage of the exercise they need in the day-time.

To those who have fallen into this pernicious way of spending their vacation, the Examiner commends the statement of the Toronto Health Department to the effect that "You can't expect to dance every night you are away and come home feeling rested."

Don't speed and help to save the roads, is the Department of Highway's appeal to motorists. But if drivers won't stop speeding to save their own necks, they are not likely to worry very much about the road surface.

HOW MUCH EDUCATION?

To what extent should the ratepayers provide a free education? Should it go on through to matriculation or is it sufficient to give a boy or girl a public school training? This matter was discussed by a London businessman, and whether one agrees with all his deductions or not, it must be admitted there is considerable common sense in what he says.

He claims that he was discussing the matter with a number of young people, most of whom intended to go on through and take a college course, and he found that none of them had a clear-cut idea of what they intended to do after that. A professional life seemed to appeal to them as offering the greater opportunity, but that was about as far as they could go.

"We seem to be edging away from the old idea, which was a very substantial fact, as far as I can see," he continued, "that the majority of our boys must go to work as soon as they are able to do so. Now we are in a period when the whole cry is to educate them more and more; give them a smattering of subjects in which they never become expert, and which the most of them never have any occasion to use afterward. The Adolescent Act holds them at school, and the tendency has been toward lengthening the course in the collegiate, with the result that by the time a boy has matriculated he is between 18 and 20 years of age. He is too old to start to learn a trade then, and he does not care to work for the wages that a firm can offer to one who is just starting to learn a business. Moreover, the cost of the whole business is being carried by the ratepayers, and that is the reason our school taxes are so high and still going higher."

This man is willing to go farther and suggest that we have not yet come to what is a fair education to be provided at public expense. He would leave the public school course almost as it is, and round it out with another year or two in much the same subjects, and combine it with the best features of technical education.

"As I see it," he concluded, "we are not shaping our education to meet the demands of this country. We certainly cannot supply what is termed the white-collar occupation to all who want it because we have a limited population and in many lines we have not yet passed the pioneer stage. We need workers, young men who will make a study of the business they decide to enter; we need more apprentices at our trades, yet we have very few of them today."

This Londoner does not believe in an uneducated youth, but he fears there is too much time taken up with nonpractical subjects in which the students do not become proficient. It is worth recalling that many of our most successful men are those who have started in a business when quite young, with the idea of mastering it. They have found they did not possess certain instruction, and have had recourse to night schools, technical courses and books that would fill in this want, and in securing their knowledge in this way they were getting exactly what they needed; there was no waste effort.

We have heard the point raised before, and by men who are not extremists, that the fair amount of free education to be given by the public purse would consist of a two-year addition to the public school course, which would give a thorough grounding in fundamental subjects. The argument is worth noting because it has a very practical turn to it.—London Advertiser.

WE HAVE A COUNTRY HERE.

Some time ago the Advertiser referred to the character of some of the Sunday school papers from United States that are used in London schools, says the London Advertiser. No one cares to be dogmatic in such matters, but it is a plain fact that they are edited for United States children. At all times they take advantage of calendar dates to speak of loyalty to United States; the heroes around which the stories for boys are spun are all U. S. men. For instance, here is one extract from a recent issue:

"It is not an indication that you are unsophisticated if your blood quickens at the sight of the flag, and a lump comes into your throat when you hear the band play The Star-Spangled Banner.

"The young American who reads of the hardships of the early settlers, of the train of events which led to the establishment of a separate government, and of those years of struggle and sacrifice following, and is not thrilled by the thought that he is of the blood of these heroes, is suffering from moral anemia."

Now that is very excellent advice for the youth of United States, but we submit that we have national airs in this country and we have traditions that surround the building of the Dominion and its system of responsible government that would furnish just as fine examples of national vision and just as splendid instances of a desire to make personal sacrifice for the accomplishment of a worthy purpose.

Other stories in this paper, the Boys' World, tell of the exploits of U. S. airmen; an entire page is given over to "Celebrating the Fourth"; two columns of the next page gives the origin of historical names such as "Liberty Bell," "United States Flag," "Uncle Sam," and about an inch and a half at the bottom to "John Bull and the British Lion."

The last page starts off with a story, "With the Protectors of Our Nation." It is all taken from the doings of the American navy, with the exception of the story of the bravery of a Confederate soldier at Gettysburg. The paper is planned, written and edited for United States consumption. There are papers published in Canada that for the purposes of Canadian schools are much better, and they give more space to the preparation of the Sunday school lesson. They should be more widely patronized.

A THOUGHT.

God! Thou art Love! I build my faith on that!
I know Thee, Thou hast kept my past and made Light for me in the darkness—tempering sorrow

It were too strange that I should doubt Thy love.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

SUPPORTS THE EXAMINER.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

I just want to tell you that I know a great many people who are solidly behind you in your efforts to obtain what the citizens want in the way of Sunday concerts and Sunday bathing. As you said last night there is no use in going further now, since the Council will not listen to reason. When the question is put to the vote then the people will speak.

A. R.

ADMIRES "GOB" HATS.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

Your long tirade against gob hats just because they come from United States is hardly fair to the usefulness and appropriateness of the new style in our climate. There has nothing come here of late years so suitable, and personally I think they are quite becoming to young ladies.

And I think it just horrid to poke fun at our skirts when we have now, for once in woman's history, a little comfort.

MARY B.

PROTECT YOUNG FOLK.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

Monday's tragedy at St. Thomas must have shocked mothers and fathers everywhere, and it draws attention to the great care needed in handling boats. Just below the Peterborough lock on the Otonabee is a very dangerous current where young folk delight to risk their lives. It may not come for years, but some day a party will be swamped there, if the practice is not stopped.

Is there no way that for their own sakes young people can be kept away from dangerous places on the river?

L. COLLINS.

A SIGN! A SIGN!

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: If the City Council had its nose to the ground on Sunday night it must have learned from the great audience at the art ouries parade ground and Central Park why music is the language of Heaven. God made men and women to live together—not to boss each other—and unless this ridiculous epidemic of self-importance and fat salaries which is now rampant in Ontario, and especially in Peterboro, comes to a sense of its own ridiculousness, there is bound to be trouble and a great deal of unpleasantness, Believe me, R. M. L.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

The only solution of the awkward situation into which the Council has plunged us is set out well in your editorial of last night in which you say the people should decide. After flying directly in the face of public opinion as they have this year, the Aldermen cannot refuse to submit questions to the people on Sunday bathing, Sunday band concerts, and daylight saving. If they are still stubborn, action should be taken early to ensure these questions being put on the ballots.

Please remind us when the time comes.

S. KELLY.

PLAN SUGGESTED.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

I am informed that a gentlemen holding a responsible position in the county approached our local politicians with a proposal to provide bathing houses if they would arrange for the money to pay caretakers on Sundays. Is this so?

Something should be done quickly before a heat wave catches us unprepared; and it is just as hot in a heat wave on Sunday as on any other day.

Many men would be willing to support such a scheme as is outlined above if the opportunity offered.

B. D.

COME AGAIN.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir, — As secretary of the Conundrum Club of Gilmour Street, I am authorized to ask you this: What is it that crawls on the floor like an infant, eat's out of one's hand like a pelican; jabbers at one like a monkey, and sleeps head downward, suspended by its feet from the limb of a maple tree?

This has nothing to do with evolution.

Answer: The nearly extinct
PHILIP RANDY.

PROHIBITION A FAILURE?

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

There was a visitor in the city yesterday who told me that if it was not for the despatches arriving there from outside places the people in certain parts of United States would not know the country had prohibition. The old saloons are open, beer is sold openly, and only a little more discretion is used in vending stronger liquor, he said.

If this is true, and it is given on as good authority as anything I have heard before, it is not true indeed that prohibition has fallen down across the line? And should we not know the truth, un-beclouded by fanatics' colourings, so that we in turn may mold our destinies according to more enlightened days?

ANTI-O.T.A.

PROHIBITION FAILS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—The Prohibition enforcement forces of the United States admit defeat. For years the entire equipment of the Government and of the Drys has been working up to a grand climax. Fleets and veritable armies heartily backed financially both by the government and private individuals with especially chosen men as directors of the campaign have been prosecuting the war upon alcohol and have failed. Why? Chiefly because a law that punishes the morally upright as well as delinquents is an unjust law and is bound to fail. As J. J. Morrison and J. J. Kelso pointed out in Ontario it is impossible to cure or obliterate disease by stamping on it. Such a process only makes it ten times worse. Reasonable precautions and limitations will succeed but total abolition by force is an impossibility. Perfection is not humanly possible. It is not possible even amongst the churches themselves as we see. Even Union cannot be discussed without a fight. People and nations are not reformed in that way. Force and injustice inspire hatred and resistance. Until people who imagine that they are pious have some faith in their piety and refrain from dropping it as useless when an occasion rises, they can do little but harm. The war between fundamentalism and modernism in the Protestant churches shows how far removed ministers are from being what they demand that others shall be. We must get back to reason and commonsense, to a sense of justice and respect for the things God made and pronounced good.

The mighty bluff has collapsed. Are we to get back to the one cure for all ills or are we to continue preaching it and practising something else? The whole fabric of morality in America is being undermined. That a ministry which has given such painful evidence of a lack of self-control should dictate to others is, of course, absurd, but that they should impose upon their congregations a lot of grandiose deliance of true Christianity and the moral law is a fad fact and one the rising generation seizes and mocks at.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, July 8. — Canadian Press. — There was still a heavy carry over of rough and stale cattle for to-day's market, about 1800 to add to the 640 fresh receipts, making a total offering of 2400 cattle. As this is not the time of year for carrying over stale cattle, holders faced the situation and apparently decided to let the cattle go at the lower prices. The result was a freer movement and trade was more active, promising a pretty fair clean up before the week-end. Prices for good fresh cattle were unchanged from yesterday, but the stale stuff was a little easier.

Calves were steady.

Lambs 50c to a dollar lower at $14 tops.

Hogs a little unsettled, packers bidding 25c lower, but prospects were steady at $13 f.o.b.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 8. — Canadian Press. — Owing largely to predictions of a hot wave and to consequent greater danger of serious crop damage from black rust, the wheat market took an upward swing today. The closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 3-8c to 2 1-8c net advance, September 145½ to 145 5-8 and December 146 5-8 to 146 7-8, with corn ranging from 3-8c net decline to 3 1-8c gain; oats 1-8 off to 3-8 up, and provisions 10c to 27c down.

With more numerous reports at hand from the northwest telling of black rust attacking the stems as well as the leaves of wheat, an upward trend was shown by the wheat market right at the outset. No actual important damage as yet however was noted and attempts to realize profits on the earlier bulges in prices led to a temporary decline.

European crop reports were also favorable.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 8.—Canadian Press. — Export grain bookings are brisk at this port. Available cargo space for the last half of this month is now limited to United Kingdom ports. In addition to the regular liners 15 tramp vessels have been booked for sailing this month to European ports. The market is steady and the rates show little change.

In New York a small business was worked overnight with foreign buyers in wheat and rye. Sales of Manitoba No. 3 Northern were made at 2c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option c.i.f. Montreal leaving continental houses bought 81,000 bushels of Russian wheat for August-September shipment. Export business in grain on Tuesday was finally priced at 1,000,000 bushels wheat, 300,000 rye, 300,000 to 400,000 oats, and some barley.

A moderate amount of business was done in eggs in a wholesale jobbing way to-day, there being a steady demand for small lots to meet immediate requirements. The market was firm and prices unchanged with sales of specials at 41c, fresh extras at 39c; firsts at 35c and seconds at 31c per dozen. Receipts were 1468 cases compared with nil for the same day last week and 2545 for the corresponding day a year ago.

There was no change in the market for cold storage dressed poultry. Prices for all lines being fairly well maintained. Sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys were made at 40 to 43c per lb; 5 to 9 lbs at 32c to 39c per lb; milk fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb; selected chickens at 32c to 36c per lb; selected fowl at 18c to 23c per lb; selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb. and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

The demand for honey showed no improvement and the market was dull with no change in prices to note.

Receipts of butter were 6235 packages as compared with nil for the same day last week, and 185 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was some demand for supplies for export account and sales of odd round lots were made on the spot, and this coupled with the trading cup the cable resulted in a fair amount of business being done and the market was moderately active with a steady undertone. Sales of Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery were made at 37½c per lb; Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 37c to 37 1-2c per lb; No. 1 creamery at 36c to 36½c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 35c to 35 1-2c.

Receipt of cheese were 8327 boxes, as against nil for the same day last week, and 8657 for the corresponding day a year ago. An easier feeling prevailed and spot prices were reduced 1-8c to 3-8c per lb, which was attributed principally to the lull in the demand from English importers and the lower prices bid. There was some business done on spot for export account with sales of Western No. 1 white and colored at 21 7-8 per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21 5-8c to 21 3-4c per lb.

PREMIER FERGUSON ADVOCATES WIDER TRADE PREFERENCES AS SOLUTION OF EMPIRE PROBLEMS

Germany Buying Newfoundland Ores, While Britain is Buying From Spain.

PARIS INTERVIEW

Whole Empire Would Benefit by Development of Any of Its Parts.

PARIS, July 9. — Canadian Press. —As a result of his visit to England, and his many quiet interviews with leading men there Premier G. H. Ferguson of Ontario, reiterated his belief here to-day that the solution of the economic problems of Canada and the Empire depends upon a frank preference within the Empire. The present Industries Act, he said, was protective, but did not go far enough. Answering the charge that such solution would build up the Dominions at the expense of England, Premier Ferguson repeated that Canadians could see no difference between the water separating the Dominion and the Motherland and the land separating London and Manchester. "We cannot be in it if not of it," he declared.

Germany, he continued, was buying iron ore in Newfoundland, and dumping the manufactured product into Britain while Britain was buying the same kind of ore from Spain. "Why not buy and sell more within the Empire?" he asked. British labour is beginning [illegible] the situation which will eventually convert the old parties from their present attitude of free trade to a policy which will provide further inter-Empire preferences, the benefits of which would accrue to the Empire as a whole, no matter what part they were particularly applied to.

Applies to Canada.

This policy of get together, the Premier continued, must be adopted in Canada as well. The farmers there found the freight rates too high —an amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways was impossible but some kind of a board to eliminate unnecessary competition should be agreed upon. Interprovincial differences could be settled, he said, without raising the cry of provincial rights, and he was satisfied that the Rouyn railway line would be completed after Premier Taschereau of Quebec and himself had gotten together this fall. The completed line would contribute to the development of both provinces. "That's the way to deal with it."

The agreement between Sir Henry Thornton of the National Railways, and the Ontario Government regarding the transportation of Alberta coal, he continued, was evidence of the get together movement, towards a broader national outlook tending to strengthen the Dominion economically. "Napoleon here once said something about us being a nation of shopkeepers but we must get over the habit of shoving goods across our counters regardless of where they come from," declared Mr. Ferguson, who added that the "dole" was unknown in Canada.

CONFER FELLOWSHIP ON VANCOUVER LADY

Mrs. J. C. Bruce Rewarded for Active Part Taken in Educational Work.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 9 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. J. C. Bruce of this city has received advice from London that she has been admitted as a Fellow of Royal Colonial Institute, England. Since the Institute decided in 1922 to confer fellowships on women interested in helpful work for the Empire only once before has a Vancouver woman been so honored. Mrs. Bruce, before coming to Canada six years ago, took an active part in educational matters in the home land as principal of commercial colleges in Scotland and England. The Institute owns its headquarters in the city of Westminster valued at over a million dollars. Women who are fellows, besides sharing in the control of the property and direction of the institute's work, enjoy the comforts and privileges of the club.

LOAN TO AUSTRALIA.

Seeking $100,000,000 of Uncle Sam's Hoard.

LONDON, July 9 (Canadian Press).—An Exchange Telegraph Agency message from Melbourne says the Australian government has confirmed the New York report that Australia will float a loan in the United States soon.

With £120,000,000 sterling in loans maturing this year, the Australian Government recently asked Great Britain whether there was any objection to borrowing in New York to meet these requirements. The British reply was that there was no particular objection, especially since it was not likely that sufficient money would be available in London to meet Australia's needs.

It is expected that the United States loan will total $100,000,000.

PETERBORO CAR CRASHED BUGGY

Jas. Falls and Two Children Hurled Into the Ditch.

ALL INJURED.

BAILIEBORO, July 8. — On Monday evening an accident which might have proved fatal occurred on the provincial highway about one mile south of the village, when Jas. Falls, a citizen residing on Main street, when returning from his brother's farm a couple of miles out of town and while driving his brother's horse and buggy, was run into by a motorist from Peterborough, smashing the buggy up generally, and whirling Mr. Falls and his two small children, Jean and Robert, who were with him, into the ditch. Mr. Falls was injured in the breast and leg, while the little girl received a bad cut on the knee cap, and little Robert was severely shaken up.

The motorist stated that he did not see the vehicle until the car had hit them. Mr. Falls was off the road as fast as he could possibly goin safety, and had he been driving nearer the centre of the road the motorist would no doubt have noticed them in time to have avoided an accident.

Master Lloyd Jewison narrowly escaped having his arm broken on Monday evening. While his father, Mr. F. Jewison, was in the barber shop, he left the two small sons in the car on the street. The elder of the two boys undertook to crank the car during his absence, and the younger boy pulled the spark lever down too far, causing the car to back-fire, and the child's arm was knocked out of joint. Mr. Jewison managed to put the arm back again without medical assistance.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR ANNIVERSARY

Keene United Church Had Large Congregations on Sunday.

KEENE, July 9.—On Sunday, July 5, Keene Presbyterian United Church held anniversary services. Dr. Colin Young of Toronto preached two powerful sermons, while the minister, Rev. John Archibald, took part in conducting the devotional exercises. The morning subject was national in its outlook. Dr. Young is an authority on the non-Anglo-Saxon work in Canada. In the Dominion he sees one of the greatest opportunities for the spreading of evangelical faith among those different races. The imagination staggers at the thought of what effect the turning of thousands of those so-called foreigners, with all their gifts to Christ and His living gospel, would have upon this part of the world.

In the evening the message was, "The Fellowship of Christ's Sufferings." The Christian life is not simply something done for people and given to them by Christ; it is something also which they give to and do with Him.

The musical selections by the large and efficient choir were beautifully rendered. To the leader and soloist, Miss Bryce, great credit is due for the success of the musical items.

At both services large and appreciative audiences filled the church, the offering of the day amounting to $260.00.

Masonic Picnic.

Preparations are being made to handle a large crowd at the Masonic picnic at Serpent Mounds, Rice Lake, on Thursday of this week.

Big Crowd.

A large crowd attended the auction Sale of farm stock, etc., of the late John Knox. Prices received for the items were fairly good.

A softball game was watched with keen interest. Races in which all ages took part and for which prizes were given were an event of interest especially to the children. The children were conveyed to and from the grounds in a truck.

90,000,000 Bus. Of Wheat Is Estimate of Alberta Crop

EDMONTON, Alta., July 9. (Canadian Press.)—In the vicinity of 90,000,000 bushels is the Provincial Government's wheat crop estimate now in view of the present weather conditions. It indicates a drop from previous estimates made in various quarters, the explanation being that dry weather, weeds, pests and reduction in acreage through farmers moving, have all combined to cut down the probable crop.

Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, now estimates the area seeded to wheat at 5,500,000 acres and he puts likely average yield at seventeen bushels to the acre. This works out to 93,500,000 bushels, assuming that the present favorable conditions continue.

YOUTHS BORROWED CAR FOR EXCURSION

Came From Toronto Cobourg to Attend C. G. E. Picnic.

COBOURG, July 9.—On the day the Canadian General Electric Companies of Toronto and Peterborough picnicked at Cobourg, Chief Rose discovered an auto apparently abandoned on one of the streets. The Chief took possession of it and then phoned the Toronto police and ascertained that a valuable car was stolen there. The following day the owner sent for his car and it was taken back to the city. But that was not all. It now transpires that two Toronto boys were afraid they might be too late in arriving at the wharf to get the boat, and they borrowed an auto that was standing at the corner of King and Bay streets. But notwithstanding this aid of locomotion they were too late, the boat was pulling out when they reached the pier. They were afraid to leave the auto, or return it to the place from which they took it, and they were also reluctant to give up the picnic, so they came on to Cobourg in the borrowed car, it is stated. The car had then served the desired purpose of getting them to the picnic, so they abandoned it here and returned to the city with the other excursionists by boat. But there is always a fly in the ointment, and he police got on their trail and they were taken into custody. Their fate will be decided on July 17.

Suspended Sentence.

William C. Glenn, the young Scotch farmer, who was found guilty on a charge of assault, was allowed to go on suspended sentence when he came before Judge Hugg for sentence in the County Court here on Friday, but was given a stiff lecture and ordered to pay $50.00 to the woman assaulted.

At the hearing Mrs. Collett is alleged to have stated, Glenn came into the house without watering the horses, and refused when she requested him to do so. An altercation followed and Mrs. Collett remarked about his not having washed for some time, when Glenn lost his temper and struck her a severe blow on the forehead.

Miss Elizabeth Collett said she attempted to intercede between the man and her mother, and received a violent blow on her mouth, which split her lip and loosened some teeth.

Glenn, when placed upon the stand, told the Court he came to this country from Scotland four years ago. This spring he entered into a contract with Mr. Collett to farm on shares. He stated that Mrs. Collett struck him first, after he had provoked her by calling her a liar. The daughter, he said, was struck unintentionally.

Mr. Roy Willmott was counsel for the accused.

GOOD WILL PLEA BY DELEGATION FROM MINNESOTA

Governor at Winnipeg Banquet Appeals For Closer Spirit of Fellowship.

MORE THAN PEACE.

Anglo - Saxon Democracies the Hope of the World He Declared.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Declaring that the hope of the world centres in the Anglo-Saxon experiment in self-government and that the experiments in the future will be mainly conducted on North American soil, Governor Theo Christianson of Minnesota delivered a plea for continued Canadian-American friendship at the Manitoba Club last night. The Governor and other members of a business men's delegates from Minnesota were guests of the club at a banquet.

Referring to the fact that for 110 years there has been no hostile action between Canada and the United States, he said: "Let us pledge that henceforth it shall be more than peace, that as in the past boundaries have not separated us, so in the future a spirit of fellowship shall indeed unite us."

The Minnesota governor carefully traced the development of government on both sides of the border, declaring that Canada had guarded more closely than the United States, the power of the legislative branch of the government against the encroachment of the executive.

President a Monarch.

"With us," he said, "the tendency has been, by extra constitutional devices, to subordinate the legislative to the executive. We have invested the president of the United States with greater power than that exercised by any West-European king or emperor of modern times. Instead of being a ceremonial representative of sovereignty, he is now endowed with the qualities of leadership, moulder of public opinion, dictator of legislation, monarch of all he surveys."

Governor Christianson qualified this statement by pointing out that even the vast powers of the presidency are subject to "the consent of the governed."

He deprecated the tendency toward group government on both sides of the border and advocated a return to government "which considered the general welfare, rather than group advantage." Privilege and democracy, he added, cannot exist in the same social order.

Menace of Bureaucrats.

An undue increase in the functions of government was noticeable in the United States, Governor Christianson declared, and in the name of liberty men have invoked the interference of the government in every human activity and relation, and had succeeded in calling into being "a bureaucracy that threatens all liberty."

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

BEST FEELING IN YEARS REPORTED FROM MANITOBA

Brandon Fair Taken as a Barometer of Conditions in West.

PLENTY OF RAIN

Too Much in Places—Some Damage Done by Cut Worms.

BRANDON.—A provincial fair is about as good a place as can be found to get the general opinion of farmers on crops and two days at the Manitoba provincial fair at Brandon reveals a generally satisfied tone among the farmers from the province. In fact I do not think that in 25 years, attendance at Brandon fairs I have ever heard more general satisfaction with conditions to date.

This does not mean that there have been no losses of acreages from undue wet and cutworms, but it does mean that these losses are small in face of the general good condition and while the crop is not made, the feeling is that the end of June condition is good and much above the average. Since last writing there have been some heavy rains which were not needed but, as a rule these have been more or less local, and the last few days have been cool with light winds, plenty of sun and only scattered showers in Manitoba.

The Other Provinces.

There are quite a few farmers here from Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Saskatchewan men seem generally as satisfied as those of Manitoba, but the Alberta men, in some instances at least, confirm the last provincial government report that losses from cutworm and wireworm in the eastern sections of the province and more especially the south-eastern sections are very heavy. Apart from that trouble, crops are good and a very large percentage of the wheat, even in the north, is either actually out of the shot blade or just emerging.

The rust scare reports have died down and no farmer talked to at Brandon in the last two days seemed to have even a thought of rust. Certainly none has been found around Brandon or on the experimental farm here, where they have all varieties of wheat growing.

The Manitoba Free Press will issue its next crop repor on Saturday, July 4, and in the questionnaire sent out for the report special inquiry was made as to cutworm and wireworm damage and also as to any reports or evidences of blackstem rust.

Brandon has certainly staged one of the best fairs in her history and that is going a long way and a good provincial fair is generally a sure barometer of the conditions in the country.

PRICES HIGHER IN COBOURG MARKET

Butter and Eggs Up—Fruit Prospects Are Good in District.

COBOURG, July 9 (Special).—Produce on the Cobourg market showed a slightly higher tendency in some lines. Butter sold at a practically stationary price of 38 cents. Eggs were a little higher than last week, the majority of baskets selling for 32 cents. Broilers made their appearance and sold for 75 cents each or $1.50 a pair. Fowl sold from 75 cents up to $1.50, according to size. There was quite a quantity of home-grown green peas, selling for 50 cents a peck. Peas are a good crop in this locality. The strawberry season is almost over; 18 cents a basket was the price asked, or two boxes for 35 cents, and good berries were bought up quickly at that figure. The first of the red raspberries made their appearance in town and are selling from 20 cents to 25 cents a box. Gooseberries and cherries, home grown, have also appeared upon the local market. A few of the early harvest apples are in also. Lettuce sold for 5 cents to 10 cents a head. Spinach is 25 cents for a six-quart basket. The new beets and carrots are 10 cents a bunch. New cabbage sells for 8 cents and 10 cents per pound. Cucumbers are 10 cents and 15 cents each. Cauliflower are just coming in and Saturday saw the first offering of any size. They sell from 25 cents to 35 cents, according to size.

Six butchers were busy on the market cutting up beef, pork, veal and lamb, and retailing it. The demand was good. Roasts of beef sell from 15c to 20 cents. Steak is 20 cents a pound. The best cuts of pork sell from 22 cents to 23 cents. Veal sells at all prices, according to the kind of cuts. Fillet brings 25 cents a pound.

Old potatoes still remain a glut on the market and sales even at 50 cents a bag were not brisk. New potatoes are selling at the rate of six pounds for 25 cents.

Cream sold at 30 cents a pint. Radishes are 5 cents and onions also 5 cents a bunch.

Notwithstanding the favorable prices, there were not as many vendors as usual. Buyers, too, were not out in quite their usual force. Farmers at the market spoke with satisfaction of the recent heavy downpour of rain.

Fruit Prospects Good.

The cherry orchards in this locality are well laden with fruit. It looks as if pears will be a big crop, and plums a fair one. Raspberry bushes are well loaded with fruit, also black, white and red currant bushes in many gardens. It is a little too early to forecast the apple crop, but some varieties give great promise.

Some Hay Not Good.

Although many farmers report a fair crop of hay, one farmer, whose land is rather high, states he will not have 20 loads this year from the same acreage that gave him thirty-five loads last year.

Making Lettuce Head Up Needs Plenty Of Moisture

One first condition of getting lettuce to head in summer is to grow it in a place or spot where there is plenty of moisture. Dry soil will bring failure except during a wet season at the right time. One man cleaned up and drained a swamp hole which never failed to give good, sizable, delicious heads. Most people, who have not such places, may choose the wettest spot in the garden and if there is dry weather for a time, water liberally. You can hardly get too much water on the soil, but don't overdo it.

A second suggestion is to plant this summer lettuce where it is to grow, and then thin enough so that the outer leaves, when matured, will just touch its next neighbor. Of course the ground must be well-hoed and all weeds kept out. In order to head properly lettuce must have room and not to be interfered with by weeds or other lettuce touching it.

MOST EFFECTIVE WEED CONTROL IS CULTIVATION

Thorough and Frequent Working in Connection With Rotation.

PROPER METHODS.

Sometimes Unusual Trouble Makes Summer Fallowing Necesary.

The most effective method of controlling weeds is thorough and frequent cultivation of the land. Usually this can be given most economically by adopting the proper cultural methods in connection with the regular rotation used on one's farm. Occasionally, where some noxious weeds become unusually troublesome it may be necessary to summer-fallow the land but, as this method involves the loss of the revenue from one crop, it is desirable to use other methods if at all possible.

Where a rotation of three or four years' duration is practised, consisting of one year in corn or other intertilled crop, one year in grain, and one or two years in hay, it is necessary to prepare the sod land thoroughly in preparation for the intertilled crop, and also to cultivate the intertilled crop itself in a most thorough manner. This is the most convenient time to control the weeds and the opportunity should not be overlooked. In the four-year rotation, the timothy sod may be ploughed, in many districts, by August 1, while in the case of the three-year rotation, where two cuttings of clover are harvested, the ploughing will not be possible until about September 1. Where couch grass is present or where there are any other weeds having underground root-stalks, it is very important to get the land ploughed early and to cultivate it throughout the remainder of the fall. After the land has been ploughed it should be harrowed in order to hasten the rotting of the sod and if couch grass or other similar weeds are present, it should be disced in about a week's time and the discing continued at about one week's interval until the sod has rotted sufficiently to enable the use of the cultivator. When this is possible, the cultivator should be substituted for the disc harrow in order to bring to the surface of the ground the underground root-stalks. Some objection may be taken to the use of the disc harrow owing to its cutting the roots of the weeds but it appears to be necessary to use this implement as early as possible after ploughing and before the sod has rotted enough to permit the use of the cultivator, in order to check the top growth of the weeds. In fact, the basic principle in killing weeds which have underground root-stalks is to prevent their sending up top or above-ground growth. If this is continued long enough the roots will die. The process is facilitated by any method of cultivation which will tear out the roots and leave them on the surface of the ground where they will be killed by the sun. It is imperative to give the land very frequent discing and cultivation, especially immediately after ploughing in order to prevent all green growth. The whole work will be wasted if green growth is allowed at any time because the roots will then be revived again and their life-prolonged.

In the fall this land should be ploughed and left rough over winter. If manure is available at this time of the year, it could be ploughed under at this time. If it is not available, it may be applied in the winter or in the spring and then disced in. The land should be cultivated in the spring several times before the time of seeding the intertilled crop.

It will be understood, of course, that this method is suggested for land troubled with couch grass or similar weeds having underground root-stalks. If the land is free from these weeds this work will not be necessary.

If mustard or similar weeds are prevalent it is advisable to merely disc or cultivate the corn ground or where the other intertilled crops have been grown, rather than plough. The reason for this is that the surface layer of soil has already been thoroughly cultivated and the majority of the weed seeds contained in it germinated and killed. It is a mistake, therefore, to plough up a new layer of soil on such land which will contain an abundance of viable weed seeds.

Another effective means of checking weeds is to hand pick isolated patches. This work can often be done when the weeds are first seen, but if it cannot be done then, it may be done later when other work is not pressing. It may seem like small business to pick by hand a few weeds, but such work is a very profitable investment, and the returns if not apparent in that particular year, will be realized in later years when such patches would otherwise have infested larger areas and seriously reduced the yields of crops. In any event, the longer the delay in eradicating the weeds, the greater amount of work there will be eventually. It is simply the operation of the same principle as that which is familiarly known by the expression, "a stitch in time."

It is important to use at all times clean seed grain, clover and grass seed. It is simply a waste of effort to work the land to eradicate weeds while at the same time polluting it with dirty seed. The supply of manure should be rotted on farms where weeds are prevalent in order to prevent this means of spreading weed seeds over the farm, but where weeds are not present it is a mistake to rot the manure owing to the losses of manurial constituents incident to the rotting process.—E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman.

Large Families From Old Land Will Seek Better Livelihood On Fertile Farms Of Canadian West

Practically every ocean liner that arrives at Quebec from the Old Country is bringing at least one family out to settle on the farms in various sections of Canada under the Selected British Family Scheme. A number of these families arrived recently on seven liners and included in the list was the Crowe family, from Wrexham, Wales, with thirteen children, and the Davis Nash family with eight children, from Brailsford, Derby.

The excellent opportunities offered in Canada for agricultural workers, the parental eagerness of the heads of the families to provide a suitable livlihood for their offspring, the scarcity of employment in the Old Country, and the unparalleled plan of the Canadian Government of supplying farms to worthy settlers, are given as the principal reasons for the immigration of the families.

Mr. F. W. Crowe, who, with his wife and thirteen children constitute the largest family to come to Canada this season, stated on arrival here the main object in crossing the ocean was to give his offspring a chance to provide for themselves.

Mr. Crowe had been in the wholesale fruit business in Wrexham, Wales, and sold out his business to take advantage of the greater opportunities offered in Canada. Mr. Crowe further stated that his business turnover amounted to 1,000 pounds sterling a week, though there was little profit left to him, considering that he and his three eldest children had to work about fourteen or fifteen hours a day.

The closing down of the coal mines about his district which was bringing about a further dullness in business, was making it more difficult to make ends meet, according to the head of the family, so it was a case of ambition and determination to provide for his children that urged him to ma ke the change. Mr Crowe and family will settle on a farm at Calgary, Alberta, where he is confident of making the same success as his three brothers who are farming and doing well at Huxley, Alberta.

He has four sons and two daughters of working age to assist him, though one of his sons is eager to follow the teaching profession and it is very probable that a post will be found for him in one of the western towns.

Another large family, consisting of ten souls, was also brought out by Mr. David Nash, of Brailsford, Derby, who are bound for a farm in Edmonton District, Alberta. The greater opportunities are also offered by Mr. Nash for his immigration to Canada, while he also added that although there was plenty of work to be had on the farms in the Old Country, the wages were very small.

Mr. Nash, who is fifty years of age and a war veteran, has spent nearly all of his life on the farm, intends taking up mixed farming, while one of his daughters who is thoroughly experienced in poultry raising, intends following this line. One of his sons is a capable ploughman, having won three prizes for this work in the Old Country.

Five other families also landed on Saturday and all gave the same reasons as already mentioned for their immigration to Canada. They are going on farms in Ontario and the prairie provinces.

BARLEY A LOSS AS FOOD CROP

Not Enough Nutrients Per Acre For Profitable Feeding.

BETTER VARIETIES.

When barley pays.—Barley, compared with oats or with peas, does not yield enough digestible nutrients per acre to make it generally profitable for live stock feeding in this district. In certain circumstances, however, such as where the frost-free season is very short, or for commercial purposes, that is for malting or pearling, it may be a paying crop. To make the crop profitable, varieties must be found which will yield more digestible nutrients per acre than the ones which have been tested, and none seems to give much promise, or else the varieties which have shown best in the test plots must be improved for yield by breeding.

Experiment at Cap Rouge.—The latter course was followed at the Dominion Experimental Station at Cap Rouge where Manchurian has shown much promise after being carefully tested along with other well known sorts. In 1913, ninety heads were chosen and the same number of kernels of each were sown in 1914. The next year, thirty strains were kept; in 1916, the number had been reduced to ten, and it was cut down to the best in 1917.

From 1918 to 1924, this selection, Manchurian Cap Rouge 14, was compared in the test plots with Manchurian Ottawa 50. Every year, it either equalled or outyielded the parent variety, the average number of pounds of grain per acre being 249 pounds, or over five bushels more for the Cap Rouge selection.

Good seed pays.—To many growers, barley is just barley, and the choice of a variety does not matter. But a high yielding selection such as Manchurian Cap Rouge 14 can be grown for practically the same cost as an inferior variety and is without doubt more profitable. Why not use it when seed may be had at a very reasonable price from the Dominion Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Quebec.—Gus Langelier, Superintendent, Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Que.

CROPS PLENTIFUL

Huckleberries Are Arriving in Markets—Potatoes Look Good.

MARMORA, July 9.—The huckleberry crop is very plentiful, according to all reports. The first fruits are now coming in. The berries are perhaps not quite so large as in some seasons.

Potatoes are looking extremely good in this community. Haymaking is the principal occupation these days on the farms, the crop being remarkably good.

Improper feeding is due to three fourths of the trouble affecting range sheep. The remainder of the losses among sheep are due to diseases, parasites, poisonous plants and other causes.

PROTECTION OF VEGETABLE CROP

Insects and Disease Cause Heavy Loss to Growers.

MORE SPRAYING.

Each year, during the summer and autumn months, a large number of requests are received by the Division of Horticulture, for information concerning the control of injurious insects and plant diseases affecting field and garden vegetable crops. The damage done to the vegetable crops each year is enormous, but nevertheless, quite unnoticed by many growers. Many of these losses could be reduced to the minimum if proper spraying machinery and materials were on hand. Plants to produce the maximum yield per acre must be protected from injury, because if the foliage is hampered and prevented from functioning properly, there is bound to be a reduction in returns per acre.

The more thoroughly that the spraying is done, the less injury there will be to the plants, and to accomplish this, it is necessary to have proper machinery and materials. Where a large acreage is to be prayed, a specially constructed four row, twelve nozzle machine should be provided, with pumping capacity to maintain pressure around one hundred and fifty pounds per square inch. Where the area to be sprayed is smaller, there are several makes of smaller spray machines which are quite satisfactory, and which will do good work if properly used. One of the chief points in spraying is to see that the work is carefully and thoroughly done.

As soon as the potato plants are about six inches above the ground, spraying should be commenced, using the 4-4-40 Bordeaux mixture preparation to which may be added one and a half pounds of arsenate of lime or arsenate of lead in the dry form, per 40 gallons of spray. If leaf hoppers are present, ¾ of a pint of nicotine sulphate added to the above mixture will be found effective. In the early part of the season, it is important that the Bordeaux mixture be used to protect the plants from an attack of early blight, and, combined with the two other ingredients, it will give protection against the young potato beetles and leaf hoppers, the latter of which are the cause of hopper burn.

Continued spraying should be done throughout the season, at intervals of ten days, until the danger of insect injury and disease infection is past. It very often happens that when the late spray applications are neglected, late blight does the most damage. In preparing the stock solutions, only the best materials procurable should be used. This applies especially to the lime which should be fresh and unslaked.

To produce celery continuously for years under the intensive method is certainly courting trouble, if preventive measures in the way of spraying are not attended to. Celery blight renders a good crop practically worthless in a short space of time. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture can be considered as a type of good insurance and should therefore not be neglected.

The proper procedure is to start spraying the plants while they are in the cold frame and to continue the applications at intervals of ten days until quite late in the autumn. Should there be only a slight amount of blight present on the plants when lifted for winter storage, this infection will rapidly spread when the plants are packed away in the storage cellar, causing a tremendous loss. At any rate, clean celery will command the highest market price.

To obtain the best results from spraying, three nozzles should be used on each row, so as to thoroughly cover the foliage and leaf-stalks with Bordeaux, one nozzle directed downwards and one nozzle on each side of the row. The addition of ¾ pint of nicotine sulphate to 40 gallons of Bordeaux will control thrip.

For the control of the green cabbage worms, which riddle the leaves and heads of the plants during the late summer and autumn, there are two remedies which work very well, the use of a poisoned spray or dusting with pyrethrum powder.

Many people object to poison being used on cabbage, but as the heads fill from the inside outwards, and the leaves are tightly clasped, there is no danger in using a poisoned spray. However, if a non-poisonous remedy is desired, one part by weight of fresh pyrethrum powder or Persian insect powder mixed with four parts of cheap flour, placed in a perfect sealer jar and left to stand over night will be found to be a good control when dusted on the heads and leaves in the morning while they are still damp with dew.—T. F. Ritchie, Assistant in Vegetable Gardening.

CANADA GREAT DAIRY COUNTRY PRODUCING AND USING LARGE QUANTITIES OF MILK PRODUCTS

Canadian Dairying is Perhaps Oldest in North America.

INTRODUCED IN 1610

Canadians Are Greatest Butter Using Nation in World.

By CHAS. D. COOK,
(In the De Laval Monthly.)

Those who think of Canada as "Our Lady of the Snows" have a wrong impression of the country. A large part of eastern and central Canada has the same climate as Michigan and the New England States, and it may surprise some of those who regard this as a land of sleet and ice to glance at a map and note that the city of Hamilton and the city of Boston are on practically the same parallel. On the prairies, it is true, the winters are somewhat severe, but after all no more so in Winnipeg than in Minneapolis or St. Paul, while the warm Japan current laves the shores of British Columbia as well as those of the states of Oregon and Washington, and the warm Chinook winds penetrate into the interior, making it possible for cattle to run the ranges the year around in the province of Alberta.

While we do not advertise Canada as a winter resort for those who are seeking palm trees and coral sands, still there are many visitors who come here for the winter sports and who will be found making up toboggan parties and skiing expeditions in Montreal and the historic city of Old Quebec, a part of whose ancient walls are still standing. Eastern Canada is rich in history and romance and the land of Evangeline, made famous by Longfellow, still retains its many charms. There you will find some of the quaint old world customs still surviving, and can well believe amidst such environment that the hand of time has been staid or the clock set back at least 100 years.

Canadian dairying is perhaps the oldest on the North American continent. On the rugged shores of Sable Island in 1518, over 400 years ago, a Frenchman by the name of Baron de Lery landed, bringing with him from France a shipment of horses and cattle. These were probably the first cows ever brought to North America, but owing to change of climate and lack of care most of this original shipment came to an untimely end.

It was not until nearly 100 years later, in 1610, that cows were permanently introduced by Champlain, and in 1660 the French Government sent dairy cows from Normandy and Brittany into Eastern Canada.

As is usually the case in dairying, those engaged in it were not satisfied with just cows. Having become interested in the production of butter, cheese and milk, they had a desire for cows that would be more worthy of the name, and purebred Ayrshires were imported in 1821, Jerseys in 1868, Guernseys 1878 and in 1882 the "Black and Whites" or Holsteins arrived.

The increase in production of milk naturally called for ways and means of taking care of it, and, as is always the case, the De Laval Company stood ready to cooperate and be of assistance, and the first centrifugal separator, which of course was a De Laval, was used in Canada in 1887.

From then on the growth of the dairy industry was very rapid, so much so that in order to better serve it and be in a position to give the assistance which would be necessary if it lived up to its future possibilities, the De Laval Company at a little later date opened Canadian branches, and in 1913 established in Peterborough the best and probably the largest factory in the British Empire, devoted exclusively to the production of dairy machinery, where De Laval Separators, Milkers and other pieces of dairy equipment are made by Canadian workmen for Canadian users, with sales branches at Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

How great the dairy increase has been will be gained from the fact that in 1923 there were over 23,000,000 pounds of cheese produced in Canada, and 162,000,000 pounds of creamery butter, $17,000,000 worth of condensed milk and like produce, and between five and six million gallons of ice cream. The provinces of Quebec and Ontario naturally produced the greater part of this, and in driving through them you will find many well-kept farms with commodious buildings, housing some of the best herds in North America.

The Canadian cow owned by Mr. R. R. Stevens, of Bowmanville, Ontario, only three years ago established a world's record for production of milk during a 305-day test. This cow, throughout the entire test, was milked exclusively with a De Laval Milker. Mr. Stevens also with the use of a De Laval Milker developed several younger Canadian champions.

Some years ago the prairie provinces were devoted almost entirely to the raising of wheat, and on looking across them nothing caught the eye save waving fields of grain, extending acre after acre and mile after mile, so great was the area. The largest wheat fields in the world were at one time in Canada and some of them still remain. But today the picture has largely changed and you will find throughout these provinces that model dairy barns are taking the place of straw stacks, and herds of cows are grazing and up-building the soil, which wheat cropping was formerly impoverishing.

In the short period of nine years, from 1915 to 1924 the production of creamery butter in the prairie provinces increased from 17,000,000 to 47,000,000 pounds per year. They are not only noted for the rapid increase in the production of butter but also for the excellence of the product, and they have repeat dly taken many prizes whenever and wherever they have exhibited.

Canada is the greatest butter-consuming country in the world. In 1923, 27.45 pounds per capita was consumed against 17l-2 pounds in the United States. Our Canadian export trade in dairy produce runs from thirty-five to forty million dollars annually, but that is only about 6.7 per cent of the value of the entire production. These figures do not include the large quantities of milk consumed, which runs into millions of gallons annually.

The Canadian De Laval factory, in addition to manufacturing cream separators and milkers, also build creamery, cheese factory and milk plant equipment, and we like to think that De Laval has not only kept pace in Canada with the production of milk and the manufacture of milk products, but that De Laval Equipment has been of aid in making the increase in output possible and has also played a large part in the excellence of the product itself.

LOSSES DURING HAYING SEASON

Method of Handling May Result in Serious Loss in Value.

TEST RESULTS.

It has been proven quite conclusively that the time of cutting of the various forage plants for hay purposes plays a very important part in both the total amount and the palatability of the nutrients obtained. A fact that does not appear to be so widely recognized is that even though a forage crop may be cut for hay at the proper time, the subsequent method of handling may result in serious losses.

The Forage Plant Division at the Central Experimental Farm has been conducting some investigations to determine as accurately as possible the sources and extent of losses occurring during the curing of various forage crops. Only a preliminary report is available at the present time but it is submitted as indicating the reason for at least some of our variable losses.

Our tests were made during the harvesting of the variety tests of our various types of grasses and clovers, seeded both alone and in combination.

Either the whole or a definite portion of the cut fodder as harvested was placed on tarpaulins to dry. The material was handled very carefully during the curing process, at least with as little rough usage as it would be likely to receive under ordinary haying operations. After the curing process had been completed the hay was lifted off the tarpaulin and both it and the shattered portion remaining on the tarpaulin carefully weighed. This latter portion was computed as percentage loss during the curing operation.

The greater portion of the shattered material consisted of leaves mixed with which was a small amount of the finer stems and a few heads.

In the case of the clovers, alfalfa and white blossomed sweet clover lost around 7 per cent during the curing process. Red clover and yellow blossomed sweet clover lost a little over 5½ per cent while the alsike and white dutch clovers lost a somewhat smaller percentage. With the grasses, either alone or in combination, the loss fell down to around 1¼ per cent.

The seeding of grasses with the various legumes in all cases reduced the percentage loss during the curing process.

Rougher treatment of the harvested fodder during curing, or allowing it to lie in the swath until the leaves were quite dry increased the losses due to shattering to an alarming extent, as much as 90 per cent of the leaves being lost in the case of white blossomed sweet clover. When we consider that the leaf is not only the most palatable portion of the various grasses and clovers but contains a considerably higher percentage of protein than the stems, the necessity of preventing such losses should be apparent.

The following practices will help very materially in preserving the original food value during the curing process:—

(1) Get the hay into swaths or cocks before the leaves become dry enough to shatter.

(2) In showery weather cut only limited quantities and get this cocked up as soon as possible.

(3) Handle as little and as carefully as circumstances will allow.—G. P. McRostie, Dominion Agrostologist.

Smith Farmer Uses Ford Car When Driving Cattle

Modern methods are coming to the farm with a vengeance. A farmer in Smith township was seen driving a herd of cattle along Chemong Road from a Ford car one morning this week.

GOOD QUEEN A GREAT FACTOR

On Her Depends Strength and Vitality of the Colony.

MUST BE PROLIFIC.

No other factor plays such an important part in the production of a colony as the queen. She is the mother of all the other bees in the hive and upon her depends the strength and vitality of the colony. If the queen is not a good one, it is impossible for the colony to be a profitable producer. Good queens mean strong colonies, good crops and less danger from disease.

There are two periods of the year when it is necessary to have each colony as strong in bees as it is possible to get them: (1) When they are ready to go into winter quarters, and (2) just at the commencement of the main flow of nectar. In order to pass through the winter successfully, the colonies must be strong with young bees in the autumn. This, in turn, affects the strength of the colony at the commencement of the flow, for strong colonies in the autumn are more likely to be strong in the spring, and able to build up much faster for the harvest. As the queen is responsible for the production of all the other bees of the colony, it is necessary that she be prolific, especially in the fall and spring as these are the two periods when the highest brood production is required. As a rule, a young queen is more prolific than an old one, and there is less danger of her failing at a critical period. An old queen may be prolific in the fall, but there is danger of her being superseded late in the season when it is impossible for the new one to get mated, with the result that in the spring the colony will be headed with a drone-producing queen that is practically useless. An old queen may even live through the winter, only to be superseded in the spring when any check in brood production will have a reducing effect on the crop of the colony. With young queens, however, the danger from supersedure is practically eliminated. Again, colonies headed with young queens are less inclined to swarm than colonies having old queens.

Requeening Colonies.

This is best done during the latter part of July or early in August. A young queen introduced at this time will produce the largest force of young bees in time for the winter without any danger of being superseded. In the spring she is still less than one year old and still in her prime, able to carry on brood production at a rapid rate. The following figures taken from twenty colonies during 1923 and 1924 also show than the ten colonies headed with young queens were better producers than those containing older queens:—

	Average crop 1923 lb.	oz.	Average crop 1924 lb.	oz.
Queens less than one year old	215	6	163	11
Queens in their second year	191	1	125	15

A good queen in the fall gives strong colonies for winter. Wintering conditions being equal, these colonies will be the strongest in the spring, and strong colonies in the spring are the ones that will build up best for the flow.

How to Produce Good Queens.

Good queens can be obtained from queen-breeding specialists at reasonable prices, but there is always a danger of the queens being injured in transit or lost when introducing colonies that show little or no tendency towards swarming. If the queens of thse colonies are of a pure strain they can be used as breeders, and all other colonies requeened from this stock. Good breeding queens can also be purchased from specialists. There are many simple methods for rearing queens on a small scale, and there is no reason why every beekeeper should not rear from his best stock enough queens for his own use, and at the same time improve the strain already kept.—C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist.

ROGUE PLANTS IN SEED GRAIN ARE SERIOUS MATTER

If Not Eliminated They Increase in Proportion Each Year.

NEED NEW SEED.

When Continuous Rogueing Does Not Rid Field of Unfixed Forms.

By the term "rogueing" is meant the removing of so-called "rogues" or off-type and foreign plants from the growing field of grain. The presence of a small percentage of these foreign plants throughout a field grown for commercial purposes is not a serious matter, but where these plants are found in a field grown for the production of seed grain, the situation is different. Rogues, if not removed, may continue to increase in proportion to the rest of the crop with each successive season until, in due time, the variety may contain a very large percentage of plants which are not as desirable as the parent variety. Rogues are objectionable chiefly when they mature on a different date from the parent variety or are of different quality. In badly mixed fields of wheat grown for commercial purposes, the percentage of off-type plants may be sufficiently great to cause a cut to be made in the grade.

Rogues may arise in two main ways, as accidental mixtures introduced through the threshing machine, fanning mill or other agency, or they may occur as a result of natural crossing. While the common cereals do not cross readily, yet it is well known that crossing may take place occasionally. Where such occurs, a number of different types would probably show up in succeeding generations. To attempt to eliminate these unfixed forms by continuous rogueing is a doubtful practice. Where a farmer rogues his crop faithfully year after year exercising special care in preventing accidental mixtures to occur continues to find off-type forms in his crop, he would be well advised to obtain a few pounds or, better still, a few bushels of Registered Seed as a new starting point. As a general rule, it is now considered advisable to obtain a stock of Registered or Elite Stock Seed as a basis of supply for the main crop periodically, unless the variety or strain one is working with continues to show a very high degree of purity.

There are certain times when rogueing can be performed to particularly good advantage, depending upon the nature of the rogues, the elimination of which is sought. If these be characterized by bearded heads in a normally beardless variety, the former may be detected most easily either in the early forenoon or in the late afternoon and evening when the sun is relatively near the horizon. The field should be gone over more than once, if possible. In all cases it is highly desirable that rogueing be performed systematically at harvest time by having one or two persons precede the binder and remove all off-type plants which appear within the width of the swath. Where the field is not too large and the rogues not too numerous, two persons can keep ahead of the binder quite easily. The presence of oats in wheat or wheat in oats is not so important as these grains can be separated after they are threshed, by means of proper cleaning and grading machines. The situation is different, however, where a different type of oats or of barley shows up. It is only by taking these out by hand that one can eliminate them.—L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist.

CROPS GOOD ON ONTARIO FRONT

Peas Are Being Taken to Canning Factories in Cobourg District.

PLENTY OF HAY

COBOURG, July 8.—Crops generally are looking exceedingly well in this district. The pea crop is good, and is being cut and hauled to the canning factory, where the canning of peas is in progress. A good run for the factory is expected.

Considerable hay is also cut, and some cured and in the barns. It is a good crop, notwithstanding the dry weather.

The root crop is coming on well, although the weather has been too cold to fetch the corn along fast.

Farmers who are fortunate in having fields of fall wheat and rye report good crops of these and spring-sown grains are going ahead well.

NEW ZEALAND IS FAMED FOR HEALTH STUDY

Result That Country Has the Lowest Infant Mortality Rate in the World.

NURSES INSTRUCT

During Recent Epidemic No Child Allowed to Attend School.

MONTREAL, Que., July 9. — (Canadian Press).—Caring for the health of the public in New Zealand has become a matter for such extensive and fruitful study that that country has the lowest infant mortality rate in the world, Dr. P. Macklin of Wellington, New Zealand, who is on his eighth tour round the globe, stated in an interview. New Zealand could more easily experiment in methods of looking after the health of school children and others than can other countries because it is so small and the experiments do not entail such great expenditures.

The Minister of Health has under his direction 12 doctors, the majority of them women, who conduct clinics in the schools. Nurses who are qualified to practice dentistry and dentists give attention to poor children free of charge.

The system under which nurses instruct mothers how to look after the health of their youngsters, which was founded by Lady Plunkett of New Zealand, is being copied in the Orient and is being considered by many other countries. So careful were the health authorities in New Zealand when an epidemic of infantile paralysis broke out recently, that no child under 16 in any part of the country was allowed to attend school, theatre, church or other public place.

ORITUARY.

WILLIAM NEIL.

OMEMEE, July 9—In the passing of William Neil, the village of Omemee sustained the loss of one of her pioneer citizens. The deceased gentleman had reached the ripe old age of eighty-six years, and although unable to move around for the past two years, he retained all his faculties until the last.

The late William Neil was born in Smith's Falls. He was the son of William Neil and Jane Elliott, who a short time prior to his birth had come to Canada from Ireland. Knowing the late William Cottingham, they soon afterward journeyed on to Omemee. The village at that time was known as Fermanagh, later Cottingham's village, then Metcalfe, and finally Omemee, when the Neil family first came to Omemee, the village was tented on either side of the river for a long distance, these tents being inhabited by Indians. The main bridge was a crude log structure and the main buildings were Cottingham's house and mill, a hotel on the site where the Commercial House stands, and the schoolhouse was on the site where Mr. Cecil Jones now lives, and the teacher to whom Mr. Neil went to school was the late Richard Grandy.

Lifelong Orangeman.

When sixteen years of age, William Neil joined L.O.L. 114, and during the seventy-one years which followed, he was a conscientious and steadfast member of the society, having held the offices of District Master and treasurer of the Scarlet Chapter.

Was Councillor.

When Omemee became an incorporated village, William Neil, then a young man, was elected one of its first councillors, which position he held for ten years. At this time practically the entire village was owned by Squire Cottingham. At a sale held by the "Squire," the deceased gentleman purchased a farm, running from where Thomas Rowan, Sr., resides, including Mount Nebo and around to the railroad. Mr. Neil conducted a blacksmith and carriage shop for many years in Omemee, and was known to young and old for many miles around.

Early in life, he married Anna Margaret Robinson, of Aberdeen, Scotland, who predeceased him three years ago. Five children were born to them: Jennie (Mrs. Neade of Brooklyn, N.Y.), Miss Anna at home, Hattie (Mrs. W. Henderson) at home, Miss Emma of Brooklyn, N.Y., and General William Neil, who a few weeks ago was in England on three weeks' leave from a foreign port. As his address is at present uncertain, it will be some time before he learns of his father's death.

Impressive Service.

The funeral, which was conducted by the Orangemen, was held on Sunday afternoon, and was one of the largest ever held here. The service was held on the beautiful lawn, surrounding the home of the deceased gentleman. Rev. E. W. Rowland of the United Church officiated. The local Orangemen were joined by brethren from sister lodges from far and near, and the Orange service at the grave, which was conducted by S. M. Scott (County Master) of Lindsay was most impressive.

Many beautiful floral tributes adorned the handsome oak casket, noticeable among which were designs from L.O.L. 14, the District and Scarlet Chapter.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. W. J. Thorn, Chas. Ivory, R. J. Patterson, J. Bannon, L. Windrim and H. Jones.

To the sorrowing family and grand-children, namely, Mr. Neil Henderson of Toronto, the Misses Dorothy, Doreen and Donald Neil of Ottawa, was extended the sympathy of many friends.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral on Sunday were J. Lauder, Lindsay; J. Aikens and son Bruce, of Peterboro; Messrs. J. and T. Brown, Lindsay; Samuel Glass of Cleveland, and Wm. Glass of Bridgenorth; Mr. and Mrs. Peel and daughter, Miss M. Morrison of Peterboro, Richard Abercrombie of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spence and daughters of Millbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shaw and son, and Miss Marion Cottingham of Bowmanville

CHARGE DISMISSED MEN RE-ARRESTED

Not Guilty of Burglary or Breaking and Entering—Allege Theft.

Just as Arthur King and Edward Hall were congratulating each other on their acquittal in the charge of housebreaking brought against them in the Police Court yesterday, they were again brought back to the dock on a fresh charge of stealing a rubber tire and some automobile accessories. In the housebreaking charge against King, Beulah Simpson, who gave evidence of seeing two men from a car enter into the rear of the house of John Johnston, 316 Dublin Street. Answering J. F. Strickland, counsel for defendants, stated on the night of June 30 she had been on the verandah of her father's house from 6.30 until 8.30. She remembered that it was just twilight, about 8.30, and she could easily see across the road. After the two men came out of the car, and were walking down the street, another car came up with both lights out, and they immediately stepped among the bushes. They gave her the impression of hiding. At the time they stepped into the bushes, she was standing on the lawn of her parents' house holding a wheel. She did not know of any reason why they should endeavor to escape the notice of the person who was driving the car, and yet be indifferent to her. Perhaps they did not see her.

She saw one of them light a cigarette. The other was on the sidewalk, but behind a tree. He was not hiding then. After that, the two men went down to Johnston's. She was putting her wheel away when she heard the wood being knocked around in Johnston's woodshed. She had never been in the shed, but had seen it. There was a barrel, a sawhorse and some wood in it. She took about two minutes to put the wheel back, and she spent about other seven minutes in telling her mother of what she had seen. After that she saw the two men climb over the wire fence east of Rubidge Street. To get over that fence they would have to pass Rubidge Street. She heard a noise as if they were panting after running. From there they went to the car and began to do some work at it. The fence was about 10 or 12 yards from the verandah of her father's house.

"Does Rubidge Street lie between the verandah and the fence?" asked Mr. Strickland. Witness said 'Yes.'

"Rubidge Street is a pretty wide street," was counsel's comment.

Asked about the general conditions in Rubidge Street, witness said it usually was a very quiet street. "Do people often call at Mr. Johnston's?" Witness had seen a particular car stop there often, but she could not say what was the number of it. She was not there all day, as she was attending the Collegiate.

Locked All Doors.

Hope Johnston said she lived with her father, a sister, and a brother at 316 Dublin Street. On the night of June 30 she left the house between 7 and 8 o'clock. There was nobody left in the house. She locked all the doors before leaving—two side doors, a back door, and a front door. The back door opens into the shed. The shed has a door, which is practically always left open. The back door leads from the kitchen to the shed, and is locked by a bolt. All the windows downstairs were locked. She examined them before leaving.

Leonard Johnston, son of the owner of the house, said he went out fixing the responsibility on his clients. The tools they had were the essential and reasonable equipment for such a car as they possessed.

Suppose Johnston, having liquor at home, had an arangement with somebody to whom he had said: "You are entitled to a certain amount. It will be in a certain place, and I will be out at a certain time. The door is flimsy." That person or persons takes the hint and goes to the house. The young ladies see them and get confused as to their identity. Thus the trouble arises. Counsel again emphasized the fact that Johnston was not the person to lay the original complaint.

A great deal had been said about the fact of the men stepping behind the bushes. That did not amount to anything. The car which caused them to go among the bushes was never so close to them as was the girl herself.

He asked His Worship to take judicial notice of the fact that the younger girl sat in court while her sister was giving evidence. When the younger girl came to the witness stand, her evidence for the Crown side was strong where her sisters had been weak, and it was worth noting that she had been in frequent consultation with the officer concerned with the prosecution. The evidence given was not such as to justify a conviction. Whatever doubt existed must be to the benefit of accused who was entitled to it.

Attorney Hatton said the defence was an excuse. Even a bootlegger's house could not be illegally broken into. There was no evidence that Johnston was a bootlegger, not the slightest. Even if he was, that was no reason why his house should be broken into. Even if he had liquor that did not give accused the right to enter. His learned friend's appeal for a non-conviction was based very largely on the contention that it did. Mr. Hatton again referred His Worship to authorities which, he claimed substantiated his view.

Unable to Follow

His Worship said he was unable to follow Mr. Hatton's reasoning that the proof of tools which were used to break open a certain door involved the presumption that the men were right inside the door with intent to commit an indictable offence. His Worship pointed out that the charge originally was one of burglary, breaking into at night. The Criminal Code defined night as being hours between 9 at evening and 6 in the morning. It had been clearly brought out that the breaking in was done before 9 o'clock, consequently the burglary charge fell to the ground.

According to the Criminal Code, said His Worship, a person acquitted of an offence which included a smaller charge could be convicted of the minor offence. Accused could not be convicted of burglary since the breaking in proved to have been done before 9 o'clock but it was possible that they could be convicted of housebreaking. Section 459 of the Criminal Code required proof of actual breaking into a dwelling house. Breaking could be quite a small matter. In England and His Worship believed in Canada as well the lifting of a latch had been held to constitute breaking. In this case there had been breaking by someone.

But in addition to breaking it was also necessary to prove entering. There was no proof of entering. It was extremely probable they did enter but cases were not decided on mere probabilities. There had also to be proof of entering with intent to commit an offence. The Crown had produced no such proof. On the question of intent hinged the whole matter. The intent was the gist of the offence. This had been a point of law from time immemorial. The crown had maintained that the use of the tools was in itself proof of intent, but the mere fact that the tools were used did not prove an offence had been committed. As to the question of identity, there was an element of doubt. In a criminal case the onus was on the Crown to remove every reasonable doubt of guilt. The Crown had failed to prove entry and intent. That being so accused was entitled to be discharged.

In the case against Howard, Mr. Hatton announced he had no further evidence to offer and the charge was dismissed.

Both Howard and King were very much surprised when they were detained and another charge laid against them. They will come up for trial again on Firday.

Police Evidence.

Constable Naples said at 9.05 on the night in question, he was on station duty, and in response to a complaint, Detective Carey and he went to Rubidge Street. From the complainant he had got the number of a car — which car he found on Rubidge Street. He spoke to the men at the car, asking what they were doing. They said they were fixing the lights. He asked what else they were going. One of them replied "Nothing." Their replies seemed unsatisfactory, and he brought King and Howard to the police station. He and Carey examined the car and found a bag of tools. He also found a screw driver. He and Carey went back to the house and made an inspection, finding the door between the shed and the kitchen pried open. He applied the screw-driver to the marks on the door and found that it fitted exactly. Answering Mr. Strickland, he admitted a screw-driver was not an unusual tool among motorists. There was nothing odd or unusual about the screw-driver. He did not find any loot in the car.

Detective Carey gave corroborative evidence. He said that when he found King in the car he ordered him out. Accused used a very violent expression, intimating he would have difficulty in getting him out. Both accused said they had never gone away from the car. Witness said the screw-driver fitted perfectly into the marks on the door. The marks were quite fresh. He thought both accused were bluffing when they said they were fixing the lights. One of the lights was alright. He identified a cap produced in court as the one worn by King.

"Did you notice what else he had on?" asked counsel. "Was he wearing that shirt?"

"Well," responded witness, "if that's the same shirt, it has been washed since.

"It is not often a burglar leaves so many marks and such beautiful evidence," suggested Mr. Strickland. It is quite a windfall."

Witness thought the men might be taking a chance and be careless about marks left. In reply to a question witness stated he had never heard it suggested that liquor could be had at Johnston's until he heard the statement of a previous witness in court that morning.

Mr. Hatton said the evidence given had been clear and concise. The evidence of the Misses Simpson had been so clear and detailed that he thought they were to be congratulated. He traced the evidence as to the wanderings of the men in the car and laid emphasis on the movement into the screen afforded by the bushes. The evidence of the girls proved clearly that the men who were arrested by the police were the men whom they saw and whose movements they had described with such detaail. If the evidence of the girls was true, then these men's statement that they had never left the car was false. He submitted they had in court the tools used in forcing the door—not necessarily an up-to-date burglar's outfit, but sufficed for the purpose. Counsel quoted authorities in the endeavour to convince His Worship the proof of breaking in, the possession of tools which he claimed had been proved to be used to force an entry were sufficient proof of intent to break in and commit an indictable offence.

Mr. Strickland said he would ask His Worship to regard Mr. Johnston's evidence with suspicion from first to last. He suggested that it was significant that Mr. Johnston did not make any complaint until the police had been notified from an independent source by Mr. Simpson, the father of the young ladies who had given evidence.

As to the original charge of burglary, this had been abandoned by the Crown, which was now seeking a conviction on a lesser charge of housebreaking. But the evidence showed no justification for conviction on this charge either. The Crown, he said, must prove that accused actually entered and took something away from the premises. This had not been done. One witness had made a naive admission that she heard something to the effect that liquor could be had at the house. Usually a man who has liquor unlawfully in his possession keeps silent and takes his medicine, if someone robs him of his store of liquor.

Counsel suggested the possibility of Johnston having liquor. Suppose someone who knew Johnston to have liquor broke in either to have a drink or to carry some away. This would account for the attempt to break in. He ridiculed the idea of

LEARNIN'

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

They're hoos n' up sides on the old va ant lot. They're p'annin' on baseball, no matter how hot. Keep out of the sun? Why, it's all tommy rot. You did the same thing when a k'd, like as not.

Wee Willie admits he's a pitch r supreme. He also admits he's the head of the team. He'll tell ya quite frankly he's got lots of steam. When batters strike out, you should see the kid beam.

Three men likely face him each inning; no more. His hurlin' deprives them of chances to score. He's baseball enthusiast down to the core. He knows each move and each action is for.

But, say, let Wee Willie come up to the bat and, frankly, he doesn't know where he is at. He swings very wild and his efforts fall flat. He shortly returns and sits down where he sat.

"How come, Mister Pitcher?" I asked him one day. "When batting, your worth to your team fades away." "I'm takin' each thing," he repied, "in its turn, and battin's one thing that I've still got to learn."

The moral, I guess, is, you're smart, and not dumb, to take things and do them up right, as they come.

CHICAGO GANGS SHOOTING AGAIN

Tony Genna Was the Third Member of Family Killed in Past Six Weeks.

WAS SHAKING HANDS.

CHICAGO, July 9. — (Canadian Press). — Chicago gangland ran amuck again yesterday, and Tony Genna, of a notorious gang of gunmen and beer-runners, fell a victim of an assassin's bullets, the third member of his family to be killed in the past six weeks.

Tony's death came in the midst of a relentless police war being waged against the Chicago gangsters. Tony, 9 years old, and the wealthiest of the six Genna brothers, was pacing up and down before a store in "Little Italy" when a car drew up to the curb. He advanced with hand extended to greet the two occupants, and as he clasped the hand of one, the other fired five bullets into his body and both fled. Before he died Tony gasped 'Cavallar' as the name of the man who shot him.

CANADIAN FISH DAY IN OCTOBER

Fisheries Association Ask Government For Separate Department.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—By a resolution passed yesterday at the concluding session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Fisheries Association, the last Wednesday in October of each year will henceforth be known as Canada's fish days. Previously the annual fish day has been set by the association and selected at times only a few days before, giving little time for dealers to prepare for the additional business. The resolution adopted orders that co-operation with calender makers be sought with a view to having the day marked in conformity with other feast days on the calendars of this country.

Another important resolution called for an application to the Department of Marine and Fisheries for the constitution of a separate department to conduct the affairs of the fisheries, with a competent man at its head as deputy Minister.

TIMELY TIPS ON OUTDOOR LIFE

By Morris Ackerman

What cooking utensils to take.

You can get along with a frying pan, coffee pot, tin cup, knife, fork and spoon. These are essential.

If motoring, a camp stove is necessary. One that burns coal oil or gasoline.

Wood is not available at most tourist camps. Indians make a small fire and stand close. That's good logic. Don't make a big blaze.

When leaving camp be sure the fire is out.

PAYING WAR DEBT

Cash Payment by Britain to U. S. in 1924 Was Only $49.60.

In 1923 the British Government paid to the United States in adjustment of its war debt to the United States Government only $49.60 in cash. The remainder of the $161,000,000 due in that year on account of principal and interest was paid in United States Government securities at their par value, plus accrued interest, according to an official report transmitted to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York by its Foreign Information Department. According to the same authority, in 1924 cash payments amounted to $49,796,937.51 out of a total of $160,310,000 due in that year. The balance, as before, was paid in United States Government securities at their face value, plus accrued interest.

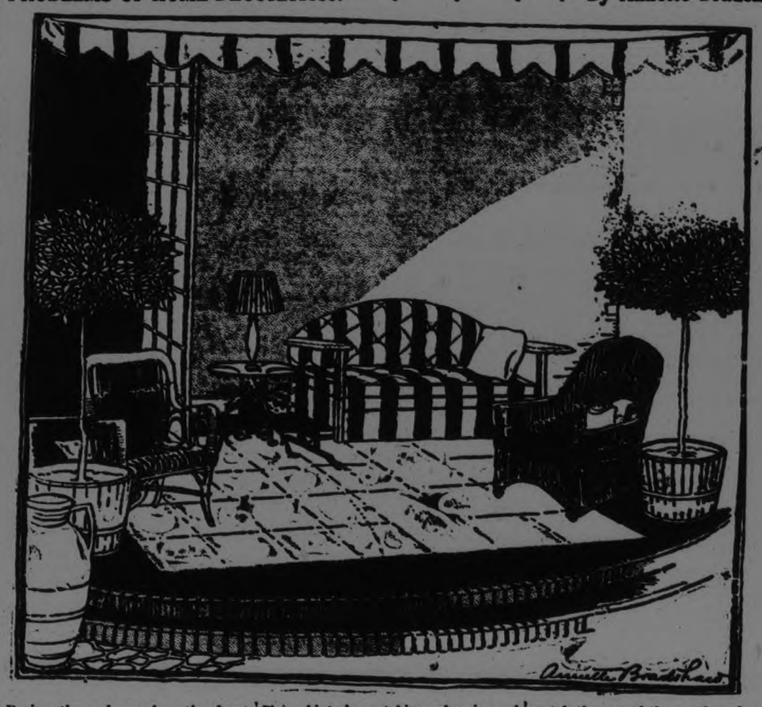
PROBLEMS OF HOME DECORATION

By Annette Bradshaw



During these days when the front porch is the center of most social activities, the aim of every housewife is to make her porch such that her friends will say, "What an attractive, homey, atmosphere." And it's easy to attain this desired effect.

The porch pictured above is not so very large, but it is cool and inviting. The awnings are of plain green, and the color scheme used is green and lavendar. The porch davenport is upholstered in striped chintz of six-inch stripes of the predominating colors. Plain chintz in matching colors is used for the cushions. The chairs are of Chinese reed and comfortably shaped. The seat cushions are of green chintz and the comfy ones to tuck behind a tired head are of lavender chintz, corded with green.

The most attractive feature of the porch is the table, which is really a fernery. Fashioned of wrought iron with its top a heavy plate glass and the feathery ferns hanging gracefully from its undershelf, it is the first thing which strikes the eye. It is painted green to match the rest of the porch and topped with a lamp of green glaze. A shade made of lavender chintz or paper completes the charming effect.

The pottery water jar standing at the steps gives an old world touch that is always effective, as are the stately bay trees in their painted tubs. The rug may be of either grass or rush, in plain colors or green and tan.

If the porch is large enough, one can add a tea-wagon of reed or wicker, but a few things well placed are more effective than a lot of useless furniture.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

Mrs. J. P. Finn, 677 Aylmer street, gives us a recipe with the very nice name of potato carmel cake:

2-3 cup butter.
2 cups granulated sugar.
1 cup hot, mashed potatoes.
½ cup sweet milk.
2 cus flour
1 cup chopped walnuts.
3 eggs.
2 teaspoons baking power.
2 squares melted chocolate or 5 teaspoons cocoa.
½ teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg.

Cream butter, sugar and yolk of eggs. Add milk, potatoes and spices, then chocolate. Beat well. Sift baking powder with flour. Beat whites of eggs to a stiff froth. Add flour, then fold in whites, mix and add nuts. Bake in a loaf tin in a moderate oven.

Let's Talk It Over

HIS "POSITION IN LIFE" AND A LADY'S LOVE

Rosie thinks she's in love. Personally, I think she's got a chilblain on her soul and is getting the symptoms mixed. Judge for yourself, but let me have the first whack at her when you're through.

Like most girls of twenty-one I am in love. The young man with whom I am keeping company is worthy of my attentions in every way. He is refined and a perfect gentleman. All my friends think he is wonderful and that I am a lucky girl to have such a nice sweetheart. But there is one thing that spoils my happiness, and that is the inevitable question)"What does he do?"

Nothing would make me happier than to say that he worked in an office, but what I have to answer is that he is a hotel clerk, even though my cheeks do burn. Of course, I love him for himself, but when others turn up their noses, well—it hurts. My father and mother also think he ought to have more ambition. I finally made up my mind to have a talk with him, and I did so. Well, I think I have hurt him, but I wanted him to know how I felt.

Here's what he says: He is sure he could work in an office, but he wouldn't work for the salary that office men are paid. He argues that money is his only friend, and that those who turn up their noses at his work wouldn't support him if he didn't have any money. Of course, he always says that he doesn't intend to be a clerk all his life, that he is out for money, not position, just now, because some day he wants a business of his own. He says that class distinction is all wrong. Do you think I am wrong in listening to people? I know he will make good some day, but I want him to have a fine positionnow. What should I say when poeple shun him? POSITION IS EVERYTHING IN LIFE. I know that, but I can't make him believe it. I love him too much to give him up, because I know he will make good some day. —ROSE.

You "love him too much to give him up" because you "know he will make good some day"—I wonder what you call "making good"—money of course. Lots of money, so that Rose can have a steam-heated apartment, a coupe and charge accounts at the best shops. Lots of money for the things Rose likes—marcel waves, manicures, cabarets, chiffon stockings, peach melbas. Yes, that's "making good" to women who think as you do, Rose. And, of course, a POSITION. A position. so that you won't be ashamed of him Not so that he will be happier, but so your cheeks won't "grow red" when your friends "slam him." What exquisite sympathy! What generous ambition and staunch loyalty! All his life to be moulded and manipulated so YOUR smug, selfish, narrow little soul shall be satisfied. And you call this LOVE?

Rose, if I were that lover of yours I'd rather pass out now than contemplate a future spent with a soul like yours. That soul of yours would put a clamp on a man which would kill him, bit by bit, hour by hour, in a deadly, shriveling agony.

"Position. Everything?"

Position is the least of things when it comes to weighing a man's true value. Scores of things for which he is not to blame may keep a man from "position." Scores of things for which he deserves no credit and which are positively a dis-credit to him may boost a man into "position."

And on such a test do you base your "love!" Suppose he never attains "position?" Suppose he is broken in body and spirit and remains poor and obscure until the end of his days? That would be frightful, wouldn't it?

I suppose if he were a bootlegger and making piles and oodles of money and giving Rose everything under the sun she wanted, both she and her friends would be perfectly satisfied and think he was a Peach. Instead of that, he's a nice, respectable hotel clerk—so they shun him.

Where do you and your friends get that stuff? Is a hotel clerk any farther beyond the social pale than a bank clerk? Of course, "bank" sounds so much more highfalutin' than "hotel," but, honestly now, what's the difference? Only this—he gets more money in the hotel than he would in the bank, and he always has the chance of becoming manager, and always can save more money there than in the bank.

Do you know what I'd do if I were that young man? I'd give you and your friends the go-by so fast you wouldn't know what happened!

LOVE? Pal, you don't know the meaning of the word!

Home-Making Helps

The White Painted Kitchen and Bath.

There is nothing that looks as clean and dainty as white painted woodwork. In the old days, before the use of the enamel paints became general, white paints were objected to because they turned yellow. Especially so after they were cleaned two or three times. This does not happen now, for paints and methods of putting them on have improved appreciably.

Old paint is scraped and washed off. Then the woodwork is treated to a coat of so-called flat white paint and this is allowed to dry. Then a second coat of flat white is put on and every place is well and carefully covered, and this is also left to dry thoroughly. Then a good coat of white enamel is put on, and when this dries it becomes a hard, smooth surface that holds its color perfectly. The paint may be wiped off with a damp cloth. It is always wise to use lukewarm water and white soap for the cleaning of the polished surface, and to dry it off with a soft clean cloth that acts as a polisher.

White paint in the kitchen will require more frequent cleaning than that in living rooms. But the kitchen paint will respond to the same cleaning method and turn out just as fresh and bright looking after the bath.

The bathroom paint gets frequent steamings from the hot water, but there is not as much dust as in other rooms to settle on the paint. But it is a good idea to wipe down well at least once a week to keep it in prime condition. Where the bathroom is not tiled, in old-fashioned houses or apartments, i is a good idea to paint the hard-finished wall up five or six feet the same as the woodwork. This gives the same impression and is wonderfully attractive and clean looking. The cabinet, looking glass frame, shelves, top of the toilet seat, chairs and stools may all be painted in the same way.

For use in a big bathroom, added to an old house, a charming dressing table was made by its owner. The owner had picked up at a second-hand shop an old-fashioned washstand of ak. She had the legs cut down. She then had the towel rack on the back unscrewed and removed entirely. Then she removed the fronts of the two drawers on the left side, making open shelves instead. She left the long top drawer intact. The closet at the right hand with a door he fitted with one shelf near the top, and left the space underneath for tall bottles running a strip across the bottom to keep them from sliding out when the table was moved.

Next, the entire stand wa painted white, as already directed. Glass castors were added. Then the drapery of cretonne was tacked in place, over the top and around the sides. A rod was run across the front for the curtains so they might be slipped aside. A small piano bench that had seen better days and a looking glass were found in the same shop, were treated to paint and added to the table.

AT CHEMONG PARK.

The Chemong road is already beginning to show the signs of the wear and tear of the season. "It's the rocky road to Dublin," said one woman who went over the bumps in the thoroughfare yesterday afternoon.

A group of jolly picnickers were at the Park yesterday. Twenty-six people made the early afternoon trip in the big Comet 'bus, including a half dozen children, all bent on having a swim and a feed under yesterday's pleasant sky. A group of live things that didn't take a return ticket was a family of nice fat worms in a wooden cigar box.

The Park is filling up. Here and there a cottage shows blank windows and empty verandahs, but the majority of the summer homes are open for the season.

Mrs. A. H. Winger, Mrs. McDonald, Otto Gliddon, all of Toronto, and Mrs. Stecker of Kitchener were week-end visitors at Mr. and Mrs. R. Gliddon's cottage.

Mr. K. S. Kerr and Mr. Broadhurst of Toronto, with their families, have again taken Mr. and Mrs. Hopwood's cottage on the island for July and August.

Mrs. E. Holmes, Reid Street, and her household are occupying Mrs. Alex. Elliott's small cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradburn are opening their summer home at the Park to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Warne went out to their cottage this week.

Adjt. Wallace Buntin, Mrs. Buntin and family of Windsor are in their cottage.

Alderman and Mrs. R. N. Jones are adding a verandah to their summer place. They were visited by Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley of Millbrook on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gilgour are in their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Weddell and family are at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Strickland are in the Annex.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hancock are at the Park. Miss Olive Johnston is their guest at present.

Mr. Leslie McDonald of Toronto, one of the summer residents at the Park, Mr. P. Gettas and the members of the Rendezvous orchestra were guests of Mr. Dan. Whetung at Curve Lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Davidson and family are occupying their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Skinner have fitted up a very cosy little tent home at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Darling and Mrs. Edgar Burnham are at Hudson Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carroll and family are occupying Sheriff Hall's cottage.

No Excitement When Two Members of Mussolini Cabinet Quit.

ROME, July 9. — (Canadian Press).—The long expected resignations of Alberto De Stefani and Cesare Nava, as Ministers of Finance and National Economy respectively, were presented to Premier Mussolini yesterday. Their withdrawal from the Cabinet caused scarcely a ripple of excitement, as no political significance was attached to it.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

We are two girls in our teens. We go out together all the time but don't make any impression on the male sex.

We are not homely, and dress not too badly, but would like to be more attractive

Please give us your advice.

NOBODY'S DARLINGS.

NOBODY'S DARLINGS: I hope you are not the two darlings who sat in the seat in front of me at a George street picture show one night, and made eyes at the man beside me. If you were, I can explain very easily why you do not make any impression—the man was married, and his wife sat on the other side.

Maybe if you were not these girls you are guilty of the same fault—wrong tactics? Let's see; you "dress not too badly", and you "are not homely." Hmm. Not very enthusiastic, are you?

The question is, do you dress as well as you possibly can, considering your resources? And do you make the most of your type of beauty?

If you do, then change your methods. Dont try to "make any impression on the male sex." Look your best, dress your best, behave your best, and the boys will come to you. Even in these days of emancipation it is not a good policy for women to enter the field openly in seeking male regard, thereby cheapening themselves.

Let me hear from you again, with more particulars. And meantime, don't run after the street car. Another one will come to you.

ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am graduating this year from high school, and I have sent my announcements to my friends. If I should receive any presents, what would be the correct form in thanking the givers?

BROWN-EYES.

BROWN EYES: A short note of thanks expressing your gratitude to the donors, is all that is necessary, my dear. Your note may read something like this:

"Dear Bob:

"Thank you so much for your kindness in remembering me today. But how did you ever know that I have wanted for years to read Conrad's 'Victory?' It is the one book I have been longing to get and it makes a beautiful addition to my small but growing library.

"Do telephone me to let me know when you are coming over so that we can talk about 'Victory,' and thank you again for your kindness.

"Cordially yours,
"Etc."

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper, and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A YOUNG GIRL'S PARTY FROCK.

Pam has had a fine time lately designing a frock or two for her friends.

To-day she came in fairly out of breath and said:

"I've a real commission to do a dress!"

"Splendid," I assured her. "Who is it who has such faith in your prowess as a designer?"

"One of the clients who comes in has a young daughter who is only sixteen, and she says she can't find anything appropriate in the shops, and she doesn't want to start her so early in buying things from Madam Pam answered.

"I'm glad she thinks so well of your ability," I assured Pam. Then I asked:

"What are you planning for her?"

Pam produced a sketch she had laid carefully away on the top shelf and held it up before me.

"Don't you think this looks sweet and dainty enough for a very young girl?" she asked.

I eyed the sketch with approval and asked her what the frock was to be made of.

For answer Pam climbed to the same top shelf and brought down two packages.

First she brought out some delicate white chiffon, and as she did so she explained.

"This is to be for the white skirt, which is simply gathered and which is to have petaled scallops at the hemline."

Pam finished with a flourish and brought forth some perfectly lovely white chiffon printed in a rose pattern in delicate pink. She explained:

"This is to make the simple bodice."

"I think the whole idea is lovely, and what is this ornament at the waistline?" I queried.

"Oh, I was forgetting. I must find a beautiful pink silk rose, and it is to be put at the top of three tabs of chiffon which are picotted at the edges." Pam explained, nodding toward the sketch.

GOOD MANNERS

In a few houses the tipping of servants is abolished, and in every guest room, in a conspicuous place on the dressing table or over the bath ub where you are sure to read it, is a sign proclaiming that fact.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE BEARS. III — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

Voices could be plainly heard as Wess and his two very excited backers neared the bend in the stream.

"I can make out two different voices," said Wess, and sure enough, there were two, for the boys doing the stalking were now able to hear them plainly.

It was not long before Wess motioned his followers to be quiet, while he advanced to inspect the lay-out. He was soon back with the information that there was a boy bigger than any of them, just a little bigger, and a smaller lad, and they were trying to reach the Kingfisher nest, and the parent birds were nearly frantic.

"Enough!" said Jimmy, "We'll attack them like Indians."

"No!" said Wess, "you don't know it, but I am a regular Robin Hood, and this is the Green Woods, and we will settle this thing with great style. I will invite them to leave all helpless creatures alone, and you fellows hide, and if a fight starts, you jump out, then we will bluff them about twenty more men behind trees and we'll win easy."

So Roy and Jimmy remained in hiding and Wess advanced just as the invaders were beginning to dig in the sand to get at the nest. They saw he was annoyed, but put on a bold front, since they were two to one.

A threat from the big boy, that he would duck Wess in the stream, was not taken seriously, and Wess informed him that these were sacred woods, in fact they were the original Green Forest, and, "I am Robin Hood," says Wess, "and my merry men, twenty-two strong, are behind trees, just waiting for you to start something."

With that, the smaller lad slipped behind Wess and bent ovr in a stooping position, ready for Wess to be upset over him, and the big lad gave Wess the necessary punch and he went backwards, almost falling down the bank.

The phantom twenty stayed behind the trees, but the two faithful followers did not wait for Wess to call—they rushed out and had their enemies down and were sitting on them, before they knew what had happened.

What did happen will appear to-morrow.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

CONGESTION OF LUNGS NEEDS EXPERT CARE

Just as other parts of the body are subject to disturbance in the circulation, the lungs suffer from congestion and swelling of the tissue.

The structure of the lungs is very delicate. The air cells take up space and the tissue between this is very thin and sensitive. These tissues could not live without blood, and, as a matter of fact, they are richly supplied with blood vessels. Of course, the vessels are tiny but they are so numerous they make up the body of the solid part of the lung structure.

Disturbance in the circulation of the lungs is of greater importance than congestion of the skin, for instance. If the congestion is very great, you can see that the blood will take up a lot of space which is needed for breathing purposes.

One of the characteristic symptoms of lung congestion is difficult breathing. You feel "short of breath." You really are short of breath because the air cells are crowded by the swollen blood vessels.

If the congestion continues, the fluid part of the blood escapes into the tissues and oozes into the air cells themselves. That small part of the lung is drenched just as it would be in drowning when it fills with water.

There is apt to be coughing. At least there will be a feeling of oppression in the chest with a desire to cough.

If the air cells become generally involved, so that a considerable portion, perhaps an entire lobe of the lung, is involved, the trouble is given a special name. It is called "pulmonary oedema."

This particular disturbance occurs sometimes in any one of the acute infections—the contagious diseases. It is met, for instance, in scarlet fever, in smallpox, in pneumonia and influenza and in rheumatic fever. Naturally you would expect it in some cases of tuberculosis.

In these diseases the oedema is the expected result of the excessive congestion of the lungs which we invariably or occasionally meet, depending on the nature of the ailment.

There is another form of pulmonary oedema which comes from bad heart action, or in the course of kidney or liver disease. Excessive height of blood pressure or of hardening of the arteries may have this symptom.

Hemorrhage from the lungs is found in tuberculosis, bronchitis and, indeed, in any disease which is capable of producing marked congestion of the lungs.

Simple congestion of the lungs is of slight importance, but if it does not clear up at once it requires medical care. It is important that continued congestion and, certainly, oedema, should be given over to your family doctor for attention. Early treatment will save future trouble.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, JULY 10.

An active and prosperous day, as well as a pleasant one, may be predicted from the ruling mutual and lunar figures. Saturn, Mars, Venus and Mercury are friendly, possibly inciting to lively and happy conditions in all relations, business as well as domestic, social and affectional. There may be some sudden development of a business nature which should culminate favorably. New contracts or opportunities of benefit may be precipitated abruptly. Heart and home affairs should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a good year, with new and unexpected openings, which should be grasped with confidence, since prosperous and pleasant conditions obtain in all relations of life. A child born on this day may be clever and original, as well as alert and energetic. It may be well-conducted, popular and generally happy in business and personal affiliations.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

Peggy Meets a Busy Little Planter.

"Oh, you pretty, pretty bird!" Peggy exclaimed, as the little bird settled on a bush right near her and chirped merrily, turning his head first to one side, then the other. "Goodness, I wish I could understand what he's saying."

"No reason why you can't," chuckled the bird and he pointed his foot behind Peggy.

Peggy, astonished to find she could understand what the bird was saying, turned around to find Squeedee, the elfin from Joyland, standing behind her.

"Oh, you dear, old Squeedee," she cried, shaking the wee elfin's hand, "I was just going to wish for you, truly I was. Thank you for letting me understand, Mr. Blue Jay. I always thought he wore such a pretty top-knot and such pretty blue wings, to be such a mean old fellow that folks say he is."

"I'm really sorry folks talk about Billy Blue Jay's faults more than they do about his usefulness," Squeedee shook his head sadly. "With all his faults, we must hand it to him for the help he has given the world."

"That's right, Squeedee, you're my friend, all right," Billy Blue Jay chirped merrily. "If folks would look for the good in others first, they wouldn't be able to find so much bad. I know I sometimes rob other bird's nest,

"You're My Friend."

but only when I can't find anything else to eat. I never did it but once, and then I was so sorry I never repeated the offense myself. Now when I'm hungry and can't find anything handy to eat, I go and get a potatoe or some corn from your Daddy's barn. He has so much, I know he doesn't mind."

"Certainly he wouldn't mind," laughed Peggy. "I'd rather you would do that than eat other bird's eggs Have you a nest around here?"

"I certainly have, and we'll go over this very second and see Mother Blue Jay's babies," chirped Mr. Billy Bluce Jay, and he led Peggy and Squeedee to his nest over in the quietest part of the orchard, right near the babbling brook. Here they found Mother Blue Jay sitting on five pretty little olive-colored, brown speckled eggs.

"Well, well," laughed Squeedee, "you are to be complimented, Mrs. Blue Jay. I heard some farmers talking this very morning. They said they sure wished the Jays in the neighborhood would get busy and raise big families, for they needed their help."

"How in the world can such a small bird help any one?" Peggy asked.

"Why, of all the bird partners we have," replied Squeedee, "the Blue Jay family carry more seeds around than any of the birds. He's more useful in carrying seeds and nuts around over the waste lands than any of the feathered folks."

"Well, I'm glad to hear someone speak good of us," laughed Mama Blue Jay. "It only goes to show, one can find good in everybody, if one only takes the trouble to find it," and she settled down on her pretty olive-col red egg.

Squeedee, Peggy and Billy Blue Jay returned to Peggy's back yard just as her Mama called her into lunch, so, bidding her friends goodbye, Peggy ran into the house.

FAMOUS "FIRSTS"

THE DISCOVERY AND GROWTH OF PSYCHO-ANALYSIS.

The scene is a large room furnished somewhat similarly to a doctor's office. Two people are seated in comfortable, easy chairs, engaged in what appears to be an informal conversation. But it soon becomes evident that one of them, a young lady, who is exhibiting signs of nervousness, is answering the question put to her by the elderly gentleman opposite. Fragments of the conversation drift towards us: "And that dream was interrupted . . . a feeling of restlessness? How often have you thought of it?"

This, ladies and gentlemen, is the way modern science treats mental disturbances to-day. If you are suffering from a queer "complex" or you find yourself in a state of mental exhaustion, you take your problem to a psychoanalyst. He is the man who has studied the sub-conscious mind in all its stages, and who is prepared to give serious thought to your every "symptom," however trivial it may seem to the layman. If you have a fear of high places, a dread of water, or a notion that you will be swallowed up every time you walk alone at night, the Doctor of Psychoanalysis traces these complexes to their origin.

Scientists now agree that the sub conscious mind—that part of your mind which functions while you are asleep—is as important as the conscious or waking mind. Consequently, the psychoanalyst asks you to tell him all about your dreams, which he analyzes and interprets for you. Once you realize where the trouble lies and understand the folly of brooding over it, you can get rid of these fears very easily. The psychoanalyst does not claim, however, that dreams are an omen of future happenings. He does insist, however, that they are an indication of the past.

A hundred years ago, when psychoanalysis was unknown, people who suffered from delusions or strange hallucinations were promptly confined to sanatoriums, there to await the timely intervention of death. If, however, you were suffering from a slight mental disturbance—what we would now call a "complex"—you were ridiculed and jeered at. "Imaginary ills," they were called—and dismissed with a wave of contempt.

About twenty-five years ago Mr. Sigmund Freud, at that time a young teacher virtually unknown, created a world-wide sensation through his lectures. He was a young enthusiast, with new ideas on the study of the mind and its workings, which he managed to call to the attention of the thinking world in a short time. His theories on the ego and the importance of the sub-conscious mind, which he taught to his eager pupils, have formed the basis of the new science of psychoanalysis.

Following Freud, such famous scientists and philosophers as Adler, Jung and Prill have taken up this fascinating study. Since psycho-analysis is really a branch of the older science of psychology many psychologists—among them Huxley, Titchener, James, Woodworth and Poffenberger—have recognized the importance of this special study. Each year old theories and ideas on the subject are rejected, while new and more logical ones take their place.

Although Freud is credited with being the pioneer of the study of psychoanalysis as a science, we can trace its origin to Aristotle. Thousands of years ago he called attention to the fact that we could win peace of mind by releasing the emotions in our sub-conscious mind. He spoke of the drama as a means o purging the emotions by giving them free play as they entered into the tragedy that was being portrayed.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Many thousands have forgotten the war and all that it meant to the Canadian soldiers who fought and their relatives who waited, and many have forgotten the sacrifices made. But it is not becoming in those whose loved ones died there to forget. Let them forget, yes, let them earnestly try to forget, the sorrow. That belongs to the dead past; its throes are suffered and gone. Let those who were most closely associated with the war forget that fearful waiting, and poignant pain of the moment when sad news came.

A Day of Remembrance

But by the power of love and the beauty of sacrifice; by the strength of pride in noble achievment and by the bonds of parenthood and wifehood, let them hold fast to the glory of the men who died. It belongs not to the past, but to the present and the ages to come. It transcends emotion and beggars the pen of mere man. It is not a subject for sobsisters. That memory is to be treasured in the hearts of those who suffered in their suffering, triumphed in the victory they won.

The only physical symbol in Peterborough in memory of the men who died — the Cenotaph on Murray street — should be banked high on Sunday, the day of particular remembrance of Peterborough's war dead. Other days commemorate the victory and certain battles, but these decoration Sundays are dedicated to the dead.

Conduct becoming a lady is set out at some length in a new book of etiquette that professes to teach everything about the mechanics of modern living in regard to social contacts. So precise and so comprehensive is the work that a Martianne visiting the earth would only require to know the language and have this book along to comport herself in the most approved style.

Well-bred People

But—like most books on etiquette—this book is old before published. It clings cannily to Victorianism even in this age of knee-length skirts, bobbed hair, and bachelor apartments for both sexes. The Martianne is told that "dark hose" are proper for street wear, but the visitor who heeds that adjuration on Peterborough streets will be at once marked for what she is. Paris and Peterborough—she might be tactfully informed—prefer the other fasion, even if Berlin clings to gray and black.

An affecting chapter is that on engagements. It seems that the happy man may give the not-impossible lady a fur scarf or a muff, but he may not give her a hat, even if it is the latest cloche. Not many muffs are seen nowadays on George street, so that the choice of a gift seems to be limited to the scarf, and it is further on explained that the privilege does not extend to fur coats.

The existence of the affianced couple is pretty tame if the dictates of this estimable book are followed. "A well-bred couple never spoon in public," it says. "A man shows his affection for his fiancee by his protecting manner, his deference to her wishes, and his happiness in having won her. On the girl's part the predominating evidences of affection are tenderness and pride, something of the innate maternal attitude which women bear toward husbands and sons. She is proud of everything he does and affectionate in her approval." Then the good book continues in a strain of warning to young men inclined to show attention to other young ladies than their own.

The word "flapper" where used is carefully quoted. Naturally, for if slang is barred in polite conversation, as defined by the etiquette book, by so much the more is it to be avoided in the etiquette book itself. The trouble is that so many of the "don'ts" can be conveyed to the vulgar comprehension only in terms of slang. The author herself—yes, the book is written by a lady—used an antiquated bit of slang in her first don't when she put the brand of ill-breeding on spooning. She might have been up-to-date, saying "don't neck," and conveyed her meaning with shivers, but even in her slang she is Victorian.

All of which is no condemnation of the solid worth of this particular book on etiquette, which where it is applicable to the sweet young couple of today is really good.

Our language is gradually charging. "Pedestrian" once meant one who walks. Now it means one who runs and jumps. Stand at George and Charlotte and watch.

Language Changing

Women with children do not consider it safe to walk across the street—so they run. The children grow up and in turn run across streets. Are the mothers carried away by needless fear? Or has the conduct of some motorists in fact given them good ground for being afraid?

The only answer is that common sense tells us all the pedestrians are not insane. And who knows a pedestrian who always takes his rights at a street crossing?

And how many motorists recognize that the pedestrian has any rights?

AGED MAN KICKED

James Carroll Received Severe Injuries From His Driving Horse.

DOWNEYVILLE, July 9—While Mr. Jas. Carroll, an aged man who resides just north of the village, was going into the stable his driver kicked him, breaking two ribs and piercing one lung. The doctor was called and if nothing sets in he will soon be around again. It was a narrow escape for the old man and he says horses are not to be trusted.

The recent hard frost did considerable damage in this locality. The corn was burned in several places and some gardens were also effected.

Belleville 10, Petes 1; Kingston 5, Oshawa 2; Ponies and Petes Tied on Top

PETES BLOW UP COMPLETELY MAKING ELEVEN ERRORS AND ARE ROUTED AT BELLEVILLE

Railroaders Win in Hollow Fashion When League Leaders Break Wide Apart.

BUNCHED ERRORS

Three Weird Innings Give Belleville Ten Runs, While Goyer Holds Petes to One.

(By F. D. C.)

As a result of some very "dirty work at the cross roads" yesterday, the Petes today have the company of the Kingston Ponies on the top shelf of the Central Ontario League, the Johnstonites being routed 10 to 1 at Belleville while the Ponies were taming Oshawa at Kingston.

Yes, neighbor, the figures of the Belleville game are correct—there has been no typographical error for which there should be thanks for there was a superfluity of the other kind.

To repeat, Belleville 10, Peterboro 1.

When the Petes have a bad day they don't make half a job of it—they go the whole works and yesterday they were as bad as a team could be without being arrested for it.

They, in fact, committed every crime in the baseball calendar, making no fewer than eleven errors and all but one of them hurt worse than an ulcerated tooth.

If anybody had a clear action for non-support Messrs. Al Heckman and Jeff Hardill of the Petes' pitching staff had one yesterday.

In the first four innings with "Heck" on the rubber, the Petes kicked in with eight costly errors, presenting Belleville with eight runs and although Hardill was held up a little better in the last four frames a double error by McPherson on the one play gave the Railroaders the pair of runs scored off the youngster.

Not one of the ten Belleville counters would have been registered had the Petes' fielding stood up.

It was a terrible exhibition of defensive work by a team which has led the League in fielding all season.

In addition to their grotesque showing in the field the Johnstonites fell down badly at the bat. Goyer, heartened by the four run lead presented to him in the first frame, pitched great ball and was almost perfectly supported. He held the Petes to four hits, struck out nine and was never in trouble.

A Terrible Start.

In the opening inning Legon fanned, Johnston drew a pass but Ross and Harrison were both thrown out on rollers in front of the plate by W. Mills.

The Petes' first blow up came in Belleville's half. W. Ross was out on a nice catch by his namesake in right. Weir rolled to Helson, who threw over Harrison's head, Weir stopping at second. W. Mills raised a high fly in front of second which Rose dropped, Weir staying at second. When he started to steal third Swanston threw wide to the difficult corner, Weir scoring. Harry Mills rolled to Johnston for the second out. Hagerman got the first hit of the inning, to centre, scoring W. Mills. Meagher hit one to Helson who made another wild throw to first, Hagerman going to third and the batter to second. Blakely singled off Heckman's glove, scoring Hagerman and when Rose made a bad throw home Meagher also registered. Casey singled to centre and Blakely was out, Legon to Helson to Johnston, when he was headed off trying to go to third. Four runs, three hits, five errors.

Swanston walked to start the second. Rose rolled to Meagher, Hall popped to Harry Mills. Helson scratched a hit when Weir fell in fielding his roller, but was out stealing second.

For Belleville Goyer struck out, Ross rolled to Rose and Johnston threw out Weir.

In the third Heckman grounded to Blakely, Legon fanned and Johnston rolled to Blakely.

In Belleville's half W. Mills lined to Ross, H. Mills singled to left, Hagerman fanned and Meagher was tossed out by Johnston.

Ross was called out on strikes in the Petes' fourth and Harrison and Swanston both grounded to Goyer.

Another Bad Inning.

The Petes second high altitude performance came in Belleville's half. Blakely singled to right. Casey was safe when Helson failed to grab his fly to third. Goyer bunted and Heckman threw wide to third, Blakely scoring, Casey going to third and Goyer to second. Ross's single over second scored the pair. Weir sacrificed. W. Mills hit to Johnston who fumbled and Ross beat Rose's throw home, Mills being out, Swanston to Johnston, trying to make second on the play. H. Mills doubled to right. Hagerman singled to left and Hall threw H. Mills out at the plate when he tried to score from second. Four runs, four hits, three errors.

Rose popped to Weir in the fifth and Hall flied out to Ross. McPherson batting in place of Helson fanned.

Hardill went to the mound for the Petes and McPherson took third. Meagher got a lucky hit on a roller down the third base line, McPherson slipping as he went in to field the tap. Meagher stole second but McPherson threw out Blakely and Casey and Goyer rolled to Hardill.

The Petes' Loser.

The Petes got their only counter in the sixth. Hardill doubled to left centre. Legon fanned but Johnston singled to right and when Casey threw high to first, Hardill scored and Johnston reached second. Ross and Harrison fanned.

Belleville came back with two soft ones. Ross and Weir died on nice catches by Legon but W. Mills singled to right and H. Mills singled over second, sending his brother to third. When H. Mills started to steal second Swanston made a short throw to Johnston and W. Mills was caught between third and the plate. In the run up McPherson's throw hit the runner letting Peeney score and then the third baseman recovered the ball and made a wild heave to third, Harry Mills registering. Hagerman fanned.

In the seventh Hagerman made a fine catch of Swanston's fly. Rose was hit but Hall lifted a fly to W. Mills and McPherson struck out.

Meagher started the Belleville frame with a single between short and third. Blakely hit into a double play, Harrison to Johnston. Casey singled to left but Goyer rolled to Hardill. Bob Ross was behind the bat in this frame, Ash going to right field.

Hardill, first up in the eighth, was out on a fine running catch by Hagerman, and Legon struck out for the fourth time and Johnston lined to Ross.

For Belleville Ross rolled to Hardill. Weir singled through short but Bob Ross threw him out when he tried to steal. W. Mills was safe on Rose's error and M. Mills walked. McPherson tossed out Hagerman.

Ross started the Pete's ninth with a single to left, but Harrison popped to short and Holyman, running for Ross, was doubled up on Ash's roller to Weir.

BELLEVILLE TO MEET PETES ON SATURDAY HERE

Tailenders Going Strong and Will Make a Big Bid for Victory.

RACE IS CLOSE ONE

Belleville Only Two Games Behind the Oshawa Crew Now.

The Petes' blow up at Belleville and Kingston's defeat of Oshawa leave the Central Ontario race in a very interesting condition, with the Petes and Ponies tied for first place, Oshawa, a game behind, and Belleville only two games back of the Motorists and coming strong. Here is the standing:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Peterboro	8	6	.571
Kingston	8	6	.571
Oshawa	7	7	.500
Belleville	5	9	.357

Games Saturday—Belleville at Peterboro; Kingston at Oshawa.

The Belleville - Peterboro game here Saturday should be a thriller. The Railroaders are full of fight, seeing a chance to get back into the race, and they will make a determined effort to repeat yesterday's feat in the week-end game. As a matter of fact, right now only three games separate the tail-enders and the leaders, and every game from now on is of the greatest importance. The Petes are hopeful of staying on top by taking a fall out of Belleville here, although they realize that it will be a real fight.

TORONTO BREAK LOSING STREAK IN SECOND GAME

Stewart Shut Out Providence With Four Hits, While Leafs Got 14.

IN THIRD PLACE

Skeeters Move Up to Second After Battering Buffalo Pitchers.

TORONTO, July 8 (Canadian Press).—The Leafs broke even with Providence here this afternoon, losing the first tilt by 8 to 5 and winning the second by 13 to 0. Carlyle and Gehringe hit homers while the locals made seven two-baggers and the Greys two. Ellis had only one bad inning, the fourth, when the Howleyites threatened to drive him off the mound, but neither Tomlin or Brown could make any headway.

The winning of the second game, the Leafs broke their losing streak which had reached six games in succession. The scores:

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 8 (Canadian Press). — Good hurling brought Rochester a double win over Reading here this afternoon. The first tilt introduced Carl Yowell, a southpaw recently obtained from Cleveland. He allowed five hits to win, 4 to 2. "Honny" Horne was tight in the pinches and won the second in seven innings, 7 to 3. Fourteen Key runners were left stranded in the second pastime. Scores:

Red Holt led in safe blows with five singles in six tries. Simpson drove his homer over the left field fence, while Kingdon's was a bounder into the bleacher section. Score:

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Omigosh, what a ball game that was at Belleville yesterday! It was one of those affairs when the Petes could do nothing right, throwing the Spalding around like an excited girls' softball team, and Slats Kerr and the rest of the Belleville rooters haven't had so much fun since the Hillcrests were beaten there in the Ontario play-offs. The Johnstonites, who have averaged only two misplays a game all season, made no fewer than eleven errors, and ten of them figured in the scoring. They couldn't be that bad again if they tried.

• • • • • • • • • •

Hap Harrison's consecutive hitting records went down in the disaster, Goyer setting the big first baseman down without a safety. Hap fanned once, hit two back to Goyer and popped to short on his last trip up.

• • • • • • • • • •

Just to show how bad the Petes were, Ray Rose made as many errors yesterday as he had made in the thirteen previous games—three to be exact.

• • • • • • • • • •

Saturday the Railroaders, all aglow over beating Oshawa and Peterboro in succession, will invade Riverside Park, and the Petes will have to win to keep up at the top. The gang came home from Belleville last night hot under the collar and determined to avenge the drubbing which was the worst the Petes have taken this season, so that Saturday's game should be chock full of fireworks. Heckman will be sent right back at the Gerow crew, who will likely use Chuck Jeffrey, their southpaw heaver.

• • • • • • • • • •

Manager Johnston pulled Heckman out of the game in the fourth to save him for Saturday, and in the seventh Swanston, who has caught all but one innings this season, was also given a rest, Bob Ross finishing the game behind the plate and making a good job of it.

• • • • • • • • • •

Harrison was the only Peterboro infielder to escape an error.

• • • • • • • • • •

Had the Petes' defensive work been up to its usual standard, it would have been a great argument yesterday, for Goyer pitched fine ball. The only run scored off him was unearned, too, so that so far as the pitching was concerned there would not have been much scoring. Five of the eight hits made off "Heck" were hung up after the side should have been retired.

In the second game the Tigers piled up an early lead and Stoner had little difficulty in holding the Red Sox in check while his mates batted Ruffing and Fuhr freely.

PRESCOTT, Ont., July 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Miss Beamish, of Kemptville, 17, swam across the St. Lawrence river from the power house dock, Prescott, to the ferry dock at Ogdensburg, N.Y., a distance of two miles, apparently without effort and would have made the return trip, had she been permitted to do so by her friends. This is the first time the St. Lawrence river has been swam from shore to shore in this district by a young woman.

Brilliant Stops by St. Louis' Third Baseman Saved Game for Mails.

HORNSBY RETURNS

BOSTON, July 8 (Canadian Press).—Boston's winning streak of five games was broken today, when the St. Louis Cardinals scored five runs in the early innings and won out, 5 to 4. Mails shutout the Braves until the ninth when a four-run rally started by pinch hitters fell one short. Two brilliant stops by Bell in this same inning undoubtedly saved Mails from defeat.

TWO KINGSTON RUNNERS REACH THIRD TOGETHER

Scott Out for Passing Cherry on Line in Dumb Work on Path.

PONIES WIN 5-2

No Thrills at Kingston in Oshawa's Defeat—Motorists Boot Six.

KINGSTON, July 9. — Kingston again claimed a rank in the first division of the C.O.B.L. race for the pennant by defeating the Oshawa team by the score of 5-2 here last evening before the largest crowd of the season in a game that failed to rouse any particular enthusiasm among the fans. The play was fairly fast, the nine innings being completed in about one hour and forty-five minutes, but thrills were not in the record for the evening.

The only excitement to amount to anything occurred when Cherry and Scott both rested on third base at the same time in the third inning.

Cherry was caught and Scott was called for passing Cherry on the line. It was dumb base running that lost Kingston at least a couple of runs, as there was only one man out at the time. Purvis went down to second too when Scott tried to get back, but it was not necessary to put him out.

Ponies Start With Two.

Kingston scored their first two runs in the first innings after Oshawa had failed to register in their half. Teepell, the first man up, sent a liner over short, but was thrown out at second when Halbert hit to Dainty. Batstone hit and Somerville walked. Cherry sacrificed to left for run No. one, and Scott's hit put Batstone over

Kingston added two runs in the fourth. Arniel hit and stole second. Cairns was an easy out at first, but Teepell's sacrifice to centre scored Arniel. Halbert hit and stole second and Batstone came through with a two-bagger, scoring Halbert. Another one was added in the eighth inning when, with two down, Cairns reached first on Morrison's error, Teepell hit and Halbert reached first on Saunders' error, Cairns going over.

Oshawa's Scoring.

Oshawa registered in the fifth and eighth innings. Roddick got on when Saunders, who had hit safely, was thrown at second, and hits by Alger and R. Fair turned the trick. In the eighth, with one out Dainty hit safely and Tyson reached first on Halbert's error. Morrison was safe on a fielder's choice, and Saunders' hit put Dainty across with the second run.

There were but two strike-outs in the whole game, Dainty getting both of them. The locals secured twelve hits off the Oshawa flinger and put Oshawa through the grind for six errors. Oshawa secured eight hits and caused Kingston to suffer two errors, both by Halbert.

The score by innings:

Oshawa .... .. 000010010—2 8 6

ELECTRICS BEAT LAKEVIEWS 6-4

Lou LeBarr's Outfit Present Wierd Exhibition for City League Patrons.

In a spotty exhibition of baseball provided by the C.G.E. and Lakeview outfits last night, an apt demonstration was provided, showing how a superior array of hits can amount to nothing when coupled with an equally imposing column of errors. While the Lakeviews' bombardiers rapped out 10 healthy blows their defensive armament resembled an ancient Swiss cheese through which the C.G.E. missiles permeated with ease.

Woods, with 9 strike-outs to his credit, deserved a better fate, although in the seventh chapter he passed two men, each of whom pattered across the platter to get their names engraved on the tally board; two errors accounted for another counter in the same inning. In the fifth a combination of three hits and two errors allowed the C.G.E. crew to tie the score which the Lakeviews had gathered with such pains. The outer fortifications were practically impenetrable, Delehaye making the only mis-cue as he raced in and changed his mind too late. Grant and Scully, centre warders for their respective teams, each grabbed off three shots while they were still warm, providing some certain, if not sensational, plays.

In the last of the seventh, when the Lakeviews appeared to have some hope, due to the fact that Scully and Holland, pinch-hitting for Johnston, both came through with neat singles, but the affray ended when Hilliard struck out and Scully and Johnston were doubled by a smart Milloy to Baird play off Woods' roller to third.

BERESFORD TO RACE AMERICAN

Stipulates That Recent Victory Over Hoover Decided Sculling Championship.

WON AT HENLEY.

LONDON, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Pack Beresford, Jr., winner of the classic Diamond Sculls in the recent Henley regatta and also holder of the Philadelphia Gold Chalenge Cup, which he won at the Olympic Games in Paris last year, has decided to take the water against Walter M. Hoover, the United States oarsman, who challenged him for the latter trophy.

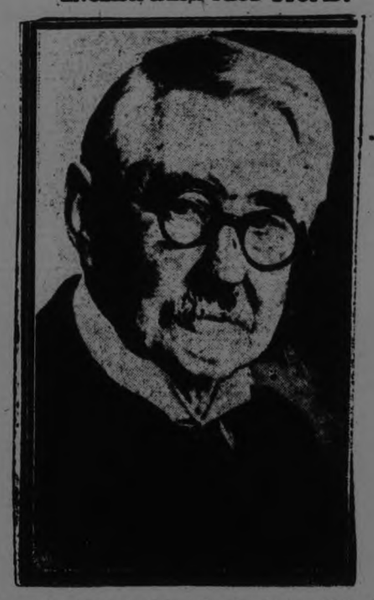
Beresford reconsidered his decision not to defend the cup in his answer to a cabled request from the cup committee in Philadelphia, appealing to his "British sportsmanship" to meet Hoover, who went to England for the express purpose of competing for the Philadelphia trophy.

The British sculler will enter the contest with Hoover with the understanding that if victorious he will return the cup to the United States, as he intends to uphold the decision of English rowing authorities that the Diamond Sculls represents the world championship. In meeting Hoover again, Beresford's position is that he is competing for a lesser prize than the Henley regatta trophy.

The decision yesterday has cleared up the misunderstanding which arose when Beresford, after winning the Diamond Sculls, declared that he would not meet Hoover for the challenge cup, but intended to send it back to the United States without it being rowed for in England.

Beresford explained to The Associated Press that he had taken this action on the understanding he had been declared world champion amateur sculler by the English governing body of the sport, and that he did not want to start any disputes by entering for another race which was looked upon in England at any rate as a rival to the Henley Blue Ribbon event.

ENGLISH-IRISH FEUD STUPID.



"I wish to tell the Irishmen of America that there could be no action more stupid and michievous than trying to keep up the feud between England and Ireland and America," declared T. P. O'Connor, father of the British Commons, and a lifelong home ruler, in an appeal to the men of his race in the United States to accept the Irish treaty as a settlement of the differences which have so long divided the people of English and Irish descent.

BLAZING CROSS CASTS FLARE

the cross until this morning.

No other Disturbance.

A rumour that a simultaneous display had been made on Armour Hill was set at rest by the residents along Munroe avenue, which faces the portion of the hill where the last display had been made. Not one person in the row of houses had seen or heard of any such celebration last night although all had heard of a similar ceremony about three weeks ago. The flag erected near the scene of the last fire is still flying merrily.

One Man's Version.

According to one story told The Examiner a motor van drove up to the grounds and after considerable puffing and snorting managed to carry its burden near the proposed site, about 10.30.

The performers dug a hole in the earth and erected the cross, filling in the earth and making it firm and stable. The structure was composed of wooden beams apparently twenty feet in height with a cross arm fully ten feet long. The entire surface was wrapped with cloth which had been previously soaked in some inflammable mixture.

Heavy manilla rope was used to hold the outer covering of the cross tightly, so that the wood might be given plenty of time to ignite.

The stage managers having all in readiness set a light to the base of the cross and immediately the flame leaped skyward and the whole structure was thrown into brilliant relief.

It blazed brightly for half an hour while burning fragments of cloth dropped occasionally, their hempen binding loosed by the fire. Then the arms bent downward and fell to the ground, and the remaining standard smouldered for several hours until, as was shown this morning only a short stump remained surrounded by charred wood embers and bits of partly burned cloth.

The Examiner's informant was amused by the spectacle just as by fireworks, he said, but did not take any alarm.

Janitor Saw It.

George Cloke, janitor of Queen Mary School, said he was at the school about ten o'clock. Hearing some slight noises which he thought might be from courting couples or even from a group of boys, he went round the building to warn them off and saw the burning cross which had evidently just been set alight. There was no one in sight when he got to the cross.

Mr. Cloke said he thought the cross burned for about half an hour. He added that the flames illuminated the whole neighborhood. He believed the cross was brought up to the school grounds all pieced together ready to be set on fire.

Heard the Car.

C. H. Clementi heard the noise of the puffing of a heavily loaded car going over uneven ground, shortly before he caught sight of the fire. There was no alarm, he said, or excitement. A few of the residents stood on the verandah of their houses watching the spectacle.

Danger of Conflagration.

Francis Mather, Monaghan Road, said his first thought was of the folly of kindling fire among the long grass which might have been ignited and caused considerable damage. There was absolutely no flurry or fear among the people, he said. He has no theories as to the perpetrators of the mischief.

One resident said he was convinced that the lights could be seen from the buildings on Mount St. Joseph. He believed the burning was either a demonstration by the local branch of the Klu Klux Klan against the institution or a warning or threat to the many families of that religion in Elm Street nearby.

The Mother Superior at Mount St. Joseph stated this morning that nothing was seen of the burning cross by the occupants of the nunnery. They are surrounded by trees and retire at nine o'clock.

Inspector Reid explained to one lady who called up to report the incident that if the police or firemen had interfered there might have been a riot, since the religious principles or obligations behind the ceremony are unknown.

Against the Law.

Chief Gimblett of the Fire Department states the burning of any effigy or cross or anything else of the nature in a public place within the city limits is illegal unless permission has been obtained from the Fire Department.

Where secret societies are concerned, the principles and significance of their acts can only be a matter of speculation among the general public and various opinions are expressed today on the meaning underlying the acts, each assuming of course that the affair was the work of the Klu- Klux Klan, whose symbol the fiery cross is. It is said that a certain number of crosses must be burned within a given radius before a charter will be granted to a new branch of the Klu Klux Klan. Another version is that the burning of the fiery cross indicates that the Klan has received its charter in whatever place the cross is burned. Another attributed reason is that a cross is burned following the accession of each additional hundred members. Whether any of these reasons can be held to account for last night's exploit remains to be seen, and indeed it has not been shown to be the work of the newly formed Klan in the city.

It was found impossible this afternoon to get in touch with any members of the Klu Klux Klan to ascertain whether the blaze was a bona fide demonstration.

DE LAVAL STILL LEAGUE LEADERS

Steady Attack Too Much for the Spasmodic Raids of Losers.

The De Laval juniors still hold the league lead through the defeat of the Masseys last evening on King Edward Park, by the score of four goals to one. The losers have extra good players but lack the practice together.

First Half.

From the kick off, Masseys set up a continued bombardment that had the De Laval defense guessing but the attacks withered away when Dyer offset the plan by sending Bennett along the wing who sent a square pass in front of goal which was diverted past Fenner when it touched his defense man. Masseys retaliated but were slow to accept the opening that Dyer repulsed. Then De Laval right wing tested Fenner with ripping shots. Bennet followed with a nice cross that the goalkeeper grasped. De Laval continued to hammer away at the opponents' goal with Fenner having a busy time watching shots from all directions. Eventually Hanson rattled one through from about 20 yards out. A few moments later, Abramson made it three, just as the interval arrived. De Laval 3, Masseys 0.

Half-Time.

On resuming, De Laval led off an attack that the Walker Bros. frustrated when hard pressed in goal area. Dorset travelled down the wing to get a fruitless corner, McGraw missing by inches. Same performance was enacted at the other end when Evens took the man, instead of the ball. Another flag kick followed which Abramson headed into the goal keeper's hands. Massey retaliated with splendid efforts and Smith gave Frick a dropping shot to clear that the later just managed to touch the sphere out of danger. Quick as a flash De Laval forwards bore down upon the Masseys citadel to convert, through Evens who got rebound from Lindsay's first shot, as Fenner saved. A last minute rally resulted in Dorset slipping a nice goal past Frick for Masseys' only counter.. Full time, De Laval 4, Masseys 1

Goal scorers—Bennet, Hanson, Abramson and Evens for De Laval; Dorsett for Masseys.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

In the forward swing the right shoulder must never go into the ball until after the clubhead reaches the ball. Trying to hit with the shoulder and the clubhead at the same time, with emphasis on the shoulder, is plain pressing and body lunging. Do the work with the clubhead —always keep that in mind. One of the really difficult things about the forward swing is the knack of holding everything back until the clubhead gets to the ball, which is merely another way of saying, hit only with the clubhead. There should be a distinct sense of throwing the clubhead all the way down, exactly as you would throw an axe blade into a log or the head of a hammer against a nail.

GOOD SERMON BY PASTOR AT WARSAW

Rev. Mr. Harrington Preached His First Sermon in New Charge.

WARSAW, July 9 — Rev. Mr. Harrington preached his first sermon as minister of the United Church in Warsaw on Sunday eveinng. His text was "I am among you as one who serves." The minister showed that there were three kinds of help, physical, intellectual and spiritual, and the higher one went in the scale the further from the animal one went, and the more human. He was here to help principally in the spiritual way, but he hoped to help in all three ways, for men cannot exist without all three.

He also mentioned that he served not the church but God and man first and he considered he could best do these through the United Church.

Besides visiting the sick he hopes to visit every one twice a year.

There will be choir practice on Thursday evening at 8.30 o'clock p.m. and those in charge ask that all who can will assist, especially as they are in need of male voices.

A talk on Armenian work is planned for the Missionary subject in the Sunday School next Sunday.

The United Church Women's Missionary Society met at Mr. Robert Moore's home on Thursday afternoon. The Cottesloe Missionary Society was there by invitation. Some business was discussed, and reports were given, also two readings on missionary topics. Mrs. Sargent gave a few words on "Systematic Giving." Mrs. E. N. MacDonald, president of Cottesloe Auxiliary, gave a sketch of their work. The Warsaw Auxiliary is invited to the Cottesloe meeting on Wednesday, August 12th, at Mrs. Wm. Forsythe's home.

Institute Meeting

The Executive of the Women's Institute met on Monday evening and drew up plans for work for this year. The July meeting will be omitted. The Norwood and Preneveau branches are invited to visit the Warsaw branch at the August meeting, Thursday, Aug. 13th.

The picture is scheduled by First National for showing at the Capitol Theatre to-day. Barbara La Marr will be featured the role of Fleur, London society pet.

The role of Soames, shrewd Captain of English commerce, will be played by George Marion, the celebrated stage and screen actor. The part of Michael Mont will be played by Thomas Holding and Henry Victor, famous English actor, has been especially imported to enact the part of Wilfred Desert.

The role of Victorine Bicket, an appealing Cockney girl, will be played by Flora Le Breton, English stage and screen beauty. The important character of Tony Bicket, coster-monger of toy balloons, a part which furnishes an intensive human note to Galsworthy's story, has been assigned to Charles Emmett Mack. Colin Campbell and Tammany Young have been respectively engaged to play Danby and Bill Hawkes, the comedy roles.

THE INSIDE LIFE.

Of a Movie Star Portrayed in Inez from Hollywood, with Anna Q. Nilsson and Lewis Stone, at the Royal now.

Not the mechanics of movie-making but the inwardness of a screen vampire's heart is laid bare on the screen of the Royal, where "Inez, from Hollywood," a First National Picture, opens to-day.

As if it weren't enough to get a view of Hollywood's mysteries, the role of the reigning "vamp" is played by the alluring Anna Q. Nilsson. Although Anna Q. has never been associated with siren roles she has made of Inez a most human and appealing character.

Lewis S. Stone is co-featured in the role of Stewart Cuyler, a rich man who "makes a play" for the vampire, but is finally ensnared in the meshes of true love for her younger sister, Fay, thereby giving rise to a situation which the author has solved in a striking manner.

Pretty Mary Astor appears as Fay, and Laurance Wheat, remembered from his many pictures with Thomas Meighan, as Inez's business manager. Snitz Edwards, Rose Dione, Harry Depp, Ray Hallor and E. H. Calvert are also in the cast.

The production is beautifully mounted and contains innumerable dramatic thrills. It is based on a magazine story by Adela Rogers St. John's, a former newspaper woman.

Alfred E. Green, director of "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," also directed this "Hollywood" story, and Arthur Edeson, famous for his photography of "The Lost World" was at the camera. J. G. Hawks wrote the screen continuity.

MARRIAGE DISPUTE WAS NOT DISCUSSED

No One Should Object If Parties Want Benediction of Church, Says Nickle.

TORONTO, July 9 (Canadian Press)—"As far as I know the matter has not been discussed by the government or any cabinet council that I have attended and what I say in this connection is my own opinion in a personal way," stated Attorney General Nickle today in connection with a controversy that has arisen here over the requirement by the Roman Catholic church that a member of that church who has been married by a minister of any other denomination should go through the Roman Catholic form of marriage if it is desired to remain in the church. "From my point of view as a lawyer, marriage is a contract and those who enter the state of matrimony, pursuant to the necessary proceedings are, of course, in the eyes of the law, legally married," he said. "On the other hand there is, with many a conscientitious conviction of religious education, and if either party desires to bring to the union the ecclesiastical benediction of his or her church why should those who feel this to be unnecessary object."

General Downturns In Wheat Values To-day

CHICAGO, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Unexpected downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool had a depressing early influence today upon wheat values here. Reports of cool weather in the northwest tended also to weaken the market, despite assertions that black rust already has caused 5 to 25 per cent. damage throughout a considerable territory in South Dakota. The opening 7-8 to 2 1-4c lower, Sept. 144 to 144 1-2, and December 145 1-2 to 145 3-4, was followed by something of a rally and then by a new decline to slightly under the initial bottom figures.

Favorable weather conditions, as well as sympathy with wheat, eased corn and oats. After opening at 1-2c to 1 3-8c decline, September 105 3-4 to 106 the corn market recovered a little, but soon dropped lower than before.

Oats started at 1-4 to 1-2 c lower; Sept. 45 5-8 and later continued to sag.

UNCONSCIOUS SAILOR VICTIM OF MURDEROUS ASSAULT DIED WHILE IN MONTREAL JAIL HELD AS DRUNK

Coroner's Jury Returned an Open Verdict of Murder and Exonerated Police.

FOUND ON JUNE 22.

No External Evidence That W. P. Fallon Had Been Struck on Head.

MONTREAL, July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Without having discovered any clue to the identity of his attackers, a coroner's jury yesterday found that William Patrick Fallon, sailor, was murdered by some person or persons unknown. Fallon was found unconscious on the street at an early hour on June 22, was detained in the police station as a drunk and died Wednesday from fractured skull. Medical testimony showed that there was no outward indication that Fallon had been struck on the head and that nobody was to blame for the mistake which had resulted in his being treated as a drunk.

Just before the inquest was concluded and the open verdict had been indicated by the testimony, Patrick Byrne, a Montreal man, rose in his place and asked to be heard. He was sworn and described himself as a representative of the dead man's parents, who live in Ireland. He said: "I want to know why this man was treated as an ordinary drunk."

Coroner McMahon ruled that Byrne's question was not pertinent. The duty of the jury was to find how Fallon met his death and there was no testimony to indicate that any known person was criminally responsible. The jury's verdict was then directed against unknown persons and the police was instructed to find who it was attacked and robbed Fallon and left him unconscious on the street. Several arrests have been made but nobody was detained after questioning by the police.

Double Bodied Pickerel With One Head—And True

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 10 — (Canadian Press.) — A workman in an extra gang on C. P. R. construction at Eagle river caught with a hook and line a fourteen-inch double bodied pickerel, that is, one head serving two bodies. The story, as told reporters, here is well verified.

BELIEVE JUDGE TOOK OWN LIFE

Body Found Under Wrecked Car—Was Indicted For Forgery.

JACKSON, Tenn., July 10. — Federal Judge J. W. Ross, indicted Wednesday in connection with the $350,000 failure of the People's Savings bank, was found dead yesterday, pinned under the wreckage of his automobile.

Preliminary reports to police indicated Ross drove the car off the bridge in an attempt at self-destruction.

Judge Ross left his home for an early morning ride, saying little to friends or relatives.

An hour later motorists saw the wrecked car where it had plunged off the bridge. The body was taken to his home.

The Madison county grand jury indicted Ross and three officials of the People's Saving bank of Jackson, on charges of embezzlement, forgery and breach of trust.

It was alleged that Ross issued fraudulent drafts, drawn on attorneys who practised in his court. These drafts, for sums as large as $20,000, attorneys refused to pay. The People's bank officials cashed them, however, it was alleged, and this contributed to the shortage that caused the bank to close.

EVENTS IN CHINA REJUVENATE THE INTERNATIONALE

Russia is Proceeding on Basis of Approaching Conflict With Britain.

REVOLT COMING.

All Circumstances Point to Its Approach, Says Zinovieff.

BERLIN, July 10 (Canadian Press) — The third Internationale has been rejuvenated by the events in China. A complete re-organization is under way. Russia is proceeding on the basis that the time is approaching for a real conflict with Great Britain in Asia and if necessary with all of Europe.

Zinovieff, in a proclamation yesterday appointed the new executive committee of the Communist Internationale in Germany, said "The long drawn out war in Morocco, the development and scope of the freedom movement in China, the events in Bulgaria, the increasing unemployment in Great Britain, the growing financial crisis in France, the election of Hindenburg as President of Germany, the disarmament note—all these circumstances speak of the march of a coming revolution, coming slowly but surely, in the capitalistic world."

Discover Plot

HONG KONG, July 10 (Canadian Press)—Reuter's Canton correspondent announces discovery of an alleged Chinese plot to attempt to capture both Shameen, the Foreign settlement of Canton, and Kowloon, opposite Hong Kong, with the assistance of Russian aviators.

ATTACK WORKERS.

Intimidation, Abduction and Starvation Used in the Chinese Strike.

SHANGHAI, July. — United Press —Intimidation, abduction and starvation are the newest weapons used here to force workers into joining the general strike. Many workers are being abducted and carried into the Chinese territory where they are beaten or starved, while wives and children are stolen.

The water company is threatening to cut off water supply in the outlying sections as a measure of retaliation, hoping thus to check the growing activity of men engaged in intimidation.

THREATENS PUNISHMENT.

LONDON, July 10. — United Press —The deportation of the unemployed Chinese in the strike-ridden city of Hong Kong and flogging for men who use intimidation, were threatened by Sir Reginald Stubbs, the British Governor of the city, according to the press advices to-day.

Husband Left Wife Who Disliked Friends' Fleas

CHICAGO, July 10.—(United Press).—"Wouldn't any woman be mad if her husband's friends brought fleas in the house?" This was the question asked by Mrs. Anna Baltzer in the court of domestic relations Thursday, where she had come to tell why her husband, Joseph, should be made to contribute to her support.

He left me when I complained about the fleas, said Mrs. Baltzer, as she exhibited three of the pests, captured after visits by friends of her husband, and now imprisoned in a glass jar.

The Judge told Mrs. Baltzer to keep the jumping evidence until her husband could be arrested and brought into court.

A Happy Re-union.

MOUNT PLEASANT, N. J., July 10.—(United Press).—After the Rev. W. H. Rees, 32, pastor of the Alexandria First Presbyterian Church of this village, had been cleared of charges of conduct unbecoming a minister, the congregation sang the doxology with the chief complainant pumping the organ, which was played by the young woman with whom Dr. Rees admitted having been indiscreet.

SIX COMMITTED ON ABDUCTION CHARGE

Accused of Detaining Chinese Boy in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—At the conclusion of the preliminary hearing of the abduction charge in the Woo Foon Sing case yesterday in Point Grey Police Court, H. O. McDonald, Point Grey police commissioner, John Murdock, chief of police, and Sergt. Percy Kirkham of the Point Grey force; J. S. Cowper, editor of the Weekly Tribune; O. B. V. Robinson, head of the Canadian Detective Agency, and his son, William Robinson were committed for trial.

David Patterson and Mrs. F. H. Stratton, connected with the Vancover Scottish Societies, and H. P. McGraney, the second member of the Point Grey Police Commission, also appearing on the same charge, were dismissed.

Pending arrangements for bail, all of the accused sent up for trial were held in custody. The hearing was before Magistrate C. P. McQueen.

NINE VACANCIES IN UPPER HOUSE INSPIRE RUMORS

Many Possible Candidates Mentioned For Empty Seats in the Senate.

TWO FOR ONTARIO.

Cabinet Members Resting—Opinion Favors General Election in Autumn.

OTTAWA, July 10.—(By Canadian Press).—With the death of Senator De Veber, the number of vacancies in the Upper House is now brought up to nine. There are two vacancies for Ontario, two for Quebec, one for New Brunswick, two for Prince Edward Island and two for Alberta. So unusually large a number of Senate vacancies unfilled, particularly on the eve of a probable Cabinet reorganization, is giving rise to wide speculation. Candidates or possible candidates for Senate vacancies have been mentioned almost by the dozen. The death of Senator De Veber suggests the possibility, according to one rumor, that Hon. Frank Oliver may now be appointed to one of the Alberta vacancies and his seat on the railway board filled by Judge Turgeon of Saskatchewan.

But, while the air is thick with rumors of an election and Cabinet reorganization, there is an actual lull in Cabinet activities. Premier King is taking ten days' rest and most of the other members of his government are out of the city, either resting or surveying the situation. Till they return and Cabinet meetings are resumed, no appointments can be made nor will a decision be reached on the dissolution of Parliament.

Chances favor a general election in the Fall.

MANY FEATURES ARE BILLED FOR HUGE CARNIVAL

Rotary Event Next Week Will Present Programme Full of Good Things.

VALUABLE PRIZES.

No Need to Fight Shy of Premium Cigars, it is Announced.

The Rotary carnival promises to be a baseball tournament, a horse show, a race meet, a midway, and half a dozen other things all rolled into one, and there will not be a quiet moment from the time the big parade starts off from Central Park in the afternoon until the "good night" waltz has been played at the dancing platform late in the night.

Thursday, July 16th is the date, and the committee's plans for a programme that will be pleasing to everybody, are working out successfully.

The high standard set by last year's carnival will be passed on this occasion and it is confidently hoped that the attendance will also exceed last year's, especially in view of the fact that the Rotary Clubs of the district are all sending large contingents.

A feature will be the dart games along the midway while prizes of unusual value will reward the skilful shooters. Alarm clocks, thermos bottles, and mamma dolls, will be among the premiums offered while it is officially declared that there will be no circus cigars.

The programme for the afternoon will include baseball and softball games, horse races, riding and other attractions, while at night there will be a dancing platform and other amusements. It will be a real big day and everybody should keep next Thursday open.

ONLY ONE ISSUE BRYAN ASSERTS 'IS THERE A GOD'

Protagonist of Fundamentalists Says This is Crux of Evolution Trial.

READY FOR ACTION.

Opponents Declare They Contend For Liberty of Thought.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 10.—That the Bible must go into the Constitution of the United States, and that the evolutionary beliefs of the minority must be kept from contaminating the social and educational life of this country, is the platform of the Fundamentalists, which William Jennings Bryan has brought to Dayton. The commoner placed himself at the head of the army of educational and religious conservatives in his speech before the Progressive Dayton Club. He pledged himself, in case this trial goes against the Fundamentalists, to carry on a campaign that would, if necessary, amend the Constitution to prohibit the teaching of evolution.

There is not a State in the Union where believers in evolution are in the majority, said Mr. Bryan, and he expressed himself as thoroughly confident that a determined campaign to arouse the people against scientific teaching that undermines implicit faith in the Bible as the inspired word of God, and, therefore, to be accepted literally, would be successful. It might take years, he said, but he made it plain that the last act of leadership of his life would be to make the Bible teachings the foundation of government and society in this country.

Bryan has proclaimed that there is only one issue. Stripped of all its obscuring elements, it is:

"Is there a God?"

For, said Bryan, if evolution is true, there is none. And he is sublimely confident of being able to prove that it is not.

Unwilling, however, to be crowded by the great commoner into this narrow corner, from which there is no egress except denial of God or indisputable proof of evolution, the Scopes defence has demanded a straight-out contest on the legality of the Tennessee anti-evolution law, under the constitution of the State of Tennessee and the United States.

It is true they are ready to defend the evolutionary theory, but not within the narrow limits which Bryan insists upon. With a passion for liberty of education and thought, they seek first to establish the right freely to learn and to think; later to sift the vast question of the origin of man.

Split on Minority Rights.

It is on the question of the minority that Mr. Bryan and the defence in the Scopes' trial split. Mr.

JUDGE ASKS THE HELP OF GOD IN DECIDING EVOLUTION TRIAL

Thirteen Lawyers Gather in Dayton—160 Reporters Present.

TELLS AIMS.

Clarence Darrow Says Civilization is on Trial—Denounces Prosecution.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 10 (United Press).—With the greatest throng that overflowed Rhea County Court House, standing with bowed heads, and the typewriter and keys of Press Association operators stilled, Judge Raulston banged his gavel at 9.08 his morning and opened the now famous Scopes case with prayer.

Coatless and Collarless the people of the countryside, counsel, newspapermen and court attaches thronged about the bench and through the huge chamber as Judge Raulston requested the Rev. Courtwright to ask Divine guidance for the proceedings.

The Tennessee pastor, in a voice that boomed through the courtroom called on God to direct the course of the trial and give wisdom to the judge and jury.

Opening Prayer.

"Every good and perfect gift cometh down from the Holy Father of Life. Thou are the source of our inspiration and power," Courtwright said. "We are incapable of performing pure thoughts and religious deeds without thine aid."

"We beseech Thee, O Father, to give this court a sufficient measure of the Divine spirit as will enable it to administer justice with wisdom to all, and that God's standard of justice and holiness will be upheld.

"We pray that the power and the ... the Holy Spirit will be with the jury and attorneys, and in the midst of it all help us to remember that Thou art on Thy throne.

"Thou knowest the motive back of every act. We know there is coming a day when all nations of the earth are coming before their judgment bar and that Thou will receive us according to our deers.

"Grant that from the President of the United States down to the most insignificant the affairs of Church and State will be so administered that they will give the greatest measure of glory."

DAYTON, July 10.—(Canadian Press.)—As Dayton began to move to the court house to-day to see John Thomas Scopes formally charged with violating the law of Tennessee which prohibits teaching evolution in Public schools, there was apparently an even chance that the day would bring only a gesture of battle to follow.

Lawyers on both sides agreed that if a motion was made to quash

"Most Beautiful Legs In World Insured" $150,000

LONDON, July 1[0] — Mme. Vera Nemtchinova, Russian dancer in the Daighileff Ballet, whose legs have been called the most beautiful in the world, has insured them for $150,000. The dancer narrowly escaped serious injury in Paris when she fell through a trap door on the stage.

It is an interesting fact that the insurance company refused to accept the risk on Mme. Nenchinova's legs in Turkey, the Balkan States, Austria, Hungary and Russia.

TITLED BEAUTY CHOSE DEATH TO AGED HUSBAND

Baroness Helen Zur Muehlen Fell From Window of New York Hotel.

LOST IN LOVE.

Gay Party Preceded Fatal Plunge—Husband Millionaire in Java.

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Baroness Helen zur Muehlen tossed aside youth, wealth and beauty and died for love. This is the theory advanced by intimate friends.

Unrequitted affection for a fellow-American, and despair at the thought of joining her middle-aged millionaire Dutch husband in the distant Java she is said to have grown to detect, caused the Texan beauty to escape by a death plunge from her suite in the exclusive Ritz-Carlton Hotel on Wednesday, her friends reveal.

Authorities, after a cursory investigation, dismissed the mystery of the death of the Baroness with the medical report:

"Death was due to injuries received in a fall."

And to a query as to suicide, District Attorney Banton stated:

"There was no evidence of homicide being committed."

Intimates Sail.

But even before the finding had been made, the liner Berengaria was carrying toward England the two people who knew the secrets of the Baroness' inner life.

They were her intimates, Sir E. Victor Sassoon, wealthy British banker, and Sassoon's travelling companion, Mrs. J. P. Walen. The latter, a young English matron,

WEATHER

Notwithstanding that thunderstorms threatened last evening they did not materialize, and ideal conditions again prevail. Highest temperature yesterday 83 degrees; lowest last night 60 degrees. Some of the many American tourists at present here have remarked that they do not understand why Peterboro citizens should seek other places as summer resorts, when they are in the midst of a section that cannot be surpassed—where the nights are cool, the air fresh and bracing, the altitude high, and the scenery beautiful. Many remark particularly on the bracing and invigorating quality of the air here, as compared with the humid foul-smelling atmosphere of the large American cities especially. Peterboro County has a valuable asset in its possibilities as a great summer resort, and while not as well known as Muskoka or the Thousand Islands possesses all the qualities that they possess and some others peculiarly her own.—W.P.

Travels In Refrigerator Car Seeking Cool Place

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 10. —Canadian Press. — Occupying a refrigerator car, containing 8 tons of ice, Lionel M. Chapman, president of the Chapman Dairy Company, will leave Kansas City for Isle Royale, Michigan, in search of cold weather. If Isle Royale's temperature is not low enough, Mr. Chapman will go elsewhere, until he finds one that is. Isle Royale is on Lake Superior.

Several years ago Mr. Chapman suffered a severe heat prostration. Every summer since he has experienced a slight recurrence. Last Friday he became ill with an attack at serious as the first.

CHURCHILL CONGRATULATED FOR TRADE PREFERENCE TO DOMINIONS

Dinner Guest of British Commons Group Closely Associated With Overseas Nations— Favorable Reaction Throughout the Empire.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE RESOLUTIONS.

LONDON, July 10.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Fourteen members of the House of Commons who are either by birth or close association especially connected with the Dominions and Colonies, entertained Right Hon. Winston Churchill at luncheon Thursday to mark the adoption by the Commons of the preference resolution of the Imperial Economic conference for which adoption he, as chancellor of the exchequer, was especially responsible. The chairman, Sir Newton Moore, dwelt on the good effect upon overseas opinion of the friendly and practical gesture which the Chancellor and government had made in implementing the preference resolutions.

Mr. Churchill in replying expressed his appreciation of this recognition of the government's action by men who were so closely associated with the Empire overseas. It would undoubtedly have a most chilling effect if the Imperial Parliament had failed to give effect to the emphatic and unanimous decisions of the Imperial Conference. It was a most significant fact, he continued, that the acceptance of these resolutions by the House of Commons was acceptance not by the Conservative party alone but also by substantial elements of both Labor and Liberal parties.

It was intimated to those present that they would form the nucleus of a Parliamentary group which would keep constant watch upon British policy and administration from the Empire standpoint and for the fullest development of Imperial co-operation.

ALBERTA COAL IN SMALL CARS

Criticism of C.N.R. For Additional Freight Cost Factor.

25,000 TONS COMING.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—While the 25,000 tons of Alberta coal to be shipped east to Ontario under the arrangement with the Canadian National Railway is being loaded from various mines west and south of Edmonton, and will soon be rolling across the Prairies to its destination, there is some criticism of the fact that most of the coal will be loaded in small cars averaging 33 tons instead of the larger cars which run from 40 to 50 tons.

It is pointed out that if the C.N.R. is considering a cost check-up the results will not be so favorable from Alberta's point of view. The small cars will add somewhat to the haulage cost per ton. Otherwise, the loading is proceeding smoothly.

PICKETS STOP MINERS.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 10.—(Canadian Press).—Fifty men who attempted to go back to work at the Pen mine here Thursday were eventually persuaded by pickets from entering the mine and returned to their homes. No disturbance was caused and the picketing was entirely of a peaceful nature.

Officials of the mine state that the men were to go to work at the old rate in order to get coal out for the Ontario shipment and local demands, but they turned at the last minute. No cut in the rate has been demanded by officials of the Penn mine, who were prepared to pay the rate previously in operation prior to the strike, but the miners themselves struck in sympathy with the men in other mines, who were being asked to take a reduction.

DRIPPING WATER LEADS TO COURT

Complainant Told He Followed Wrong Trail—Neighbors Quarrel.

Friction between two neighbors regarding the dripping of water from the roof, led to their appearance in court this morning, when one charged the other before Magistrate O. A. Langley, with damaging maliciously an eavetrough. W. F. Huycke appeared for the prosecutor, and G. N. Gordon represented the defendant.

By agreement of both counsel, a statement of fact was handed to His Worship, and was accepted as evidence. Some amusement was caused in court by the failure of the disputing parties to repress their animosity. Both persisted in making interjections while counsel were arguing the case, until finally Mr. Huycke told his client to refrain from making audible comments.

His Worship dismissed the case, telling the complainant he had really come to the wrong court, as the civil court was the proper place for the settling of such cases.

SHOTGUN FIRED BY BOY CAUSED SEVERE WOUNDS

Zetta Chambers Shot in Head By Charge From Muzzle Loading Shotgun.

Boy Didn't Understand Gun and Tried to Open Breech.

A sad accident occurred yesterday afternoon about 5.30, when Zetta Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, 270 Reid Street, was shot in the head at the home of her uncle, Stephen Thorn, in Otonabee Township, near Wallace's Point. The girl's brother, Max, picked up an old muzzle loading shot gun in the drive shed and started to examine it. Not being familiar with the machanism, he tried to open the breech, and discharged the gun. The gun was used for killing crows, and was loaded with fine stones instead of shot, and the charge struck Miss Chambers on the right side of the head. She was rushed to Nicholls' Hospital, in Comstocks' ambulance, and was attended by Drs. Ray Scott, Moir and Mann.

At the hospital it was found necessary to remove the right eye, and it is feared that one of the pellets may be in her brain. Today, her condition was critical and she had not recovered consciousness, but hope for her recovery was held out by Dr. Scott.

Miss Chambers had been working in Toronto for some time, and was home on her vacation. With her mother and brother she was spending the afternoon at the Thorn farm when the accident occurred.

ICE CREAM CONTEST PROVES INTERESTING

Joplings' Butchers Beat Cooney and Jopling 15-14 and Lose Right to Treat.

Every week the residents of Chemong Park and Bridgenorth look forward to an evening of pleasant recreation, which is obtained by watching the life and death struggle between Jopling's butchers and the carters of the firm of Cooney and Jopling. Last night was no exception to the rule, and the game, which went the full nine innings, was not decided until the last man was out, when the score stood at 15-14 for the butchers.

Carters can chalk up their loss to the absence of their star centre fielder, Jim Jopling, who pulls down everyt[illegible] that comes along. Archie Barbeau thought he was catching pianos, and found the ball too small to hold, dropping several easy flies. Telford, for the Butchers, showed that, proficient as he is with the meat saw, he is absolutely helpless on a baseball field, using the tools of that game.

Neither team had a pitcher. Nickrenz and Robinson started to throw for the rival teams. Nickrenz, the Butchers' choice, was derricked first, retiring in the fifth in favor of Ross. Robinson, for the other team, lasted until the ninth, when he, too, was yanked.

The losers had the pleasure of paying for five gallons of ice cream, which was distributed among the spectators, who numbered about two hundred.

STIRLING WATERWORKS PROVES ADEQUACY FOR FIRE PROTECTION

Reservoir Formed By Damming Creek — Stream Thrown Over Highest Building.

CHURCH PICNIC.

STIRLING, July 10. — The waterworks system which the council have installed was tested on Monday for fire protection. It proved very satisfactory. The water was thrown over the highest buildings on Front street. Those who have arranged to use the water to sprinkle lawns and gardens, are greatly pleased.

It is meant to be a self-sustaining branch of the corporation's business, and if it proves as profitable as the Electric Department the councillors need not regret having made the venture.

The Orangemen held their annual service in the United Church last Sunday afternoon. Rev. C. W. Barrett was the preacher, a large attendance being present.

Some of our residents have moved to Oak Lake for the summer. There is quite a colony of Stirlingites up there now, and others are building cottages. Mr. Walter Wright, and Mr. Thomas Selmes are each building one near the north west side of the lake. Mr. John McGowan is completing his on the north side also.

St. Andrew's Picnic.

A large crowd, nearly 200, enjoyed an outing at the lake on Wednesday. It was the annual picnic of St. Andrew's West Huntingdon Presbyterian Church, and anyone present could say that all the Presbyterians were not dead, or gone over to the United church. The best of good humour prevailed and a long list of sports was carried through, after a bountiful supply of good things has been partaken of by a hungry crowd. Mr. John Morton had charge of the programme of sports which had been arranged by Mrs. Harper Rollins. It consisted in contests for young and older ones and caused a great deal of merriment for all present.

TITLED BEAUTY CHOSE DEATH

lived near the Baroness in Java where Walen is engaged in coffee growing.

Mrs. Walen, who had occupied, with the Baroness, the five-room suite on the second guest floor, where the tragedy took place, at 2.30 Wednesday morning, was well at sea before doctors had completed their examination of the broken body in the peach-colored evening frock.

Banker Intercedes.

She was permitted to leave after intercession by Sir Victor. The wealthy British banker, explaining his prominent position in England, obtained Mrs. Walen's freedom from custody on the promise that she would be available to American consulters abroad if the local officials at any time desired to question her.

Longed to Stay.

According to intimates of the Baroness, who arrived in New York with Sir Victor and Mrs. Walen two weeks ago, the trip to this country had been made to see for the last time a man with whom she had fallen in love but who did not return her affections.

She failed.

A farewell party was given. Covers were laid for eight.

According to some members of the party, the Baroness stated that she was uncertain whether she would sail with her two companions on the Berengaria.

She announced that her luggage had not been sent to the boat. According to one member of the party, a long cable, costing $26, had been sent by her to her husband early on Tuesday morning in which she protested against a return to the tropics.

At the dinner party, in addition to Sir Victor Sassoon and Mrs. Walen, the Baroness had as her guests Mrs. Harry Dornblasser, her sister, James M. Thompson who lost his suit for the hand of Millicent Rogers, and Lester Cowley, of No. 188 West Seventy-Fifth Street.

The Baroness drank heavily, attempting to achieve gaiety. Finally she succeeded. Near the table, but not members of the dinner party, she recognized a friend, Louis Rothschild, vice-president of the Chelsea Exchange Bank, and a man companion.

Rothschild recalled:

"The Baroness was gay. I bowed to her and later cut in for a dance when she came around the floor on the arm of Sir Victor Sassoon.

"We danced, and at the conclusion she laughed and said 'Good-bye. I'll see you in Biarritz.'

"Then she went upstairs. I returned to my room and hours later I was awakened by Thompson 'phoning to me. He cried, 'Helen's fallen out of the window.'

"I rushed down and did what I could. I 'phoned the mother of the Baroness, whom I know, and did my best to break the news to her and then called the Baroness's sister in Philadelphia.

"It was a tragic, horrible affair.

"I met the Baroness when she was over here last year.

"She has been coming to America every year to escape the terrific climate of Java.

"She was married, I understand, twelve years ago."

What happened after the dinner party will probably remain a mystery, even to the surviving members of the smaller party which later adjourned to the suite of the Baroness.

Several empty whiskey bottles found in the room offered mute excuses for blurred memories.

What is clear is this:

The Baroness, Mrs. Walen, Thompson and Cowley went to the suite on the second floor. Sassoon went to his room near-by on the same floor and retired.

There was drinking and then, in some unknown manner, the Baroness disappeared out the window. Thompson and Cowley both swore that they heard no scream. They agreed:

"The Baroness stood up. She walked to the window. She raised it. When we looked for her she was gone."

The hotel management, Sir Philip Sassoon and Rothschild were aroused by the frantic trio.

Despite the tragedy, there was no cancellation of passage by Sir Victor and Mrs. Walen for their sailing, scheduled then for a few hours.

Sir Victor Sassoon is the son of the late Sir Edward Elias Sassoon, Bart., founder of the great Indian banking house of Sassoon & Company. His cousin, Sir Philip Sassoon, was former private secretary to Lloyd George and is reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the world.

ONLY ONE ISSUE

Bryan has the vision of a scientific minority deriding the word of God and breaking down the morality of our children. The leaders in Scopes' defence feel that evolution has nothing to do with religion, that it does not necessarily weaken religious belief, and that the minority which believes in evolution and which would fight the conventionalizing of education may successfully invoke the protection of the Constitution. That is what the Constitution is for, they say, the protection of the smaller and weaker groups of our national life.

Power in this country comes from the people, Bryan declared, and if the majority of the people believe that evolution breaks down religious faith, and threatens Christianity, they have the right to demand that it be suppressed or at least confined to the little group of research men who may study it as a theory, not yet proven. The only morality comes from the Bible, said Mr. Bryan, all our institutions and our social life is founded on an implicit belief in it, and without that belief there is no ground on which moral teaching may be founded.

The people of Dayton almost to a man look upon Mr. Bryan as their champion against the hosts of evil. They listened to his address with rapt attention and pronounced it an unanswerable argument. The town is stirring to-day with excitement of coming events, for the trial is only one day off. Celebrities are beginning to flock into the city and every spare bit of street front on the way to the Court House is being crowded with soda and hot dog stands. At one of them an old-fashioned bar, resurrected from some forgotten scene of former conviviality, was being installed, and one man aroused the amusement of the crowd by stopping before it and removing his hat.

The windows are covered with signs that reflect the atmosphere of the case. "Shall we be taxed to damn our children?" is one of them and reflects the intense feeling which has been aroused by this case. "Hell and the high school," "God or gorilla," are the titles of some of the pamphlets which grace the book stands, and it is an even bet that never before in the history of Dayton has so much promiscuous literature been on display. Whether any one buys it is doubtful.

Townspeople Are Puzzled.

The townspeople, however, seem, at times, a little puzzled as to what it is all about. Nobody paid any attention to the anti-evolution law or the pact that evolution was being taught until Scopes was arrested. He taught several weeks after the law was signed. Not a newspaper in Tennessee printed the passage of the law on the front page, and it was many weeks before any one thought the law was of more than local interest. Now that the flood has descended upon them. Dayton folk feel that something momentous is in the air, and that Mr. Bryan is the champion of God, but that about ends their mental reaction. For the rest they are as excited as the small boy at the circus and Dayton has all the atmosphere of a circus town.

Judge John A. Raulston, who is to preside at the trial, arrived with Mrs. Raulston. They motored from Winchester, their home, and got in just before a violent thunderstorm, which crashed about as the Judge talked.

Judge Raulston is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a few months ago preached at a union revival.

A WELCOME SINGER.

Mrs. Woolgar Was Heartily Encored on Every Appearance.

Mrs. Jene Woolgar, a pupil of R. J. Devey, who recently passed, with honors, the singing examination of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, has been appearing in public lately on several occasions, and has been exceptionally well received.

On June 26, at the Buckhorn concert, she was enthusiastically welcomed, being encored twice, at Emily, on July 2, singing at a concert in aid of the church, she was still more vociferously greeted, being encored each time she sang.

GAME CALLED OFF.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9—Supporters of Junior lacrosse in this town are up in the air over the action of the O.A.L.A. executive in cancelling all games played in the Trent Valley section, Junior series. Secretary Harry Ingram received the following telegram from O.A.L.A. Secretary Harcourt on Wednesday.

Harry Ingram, Campbellford.

All junior games played to date thrown out; new schedule will be drawn; writing.

Havelock are scheduled to play here Friday afternoon but the game will not likely take place now as Havelock decline to fill the engagement, leaving the locals in a very bad predicament as members of the team had sold a number of tickets for the game, as well as having it will advertized by poster.

Unless the O.A.L.A. have sufficient reasons for their action, it is likely the Juniors will hang up their sticks for the season.

Norm Heayns' boys are confident of winning the group on the lacrosse field but prefer to let the other fellow have the committee room championship.

FAREWELL SERMON.

Rev. Mr. Poulter Presented With Purse Before Leaving.

THOMASBURG, July 10. — Rev. A. Poulter preached his last sermon in Thomasburg on Sunday evening. After the sermon, before the last hymn, Mr. and Mrs. Poulter were asked to take the two chairs in front of the pulpit, and Mrs. J. Jones read an address and Miss Margaret Vance presented them with a purse of $25, given by the people of the Thomasburg United church.

Mr. Poulter made a very fitting reply, after which the congregation sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The donations given on Sunday evening for the purpose of fixing the church were very thankfully received.

A large number attended the Oddfellows' memorial service in the United church on Sunday afternoon.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of the people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

INDIANS SOUGHT PROWLING BEAST

Den and Skeletons Found in Woods, But Animal Was Well Hidden.

CHIEF WAS LOST.

OSHKIGMONG, July 10.— Last Sunday afternoon a very inspiring sermon was preached here by the Rev. Mr. Jull, of Lakefield, taking for his text the words, "I Go a Fishing," St. John 21:3. The sermon was very inspiring and greatly enjoyed by the congregation. The Rev. Mr. Jull will continue the regular Sunday services here every afternoon at 2.30.

As some of the women were out picking berries in the woods the other day they came across a den of some wild animal and near the den discovered some skeletons, which appeared to be those of lambs and calves. Upon hearing of the discovery some of the men, armed with shotguns, and headed by the Chief, set out in search of the wild animal, fully expecting to return home with the carcass of the prowler. Each hunter, taking his position, marched off to a different point in the woods, looking cautiously and expecting every moment to see the objective game, but after hunting patiently for some length of time, and failing to secure the prize, they abandoned the search. On returning to the starting place they found their leader, the Chief, was missing. When he failed to make his appearance, the party renewed the search, not for the animal, but for their Chief, who had lost his latitude in the woods. Finally one of the party found him sitting on a log, not knowing whither to go.

Attempt at Burglary.

An attempt was made the other night to burglarize the store and post office here. By cutting the wire screen the culprit managed to reach out to a bunch of bananas and had a good feed of them.

SPLENDID MEETING.

Springville Christian Endeavour Society Visited Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield.

The Springville Christian Endeavor Society was delightfully entertained on Tuesday evening, July 7th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whitfield, of North Monaghan.

The meeting was splendidly attended. After the customary service the young people gathered on the spacious lawn, and all heartily entered into the numerous games that were played until all could easily imagine they were once more "children."

The night was so ideal and the games so exciting that all lingered to enjoy them as long as possible. Finally, however, they were surrendered for the cheerful house, where all were again seated.

Refreshments were then served by the hostess, and as the social evening drew to a close, Mr. Oren Robertson in very suitable words expressed the appreciation of the Endeavour for the good time they had enjoyed and extended to Mr. and Mrs Whitfield, on behalf of the young people of Springville, a hearty vote of thanks.

The meeting was then closed by singing the National Anthem.

The young people soon departed to their homes, where the hours of sleep would be short for those who were planning on a trip to Rochester the following day.

Miss Hazel Whitfield, nurse-in-training at Nicholls Hospital, is spending her holidays at her home in North Monaghan.

MASONIC PICNIC HELD AT KEENE

Thousand People Gather at Splendid First United District Event.

SPORTS PROGRAMME.

MILLBROOK, July 10—About one thousand people attended the first annual Masonic Picnic, under the auspices of Peterborough district, held at Serpent Mound, near Keene, on Thursday afternoon.

The sports' programme, for which a soft ball tournament, and a tug-of-war tournament were listed, began at 2.30 p.m., the committee in charge being D. A. Loomis, C. G. Graham and F. C. Webber. The competitions were open to teams representing all Masonic lodges in the district, the prizes, consisting of handsome shields, being presented by the District Past Masters' Association.

Fortunately the showers which threatened more than once during the afternoon kept off, and fine weather favored the gathering throughout.

Representatives from Campbellford, Warksworth, Norwood, Havelock, Millbrook, Lakefield, Keene, and from three Peterborough lodges, signed their names at the registrar's desk. Worshipful Brother B. Buchanan, of Warkworth, is chairman of the Past Masters' Association for Peterborough District. T. P. Iancaster, of Havelock, was Master of Ceremonies, and the reception committee included H. R. H. Kenner, and R. W. Brethen, of Peterborough.

The Salvation Army band, under the leadership of Bandmaster F. Robinson, added considerably to the enjoyment of the occasion by the programme of music provided.

An unfortunate accident occured about 4.30 p.m. when Dr. D. C. King of Peterborough, who had just arrived, was driving his car up the rather steep incline almost immediately inside the entry gate, in some way stalled the engine and brakes, being apparently defective, failed to function, letting the car back down the bank into the lake. Dr. A. A. Fowler's car, which was unoccupied at the time, was struck, sending it into the water also. Mrs. King jumped as the car was going back, sustaining a severe fall, breaking her leg at the ankle and being otherwise injured. Mrs. A. Smith, the other occupant of the car, escaped with a sprained ankle, some bruises, and the shock inevitable to such an experience. Dr. King was taken out in a rowboat, and over one hundred men, utilizing the rope intended for the tug-of-war, pulled the cars to safety on the bank again.

Mr. Stenson, of Peterborough, drove the injured ladies back to the city for further medical attention, Dr. King accompanying them after giving such first aid as was possible under the circumstances.

The three Masonic lodges of Peterborough usually hold a picnic of their own each year, but decided to merge the gathering in the district outing this season. However, the soft ball competition for the local shield was made a part of the general tournament on Thursday. The first game being between the teams of the Royal Arthur and the Peterborough lodges. The line-up was:

Royal Arthur—Graham p, Carruthers c, M. Hardill 1b, Cummer 2b, Sloane 3b, Batten ss, Fitzgerald cf, W. Hardill rf, Hughes lf.

Peterborough — Green, Jobbitt, Lowe Heckman, McLean, Hamill, Willis, Dobbin.

The umpires were S. Johnson and J. Dunkerley, and the score 7 to 3 in favor of Peterborough lodge.

The winners then played off with Corinthian lodge, the line-up for the latter being:

McKee, Webber, Buchanan, Cameron, Johnston, Wood, Hooper, Hall, Hughes.

Peterborough Lodge again won out with a score of 15 to 1.

In the other draw, Warkworth played Havelock, the latter winning with a score of 8-7, Batten and Armstrong being the umpires. The teams lined up:

Warkworth: B. Thompson p, Davie c, D. Armstrong 1b, D. Thompson 2b, Edgar 3b, Dr. Allen cf, Small ss, L. Phillips lf, Buchanan rf.

Havelock: Wright p, Quinn c, Rose 1b, McKee 2b, Haig 3b, Youll ss, Hagerman lf, McNichol rf, Hitchins cf.

Havelock had Campbellford team as its next opponents, and again won, the score being 9-8. The Campbellford nine were:

Bonnecastle p, Ferguson c, Weston 1b, Adamson 2b, Clarke 3b, Tinney ss, Annsell rf, Osborne ss, Dennyes cf.

Interest ran very high for the final contest between the winners in each section, Havelock and Peterboro playing off immediately after supper. Bonnycastle, of Campbellford, and Johnston, of Peterboro, were umpires, and the score of 13-11 awarded the district shield to Havelock for the current year.

Owing to the lateness of the hour it was impossible to proceed with the tug-of-war tournament, and this event will have to be carried out at a later date. Two shields are offered as trophies in this competition.

A number of races were run off by the 'teen age boys, earlier in the afternoon, cash prizes being given in each case.

The general committee included: F. Roy, R. L. Dobbin, R. H. Turner and W. D. Campbell. The finance committee: S. C. Couper, J. H. Miller, W. D. Campbell. Members of Keene Lodge were responsible for securing the grounds, and making necessary preparations for the event, while F. H. Long, and members of Golden Rule Lodge looked after the refreshment booth, and any incidentals connected therewith.

A brief programme by the Salvation Army band brought a most enjoyable outing to a close. The only drawback to holding such a largely attended event as the district gathering proved to be, at Serpent Mound Park, is apparently the narrow and comparatively little travelled road leading to the grounds. Scores of cars going along this roadway, as was the case on Thursday, and chancing to meet others bound in an opposite direction, found difficulty in passing, as turning-out space is, for quite a stretch of the way, of the narrowest possible margin.

Canada has more than a third of the Empire area.

OLD PICTURE OF PETERBOROUGH SHOWS ONLY STRAGGLING HOUSES

East Side Had 71 Buildings —Now 689 Houses, Besides Stores.

INDICATES PROGRESS.

P. E. Rutherford Has Interesting Picture— Map on View at His Office.

A good idea of the progress made by the city during the past half century is afforded by a picture in the window of P. E. Rutherford's office, giving a bird's eye view of Peterboro as it was in 1875.

The picture shows the east side of the city as a small village, straggling along the bank of the Otonabee, containing in all 71 buildings, including a saw mill and a machine shop. To-day, according to the city assessor's report, in this same section there are 397 houses occupied by owners, 292 occupied by tenants, 19 stores, 9 industrial buildings, 4 churches, 2 hotels, 2 schools, 1 hospital and 1 Government building. On the west side of the river there has also been a considerable development. In 1875 there were in the neighborhood of 1,000 buildings. At present there are considerably over 2,000 houses, 300 stores, 39 factories, 16 churches, 2 hospitals, and 3 Government buildings.

The old picture shows Central Park as being occupied by a drill hall and a school with a cemetery on the place where the Armouries are now located. Intersecting the city is a railway which has long since disappeared, the Cobourg, Peterboro and Marmora Railway.

On the right bank of the Otonabee stand two buildings, the Peterboro Woollen Factory and the Ontario Flour Mills. These plants got their power from a mill race drawn from the river. This mill race is now partly filled in by the railway line that runs into the sidings of the Quaker Oats Company. The picture also shows a sawmill at the river end of London Street. The Collegiate Institute of those days stood on what is now College Street, near Murray Street. Not a single building is shown along the river banks from Simcoe to Murray Streets. The old hotel in Driscoll Terrace, still to be seen, is marked very distinctly in the view. Only one house appears in Smith Street West from Rubidge Street, and the square formed by the intersections of Bethune, McDonnel, Reid and London Streets is taken up entirely by two large mansion houses. Three houses are shown in the square formed by Reid, Edinburgh, Rubidge and Dublin Streets. West of Park Street, the houses diminish in number until Gilmour Street is reached, beyond which the picture shows houses at very rare intervals.

Facing each other on George Street, stand two churches, the old and new Wesleyan Methodist Churches.

Where the Quaker Oats factory now stands a vacant lot is marked on the picture. The same remark applies to the site of the Canadian General. A few dwellings are dotted along the river at the places now occupied by the Peterboro Canoe Company and the Canadian Packing Company. Two names still familiar to Peterboro ears are shown as the Peter Hamilton and the William Hamilton works. No canal is shown in the picture.

It is when one looks over an extended period that the realization comes that the city, in spite of temporary checks, has advanced steadily and surely. The long view is always a good cure for pessimism.

OBITUARY.

MRS. F. C. ROBERTS.

A most impressive funeral service was held in All Saints' Church on Wednesday afternoon, when the last rites of the Church were conducted for Jessie, wife of Frank Roberts.

The body was met at the church door by the rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson, and the full choir. The hymn, "Hush! blessed are the dead," was sung, followed by the Psalm, "Lord, Thou has been our refuge." The choir sang "One sweetly solemn thought," with Miss Edith Tucker taking the solo part.

"It is hard to say what the loss of Mrs. Roberts means," said Mr. Paterson in his address. "She loved the church and the church's work, and in those departments where she labored there were few more faithful. During her long, painful illness she was most considerate of her friends, not wishing to cause anybody trouble. If she could speak now she would say, 'Don't cry, I am well now'."

The works she had intended to perform she had left in the hands of the Heavenly Father. Whose worship occupied a central part in her life. "We read," said Mr. Paterson, "of 'a life hid with God in Christ Jesus,' and the life of Mrs. Roberts was such a life. Her whole life was a benediction."

After singing "Breathe on me, Breath of God," the body was escorted to the church door by the choir, of which Mrs. Roberts had been a most faithful member. Six choristers, Messrs. G. Chandler, J. Raybould, S. Willis, H. Boddy, G. East and R. Hurst, were the pallbearers.

Besides her husband and son, other relatives who were present were Mrs. Garvin and Mrs. Patterson of Barrie. Her mother, Mrs. Garrett, and sister, Hilda, live in Birmingham, England.

FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1925.

THE PUBLIC WILL PAY.

There is one conclusion that can safely be drawn about the threatened strike in the anthracite coal mines, and that is, that if the strike materializes the public will pay.

You, Mr. and Mrs. Peterboro, will contribute your share, and the knowledge of that fact should led to a more persistent agitation on the part of everybody for a genuine attempt to make Ontario independent of fuel supplies from across the line.

The suspicion will not down that both operators and miners will welcome a strike for reasons that are all too plain.

The operators have a fairly large supply of coal on hand at present.

Let the mines close down and this reserve can be sold at prices enhanced by the strike.

Then operators and their employees can get together, decide, as one paper puts it, "how much they can charge the public" and agree on a division of the profits.

That is a summary of the situation that may be unfair to one or other or both of the parties involved in the controversy, but it is accepted by a good many people as an accurate representation of the condition of affairs in the coal industry, and the public expects to have to pay through the nose, as always.

And just as inevitably the people who find it the hardest to pay are the very people who will have to do the paying.

WELL WORTH TRYING.

Ald. Crowe's contention that legislation should be passed by the City Council making it necessary for motorists to bring their machines to a full stop before entering busy streets from side thoroughfares, is undoubtedly along the right line.

Certainly a regulation of this kind, if only applied to cars entering George street and Charlotte street, would be a notable contribution to making motoring in the city safer than it is at present.

The city of Hamilton has had such a bylaw in force for some years, and it has given every satisfaction. Some motorists resented it at first, but a trial of the system soon convinced them that it was an effective way of avoiding accidents.

It may be argued that regulations of that kind, while necessary in larger centres, are not needed here, it must be remembered that not only are there several thousand cars in Peterboro and its immediate vicinity, but that this city, as the gateway to the Kawartha Lakes, is full of visiting automobiles during the season.

At corners such as McDonnel and George streets a rule requiring drivers coming on to George street to stop would prevent many of the collisions for which these points have been noted.

The system might well be tried out as applied to the two streets named which carry the bulk of the motor traffic.

THE CROSS INCIDENT.

Whether the burning of a large cross in the grounds of Queen Mary School the other night was a prank of practical jokers or had a deeper significance, it was, as the Examiner sees it, the work of individuals whose judgment is not to be commended.

The mentality of people who would endanger such a valuable piece of property as this fine school, whether to carry out a joke or to make a demonstration in accordance with the mysterious rites of a secret society, is not of the highest.

If there are citizens in Peterboro who feel that they must burn fiery crosses then in the name of common sense let them confine their fireworks to some point where there is no danger of setting fire to public or private property.

The incident would not be important enough to be mentioned were it not for the fact that the thoughtless action of the parties responsible might quite easily have cost Peterboro one of its most modern public schools.

That is the feature of the thing that strikes the Examiner as being the real crux of the cross episode.

Otherwise it could be dismissed as being of little moment or significance.

The police and the Fire Department should let it be understood that so far as they are concerned the burning of fiery crosses is a summer pastime that will have to be confined to safe areas.

A new school is too high a price to pay for recreation of this nature.

ONE BODY OF VETERANS.

The prospects that Earl Haig's visit to Canada will be followed by a genuine union of Canada's war veterans, replacing the present unsatisfactory situation which finds a half dozen or more organizations in the field, should be welcomed by all friends of Canada's ex-service men.

There are in Peterboro, as doubtless in every part of Canada, many veterans who have never allied themselves with any of the existing organizations or have allowed their membership to lapse.

Various reasons can be assigned for their attitude, but, undoubtedly, a very important one has been the feeling that with so many combinations of veterans all attempting to function at once the public would lose interest and the cause of the men who fought could not be materially benefitted.

The G.W.V.A. has done splendid work for the veterans, but the formation of other organizations undoubtedly took away many of its members and left others indifferent, so that by itself the Great War Veterans' Association could not hope to accomplish what it set out to do on its inception.

But the combination of all the present organizations into one body of veterans, attaching to itself the thousands who have hitherto held aloof or had deserted the other veteran movements, will undoubtedly have a strong appeal for the former members of the C.E.F., and should be capable of great service, not only for the cause of the veterans, but for the country generally.

"TWILIGHT ZONE" AMUSEMENTS.

The invention of a "twilight zone" for amusements was a clever way out that the Christian Endeavor Society in convention found for a debatable problem, says the Ottawa Journal. Certain amusements are easily classified as wholesome or bad, but when one comes to "dancing, cards, movies, the theatre, Sunday amusements, and reading" there is difficulty. It is illustrated by the item of reading. Originally this was placed by the Endeavorers in the wholesome class, but removed therefrom when somebody suggested that not all the books and magazines coming from the presses were wholesome. So reading was put into the "twilight zone," that is to say, in a class where discretion must be shown.

The Journal has never sympathized with the wholesale condemnation of dancing that some of our friends have evinced. Dance halls conducted in such a manner as that one in Boston which was the scene of a dreadful holocaust in the early morning hours of July 4—dancing mixed up with drinking and generally loose conduct—are a curse and no self-respecting girl or boy should be found in them. But dancing itself is a healthy and pleasant pastime and there are even many public halls in which it can be enjoyed without loss of respect or morals. The playing of cards can be wholesome or otherwise, and the same with the theatre and the movies.

It seems to the Journal far better to place these things in a "twilight zone" for all of us, young and old—amusements that can neither be approved nor disapproved in bulk, but that should be indulged in with discretion.

A hard and fast ban on these amusements is likely to defeat its own end.

BASED ON FACTS.

At a recent meeting of the Brantford City Council a report was received from the Relief Commission that the employment situation in that city had so improved that the services of the commission were no longer required, and should therefore be dispensed with.

The only possible interpretation of such a recommendation is that Canada's basic manufacturing industry—agricultural implements—is rapidly responding to the generally improved conditions throughout the country.

The manufacturers at Brantford are not turning out implements without any prospect of selling them. They are getting under production because there is a market for their product—there is money in sight to pay for the goods they make.

In Saskatchewan for the half-year ending June 30 bankruptcy proceedings were less than half those registered during the first six months of 1924.

In the whole of northern Saskatchewan not one business failure was recorded during the month of June. This statement is made by J. C. Bell, clerk of bankruptcy district No. 2, comprising the districts of Kindersley, Kerrobert, Wilkie, Battleford, Prince Albert, Delft, Humboldt, Wynward and Saskatoon. June is not considered a particularly good business month in the West, because it is some distance removed from the time when farmers get their grain money, yet this year there was not one concern in that great northern Saskatchewan district that had to close its doors during June. It is not exaggeration but plain fact that such a record indicates a healthy condition in business. There must be money in circulation, and buying and selling is being carried on on a larger scale.

The wheat crop in Western Canada gives promise of being the best in ten years. The Canadian Pacific Railway has a very reliable system for forming its opinions, and that is its report. Warm weather and abundant moisture have provided ideal growing conditions.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics presents the following figures of the three Prairie Provinces, comparing crop fields for 1924 and prospects for 1925:

	1924.	1925.
Manitoba	92%	102%
Saskatchewan	96%	100%
Alberta	96%	107%

That means a restoration of the buying power of Western Canada. During the last two seasons farm obligations have been decreased; loans have been met, and this year the proceeds will belong in a greater degree to the farmer. There are factories in Ontario with wide western connections, and they know what this means. There is a market out there for their produce; there are buyers who want their goods, but who have not had the money to pay for them. This year, with a good crop, with wheat pools in operation to secure the best price for the grower, and with a price that is certain to provide a profit, this condition is going to change, and it means that Ontario factories will get business.

Right in our own district conditions have materially improved in the last month. Early in June there was excessive heat, dry winds and lack of rain. Growth was stunted, pastures brown, and prospects were not bright. In recent weeks there has been rain, cooler weather and a wonderful recovery all around.

These are only a few of the evidences that are before us today. We have not included anything that is speculative or suppositious, because no good purpose can be served by trying to create false optimism, but when plain, substantial evidence of better times is before us, why not have a good look at it?—London Advertiser.

ELUSIVE VITAMIN TOPIC OF ADDRESS

Osteopaths Discuss Changes in the Manufacture of Food Products.

TORONTO, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—"Scientists have often thought they had their fingers on a vitamin, but it has proved more elusive than the Irishman's flea, and today there is not known to be a single vitamin in captivity," declared Dr. W. C. Dawes of Bozeman, Mont., in an address before the American Osteopathic Association, here this morning. "But it is a fact accepted by all scientists that heat kills vitamins."

Dr. Dawes was arguing for the use of uncooked foods and pointed out many disadvantages growing out of modern methods of food preparation. "The osteopathic physician has contributed largely in the matter of the care of patients following operation and injury," said Dr. W. Curtis Brigham of Los Angeles.

"The food manufacturing processes of today are at the root of mos tof the ills of childhood," said Dr. Earl J. Drinkall addressing the section on diseases of children. "Mothers are not giving proper attention to the changes that are being made by the manufacturer in the preparation of food product compared to twenty-five or fifty years ago."

A THOUGHT.

HOW TO DO IT.

Tackle a task this way: First, weigh carefully that it will be necessplan for doing it.

Second, create a method or a plan for doin it.

Then, with a singleness of purpose and a stubborn will, stick to the job until you get it done.

This is the philisophy of action and the practice of achievement.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HE WANTS TO KNOW.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

Please answer the following questions:

1. What is the meaning of "Honoris causa"?
2. What is a cryptogram?
3. Who wrote "The Gold Bug"?

J. JARDINE.

Answer:

1. Honoris causa: as an honorary distinction; for the sake of the honor; in order to confer honor. Used in connection with honorary degrees, knighthoods, etc.

2. A cryptogram is a secret writing, one in which each letter has a different symbol from the key to which the original writing may be decided.

3. Edgar Allan Poe wrote "The Gold Bug."

THINKS MR. BURNHAM WRONG.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

Mr. Burnham in your edition of last night declares that perfection is not humanly possible, referring particularly to the impossibility of stamping out the liquor traffic. The many letters written by Mr. Burnham, who is a most prolific writer on all subjects, would lead one to suppose that he is fairly well acquainted with his Bible. He often appeals to it for inspiration, and even on occasion to express a thought that he evidently could not adequately voice in his own vocabulary. But this letter of his shows a sad lack. He has never read, presumably, the exhortation "Be ye also perfect."

Mr. Burnham, I am sure, would be the last person to ascribe the desire to the Divine Being of imposing on mankind a demand impossible of fulfilment. And, considering also his long and successful career in legal practice, in politics, and in other fields, he would never suggest that we should be satisfied with our present status. He would urge the need for seeking better things. And, taking into account his wide knowledge of things historical and literary, Mr. Burnham would not suggest that the world has attained its present development by standing still.

Whether he would admit that the very striving after higher and better things, physical, material or moral, is in itself a benefit, I do not know.

Even if prohibition has failed in United States, so far, I believe that the effort to achieve freedom from enslavement has made bigger and better the people who struggled. And it is doing the same in Canada.

O. HENRY

CARELESS PICNICKERS.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

Why confine the condemnation of careless picknickers to Chemong Park? Is that the only picnic ground where campers leave rubbish strewn on the ground, filthy reminder of their orgy?

When I arrived at my favorite camping ground at Hiawatha recently I found banana skins, crusts of bread, remains of sandwiches, scraps of paper, and samples of all concomitants of a picnic lunch, scattered on the grass and beach.

Probably the offenders did not mean to return to that site again, but I doubt whether, even if they had intended to return, it would have made any difference—to that class of people.

We have no control over them, and no remedy except to appeal to their sense of decency and fitness.

C. L.

SLOW LIMIT, TOO.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear sir:

I want to suggest that in addition to the speed limit law that forbids a motorist going over a certain rate there should also be a limit downward. Probably there is nothing contributes more to accidents than the slowness with which some people drive along the street. They have not enough momentum to take them quickly out of any danger that arises, and are therefore a menace to other motorists and to pedestrians.

I think this is a question that is worthy careful consideration, in the interests of public safety. If a minimum speed law were in force then there would be no rushing to pass the man ahead, because all would be travelling at the same rate.

STICKS UP FOR WOMEN.

The Editor of The Examiner:
Dear Sir:

As one who thinks in accordance with Bible truths I cannot allow the suggestion by Professor Low, to which you gave prominence yesterday, to go unchallenged. It is treason to our code of morals to say that women will realize that "one wife will never make a contented husband." And it is treason too to our mentality. It introduces the old double standard, away from which our people were becoming educated. Professor Low does not also say that "one husband will never make a contented wife". Dear me, no! That would be stepping on the prerogative of the lordly male.

The sanctity of marriage has been brought too near the mire of late years, with a consequent retrograde movement in our civilization. It is just such irresponsible old muddlers as this "Professor" who are to blame. He has doubtless certain well defined authority in his field as a member of the Royal Geographical Society, but is out of his depth when he enters the lists in defense of the Turkish harem.

In other of his prognistications, he is indulging in the rankest guessing, such as any schoolboy in his summer day dreams.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices here showed a general downward tendency today owing largely to unexpected weakness of quotations at Liverpool and because selling to prepare for the United States Government crop report due this afternoon. The government forecast regarding the 1925 yield of wheat turned out to be considerably larger than unofficial estimates had called for. Chicago closing prices on wheat were easy, 1-2 to 1 1-8c net lower; September 1.44 1-2 to 1.44 3-4 and December 1.46 to 1.46 1-8, with corn 1 1-8 to 3 1-8c down, oats 1-2 to 1 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 12c decline to advance of 2c.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 9—With four or five hundred left over stale cattle still in the market, trade opened slow and draggy this morning Considering the unusual heavy run and overloaded condition of the market the early part of the week the largest offering of the season has been fairly well disposed of Prices are a little lower all round, especially for rough and half finished grass cattle. A few export cattle were still being taken care of for next week's shipments to seaboard. Rogers and Maybee have this week taken off this market about 1,000 cattle, their total shipment for the week being about 1,800 cattle, including billed-through cattle. About the same number will be required for next week. Fat export steers are today quoted from $7.50 to $8.25 and store cattle from $6.75 to $7.25.

Good to choice butcher steers and heifers, $6.75 to $7.50 and stale rough stuff down to $5,25 and $6.

Calves a little easier at $10 tops.

Sheep and lambs steady at yesterday's decline to $14 and $14.50 tops.

Hogs steady at $13 f.o.b., but prospects said to be lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 9 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for grain here continues quiet, but there was some demand from New York houses for Canadian Western oats, and sales of No. 3 were made at 8 1-2c over the Winnipeg July option. They were also bidding 3 3-4c per bushel under the July option for No. 4 wheat. The Liverpool future market for wheat closed weaker.

Prices for car lots oats on spot were reduced another cent a bushel in sympathy with weakness on the Winnipeg market. The demand was limited from local and country buyers.

Eggs Advance.

There was a stronger feeling in the local egg market today and prices scored a further advance of 1c to 2c per dozen which was attributed to the unusually small supplies coming forward. Demand showed no improvement on account of the warm weather prevailing and the bulk of the sales were in small lots to meet immediate requirements. Sales of specials were made at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 941 cases, as against 1,822 for the same day last week, and 2,344 for the corresponding day a year ago.

A fair volume of business continues to be done in a wholesale jobbing way in cod storage dressed poultry, there being a steady demand for supplies of which the offerings were ample and prices show no change with sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys at 40c to 43c per lb, 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32c to 39c per lb, milk-fed chickens at 35c to 40c per lb., selected chickens at 32c to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18c to 28c per lb., selected ducks at 24c to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18c to 22c per lb.

Butter Price Easier.

Spot butter prices were reduced 1-2c to 3-4c per lb., which was attributed to the falling off in the demand from English importers and the weaker cable advices received. The domestic demand was also of a very limited character, and the volume of business accomplished was small with Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 37c per lb., Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 36 1-2c to 36 3-4c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 35 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 34 3-4c per lb.

The receipts of cheese were 8,294 boxes as compared with 7,702 for the same day last week, and 7,764 for the corresponding day a year ago. Owing to the continued lull in the demand for foreign buyers for supplies and the lower prices bid further weakness featured the local situation yesterday and prices declined 3-8c to 5-8c per lb., with Western No. 1 white and colored offering at 21 1-4c to 21 1-2c per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored offering at 21 1-4c to 21 1-2c per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21c to 21 1-4c per lb. It was reported that sales of some small lots of Western goods were made over the cable at 104s. per cwt.

MAN IS EFFICIENT BOTH SIDES OF 40

Debated Subject Results in Tie—Contenders Go To Orono Friday.

MILLBROOK, July 10.—The Young People's League was well attended on Tuesday evening, the chief feature of the programme being the last of the series of debates, carried on through the past few months in connection with the Conference competition for the Whattam Cup.

The subject was "Resolved that a man is more efficient before reaching forty yeare of age than afterwards." Margaret Howard, and W. Sayles presented a good case for the negative while Marjorie Sayles and Jas. Larmer ably upheld the affirmative.

The judges were Misses C. and M. Luxon and Hattie Barnard, and the result of their decision was that each side had done equally well in the arguments presented, a tie score being recorded.

Special interest was attached to the debate from the fact the subject is the one upon which the district winners are to compete, the winners in each local League being paired with those nearest them in point of residence. Millbrook is listed for Orono on Friday evening of this week, Miss M. Sayles and J. Larmer representing the local organization on that occasion. A number of the members from the home League will probably motor over and encourage the two who are upholding the honor of the local society in the competition.

The final decision for the Cup will not be reached until the winners in each district have debated, the committee, which represents the Bay of Quinte Conference, choosing the subject each time. By a process of elimination the League winning out against all others in the Conference will be decided upon, and will have the honor of hilding the coveted trophy for one year.

LONDON, July 9 (United Press)—The interested powers have been verbally informed that President Coolidge hopes a conference on extra territoriality in China will be held ultimately when the present Chinese situation is settled, the Daily Telegraph said today, it had learned. The paper adds that there is no talk of holding the conference immediately.

The verbal information was conveyed through American diplomatic channels, the paper said.

C.P.R. MAY BUILD LINE TO ROUYN

Beatty Uncommunicative on Rumor of Nipissing Central Extension.

MONTREAL, July 10 — E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, neither denied nor conceded the accuracy of a report current in Montreal yesterday to the effect that the Canadian Pacific was about to extend its in Ontario, from its present ter- Nipissing Central Subsbidiary Line minus at Anglier to the Rouyn district in Northern Quebec.

"There is no statement to make," was the word emanating from the Railway Executive.

The report implied that, where the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario had failed in its proposal to construct such an extension from its Ontario terminus, owing to opposition on the part of Premier Taschereau of Quebec, the Canadian Pacific had been able to procure more effective recognition, and, further, that the extension would be subsidized and would enable the T. and N. O., to operate its trains on a leased-line basis.

BIG EXHIBIT BY CANADA AT NEW ZEALAND'S FAIR

Products of Dominion's Resources and Industries Will Be Shown to Advantage.

CENTRAL LOCATION.

Exhibition at Dunedin From November 1st to April 30 Next.

OTTAWA, July 10.—Canada's participation in the New Zealand and South Seas exhibition which is to be held at Dunedin, New Zealand, on November 1, 1925, to April 30, 1926, will show to advantage the productions of this country's resources and industries. The Canadian Government Exhibition Commission has contracted to take 24,800 square feet of space in the best location on the Exhibition grounds, and will erect a very representative exhibit showing the natural resources and products of the Dominion and the attractiveness of this country as a lace for tourists.

Plans for the design and lay - out of the Canadian exhibit have been prepared and will be carried out by J. O. Turcotte, architect of the Canadian Exhibition Commission, who will leave Ottawa for New Zealand about the end of the month. He is now returning from the British Empire Exhibition, where he supervised the erection of the Canadian Pavilion and the elaborate designs and displays connected with the different exhibits in the pavilion.

Canada stands to derive considerable benefit from taking part in this exhibition. When the International Exhibition was held at Christ Church, New Zealand, in 1907 Canada took a prominent part and as a result trade with New Zealand was rapidly developed and a tariff was negotiated with the New Zealand Government which granted preferential rates on certain Canadian goods. This tariff was negotiated in 1908 and has been in force ever since. Last year the exports of Canadian goods to New Zealand totalled $12,735,620. Imports from New Zealand were $2,-181,028.

Accommodation will be available in the Canadian exhibit for between 80 and 90 Canadian manufacturers. As the space is strictly limited interested persons or firms are advised to make their application at once to the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission at Ottawa.

After his arrival, the Earl was taken to Carcee Camp, as luncheon guest of the officers of Lord Strathcona's Horse, the regiment affiliated with Earl Haig's old unit, the 17th Lancers. Later he visited the Kiwanis Club. Countess Haig and other ladies of the party were entertained at luncheon by the I.O.D.E. and Women's Canadian Club.

Serious Accident at Baltimore

A little daughter of Mr. John A. Smith, Baltimore, met with a serious accident that may necessitate the loss of a finger. Haying was in progress and the men were busy unloading at the barn with a hay fork. The young girl took hold of a frayed piece of rope that was attached to the rope on the fork, with the result that her hand was drawn into the pulley and seriously lacerated and burned; before she was freed; the rope cutting into her hand cruelly.

A Narrow Escape

Although he received an unpleasant wound and is still suffering from the unusual episode through which he passed, Mr. K. K. McCallum, the manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, might have been more seriously hurt. On Tuesday afternoon shortly after the bank closed, a large mass of plaster ,several feet in diameter, which had become loosened in the Bank of Nova Scotia building, crashed to the floor. The manager and staff were all in the bank, but Mr. McCaillum happened to be the only one close to where the plaster fell. He was struck on the head by the plaster, splitting his scalp open while some of the plaster embedded itself in the top of his head. This was removed by his physician and the wound dressed. The next day Mr. McCallum was back at his post as usual Ithough still feeling shaken by the injury and his experiences.

COUNTY PRIZE TO MARGARET TANNER

Lakefield Girl Was Just One Year in Fourth Book.

LAKEFIELD, July 10.—The Entrance Examinations, which proved to be a Waterloo to many pupils, was not so to the Lakefield School. The principal, Miss Duff recommended sixteen pupils and fourteen passed, and one pupil, Margaret Tanner, "brought home the bacon" in the shape of the County Prize. This honor is more remarkable because Margaret was just the year in the Fourth Book, as were four others who passed the examination, three of the five taking honors, viz., Margaret Tanner, Zetta Nixon and Emerson Kemp.

The following is the pass list of Lakefield pupils: Beatrice Charlton, Edna Howard, Beatrice Junkin, Emerson Kemp (honors), Alice Nicholls, Zetta Nixon (honors), Clarence Northey, Marion Pearson, Margaret Richardson, Margaret Reid, Harry Sherin, Margaret Tanner (honors), Grace Watson, Jean Webster.

Miss Duff is receiving congratulations on the splendid standing of her class, which has kept up the record of the previous classes and once more brought to Lakefield the County Prize, a much coveted honor and one which has been won by Lakefield pupils many times.

NOT RESIGNING.

Hon. W. B. Motherwell Says He's Too Young.

REGINA, Sask., July 10 — "I'm too young to retire yet from active politics no matter how honorable the position might be," said Hon. W. R. Motherwell yesterday when his attention was drawn to Ottawa despatches forecasting his resignation. He added that as a politician he was in the hands of his friends, generaly speaking, and that they might do almost anything with him He said he liked political life too well to end it just now. This is not the time to desert the west, he asserted.

TOWNSHIP MUST COLLECT HYDRO BILLS IN TAXES

Seymour Farmers Who Cancelled Contracts For Power Must Pay in Full.

HYDRO SECURED.

Accounts Referred to Township Council For Collection in 1925 Taxes.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10. — When the Hydro Commission abolished the flat rate and installed meters in the premises of their consumers in the Menie and Hoard districts, a change which went into effect last fall, after due notice had been given, the monthly bills of some of the patrons showed an increase, while with others the cost was less. Some of the farmers discontinued the service, and with the wires disconnected, thought that was the end of it.

The Hydro Commission is not worrying over the prospect of a loss of revenue, being secured by a contract made with the Seymour Council last December. By this agreement the township must guarantee that every farmer getting electricity owns the premises on which the service is installed. As the contracts with the farmers run for 30 years, these contracts are equivalent to mortgages on the property for that length of time.

One of the farmers who discontinued the service owed the Hydro $61.14, and the bill against another was $30.66. Three accounts have been turned over to the township for collection, and have been added to the 1925 tax bills of the farmers. This is a situation that is new to the Hydro patrons in the districts referred to. It shows that the Hydro cannot possibly lose anything as it has a lien on the land during the life of the contracts.

OVERTHROW BRITAIN

Zinovieff is quoted as follows in the Moscow Investia: "Foreign imperialists think the present events in China are an unprecedented storm, but we inform them it is merely a light breeze to the real storm that is coming. I promise our generation will witness a real storm and the day is not far distant when we shall hear of hundreds of millions of Chinese, Indians and Egyptians joining hands to overthrow British oppression."

PRISONER SMILES AT MURDER TRIAL

Charged With Slaying Old Winnipeg Man in 1922.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 10— John Stanton, recently brought to Canaad from an Indiana prison, was yesterday committed for trial on a charge of murder arising out of the death of 70-year-old John Penny, who was brutaly beaten and robbed in his home in the west end of Winnipeg on December 19, 1922.

With a whimsical smile ever present, Stanton heard former associates relate the history of the crime and the alleged manner in which he beat the old man to death with a claw hammer.

"Happy" Horton, now serving a penitentiary sentence for several major offenses, and chief witness at the inquest, was accused of the crime in a statement purported to have been signed by Stanton, which was read to the court. Horton had aroused him from his slumbers and asked him to go with him upstairs, according to his statement. There he saw the old man tied by the hands and feet and blood spattered all over the room. Horton, he claimed, picked up the body and threw it across the room. Both had then rifled the drawers of a bureau and departed. In another statement, Stanton denied he ever been in the house on the night of the murder.

When signing the first statement, detectives testified, Stanton had remarked, "I guess I am signing my life away."

PREFERENCE IS ONLY SOLUTION

Will Solve Economic Problems of Empire, Says Premier Ferguson.

TRADE IN EMPIRE.

PARIS, July 9. — (Canadian Press.)—As a result of his visit to England and his many quiet interviews with leading men there, Premier Ferguson of Ontario, reiterated his belief here yesterday that the solution of the economic problems of Canada and the Empire depended upon a frank preference within the Empire. Answering the charge that such a solution would build up the Dominions at the expense of England, Premier Ferguson repeated that Canadians could see no difference between the water separating the Dominion and the Motherland and the water separating London and Manchester.

"We cannot be in it if not of it," he declared.

"Germany, he continued, "was buying ore in Newfoundland and dumping the manufactured product into Britain, while Britain was buying the same kind of ore from Spain. "Why not buy and sell more with the Empire?" he asked.

PRESENTATION TO REV. G. E. ROSS

Janetville Congregation Gave Pastor a Purse of Money.

ADDRESS READ.

The United Church of Janetville was filled to its utmost capacity on Tuesday evening, when the Rev. G. Ross, pastor, was taken completely by surprise and presented with a purse containing a neat sum of money. Mr. John Bradburn made a very pleasing chairman, who called upon many to make speeches, and each paid a loving tribute in words of the highest esteem of Mr. and Mrs. Ross. To Rev. Mr. Ross:

On this the last eve of your residence at Janetville, we, the members of the congregation of this church, wish to express our appreciation of your services.

Your influence has always been on the side of right and your soul inspiring message from Sabbath to Sabbath will be recorded in heaven. We ask you to accept this purse of money, knowing that good goods are always done up in small parcels, desiring to make clear that our very best and loyalty is at the heart of this gift.

We pray that God may bless you in your new field of labor, and trust that memory will sometimes revert to old friends at Janetville.

Signed in behalf of the congregation

JOHN BRADBURN,
LAWRENCE WRIGHT.

The address was read by John Bradburn, and the presentation of a well filled purse was made by Lawrence Wright.

Mr. Ross was completely surprised, but accepted the token of esteem and respect graciously. Rev. and Mrs. Ross leave on Wednesday for their new field of labor, Bath, in the Picton district, leaving behind them a host of loyal friends who will always remember them for their faithfulness and little deeds of kindness to others.

After the address was read to Mr. Ross, the congregation sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," after which Mr. and Mrs. Ross sang a duet entitled "In the Garden."

The unique and touching meeting closed by the whole assembly singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again".

Mrs. Ross Remembered.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church, Janetville, was held in the Sunday School room where the members turned out in great numbers, also visitors. Mrs. Blatherwick, 1st vice-president, presided in an able manner. Following the devotional exercises a discussion took place regarding the annual quilting. A report of the annual branch convention, held in Oshawa, June 24th, was given, and the appreciation of all those present was shown by many kind words and a hearty hand clasp. Rev. Mr. Ross and Mrs. Ross, beautifully rendered a very suitable vocal duet. Following this appropriate number, Mrs. Batherwick invited the retiring pastor's wife, Mrs. Ross, forward, and the following address was read by Mrs. Robt. J. Burn:

Dear Mrs. Ross,—We, the members of the W.M.S. of Janetville, in the Lindsay district, are sorry you are leaving us, because you have, during our associations, been an example of faithfulness, consistency and kindness. We are delighted to be the means of conveying to you the expression of our united love, appreciation and respect. Not only in the W.M.S., but in all the departments of church activities, you have been a faithful helper.

Your cheerfulness and loving trust in our dear Saviour, has taught us many lessons, and our hearts are warm towards you. What we offer you expresses more than we can say. Please accept these lovely flowers, grown in God's beautiful garden, and when in future you think of the Janetville W.M.S., may these few words be a pleasant token of the deepest love and reverence of our hearts. Signed in behalf of the members of the W.M.S.

MRS. BLATHERWICK,
1st Vice-President.
MRS. J. BRADBURN,
Recording Secretary.

The presentation was made by Mrs. J. Peel.

The gift was a dozen of beautiful Columbia roses. Mrs. Ross, though quite overcome, expressed her gratitude in a neat little speech. Rev. Mr. Ross also thanked the ladies for the honor and kindness shown Mrs. Ross. Then all heartily sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The tables with floral decorations of pansies, appeared as if by magic and an enjoyable social time spent.

USING FLIVVERS AS RAT KILLERS

Attach Hose to Car Exhaust and Direct Fumes Down Holes.

VERY EFFECTIVE

A new use for the flivver, or any automobile, for that matter, has been discovered by the Department of Agriculture. A golf links near the capital has been much troubled by rats, but the creatures have been conquered by attaching a hose to the exhaust tube of a little car, running the end of it into rat holes and starting the engine. Naturally the underground passages soon are filled with the deadly carbon monoxide and there are no survivors where this is done.

The plan hardly would work in a building, as a rather closely confined space is required to make it efficient, but it does suggest that other utilizations for gases which hitherto have done only harm soon may be found.

For the consolation of those who have sympathy for rats, it can be said that death thus inflicted is about as nearly painless as death can be.

WEALTH OF POWER BEING DEVELOPED

Royal Bank Letter Says Power Consumption Measures Industrial Progress.

TORONTO, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Throughout Ontario and Quebec the development of water-power is taking place so rapidly and ubiquitously that it seems to be a single movement which is destined to make Canada one of the great industrial nations of the world, says the Royal Bank of Canada's monthly letter for July. But it is not generally realized that the industrial revolution in Canada is occurring without producing the evils resulting from intens. concentration of population in large cities, attendant upon the industrial revolutions in Great Britain and the United States. Industrialization is taking place in the Dominion under conditions of comparative decentralization.

One of the most indicative measures of a country's industrial progress is its power consumption, the letter continues. Within the last four years there has been a 40 per cent. increase in waterpower production in Quebec, more than 50 per cent. in Ontario and 25 per cent. in British Columbia.

Ingenious Proprietress of Camp Solves Perplexing Culinary Problem.

BANFF, Alta., July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Winged messengers will span space in the Rockies without a telephone system. Miss Murray Hunter, the proprietor of the bungalow camp at Storm Mountain, 25 miles from Banff on the Banff-Windermere highway, never knows the number of lunchers the busses will bring her at noon each day. Sometimes only one or two passengers arrive; at other times two or three busses filled with hungry tourists pull up. She has secured carrier pigeons to be trained to carry messages from the Banff Springs Hotel bearing information as to the number of guests who will arrive for lunch. The Government Warden phone—never used for business but only by the service and in cases of emergency—is the only means of swift communication along the road at present.

CANADA REPRESENTED

Will Have Allotment at New Zealand and South Seas Exhibition.

TORONTO, July 9.—(Canadian Press).—Canada will be well represented at the New Zealand and South Seas Exhibition, which opens at Dunedin in November, 1925, and will run until April of next year. D. H. Ross, former Canadian Trade Commissioner to Australia, has supervision of the Canadian court.

Canadian exports to New Zealand have grown from $2,500,000 in 1913 to more than $15,00,000 a year, and prospects for increased trade appear better in New Zealand in proportion than in any other part of the globe.

THE COLONEL TOOK A FLYING LEAP ON TO THE DECK OF THE RUM RUNNER

"YOU WIN" SAID THE CAPTAIN. "NO ILL FEELING. LET'S HAVE A DRINK."

By F. J. MERRIMAN

THE passage of the Volstead Act by the United States brought back romance to the Pacific.

Ten years ago, when the agreement between Canada and other nations closed the sealing grounds to all but the native redskin in his home-made canoe, Victoria, home of the sealer, saw with regret the picturesque sea captains of the old school turn to more humdrum ways of life.

But all the color of the seas suddenly returned to the British Columbia coast.

The American thirst brought back adventure, crime, tragedy, smuggling, piracy, to a greater degree than they had ever existed. In this age of the twentieth century man had reverted to the old, bold days of Captain Kidd and Long John Silver—"Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum." Exactly. British Columbia courts had to listen to tales of hi-jacking, to use the newly-coined word, on the high seas, and almost even within sight of land, that needed no embellishment to make a novel as thrilling as any of those of London, Conrad or Stevenson.

But now, after three or four years, these colorful days are threatened again. Rum runners have preyed on rum-runners. At first there was money for everybody in the daring business of running. Cargoes of the finest blends of Scotch and Irish and of sparkling French wines were rushed across to the U.S. coast in the dead of night, picked up by the waiting accomplices in Uncle Sam's territory and converted into bulky rolls of yellow backs. It is only twenty miles from the Canadian to the U.S. coast, a small matter for a speedy gas boat, and in a few hours there was a profit of 100 per cent.

A Harvest for Boat Owners

MODEST fortunes were made virtually overnight. At first the Canadian seamen took all the chances right up to landing the cargo on some isolated place on the coast under the noses of the United States coastguards.

The days of smuggling were back again on a greater scale than at any time in history, and profits in the daring game of beating Uncle Sam were the greatest known. Men of standing in Vancouver and Victoria engaged in the business. They made no secret of the fact. It was all within the Canadian law, and Canada reaped its benefits in import and export duty. Owners of small gasboats who heretofore had been making but a fair living from the coastwise cargo jobs offering became busy as long as they liked to work.

It was a dangerous business carried on under the protection of darkness.

Fifty to five hundred cases were taken aboard according to the capacity of the particular unit of the mosquito fleet engaged. There were no difficulties on the Canadian side. British Columbia has government control. Until recently no success had rewarded the attorney-general's efforts to close down great warehouses which were allowed to import unlimited stocks of liquor for export purposes. This placed millions of dollars' worth of stock in the province over which the government had no control. These stocks were drawn upon by the rum runners.

Now the stock which goes abroad can be purchased from the government liquor warehouse. The ships load here ostensibly for Mexican ports. If all the cases which leave British Columbia ports for Mexico landed at their stated destination that sun-dried country would have enough liquor to bathe in.

Regarding profits on this phase of the game, it is only possible to generalize. At first they were big. Small carriers at first admitted they received $120 for a sixty-dollar case landed on U.S. soil, and cargo after cargo was landed successfully. For a time daring Canadian seamen were ready and willing to take the chance of running Uncle Sam's blockade. Particularly so as in their own land they were law-abiding citizens.

But this was too good to last. The boss bootlegger who received the goods at the U.S. end which he afterwards distributed through his staff of underlings saw chances of a bigger margin to his already highly lucrative business. He was the man who prepared the way for the Canadian craft and sent the flash when it was the right time to make the dash.

But then he began to ask: "Why should these Canadians cut such a big slice out of the melon?"

Then the transfer system was instituted and the Canadian rum-runners became mere transport men. The fleet of gas boats and speed launches which had previously wallowed in the lap of affluence became merely sea-going delivery wagons. Gone were the days of the exciting dashes to the border for most of them. They merely took on a load and delivered it to a waiting U.S. boat. Everything was within the law as far as the Canadian was concerned, and there was no risk.

Smuggling, one more link with adventure, on the Pacific, was smashed. Profits had been diminishing in any event. The 100 per cent. profit of early days had dropped to as low as 20 or 30 per cent., but the transport system cut profits down to nothing more than a wage basis.

The Canadians would have no doubt offered more strenuous resistance to the innovation but for a new element that had crept into the business and still enters into it—piracy, or hi-jacking, as it is known when applied to the rum-running business.

It was the most natural thing in the world that thugs and hold-up men who had been previously operating on land should be attracted to a sea field where they knew the money was on the job. It had an added lure, too. It was outside the law. The victim was not in a position to squeal. So stories of piracy which had only been associated with the Chinese seas began to be told again of the Pacific. The pirates proved they would stop at nothing, including murder. There is the most ghastly murder trial ever told involving the death of Captain Gillis, the owner of a rum-running craft, and his son still proceeding in the British Columbia courts.

The methods of the pirates were direct. Two boats lay side by side in a British Columbia port. They were strangers to each other. One took on a cargo of liquor and started on her journey to the U.S. coast. The other followed. Overtaking the liquor carrier, she called for a halt. Then the hi-jackers showed their teeth. They were armed even to machine-guns. There was no chance for the liquor carrier. The cargo was transferred. Such instances became common. That was the first method used; but master minds were at work and improved the system.

There was no limit to the daring of the hi-jackers and to the novelty of their methods. They were more feared than the revenue men. Even they, however, would not keep the Canadian runners from the U.S. shore if the same prices and opportunities were offering to-day as three years ago.

Banded Against the Law

BUT the bold bootleggers of the United States had cut the price to the bone. In dry Seattle they brazenly held a Pacific coast conference of bootleggers and set a scale of prices to the consumer and the runner so that competition should not knock all the profits out of the business.

There is one strange feature about the bootlegger: he will tell nothing of his operations, but will frankly confess his business. When they began to employ their own craft and one ran afoul of the customs authorities at Vancouver they rallied to his assistance. The following story will illustrate how they rally in defense of one of the tribe.

In company with two of his officers, the late Colonel A. B. Carey, D.S.O., a veteran of two wars, started after a notorious rum-runner flying U.S. colors. The colonel incidentally had startled Vancouver by bringing into play methods unheard of until he took over the job of collector of customs. Always a man of action, six times wounded in France, he hated the desk. The routine work held no appeal for him. He used hydroplanes to meet the big Oriental liners coming into the port of Vancouver to watch where dope was dropped overboard. One December night the hydroplane dropped in the water and refused to rise. The crew spent all night battered by the waves and the colonel climbed to the rear of the machine to try and start the propeller. The next day he was back on the job signing refund claims or drawbacks, or carrying on other routine work which had got behind in his absence.

It was only a few weeks later that he was on the track of the runner mentioned above. With his officers he called on the boat to stop. She refused. A chase followed, with each boat straining to the maximum in a rough sea, in which the runner repeatedly tried to swerve suddenly, crash the bow of the revenue boat and leave the officers to perish. At last the boats were alongside and the courageous colonel took a flying leap on to the deck of the rum-running craft. On the next swell his officers followed suit.

"All right. You win"—said the captain, who was at the wheel—"No ill feeling. Let's have a drink." His hand went to his pocket. But the colonel was too quick. He had the captain covered. It was a gun he packed in his hip pocket. Not a flask. The other officers covered the mate. And the gang were taken back to port and charged with taking liquor out of the port without paying export duty.

Unlimited bail money was offered by the U.S. bootleggers, who on Canadian soil particularly wear no cloak of sanctity. They took the strings off their purses to fight the case. And they won on a technicality.

This was one of the cases which led the bootleggers to band together for self-protection. It was soon after this that they began to employ their own men and boats to bring the liquor to their own shores with the Canadian boats acting as carriers only. With the hi-jackers operating and prices cut the Canadian boats were prepared to accept the new role. Had prices been maintained they might have offered resistance. They were always ready to take the risk, but not when the risk was no longer worth the price.

But one by one even the carriers are dropping out. There are probably only about thirty operating in British Columbia waters to-day where they used to be numbered in their hundreds.

They have been sacrificed to efficiency and organization. Big boats now take stocks so great that the little men cannot operate. Cargoes now are valued in six and seven figures and the smaller men are becoming a thing of the past. It is big business now, with the old excitement and danger still there, of course, but on a different scale.

Little Old Church in Ontario Wilderness Saved By Miracle That Awes Northerners

By HOLGER WESTERGAARD

RECENTLY a picture of an old time Ontario church appeared in this newspaper, illustrating an article: "Canadian Churches of Other Days," by Nina Moore Jamieson. The picture attracted my attention chiefly because of the fact that I at a glance recognized the church which may be an old timer, but is still in existence. Although it is located in Ontario it is safe to say that not half a dozen Star readers have ever seen it; therefore I shall endeavor to describe its location and relate how the church, about four years ago, as by a miracle was saved from destruction.

From Mattice, a little station on the Canadian National Railways in northern Ontario, you travel north at a rapid rate down the swift current of the Missinaibi River. A long journey is before you; but if you love the wilderness, the trees, the flowers, the creatures, (the mosquitos) you would wish the river had no ending. Nature is here in all her beauty and you may drink deeply and freely of her spirit and peace. Three grave and silent Indians paddle you along in the canoe; deep, dark furrows line their forehead, and with keen eyes they seem to be able to spot a deer or a moose as far as a mile ahead. You feel quite safe with them. They know the river; but what a thrill when they guide the canoe over a noisy, foamy, angry rapids. But you are not afraid, although you feel you would like to have a tight grip on something, a hand on each side of the canoe, for instance.

At sunset you camp. While you fix the mosquito net on your straw hat the Indians pitch your tent, their tent; make a fire and cook. You never enjoyed a meal any better. It is a glorious evening. The Indians have retired to their tent. How lovely here in front of the fire! Everything is at peace. Millions of fireflies light up the landscape like minute lanterns, blinking as the stars above. The only sound is the wonderful music by a great master on bells, countless bells of silver; the master is the rapid. Quite friendly now, and sweet he plays on the stones and the rocks. What is that? The Indians are singing now.

No, it is not out of place; nor does it disturb the peace. They are having their evening prayers. You had not expected that. The singing attracts you to their tent and you sit down in the tent opening. One Indian is holding a candle to enable another to read the prayer book. The third is kneeling down, bowing his head. The singing and the prayers are in Cree. You cannot understand what they say, yet you have a feeling as if you can follow it quite plainly. There they lie, the giants who have no fear, who conquered the falls and rapids and guided you safely through the dangers, praying as you did on your bed when a little child, a very little child. Something tells you, that you ought to do it now again; you even wish to, but no; and yet, it is hard, though, to depress your emotion. And when you go back to your own tent you realize, that the prayers by the Indians in this little tent in the wilderness has been by far the most impressive religious service that you have ever witnessed—second to none, not even those in the greatest of the magnificent cathedrals.

Next morning the first feeble rays of the rising sun shine into your tent; its caress awakes you, and you jump up. Breakfast is ready, and soon you are again on the river. The morning is clear with a light breeze. Everything is gilded by the rays of the sun. The river is like a stream of gold and the dew drops on the grass shine like a myriad diamonds—On and on you go. The wind may be in your favor and the Indians will make a mast, take a blanket and use as sail, and then—lazily you glide over the golden waves. For five days you hear the continuous hiss and ripple of the stream. Then you sweep around a curve into a majestic river—and a little later you spot a church in the distance.

LESS THAN A FOOT FROM THE CHURCH THE ICE JAM STOPPED.

A church here in this wild nature? It is a church, indeed. Its pinnacle points proudly skywards and seems to hold watch and have a particular eye on the river, lest any danger should threaten the peace of the country. Soon we glide right by it, then by the rectory and the Hudson's Bay Company's store and dwellings. This is Moose Factory on James' Bay.

The church is located about three hundred feet from the bank of the river. The land between the church and the river is very low and is occasionally at freshet flooded to within a hundred feet from the church.

It was in the spring of 1921. The ice on the river had not yet broken, and many of the Indians were on the ice—goose hunting. They were safe enough, for they knew, that they would be warned in time. A couple of old cannon from the old Moose Fort are placed on the lawn in front of the cottage of the Hudson's Bay Company's manager. Every year, when the river breaks, the company fires three shots in rapid succession from these guns as a warning to those still on the river, a warning that can be heard miles away.

Any time now the break was due. Then.... Bang! Bang! Bang! The Indians hurried ashore, and a few minutes later a huge mountain of ice and water massed in the river, plowed deep furrows in the shore, shot up over the edge, tore up trees and bushes and made its way far in overland in the direction of the church. How far would it go? Where would it stop? It was only one hundred feet away now. Eighty—Fifty—Twenty—and still pressing, piling up higher and higher. Ten feet now,—five, and still moving on. Nothing could save the church now. The ice came plunging on as high almost as the church. Soon it would have plowed its way through, crushing the church as easily as if it were but a matchbox. But, no. Less than a foot from the church the ice jam stopped its way of destruction.

The church, and the little churchyard, was saved—saved as by a miracle.

Several days it took to dig a passage through the ice to the church door; but the following Sunday the services—conducted in the usual way, in the morning in Cree, in the evening in English—were attended by a crowd of people, Indians mostly, with a genuine feeling of gratitude and faith in the mighty power which had so wonderfully protected their little church. And the church still stands. It has shot its roots deep, deep into the ground in the wilderness of the far north.

WILD LIFE IN NEBRASKA

PLAYING horseshoe on Sunday was forbidden in Lincoln, Nebraska, as late as 1920.

The World's Oldest Bush

ACCORDING to Dr. Edgar T. Wherry, a box huckleberry bush in Perry County, Pa., is the oldest bush in the world. This remarkable bush is a mile and a quarter long and covers the entire side of a hill. Dr. Wherry estimates that it grows six inches a year. Taking that as a basis, the plant must be something like 12,000 years old.

LONDON, July 10 (Canadian Press).—The Government yesterday began its efforts to mediate the differences between the miners and the mine owners, growing out of the men's refusal to work under a new agreement providing for lower wages and increased working hours. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, who has agreed to act as mediator, had a conference with a committee appointed by the Mine Owners' Association.

MEETING SHOWS WOMEN'S WORK WORTHY CREDIT

Reports Indicate Great Field of Operation and Gradual Extension.

RECALL INAUGURAL.

Graphic Addresses Described Difficulties of Foreign Work.

TORONTO, July 10. — (Canadian Press).—Agnes Delamoure, writing in the Globe, of the contribution brought to the Uniting Churches by Women's Missionary Societies, speaks of the "vast army of women whose influence will be one of the Church's greatest sources of strength." The story of their activities is one probably unsurpassed in the realm of women's achievements.

A statistical summary of the four societies reporting results in some imposing totals, and gives an idea of the vastness of the influence of the United W.M.S. It is estimated that 250,000 women are enrolled in its membership, and its revenue will approximate $1,000,000. In 1924-25 the Congregational Women's Board of Missions in Canada raised for its work in Africa $33,624. For the same period the Methodist budget reached $540,000 and the Presbyterian W.M.S. (Western Division), with nearly 100,000 members, raised $474,856. The Eastern Division of the Presbyterian W.M.S. has a total membership of 20,000, and last year raised $70,000.

"It was an interesting discovery last year to find that the first Women's Board to be formed in Canada was a Union board known as the Canadian Women's Board of Missions, in which the women of the Presbyterian and Congregational communions worked together, said I. MacGillivray, president of the Women's Missionary Society (W.D.) of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. "It seems almost prophetic of what was to be."

A record of work from the Maritime Provinces was brought to the Assembly by Mrs. G. D. Forbes. "The first Women's Society in Canada was organized in the country congregation of Princetown, P.E.I., just 100 years ago, and was called the Female Society for Propagating the Gospel, and the spirit of those first missionary enthusiasts, with their love, devotion and self-sacrifice, has never died in the Maritime Provinces."

We bring as Methodist women our contribution to the United Church, said Mrs. Lavelle. "We lay its dowry at your feet, not only the material, but the spiritual. All we have and all we are, and all we will be, we put into the United Church for the furtherance of Christ's Kingdom."

The Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, in their two-day convention, were as enthusiastic and eager over tasks and problems as were their Sisters in the larger body.

In future the mission work of the organization in Canada will be known as "national mission work," and in foreign lands as "overseas mission work." The strangers' department becomes the "welcome and welfare department" of the W.M.S. Mrs. H. R. Horne outlined the opportunities and responsibilities for mission work at home and abroad, telling of many appeals to the organization for assistance in Canada and in foreign fields. In response to a request for a home for high school boys at New Liskeard, the W.M.S. unanimously passed a resolution favoring the proposition.

Three addresses were delivered on the Overseas Missions. Miss Caroline Macdonald, LL.D., from Japan, gave a graphic picture of the need of the extension of work in that country, telling of the Christian night schools which were accomplishing so much for the factory girls. Miss Agnes Dickson, B.A., from South China, outlined the situation regarding Church Union in the field where she has been at work, speaking of the difficulties confronting many of the missionaries. Of eight women workers in the South China field, five will remain Presbyterian together with herself, and one on furlough.

Canada's trade with the United States, 1924-25, was $927,460,427, $510,0003,256 being imports and $417,457,171 exports.

Nearly half of Canada's agricultural wealth is in the West—or, in 1923, $3,556,771 out of $7,365,013,000.

Canada is the second best trade customer of the United States.

MANY PROBLEMS BESET BALDWIN

Coal Crisis and Troubles in India and China Are Passing.

CABINET SITTING.

LONDON, July 10. — Not for many years has a British government been beset with so many difficulties and troubles as the Baldwin ministry.

Throughout the week the Cabinet has been sitting daily discussing the most urgent and the most menacing problems, such as the coal crisis, the situation in India, the problem of China, the question of relations with Russia, the security pact and allied debts, as well as the possibility of transportation troubles. The least of these troubles is enough to break a ministry of ordinary strength but Premier Baldwin is in the comfortable position of enjoying a large majority.

The chief of his troubles is coming from his own Tory back benchers who are asking whither they are going and are demanding some kind of cabinet reconstruction. This might result in the often-threatened retirement of Austen Chamberlain being realized. At present there is nothing more definite than talk of withdrawal.

New Cruisers.

It is reported to-day that a subcommittee of the cabinet has recommended the building of four new cruisers, which are denounced on the ground of extravagance. If it it true that they have been recommended, the vote is bound to be vigorously resisted by Winston Churchill and this will bring him into conflict with the heads of the Admiralty, who have been persistent in urging them, and who always seem to have a good chance of winning their case. Many Tories, however, are not in favor of the building of more cruisers, and are insisting that taxation must be reduced throughout the country, and that a campaign of rigid economy must be practised in order to give industry chance of recovering. If the government does not initiate an economy campaign on its own initiative, there is little doubt that the opposition within the party will become so strong as to menace its existence.

Coal Industry.

Meanwhile, there seems no prospect of peace in the coal industry, and most of the pits are losing money. Unemployment in coal mining was increased by 10,000 last month alone and the miners are being urged on one side to work longer hours for less pay and on the others to try nationalization.

WEATHER FAVOURS PICNIC'S SUCCESS

Novel Sports Included on Programme of Sunday School Outing.

APSLEY, July 10—Ideal weather favoured the annual picnic of St. Paul's Sunday School held on the grounds at Methuen on Wednesday and which was the most successful in the history of the Lasswade Church, both in point of attendance and sporting events. Walking the tight rope created a great deal of interest and amusement, Marshall McCauley being the only one able to negotiate the whole distance. A greasy pole also proved too much for all competitors except Howard Bettes, a lad of 12, who reached the top on the first attempt. Other events resulted as follows—Hop, step and jump, Fred Whitmore; High jump, W. Carl, 4 feet 7 inches; Standing high jump, Fred Whitmore, 4 feet; Ladies' flat race, Miss Carl, Annie Steen; Stout ladies' race Mrs. Carl and Mrs. Davis, tie. A football match between married and single resulted in a win for the latter by one goal to nothing. Great praise is due to the willing workers who were responsible for the arrangements which entailed a great amount of labour. The proceeds from the meals and canteen amounted to nearly ninety rollars.

Edwin Davis of Lasswade suffered a painful injury last week, when engaged in peeling pulpwood the axe slipped and gave him a severe gash in the knee. The wound is healing rapidly, but the victim will be lame for some time.

No less a quantity than 2.35 inches of rain fell between the hours of nine p.m. Monday and 11 a.m. Tuesday. Dry weather is needed now for the haying, cutting having commenced this week. O. Montgomery of Clydesdale is cutting sweet clover which stands five feet high, the best crop in this district.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

THEY WON PRIZES

Above, Marion Kathleen Cameron, Alton, Ontario, a pupil of the Orangeville High School, and Robert Gray, a pupil at the University of Toronto schools, awarded the "attainment" prizes of $500 each as the boy and girl best fitted to sign messages to the King and Queen on behalf of the youth of Canada upon the occasion of the opening Monday by Their Majesties of Canada Building in Trafalgar Square. Below Leon B. Leppard, Toronto, of Harbord Collegiate, and Faith Trumbull Warren, Toronto, of the junior Havergal in Rosedale, were awarded prizes of $100 each for writing the most suitable messages of greeting to the King and Queen.

BRIGHTON COUNCIL.

Village Not Responsible For Stones Thrown By Passing Auto Tires.

BRIGHTON, July 10.—The regular meeting of the Brighton Village Council was held on July 6 with Reeve Carman Baker and Councillors Whitton, McKee, Mills and McCann present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, following which an account list was presented and orders drawn for payment of the respective amounts.

A notice was received from Messrs. R. J. Wade and D. J. Nesbitt, through the agency of their solicitors, Messrs. Kerr and Cochrane of Cobourg, asking for damages to plate glass caused by a stone passing through same from a passing automobile.

On advice of Town Solicitor Drewry and the legal department of The Municipal World, Council disclaimed liability for damage done to store fronts by stones thrown by passing vehicles while traversing the street.

The following motions were proposed and carried:

McKee, Mills: That the Council purchase from Robert Wade three feet of frontage on the Park side.

Whitton, McCann: That the council grant the Cemetery Commission $50 for the purpose of installing a hydrant at Mount Hope Cemetery.

Owing to a deficit in the treasury of about $2,000, the purchasing of $850 worth of fire hose, and the county rate being raised from $3,900 last year to $4,400 this year and the village assessment being but $643,000, the Council decided that the only way to meet the expenditure of the year was to levey a rate of 40 mills.

McKee-Mills: That the tax rate for the year 1925 be 40 mills on the dollar. Yea: McKee, Mills, McCann, Baker. Nay: Whitton.

McKee, Mills: That Council adjourn.

LAUSANNE PACT BRINGS GREECE NEW INDUSTRY

Influx of Greeks Brought About by Lausanne Convention Causes Big Boom.

CARPET FACTORIES

Attar of Roses Made on Big Scale — Building Trades Have Received Impetus.

The economic situation in Greece was profoundly affected during the past two years by the arrangement entered into between the Greek and Turkish Governments at the Lausanne Convention in January, 1923, for the mutual interchange of their respective nationals. This condition was brought about as a climax of the unsuccessful war with Turkey and the determination of Turkey as a result of her victory to drive from her territory all people of Greek origin, although these people had resided in Turkey for centuries and were as much indigenous to the soil as any of the other peoples making up the Turkish Empire, according to advices received by Bankers' Trust Company of New York from its Foreign Information Service.

In the two years which have elapsed since the arrangement at Lausanne, it has been necessary for the Greek Government to find homes for upwards of 1,300,000 refugees from East Thrace and Anatolia. On the other hand, under the terms of the agreement approximately 300,000 Turks have gone from Greece into Turkey. The net increase in the population of Greece brought about by these events has been 18 per cent. The immediate effect of the influx of the refugees on the internal conditions of Greece was very serious, the destitute condition of the greater number of them adding a further burden to the already depleted finances of the country. Imports of foodstuffs and clothing had to be paid for to a great extent out of the national treasury. However, with the aid of the Refugees Settlement Commission and the Refugee Loan, which was concluded at the end of 1924 under the auspices of the League of Nations, most of the refugees have been settled on farms and in industries and have been transformed into a productive factor. The commission reports them as having proved to be laborious, intelligent and honest, and their contribution to the prosperity of the country is felt already in the increased industrial activity.

The Bankers' Trust Company points out that it seems as if the industrial conditions in Greece might be as greatly affected by these refugees from Turkey as industrial conditions in England were affected in the 16th Century by the incoming of the Hugenot refugees from France. One of the most important industries brought to Greece by the Greeks from Turkey is that of carpet weaving and rug making. Besides the rugs and carpets being manufactured in the homes of the people on hand looms, carpet factories which amounted to only seven in 1922 had by the end of 1924 increased to 23. There are now over 2,500 looms in the country employing over 13,000 workers, and the production of the industry is extimated to have an annual value of $3,500,000. Another transplanted industry is the manufacture of attar of roses, which has heretofore been one of the most important industries of Bulgaria. The necessity of providing shelter for the newcomers has brought about a veritable building boom in Greece and the added distribution of materials and supplies has helped the finances of the railways to such an extent that a deficit of 5 1-4 million drachmae in the fiscal year 1922-1923 was turned into a surplus of 38 1-2 million drachmae in the year 1923-1924. Another indication of improved conditions in Greece in 1924 was the fact that only 2 per cent. of her shipping tonnage was idle.

The total foreign trade of Greece for 1924 amounted to 11,436 million drachmae, 7,966 million drachmae representing the imports and 3,470 million drachmae representing the exports or an excess of imports of 4,496 million drachmae, as compared with a total trade in 1923 of 8,580 million drachmae, of which amount 6,035 million drachmae represented the value of the imports and 2,545 million drachmae the value of the exports with an excess of imports of 3,490 million drachmae. A striking feature is the increase of trade with the United States. According to United States statistics the export of Greece to the United States during 1924 amounted to $32,553,000, or almost three times the 1923 exports, which were valued at $11,820,000. On the other hand, Greek imports from America during 1924 were $16,722,000, as compared with $11,900,000 during 1923. In the first quarter of 1925 exports from Greece to the United States were valued at $5,710,000, again more than double the 1924 figure of $2,045,000, while the imports were valued at $7,260,000, or more than three times the imports of $2,086,000 for 1924.

Turning to the Government finances, Bankers' Trust Company notes some improvement in the budget, which shows a deficit for the year 1924-1925 of 990,590,608 drachmae, as compared with a deficit of 2,900,000,000 drachmae in 1923-1924 and 3,200,000,000 drachmae for 1922-1923. The ordinary revenue amounted to 4,180,536,948 drachmae and ordinary expenditures to 3,727,626,691 drachmae, leaving a surplus of 452,910,257 drachmae, while the extraordinary revenue and extraordinary expenditures amounted to 599,938,750 and 2,043,439,615, respectively, or a deficit of 1,443,500,865, which shows that the deficit is entirely due to extraordinary expenditures.

To further improve the financial situation, the Government which has just been overturned recently drafted a bill imposing additional taxes. It is difficult to determine now whether the new Government will carry on this plan or perhaps devise even a better one.

The national debt of Greece, as of March 31, 1924, amounted to 9,287,680,181 drachmae, as compared with 8,413,975,843 drachmae for 1923. The only important modification from April to December 31, 1924, was brought about by the conclusion of the Refugee Loan, which increased the national debt by £12,300,000, of which, however, £1,000,000 had been advanced already and taken into consideration in the figure for March, so that the net increase of £11,300,000 equivalent at par of exchange to 284,986,000 drachmae, thus making the total debt as of December 31, 1924, 9,572,666,181 drachmae.

The note issues, which in 1913 amounted to 234,476,000 drachmae, increased to 5,292,064,230 at the end of 1924, with a corresponding depreciation in value as shown by the rates of exchange, which from a par value of 19.3 cents in 1913 fell to an average of $0.01709 in 1923. During 1924 the Government took every possible step to maintain the exchange at a workable level, resorting to artificial measures by means of Government purchase or sales of sterling and dollars. The measures adopted proved to a certain extent successful and the exchange rose to $0.0182 at the end of 1924, with a temporary stabilization of the drachmae, which, however, has again depreciated this year and is now, at the end of June, quoted at $0.0173.

BOARD FACED BY GREAT PROBLEM

Congestion is Evident in the Next Term of Havelock School.

MANY SUB-NORMAL.

HAVELOCK, July 9. — The Havelock School Board met on Tuesday evening last with all the members present. Inspector Richard Lees and Principal Yuill were also present to confer with the Board regarding school conditions 1925-1926.

Mr. Lees made known to the Board the results of Entrance Examinations of a class of thirty-five trying, only nine were successful, five of whom passed on merit and four were added by the County Entrance Board.

This was felt by those present to be a very poor showing for the effort put forth along educational lines in the public school.

In the discussion following the Board faced a proposition of taking care of 290 or 300 pupils in the public school for this next year distributed as follows:

Junior Primer A—21 plus beginners in September, estimated at 12. Total 33.

Junior Primer B, 16; Senior Primer B, 20. Total 36.

Junior First, 12; Senior First, 17; Junior Second, 8. Total 37.

Junior Second, 19; Senior Second, 32. Total, 57.

Junior Third, 41; Seniord Third, 11. Total 52.

Junior Fourth, 20; Senior Fourth, 38. Total, 58.

Grand total, 297.

This shows the three high rooms overcrowded and consequently the teachers will be working under a handicap.

Many Subnormal.

It was the desire of the Board to learn in what particular the school was falling down and further discussion brought out the fact that Havelock School had a large percentage (as compared with other schools) of pupils who were subnormal in their interest in the lessons and in the progress they make in school.

Numerous factors contributed to this end along with a lax interest in the homes as to discipline, learning, and attendance. Of these two factors the latter is the more serious, owing to the fact that its widespread evidence increases the handicap under which the teachers are working. In dealing with the congested condition of the school, on motion of E. Fennell and Dr. A. S. Thompson, a committe composed of chairman H. W. Roche, J. Moore, D. A. Forde and Jas. Barlow was apointed to look into the matter of accomodation.

Ladies Aid Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church was held on Monday afternoon in the basement of the church with a good attendance. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. C. Roberts.

1st Vice-President — Mrs. F. Hooper.

Secretary—Mrs. J. Freeman.

Treasurer—Mrs. J. Laing.

Organist—Mrs. G Giles.

Visitors—Mrs. T. Easterbrook, Mrs. J. Campney, Mrs. Wm. Davidson, Mrs. A. McColl.

1925 marks the 58th anniversary of Confederation, which formally started on July1, 1867.

FAULTY MODERN DIET BLAMED FOR FAST SPREAD OF CANCER

Noted English Authority Says Disease is Preventable With Care.

NATURAL FOODS

Poisoning is Slow, But There Are Chemical Cancers and X-Ray Growths.

By CLAIR PRICE.

Cancer can be very materially reduced, if not completely eliminated, in two generations, says Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, Bt., a noted surgeon and authority on cancer. While strongly in favor of early diagnosis of the disease and prompt surgical treatment, he is even more interested in its prevention, and, like many others, is attempting to stem the spread of a plague that potentially menaces every adult member of the community.

"Cancer is part of the price we pay for civilization, the most incurable and fatal plague which civilization produces," Sir Arbuthnot says. "If it occurs at all among uncivilized peoples living in normal conditions, it does so with the greatest rarity; but among civilized peoples it is rapidly increasing, and particularly so among the wealthier classes. When detected sufficiently early, cancer can frequently be removed, but since so many cases are not observed until too late in their development, we have made little, if any, headway toward the cure of cancer generally.

"We know, however, how to prevent cancer, and prevention promises infinitely more for the welfare of the race than the too frequently problematic cure. We know that cancer is the result of the slow poisoning of our bodies under the unnatural conditions which civilization imposes on them, and we can prevent it as soon as we can educate civilized people to return to the natural habits and diet of uncivilized people. If some means could be devised by which the effects of unnatural habits and diet which civilization has imposed on our bodies could be removed at once, in a hundred years' time cancer would be as rare as leprosy.

How the Body is Poisoned'

"Its major cause is the habit of permitting the residue of digested food to remain in the body longer than it should, and this condition" is very largely the result of the nature of the food we eat. Although every doctor knows that this stagnation sets up a process of local irritation and slow poisoning in the body, so universal is it among civilized people that most medical men regard it as natural, and, even when marked, as being of trivial importance.

"Nor would it be as serious as it is, if our lapse from the natural habits of the body lasted only for a month or even a year; for the body has wonderful powers of throwing off the poisons which enter it. But our bodily habits are formed in infancy, and, once formed, last throughout our lives. As a result, we unknowingly subject our bodies to twenty or thirty or forty years of chronic irritation and slow poisoning, which sooner or later results in indigestions of various sorts, gastric ulcers, appendicitis and cancer. All of these are diseases of civilization, and occur among uncivilized peoples only when the unnatural food and living conditions of civilization are imposed on them.

"There are a few chemical cancers, such as aniline, arsenic, tar and soot cancers, and a smaller number of X-ray cancers; but both these rarer varieties of cancerous growths, like the vast majority of cancers, result from years of slow poisoning. Cancer appears in a chimney sweep, for example, ten or twenty or thirty years after he has begun handling soot.

A Pandora's Box of Trouble.

"The poisoning is so slow a process that cancer is almost exclusively a disease of the middle-aged and old. It is not until a man turns 45 that he enters the cancer age. If he is then in a pre-cancerous condition, it is because he had permitted the tissues of his body to become so saturated with poison and consequently so deteriorated that a cancer ultimately appears at some weak point, either in the intestines or in an organ such as the breast or on the surface of the body, where we can recognize it and where there is a possibility of removing it by surgical means —if we see it soon enough. When it occurs within the body it may, and frequently does, escape observation until it has spread too far to permit of its complete removal.

"Excepting the cases of chemical and X-ray cancers, which form a small proportion of the cancer plague, it is, as I have said, the poison produced within the body by the stagnating residue of digested food which produces cancer. This condition is described as chronic intestinal stasis or constipation. It is now generally recognized that, by lowering the body's power of resistance, it plays a part in a large number of diseases; but it is not yet recognized as widely as it should be that in ten or twenty or thirty years' time it has positive results of its own, of which cancer is by far the worst.

"It must be emphasized that we are not speaking here in general terms; we are speaking of things which are readily demonstrable. We know what happens when the large intestine is kept in an overloaded condition over a period of years. We know, to mention only one of the more important results, that low on the left side of the body a kink forms in the intestine which obstructs the passage of its contents. That kink results from an effort on the part of the body to meet the stagnation and overloading of the intestine, and it supplies the tragedy of civilization. It is a very Pandora's box of trouble.

"The intestine cannot work as it should unless it has something to work upon; unless our diet includes a quantity of roughage or indigestible material. Unfortunately the whole tendency in civilized countries is to eliminate roughage. We prefer foods which are said to be digestible, which are pleasant to the eye and agreeable to the taste; we are supplied increasingly with tinned and so-called scientific foods. Our food chemists are largely responsible for the diseases which we suffer, for we must not forget that what are called scientifically balanced foods are not sufficient for the preservation of health.

"We can kill an animal by feeding it on a scientifically balanced ration and nothing more. Such rations rarely give the intestine any roughage to work upon and without vitamines, salts and roughage, the residue of a digested scientific food remains in the intestine, and in time begins to cause local irritation and to generate poisons which are absorbed into the circulation. We must get back to natural foods, greenstuffs, fresh fruits, wholemeal breads, etc.

Elephant and Broomstick'

"Ellis Barker, in his book on cancer, says he went to the Zoo one day and saw an elephant pick up a broom with its trunk and eat it, stick and all. He hurried away to tell the keeper, thinking the elephant had done itself an injury, but the keeper laughed and told him, "That's all right, he knows what he wants." Naturally the human stomach could hardly assimilate a broom, much less thrive on it, but the principle of the thing is sound. Roughage is as essential to us as it is to the elephant.

"We have been studying the body for more than 4,000 years, but to this day we know surprisingly little about t— perhaps in some ways less than Hippocrates did. We learn, however, that it thrives under certain simple conditions, and that the further it departs from them the more it breaks down. If those conditions were necessarily incompatable with civilization, our mounting cancer rate would find us in a hopeless position, indeed. Luckily they are not. If we can persuade people to return to the more natural habits and diet under which we know the body thrives, we can still be civilized without inearring the serious risk of being cancerous."

In urging the view of cancer just stated, the famous surgeon was for years a pioneer, regarded by many as an enthusiast or an alarmist, or both. By this time, however, his view of the origin of cancer has gained wide acceptance in the world of British medicine. Sir Arbuthnot is engaged in organizing a society to be known as the New Health Society, whose incorporation papers are before the Board of Trade in London. Under a distinguished list of patrons, it is to conduct research work and propaganda with the purpose of effecting that revolution in the habits and diet of Englishmen which he believes is necessary to reduce the appalling cancer rate of the country.

"Preventive medicine is undoubtedly the form which medicine must take in the future," he said. "It is a tragic mistake for us to keep to ourselves what knowledge of the body we possess. We must share it with the largest number of people we can reach. We must tell them, without ceasing, how they themselves can prevent diseases, for only by so doing can we put an end to illness. At present surgery and medicine appear to me to be a horrible melange of attempts to understand and treat end results, with little or no effort made at the infinitely more promising work of obviating their development.

"Take the case of cancer. Its treatment is at once problematic and expensive; but no expense attaches to its prevention. Patent foods and patent purgatives, cheap as they are, are wholly unnecessary. (To the student of cancer there are surely no more significant details of our civilization than the enormous fortunes which are made out of the sale of patent purgatives!) All we need is to get back to natural habits and natural foods.

"It is only under civilization that we realize how much these natural habits and natural foods mean to our bodies. It is civilization which has given us constipation. As all doctors know this is a damming back of the contents of the large intestine, then of the small intestine, the duodenun, and finally of the stomach. It has two direct results. First, the intestinal canal becomes dilated, and later, at points of pressure or stress, ulceration and ultimately cancer develop. Second, and possibly the more important of the two results, the contents of the small intestine are invaded by organisms normally found only in the large intestine. The food supply upon which the process of nutrition depends becomes infected by poisonous materials produced by these organisms, and an enormous amount of deleterious matter is thus absorbed into the circulation from the intestinal canal.

"The liver, kidneys and other organs are subjected to such a strain that they fail to perform their work efficiently, and destructive changes occur in them. Poisoning of every tissue in the body produces rapid degenerative processes which are regarded as separate diseases. The vitality of all the structures in the body are unable to resist organisms which would otherwise be thrown off, and such diseases as rheumatism, gout, tuberculosis and cancer arise.

"In an individual whose digestive processes are perfectly normal these diseases do not occur. They cannot occur. The healthy body throws off the disease organisms. Excepting cancer, all these diseases are alleviated or cured by the effective sterilization of the contents of the stomach and small intestine. If the contents of the stomach and small intestine are free from poisoning organisms, the material obtained from the semi-digested food and carried into the circulation affords perfect nutriment for the cells of the body.

"Statistics are not always accurate, but they are usually illuminating, and reflect in a very interesting fashion the differences which exist between uncivilized peoples, whose digestive processes are healthy, and civilized peoples, whose bodies have had to cope with civilized habits and foods. Take the negroes of Jamaica and Chicago as examples. The large majority of Jamaica negroes lead the healthy, normal lives of animals, and cancer is unknown among them. On the other hand, their kin, the negro population of Chicago, lead civilized lives and eat civilized food; their cancer rate is the same as that of the white men with whom they live.

"According to Dr. F. L. Hoffman, who has done very distinguished work in cancer research, in the United States, the cancer death rate at present is increasing at the rate of 4½ per cent. a year. Women, owing to their different formation and habits of life, are peculiarly liable to constipation, and die of cancer almost twice as frequently as men. In neither sex has cancer been known to attack a healthy organ.

"In every case in which I have had an opportunity of verifying it, I have found that the cancer patient was suffering from chronic constipation, and that the infection by cancer was an indirect consequence of this condition. Chemical and X-ray cancers are alone excepted from this category. If this assumption be correct, we know how to prevent cancer. If we can persuade people to return to the healthier habits and the simpler foods of our precivilized days, cancer can be very materially reduced, if not completely eliminated, in two generations."

"What foods have you in mind?" Sir Arbuthnot was asked.

"Fresh meat, milk, butter, eggs, fruits, vegetables and whole meal bread supply not only an abundance of nutriment but also sufficient roughage for the large intestine to work upon. Canned meat, sterilized milk, margarine, egg substitutes, fruits of the bottled, tinned and dried sorts, and highly milled cereals, such as white bread, ought to be avoided as far as possible.

"I do not mean to say that they do us direct harm, but the effect of the preservative and refining processes is to destroy certain vital substances in them which are absolutely essential to health. What we must bear in mind is that the body has been slowly evolved, through millions of years, to deal successfully with the refuse of simple foods. Gradually, during the last century or two, civilization has thrust upon us a wide variety of elaborately prepared foods, highly cooked or highly refined or highly milled; and the body has not been designed for them. It does the best it can, but is not equipped to rid itself of their refuse. The result is that people do not die painlessly n their sleep after living out their threescore and ten years. The clock no longer simply runs down and stops, as it normally should. Instead, the body begins breaking down in middle age, and succumbs prematurely to one of the many diseases which are peculiar to civilization. Cancer is only one of these, but it is by far the most incurable and the most fatal."

BLOWN ACROSS LAKE

Howard Miller, of the U. S. naval reserve, and Arthur Fletcher of Youngstown, had a narrow escape from death when they were blown across Lake Ontario in a small sail-boat. They finally succeeded in landing at Etobicoke, Ont.

THE WRITER OF "THE GREEN HAT"

Since Michael Arlen has given to us one of the best sellers with "The Green Hat" (Doran) it is high time that this very amusing young man was being properly introduced.

Therefore, meet Dikram Kouyoumdjian. For that is his real name, and it readily can be realized why the gay son of Armenia takes a nom de plume of such Irish simplicity.

It was some five years ago that a few esoteric explorers of the literary woods came upon the fast starving form of "The London Venture" and thereafter those who read him made the quick acquaintance of the smart London world of clubs peopled with people of fat income. These people toss such sophisticated talk as: "I like you well enough as a man, but I couldn't stand you as a co-respondent," or "Clever women are born with rouge on their cheeks."

The trail from "Mayfair to Soho" is paved with Arlenesque epigrams in the "Romantic Lady" and "Piracy" and quite his best thing: "These Charming People."

"The Green Hat," written with the same swagger as most of his other books, suffers from a disappointing ending. On the whole, his books, while individually most amusing, are cut on the same pattern and should be read at least a month apart.

Since Arlen is extremely man-of-the-worldish, with a Paris flair, the presence of his book in the list of best sellers is the latest victory for sophistication.

It is in a book of poems that Martha Ostenso, winner of the $12,000 Dodd Mead novel prize, is introduced to American readers. It is called "A Far Land" (Seltzer), and if there be any doubt that this young "discovery" can pen lyrics of pure song quality then glance at a few excerpts casually selected:

". . . A land where stillness falls
On sudden wings, like a band
Of quiet birds on ruined walls."

Or some such bits as these: "The earth lies soft beneath dream-walking rain"; "The earth is here a wasted crone who wears a wig of thatch"; "Forgotten dreams steal in and wake the wood."

There are moments, however, when she seems quite young and sentimental —but, then, possibly she is.

Coming editions cast their publicity ahead! The survey learns that early in the year, Appleton will print another posthumous work of Emerson Hough: "The Ship of Souls," described as "a thrilling story of wilderness love and frontier adventure, laid in the Canadian northwest." Also that J. S. Fletcher continues to turn out his daily dozen of detective stories, the next to be "Wolves and a Lamb" (Knopf). Reading them as fast as Mr. Fletcher turns them out is in itself no mean feat. How he does it and yet keeps them so good the survey intends some day to find out.

The much-vaunted mystery of India takes a more intimate turn in the hands of Flora Steel who, in her "The Law of the Threshold" (Macmillan), sets out to show how the riot of conflicting cults and customs constitutes a most perplexing problem. While the tale is a most colorful and interest-holding one, is seemed to this surveyer that Miss Steel lets herself get serious over the goings-on of the cultists. A bit of the missionary slant seems to peep through her reporting. It does not seem to occur to her that the Indian, looking out from his mysticism and whatnot, might consider the white man's ways far more strange and perplexing and insoluble. However, it is an interesting and graphic picture an worth looking at.

DEADLY ZERO HOUR.

Importance of Treatment at Critical Time.

NEW YORK, July 10.—In a health talk broadcast from Station WGY, Dr. Bertrand E. Roberts compared the neglect to summon a physician promptly for certain diseases to delay in going over the top exactly at the zero hour. Both he said had fatal results. He particularly mentioned diphtheria and stated that if antitoxin is given in sufficient quantity on the first day of illness, death from diphtheria almost never occurs; if given on the second day, recovery usually but not always results; but each additional day's delay in the administration of antitoxin lessens materially the patient's chances of recovery.

"Now and again during the great war," said Dr. Roberts, "there came to the men in the first line trenches that fateful time known as the zero hour. It was the time when at a given instant they were to go 'over the top.' Those who neglected to act quickly and effectively when the zero hour came were often singled out for death at the hands of the enemy.

"The great war is finished, but in times of peace there are still zero hours —hours when prompt, efficient action may save life, while delay or ignorance may be fatal.

"The listeners-in will immediately think of those accidents where a little knowledge of first aid might save life— cases of drowning, wounds, electrical shock, poisoning and the like. Such situations do arise, and I have only praise for the efforts made by various agencies to increase the knowledge and skill of men, women and children in applying the principles of first aid. This good work should have every encouragement.

"But there are other situations more frequent than accidents, when opportunities come for saving life, where delay is just as dangerous. My time is too short to mention them all. They arise in certain diseases which respond to treatment if taken early, but which are likely to be fatal if neglected. Such are diphtheria, appendicitis, epidemic meningitis, pneumonia and others. As a rule the symptoms in most of these are so severe that there is little delay in summoning a physician. In diphtheria, however, this is not true. At the beginning, diphtheria may cause little discomfort, yet in no disease is early treatment more remarkable. Unfortunately, however, hundreds of children in the country at large, die from diphtheria every year. The chief reason for this tremendous sacrifice of our boys and girls is that their parents have failed to call a physician early enough. In this disease 'early enough' means immediately

"Now what should make a parent suspicious of diphtheria? Briefly, any one of these three symptoms: Sore throat, croup, difficult breathing.

"Many sore throats are not diphtheria, but no one except a physician is qualified to decide as to the all-important diagnosis. Sometimes no patches can be seen in the throat, yet diphtheria may exist. Sometimes the child may feel little discomfort, yet he may die if treatment is delayed.

"Croup, too, may be due to other causes, but if it is caused by diphtheria, it is one of the most dangerous conditions known. Associated with this form of diphtheria is difficult breathing. If this occurs, the child may choke to death within a few hours. In this type of diphtheria there may be no sore throat at all.

"Therefore with any of these three conditions—sore throat, croup, difficult breathing—take no chances. If diphtheria is present, your physician can use a wonderful remedy, antitoxin. The State Department of Health supplies it without charge to all physicians in the State.

"Prevention is, of course, better than cure, and the best plan of all is to have your child protected against diphtheria by injections of toxin-antitoxin. These injections are harmless and may be given at any time after your child is 6 months old. They usually give complete protection for many years, probably for life.

"But if you have neglected to protect your child in this way, any sore throat, any croupiness or any difficulty in breathing is a warning signal which it may be fatal not to heed; they announce the zero hour when delay may be regret ted for a lifetime."

SWIMMING SUITS USE JERSEY, GINGHAM OR FIGURED SILK

By Annette Bradshaw.

The bathing suits being shown for the new season seem to divide favor between jersey, gingham and the gay figured silks.

Now the jersey suit may be either of the simple one-piece type, much like a man's bathing suit, or it may be made from jersey cloth in any design that the wearer wishes.

The jersey model shown at the left is made of dark green with bandings of lighter green. The straight slip, made sleeveless and with an oval neckline, stops at a point half way between the hip and knee. From here down the length is finished out with jersey bloomers also banded in the lighter green. There is a little separate matching cape, which may be removed when the wearer goes into the water, and which is admirable to keep the sunburn off.

The other model is of peach color printed in brown, blue and yellow. The straight upper portion has two godets at the front for fulness, and the suit has matching bloomers.

Other printed cotton suits have plain little trunks which extend below the edge of the suit and are of a solid color edged with a band of the printed material.

IN THE KITCHEN

COLD DESSERTS FOR HOT DAYS

Cold desserts have the advantage over hot ones inasmuch as they may be made early in the morning or in fact over night and chilled until they are needed. There is a long list of jellies, fruit pies and cobblers, shortcakes and fresh fruit desserts that are easy to prepare and are inviting as well.

Peach Cobbler.

Make a good short pie crust and line a shallow buttered square pan, finishing the edge with a rolled or ornamented crust. Pare and halve enough ripe peaches to put in two layers, if the pan will allow it. Next sprinkle with sugar, quite thickly using about two cupfuls. Then sprinkle with a quarter cupful of water. Bake in a medium oven, until the crust is done and the fruit cooked. Set aside to cool, but do not chill. When ready to serve, whip a small bottle of cream and spread over the top. Use plain cream if preferred, or spread, while warm, with a soft frosting.

Coffee Jelly Creams.

Take a quarter of a pound of nut filled coffee cream bonbons and chop them coarsely, then fold them into a cupful of whipped cream that has been flavored with a few drops of vanilla. Set to chill. Make a cupful of very strong coffee, then strain it into a pint and a half of boiling water. Melt a heaping tablespoonful of powdered gelatine, in a little of the hot water. Add it to the rest of the water and the coffee and allow it to come just to the boiling point, strain it into a bowl to cool. Before straining, add a cupful of sugar and when melted strain. When cold, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and pour a little into the bottom of six individual wet molds. Let set for a few minutes in a cool place, then place a heaping tablespoonful of the cream mixture in each cup. Turn in enough of the cold liquid jelly, to cover and set to chill. When ready to serve unmold and garnish with a little whipped cream on top of each.

Sponged Shortcake.

Make a plain sponge cake and bake it in a plain round buttered and figured cake pan. Beat five eggs light. Add a saltspoonful of salt. Then add a level cupful of fine dry granulated sugar and beat. Stir in a level cupful of warm flour that has been sifted twice, a teaspoonful of baking bowder, and a teaspoonful of good lemon extract. Turn into the pan and bake in a medium oven about forty minutes. When done invert the pan over a large plate if cool. Meantime part and chop a fresh pineapple squeezing the juice from the core over the fruit. Add to it, a cupful and a half of sugar and the juice of half a lemon. Set in a cool place and stir frequently. Split the cake lengthwise, fill with the pineapple mixture, add the upper half of the cake and put the remainder of the fruit on top. Serve with plain cream or cover with whipped cream. Do not let the cake stand to soak but serve as soon after it is fixed as possible. This will serve six or eight people plentifully.

Beauty from Kicking High

By Lucrezia Bori

Do you know the value of high kicking as an exercise to strengthen your hips and mold the muscles of your abdomen?

Not so many years ago the advice to women to practice high kicking would have been disregarded by some as being too unladylike. Thank goodness, such an era as this has passed. Not only is high kicking considered quite right and proper as an exercise, but even if it were considered unladylike by some, I feel sure there are others who would indulge in it anyway because it is beautifying.

Any exercise which stretches the muscles about your waist tends to make your body more supple and graceful. Every woman knows that the beautiful body is the one which suggests this suppleness—not the one which is stiff and unbending.

The Proper Garb and Position for Doingthe Exercise.

I have said much about the value of a firm, "natural corset" of muscles about your waist and abdomen. This makes you appear firm and flat and strong at all times.

On the other hand, the woman who has soft, flabby muscles in this part of her body may appear slim and flat enough when she wears a corset which confines her softness. But let this same woman don a bathing suit, or any such revealing costume, and all the weak points of her figure are revealed immediately.

There's only one way to guard against such an embarrassing predicament—don't allow yourself to indulge in weak points. Correct them. Now I realize that this is easier said than done in some cases, but I must hasten to assure you that you can strengthen your stomach and abdomen muscles if you exercise them—and high kicking is one of the best ways.

Try this kicking exercise as I suggest here:

First of all, dress in a very full skirt that cannot possibly hamper your movements, or else in a bathers. Any scant costume is permissible in your own boudoir.

Now begin, if you are unaccustomed to high kicking, by using a chair to help you out.

Stand alongside your chair, bracing yourself against it with one hand.

Kick as high as you can, first with one foot, then with the other.

Keep this up until you grow tired.

The second step in this same exercise is to do your high kicking without the aid of a chair, as follows:

Simply stand erect, without anything to prop you.

Be careful not to tip your body too far backward, or you may lose your footing and fall on your back. A tight skirt is most dangerous for this exercise, as it may jerk your back foot from beneath you.

Swing the foot with which you intend to kick back a little, to get more force in your movement. Then kick as high as you can. Try to stand fairly upright and rise on your toes as you kick.

The Catbird.

If some morning you hear what sounds like a couple of kittens in distress, you had better look into the trees round about, to see that there isn't a catbird somewhere, dodging in and out among the leaves, laughing to himself at having made a belated April fool of you.

The catbird is a long-tailed, moderately slender, sleek-feathered bird, slate-gray all over, darker on back and crown and tail than on his under side. He has a large repertoire of music other than his cat-call, which indeed is apparently uttered mainly in alarm or anger, or possibly sometimes in mischief. He is quite as able an imitator as his near relatives, the brown thrasher and the mocking-bird of the South, though his attempts at more ambitious and original melody, while good, are not so excellent as theirs. He has little fear of man, and often appears in the outskirts of cities. He builds his nest quite low, seldom more than ten feet above ground.

In two things the catbird has a bad reputation. Some naturalists accuse him of robbing the nests of other birds; and the birds themselves bear witness, for they dislike his company and frefrequently "gang up" to do him violence.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

EFFECT OF LOVE ON FOLKS

So you'll never be witty nor really awfully clever nor supremely successful if you let yourself fall in love? Really in love. Deeply in love, seriously in love—so the clever philosophers of today are beginning to say.

Rubbish—Tut. Fudge. Stuff and nonsense.

The only really clever people on earth are the people who fall in love so blindly that they don't know what they are doing or where they are going or what their names ought to be.

There is nothing sane and sensible and reasonable about love—not a thing.

Love is folly. Love is joy. Love is a light heart and a heavy heart. Love is disappointing and disillusionment, glorious expectancy and splendid fruition all in one.

Love is youth and love is hope and love is generosity.

Love is the wind that blows when it blows and stops blowing when it stops blowing and asks nobody's permission and seeks no one's advice.

Love is the sun that makes the darkest days turn suddenly to golden glory.

Love is the moonlight, that illumines the commonest object and makes of it a silvery mystery of delight.

Love is starlight and love is sunrise and sunset.

Love is the rushing of the river and the laughing of the lake upon the shore and the beat of the surf upon the beach.

Love is the sound of rushing wings in the air. Love is a song in the heart.

Love is the simplest thing in the world and the greatest mystery in life. There is no sense in it and there ought not to be any sense in it.

What makes brilliant, lighthearted, clever Mary fall in love with stupid, slow-witted, heavy-hearted John?

Tell me if you can!

What makes the man of affairs, serious, successful, dignified, throw his life and everything in it at the feet of a giggling school girl who will never understand one thing that he says in real earnest and never know what it is all about, anyhow?

Or the brilliant, clever artist fall desperately in love with the little model who hasn't an ounce of brains in her lovely head?

And how about the society girl who elopes with the good-looking chauffeur?

Answer me that and I'll teach you what love is.

Until then, let's take it as a necessary evil; as a supreme good; as the best thing in the world and the worst thing on earth—and let it go at that.

What do you say?

Let's Talk It Over

A GIRL OF SEVENTEEN PICKS A HUSBAND.

Isabelle is 17, and she is in love. She's sure it's not "puppy love," she wants to be married when she's 18. She thinks her family is most unreasonable in telling her that she is too young, since her mother married when she was 18, her aunt married at 16, and had her first baby before she was 18.

If mother and auntie weren't too young at 18, why is Isabelle?

What shall I do? I am in love with a man who is 25, and I am only 17.

I am sure, dead sure, it isn't what they call puppy love. I can't believe it is. Everything is all right except my mother. She thinks I am too young, and what's more she doesn't want me to marry this man. She has no real reason for objecting to my friend. She thinks he is lazy, but he isn't.

Now as to the age problem. My aunt was married when she was 16. She had her first baby before he was 18. My mother married at 18. In those days it was perfectly all right to marry at that age.

I am going to school yet. I shall keep on until I am 18. Don't you think that if I wait until 18 to marry that that is long enough? I shall not have any children until I am 21 or 23, at least, because I do want to have some fun for a while. I do not intend to chase around with other fellows.

My beau has enough money to build a home and he loves me. I am in love with him, what more than that can any one ask? I want to say, too, that my father is seven years older than my mother and my uncle nine years older than my aunt, so what is a difference of eight years in our ages?

Tell me, what do you think?

ISABELLE.

Eight years difference in your age is not a serious obstacle to marriage, but don't you think that seventeen is a little too young to choose a life partner—some one to live with all the days of your life? The best of us change our minds; if we didn't we couldn't grow.

Things were different when mother was a girl. Girls married at 17 but they didn't choose their husbands at 17. I'll bet grandfather picked father out of the eligible young men at the office and brought him home to dinner. Grandmother encouraged him to drop in often, and propinquity did the rest. The young men with whom mother came in contact were all hand-picked, and labeled "suitable" before mother had a chance at 'em. She didn't have your excellent opportunities for plucking a lemon in the open market.

Then, too, being a wife was a much simpler business in those days. There weren't so many distractions, and there weren't so many temptations to cease being a wife, once having taken over the job. Divorce was practically unknown. Mother married and if she had any regrets she took 'em out in nerves and sick headaches.

Mother didn't expect to find the luxuries, the freedom, that attraction that you expect to find. If mother couldn't in spite of her most wifely efforts find it in her heart to love father she didn't consider leaving him because of that. She devoted herself to her children and her house, to religion or the poor, and made the best of it.

Nope, being a wife isn't the sure thing job it was in the old days. It's a big job, Isabelle, and it takes a big woman to get away with it.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

A recipe for a light sponge-cake, recommended as being excellent for a filling, and made without butter, comes from Mrs. Wm. Buller, 274 King Street:

2 Eggs.
¾ Cup sugar (granulated).
1 Cup flour.
2 Teaspoons baking powder.
3 Tablespoons hot water.

Beat eggs until very light. Then beat sugar and eggs together. Add flour and baking powder, then hot water. A flavoring may be used, if desired.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have come a long way into this city alone and, naturally, I am very lonesome. I am a young man, still in my teens, and people say I am good-looking. Can you help me out in this situation? BLONDE.

BLONDE: I can readily understand and sympathize with your plight, and I would like very much to help you. If you have no friends here through whom you can meet other acquaintances, the best thing for you to do would be to join a club. A church club, a gymnasium club or a lecture course all offer unlimited opportunities for making worthwhile friendships. You will find in these clubs that the members are bound together by ties of mutual interests and tastes—and where this exists you are likely to make many worthwhile friendships.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Weddings

BIRDGNEAU—MAHONEY

A very pretty wedding took place June 23, in the Immaculate Conception Church, Rochester, N.Y., of Elezabeth C. Mahoney and Mr. Albert E. Birdgneau, both of Peterboro, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev Father Cameron. Miss Viola Routly and Mr. Alric Le Vassuer acted as witnesses.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Stout, where a dainty luncheon was served.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Le Vassuer, where over sixty guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The couple were the recipents of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Birdgneau will reside at 88 Tremont street, Rochter, N.Y.

AUTO GIVES DRIVER MOTION JUDGMENT

Professor Says Motor Operator Learns to Think Ahead.

URBANA, Ill., July 10.—The faculty of "thinking forward," or looking ahead, is attributed to automobile drivers, because of their driving experiences, by Prof. H. F. Moore, research professor of engineering materials at the University of Illinois.

Moore calls it "motion-mindedness," as apposed to "static-mindedness," which he attributes to persons who can't think ahead.

"Motion - mindedness," explains Moore, "is a sign of progress which is cultivated by the widespread use of the automobile."

Therefore, he advises, buy an auto to keep up with the crowd.

"The driver thinks not of the place where the car is at the present time, but whsere it will be a few second alter," say Moore. "He thinks forward or he has a collision. If the automobile can lead people to think of men, events, philosophies and religions in the same way, there is hope that they will get into the habit of asking where this man or that institution is leading and will avoid a few dangerous collisions in the future.

"Static-minded people think of things as they are, and not what they are becoming.

"If in the future the majority of people are progressive and motion-minded, it will be due in a great measure to the influence of the automobile.

"Here they are, son—the Corn Flakes with the most tempting, fascinating flavor in the world."

The speed breakfast—crisp, golden Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Just pour them from package to bowl. Add milk or cream. Delicious with fresh or preserved fruit. Sold by grocers everywhere. Served by all restaurants and hotels.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

Oven-fresh ALWAYS

Kellogg's patented inner-sealed waxtite wrapper preserves the flavor and keeps the flakes toasty-crisp. This is an exclusive Kellogg feature!

Make this comparison! Try any ready-to-eat cereal. You won't find another that even approaches the marvelous flavor found only in Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

ONCE UPON A TIME THE THREE BEARS. IV by W. J. ENRIGHT.

The fight was on!

Jimmy was on the big boy, who had been trying to dig out the Kingfishers' nest, but couldn't hold him down, and in fact all the boys were now on their feet, looking for an opening to strike and generally aiming at nothing and hitting it every time. Then Wess spoke up.

"If you fellows don't quit and say you're licked, I will whistle and call the rest of my men and it will be too late, you will go in the creek for sure, and Robin Hood is a man of his word. Are you licked?"

"Well, two's no good against Robin Hood," said the big lad.

"Are you ever ever ever going to bother birds again?"

"Well, not exactly in this Green Woods, anyway," was the answer.

"What's your name, fellow?" demanded Jimmy.

"What's that to you?" asked the big fellow.

"Well, said Jimmy, I'm not named yet, but I can tell you that I am one of the main followers of Robin Hood."

And before long, after one thing led to another, it was decided that Wess was the acknowledged leader and that he was a worthy Robin Hood, and that this place would be a very fine Green Wood for their operations, and that next week a meeting would be held in the forest, to decide who would be Little John and who Friar Tuck, etc.

The two new boys, Bill Davis and Don Bonter, went along towards the farm with the merry band, and on the way Wess called a halt and asked each man in turn if he would be faithful to his trust if he, Robin Hood, showed them a Green Wood secret. All took the oath.

Wess led the way to a dead tree and said, "Put your ear to that tree." Each man did it in turn and they all said there must be bees inside the tree, for there was a humming buzz.

Then Wess suggested that they look on the other side of the tree, and when they did so, they found a hole and inside the tree a family of young flickers.

"Say, Wess, may we come out to-morrow?" asked Roy.

"See you next week," said Wess, "Have to go to the market with eggs to-morrow."

Three-Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

WHERE NUNS TAKE NO RELIGIOUS VOWS.

In the little town of Ghent, you may find such a combination of the ancient and the modern as no other European town can offer.

There are the great clocks, which were originally, many centuries ago, town bells calling the warriors to battle. There are the gables and canals and belfreys that proclaim the age of the city. The streets are winding and cobblestoned, the roofs are red and everything looks prim and correct.

All these suggest some medieval town. But when you see the miles of busy wharfs and warehouses that line the canals, you realize that Ghent combines the modern spirit with the old. It has a port that handles about two million tons of shipping each year. It is a manufacturing centre and its textile mills employ many thousands of workers.

Yet in the midst of this thriving city, you come across a little enclosed sanctuary which might have been a refuge for the persecuted of old. It is a little walled town inside a city.

When you knock upon the door, you are greeted by a courteous, reserved, nunlike figure. You are admitted through a wicket into a quiet garden. The neat lawns are meticulously laid out. There are paths leading to the doors of little, old-looking houses, surrounded by high brick walls. There is a church. There is a little hospital. There is everything, in fact, that one would need in an enclosed city.

These are what is known as Beguinages. They were first established by Lambert le Begue, a priest, in the 12th century. There are two of them in Ghent and about twenty of them scattered through as many Flemish towns.

Within these walls you will find, perhaps as many as 600 women. They have taken no eternal vows. They have simply decided to devote their lives to the care of the sick and the needy. They wear a recognized costume, follow a secluded mode of life, devoid of worldly pleasures. They may, if they wish, return to the outside world but they very rarely do.

This order of the Beguines has existed for eight centuries and undoubtedly, they have accomplished many acts of kindness and humanitarianism. They have survived the political strifes and the wars of these many centuries. In their serene way they live a life of charity and helpfulness.

YOUR GARDEN

TREATING TREE WOUUNDS

In spite of the utmost care accidents will happen and this particularly true of trees. Therefore if an accident happens the only thing to do is to attend to it immediately as suggested in a previous article. How should this be done?

Comparatively small abrasions,—Trim away the loose of ragged bark with a sharp knife or chisel, and make the edges smooth. Then paint the wound with coal tar, paraffin wax or a paint that contains no turpentine. If paint is used, it should be of an inconspicuous color say a dark brown, dark grey or a dull dark olive green. Grafting wax is useful if one has it handy. The paraffin wax must be applied as a liquid long enough to apply quite easily. In winter however as special heater will be necessary and this the average householder will not have handy.

Limbs broken off by the wind.—In cases of wind damage there is usually a good deal of splintering of the wood and stripping of the bark. Unless a badly damaged tree is very valuable as a strategic position it had better be cut down right away If the damage is not too severe the wound may be treated by removing the splintered wood until a reasonably smooth surface is obtained. This surface can conform to the shape of the injury (it may be irregularly contoured) and again the bark along the edges should be trimmed smooth and the whole painted with a special paint or coal tar preparations. Usually this kind of a wound is too large for wax. If the limb is still hanging by a portion of the wood it should be cut off very carefully to avoid any further damage or stripping of the bark.

Sun Scald and Frost Injury.—Prevention is better than cure in this case. Avoid cutting up a tree too severely especially on the south and southwest sides where the injury chiefly occurs and protect these susceptable sides by boards or straw or still better a neighboring tree. The smooth barked trees as Beech, and the soft wooded trees as the Basswood, Horse-chestnut, Chestnut, Ash, Birch and Willow are most often affected. The treatment consists of removing the dead wood in the case of severe injury or cankerous growth, down, to live wood and applying hot tar or painting the wound. The exposed side should then be partially protected by brush or boards, until the cambium overgrows the wound. Smaller wounds will usually heal over very well and may be aided by removing the dead wood and painting to keep out insects and disease.

In applying any substance be sure to make the coating thorough and possibly apply two or three coats. This dressing does not influence the healing in any way but is simply a mechanical device to keep out moisture and fungus spores. Therefore every cranny should be filled and if cracks appear later the dressing should be renewed.

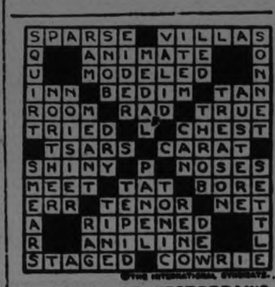
ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS CUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well know authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.



SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

Edgard Auce, 17-year-old member of the crew of a steamer that brought a cargo from Antwerp, expected to find Indians as soon as the vessel got beyond Montreal. Edgard is a Norwegian and Norwegians educate their children well.

A Boy's Mind

However, Edgard is no more ignorant than a great many other European boys. Much of the reading of the European youth consists of translations of the dime novels in which Buffalo Bill, Diamond Dick, and other daredevils are still engaged in adventures in the untamed northern wilderness. These tales are to be found on the street-stands of Rome, of Berlin, of many other Continental cities. They make a far deeper impression on the youthful mind than maps and statistics of population and industry.

No doubt the wooded shores of the St. Lawrence, as seen from the river, have not changed much in appearance since the days of the taking of Quebec by Wolfe. It would not be difficult for a young man of 17, steeped in tales of the North American lakes and prairies, to imagine the lurking redskin behind the tree trunks, and to imagine that the smoke from a factory chimney around a bend of the river rose from the camp-fire of a council of savages.

And after all, Edgard is only so short a time behind the fact.

Cosmetics are attacked in these days at the peril of him who dares assail them. We use the masculine pronoun advisedly. Formerly cosmetics were—well, not in hiding, but in ambuscade, certainly. As a rule they did not choose to be detected for what they were. Painting of lovely countenances is now done with the most complete frankness There is apparent only the slightest attempt to make the painted cheek look like nature's handiwork.

Painted Faces

Bound feet among the Chinese, squeezed cranium among the Flathead Indians, were not natural, but they were the style and therefore popular. So now the face that might have launched a thousand ships is painted in spots till it blazes like Troy town on fire.

Still, this generation of womankind is as logical as were earlier generations. Their mothers wore bustles. No real woman was ever shaped like that. Women wore panniers, hoops. No real woman was ever shaped like that. Women hung bags of hair on the backs of their necks, called them chignons, and everybody knew they were false and that such monstrosities never existed in nature. The paint on womens' faces today is in the same category. There's no pretense that it is real, or could be real. The Hopi Indian maiden paints her face yellow and blue. Nobody thinks her face grew that way. So with this absolutely impossible alabaster. this absolutely impossible red, A red coat on a British soldier is not his real hide, but it looks well. So the red daub on the cheek, as frankly adventitious as the red ribbon on a dress, is a decoration purely.

The art of adornment has both its subtleties and its fanfares. An art of endless complexities, it is much criticized by ignorant man, to the derision of womenkind. It is the part of prudence to gaze respectfully, if wonderingly, and defer comment until after the styles change.

Here's a new one. Reading, Pa., has an official story-teller. There are other towns which have official story tellers, but this is something different. This story-teller tells stories to children. In other places we could mention they are reserved for voters. And the voters may be just as happy as are the children in Reading. A great many of them seem to have been lulled to sleep by the stories they have already been told, so that they don't even bother to come out to vote for more story-tellers. So they get out the same old stories over again, told by the same old story-tellers.

Official Storytellers

Maybe there will be a change, though. If the same story is told often enough it will wake them up by its very monotony.

As maybe some stories we know. And you know.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A FEEDING PROGRAMME INFANTS REQUIRE.

In the Springtime, when the chickens were being hatched, all the newspapers carried articles about how to feed the young things. The poultry editors and reporters wrote pages on feeding. "Minerals for the Chicks," "Green Food for the Chicks"—every conceivable bit of advice was printed for the benefit of the poultry raiser.

I applaud this. It speaks well for the enterprise of the newspaper that they print this informative material. It is a sign of progress that the raisers of poultry are eager for the information and follow the instructions.

As I write, I have before me one of these articles. Here is a quotation: "In the care of the chick, if he is to grow to good size, remain vigorous and healthy, and if he is to grow a suitable frame, provide for adequate flesh development, he must have in his diet considerable mineral elements."

Then this sensible writer continues: "Minerals serve two very distinct functions. They are used directly in building bony tissue for the framework of the body. Bone is quite largely lime and phosphorous. In addition, there is a second and even more important function of minerals, and that is to increase the efficiency of the other foods fed."

Here is another wise statement: "There is another function which minerals are assumed to possess, and which is being given more attention, that minerals seem to be able to build up the body, making it able to resist disease and infections of various kinds. An insufficient amount of mineral not only means poorly grown and small stature and incomplete digestion, but the scarcity also means lowered vitality and tendency to disease."

Every word of this can be applied to human chicks. It is just as true of babies. There must be minerals for the growth of the baby's bones. He must have lime and phosphorus if he is to thrive.

For the same reason, the baby must have minerals to build up resistance to diseases which are watching for a weak place to make attack.

One of the reasons why milk is such a valuable food for growing children is because it is rich in minerals. It contains sulphur, phosphorus, soda, potash, lime, magnesium, iron and iodine.

The fruits and vegetables carry large percentages of mineral substances. They are necessary additions to the diet of the child.

There is another reason why milk, fruits and vegetables are essential. They contain the mysterious vitamins which have everything to do with growth, health and resistance to disease.

Certainly a baby is just as important as a brood of chicks. Let us use as much scientific care in the feeding of the babies and then we will have a bigger, a healthier and a hardier race.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DICKY'S TRIP WITH GOCOMEBACK.

One day when Dicky's Mama called him into the house to get cleaned up for dinner, Dicky flew into a terrible rage and stamped his feet. In the midst of his misbehaving something dropped down on the walk, in front of him.

Then a wee little elfin jumped up in front of him.

"Oh, Gocomeback!" Dicky's frowns left his face and he shook the merry elfin's tiny brown hands. "Where did you come from anyway?"

"From the land of Betwix-and-Between," laughed the elfin. "I was just going over to pay my respects to my little Eskimo friend when I heard you complaining. What's the trouble anyway?"

"Nothing, only, Mama called me to come in and clean up for dinner," replied Dicky. "I just hate to change my clothes. Sometimes I wish I only——"

"Wait a second, wait a second," laughed Gocomeback. "Don't forget yourself. Remember I'm here." Then before Dicky knew what was going on, he found himself standing beside a queer little house, built of great big snow blocks.

"I know," he declared, "this is Eskimo-land all right."

Just then a little yellow faced boy

"I Should Think You'd Freeze."

about Dicky's size came running up all dressed in heavy furs, even a heavy fur cap fitted over his head.

Gocomeback introduced him to Dicky and they all three got down on their knees and crawled into the low doorway of the ice house.

Dicky's eyes nearly popped out, when he saw the little Eskimo boy pull off his heavy fur suit.

"I should think you'd freeze!" exclaimed Dicky who was shivering. When he saw the second suit, that the little fellow had underneath, he laughed. "Well, of all things! You wear two suits of clothes?"

"Sure we do," replied the little Eskimo boy. "We wear the top coat with the fur inside; for the under suit, we wear softer skin and turn the fur inside. That keeps us warm you see."

"But you do take the outside one off every time you come into the house?" asked Dicky.

"Of course we do," laughed the Eskimo boy. "No matter if we come in fifty times a day, we pull off the outer suit every time."

This seemed so funny to Dicky, he laughed out loud and like a puff of smoke, Eskimoland disappeared and Dicky found himself alone in his own front yard.

"Goodness me!" he laughed to himself, "and here I complain when I have to change my clothes once a day. I'm ashamed of myself." Then whistling merrily he ran into the house, and was washed and dressed before his Mama knew it.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, JULY 11.

Although this may be an active day and conspicuous for new projects or adventures, yet many perplexities or annoyances may arise, in business as well as in personal relations. Irritating situations may arise, but contention and strife should be avoided. Be careful in affixing the signature to all writings, social as well as commercial. With proper attention, affairs may survive petty annoyances and bother.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of small annoyances and aggravating circumstances. They should avoid friction and be cautious in signing papers. New projects are favored. Domestic and social affairs may also prove annoying. A child born on this day may be ambitious and generous and may be peculiarly gifted, but may encounter many petty obstacles to the attainment of its desires.

Does Canada Own its Own Arctic?

Bernier, Stefansson and Far-Flung Posts of The "Mounted" Are Sufficient Answer to The Question — Canada Has Landmarks of Possession in The Far North Island in The Frozen Seas That Will Tell MacMillan That He Comes Too Late—Why Canada Even Collects Customs Duties and Imposes Hunting Licenses as Far North as There Are People and Game

By R. C. READE

Does Canada own its Arctic islands?

There is a splendid sample of a question of supererogation or superirritation. It is something like asking if a seal can swim.

In the Arctic ocean north of the mainland of Canada we own and administer by a chain of police posts an empire larger than Alberta and Saskatchewan put together. It has plenty of coal and it may have more gold and silver than Porcupine and Cobalt put together. No one knows but what, in the fulness of time, our national emblem of industry may be not the beaver, but the seal. Even if it be but a poor thing at present there is one thing that is cerain about it. We own it.

These are facts about which many people in Canada are ignorant and many people in the United States skeptical. Our Arctic empire is scarcely a Naboth's vineyard—it grows no grapes and it is nearly 600,000 square miles in extent—but our southern neighbors seem to have cast envious eyes on it. In fact, there is almost a plot at the moment to grab our seal farms and walrus patches.

Prospective claim jumpers who want to bluster and filibuster amongst our ice floes would do well to study the following incident.

It was on September 5th, 1909. The place was on the east coast of Baffin island 600 miles north of Hudson strait and about 2,000 miles north of Toronto, but still comparatively south, for it was 1,500 miles the North Pole. Our Arctic empire is very spacious.

The hour would have been dusk in Toronto, but in these latitudes the sun was still hours from its setting.

The good ship Arctic, owned by the Canadian government and commanded by Captain Joseph Bernier, had completed its annual patrol of our Arctic waters and had its nose pointed south for Quebec through a loppy sea and a slight fog. As it rounded rugged Cape Christian that guards the mouth of a river Clyde, far larger than Scotland's river Clyde, a small whaling schooner loomed out of the mist from its anchorage at the bottom of a bay.

Captain Bernier was on the bridge—in fact, this was his second day in succession on the bridge—and was very curious about this schooner. He had not only the natural curiosity of a sailor in the Arctic to whom a strange ship is a whole year's wonder. He had also the curiosity of a fish and game warden at the sight of a possible poacher. Under a commission from Ottawa he was patrolling Canadian teritorial waters and it was his duty to see that this schooner had a fishing license.

He sent his second officer, William Green, on board the stranger to present his compliments to its captain and to inform him that he, Captain Bernier, would be very pleased to see him in order to discuss a little matter of business.

The schooner was the Jennie from St. John's Newfoundland. Its captain was Captain Samuel Bartlett. It had been chartered by Mr. Harry Whitney, a famous millionaire and big game hunter of New York, for an expedition to Ellesmere Land, the most northern part of Canada.

They had had good luck. The skins of Canadian polar bears were peaked out on the deck to dry. The heads and horns of Canadian polar oxen, the ovibos, adorned the rigging.

"These are Canadian Waters"

The next day, at noon, Mr. Whitney, Captain Bartlett and his first mate, Mr. Fuller, climbed the rope ladder of the Arctic.

"Good day, Mr. Whitney," said Captain Bernier. "Have you your license."

A license in Baffin Land! In no man's land! Mr. Whitney was startled.

"You must have a license," went on Captain Bernier firmly. "These are Canadian waters. You have been hunting in Canadian territory. Ottawa regulations demand a license. It will be $50 please."

"How about it Bartlett?" said Mr. Whitney.

"I guess these are Canadian waters all right," replied the Newfoundlander.

Mr. Whitney handed over a fifty-dollar American bill!

It was a small amount for an American millionaire to pay and a still smaller amount for the dominion treasury to receive. But it involved a great principle. The American was acknowledging the Arctic sovereignty of Canada. Captain Bernier was enforcing it.

This little incident is recommended to the attention of Donald B. MacMillan, the American explorer who is now on his way north to claim our islands known and unknown for the United States of America.

Mr. MacMillan might, as he steams north for 900 miles up Davis straits past Baffin Land, put into Pagnirtung fiord, an arm of Cumberland gulf, on the south of this immense island, or into Pond's inlet, in the lee of Bylet island in the north. In both places he will find Canadian Mounted Police posts. At Pond's inlet he might converse with the friends of Noo-kud-lah—an Agiomuit who in 1923 was rtied by a Canadian judge and jury for murder and sentenced to a term in Stony Mountain penitentiary.

If Mr. MacMillan is still not convinced that he is sailing Canadian waters and landing on Canadial soil, or, rather ice and rocks, he can ask his navigator to head the Peary of Bowdoin west through the northwest passage by way of Lancaster sound and Melville sound, keeping, on his right, the great Canadian islands of north Devon, 300 miles long, Cornwallis, Bathurst and Melville; and, on his left to the south, North Somerset Prince of Wales Land, Victoria Land, 400 miles long, and Banks island, 260 miles long.

Let MacMillan Read This

On the south shore of Melville island, he will find, by the time he gets there, excellent anchorage, if in Winter Harbor. He can not miss it for it is marked not only by Captwain Berniers' cairns but a striking natural landmark called Parry's rock. It is the inscription on that rock that he is particularly requested to read, learn and inwardly digest.

The bronze tablet containing it was set up on Dominion day, July 1st, 1909, on it are maple leaves, the Canadian ensign and the arms of all the provinces of Canada, with this wording:

This Memorial is erected today to commemorate the taking possession for the Dominion of Canada of the whole
Arctic Archipelago
Lying to the north of America from long. 60 degrees W. to 141 degrees W. Up to Latitude 90 degrees N.
Winter Hbr., Melville Island,
C.G.S. Arctic, July 1st, 1909
J. E. Bernier, Commander.

The governor of the State of Maine who has authorized Mr. MacMillan to claim these islands for the State of Maine—one would think Maine itself had enough barren land already—can see this "Trespassers will be Prosecuted" sign much more easily than can Mr. MacMillan, who is now dodging icebergs off Baffin land. All he has to do is to take the night train to Ottawa. A copy of this tablet, our title deed to the Arctic archipelago, is on the wall outside the entrance to the parliamentary library.

If Maine's deputy, Pearys' successor and Amundsen's rival, is not yet satisfied with Canada's title he can drop off at a few of the islands as he makes his way back to Baffin bay which separates our Arctic from Denmark's Arctic which is Greenland.

In Leopold Harbor, North Somerset, he will find in a sealed metal box a document dated the 16th August, 1904, and signed "A. P. Low, officer in charge of dominion expedition to Hudson Bay and northward, on board dominion steamship 'Neptune'. This document declares that the flag of Dominion of Canada has been hoisted in token of formal posession.

Nearby, on Whalen Point, is another document signed by "J. P. Moodie, commissioner for police for Hudson Bay and territories to the north. "It declares, "Duty imported into Canadian territories lying to the north of Hudson Bay will be collected for the present by a Canadian cruiser which will visit these waters annually or more frequently. Any violation of the laws of Canada will be dealt with by an officer of the police accompanying such cruiser."

Policemen and customs officers! We talk as if we owned these islands!

To the east of Melville island and our dominion day declaration of Arctic independence, is Bathurst. It is a trifle larger than Toronto island, for its area is 7,000 square miles. On it is a record left, on the 25th of June, 1851, by Lieut. McClintock of the Sir John Ross expedition which was then in search of Sir John Franklin.

That is only one of a series of records which corroborate Canada's title. British navigators discovered this archipelago. In 1880 the British government renounced in Canada's favor all its own rights of discovery. We accepted this Arctic inheritance and have not been absentee landlords. We have an annual naval patrol. Each year we establish a new police post. We have postoffices, and collect hunting and fishing fees. We have done all the development required by international law. No one in any equity can "jump our claim."

Mr. MacMillan will, in the central area of this archipelago, find records of Canadian occupation on almost any island no matter how small. He can put into Lord Strathcona inlet. He can land on Brodeur Peninsula, he can climb Canada Point, the very momenclature attests our ownership.

He cannot get out of Canada by going north. If he crosses Lancaster sound to North Devon "mounted" police constable E. Anstead will drive his dog team out over the ice from Dundas Harbor and ask to see his fishing or flying license.

If he circles North Devon and tries to plant Old Glory on the south end of Ellesmere Island at Craig Harbor, Corporal Michelson, R.C.M.P., will want to know if the pole and flag have passed the Canadian customs.

If he travels 200 miles farther north he will have to show his passports to another mounted police detachment on Kane Basin. And, unless he beats out the Arctic, which is convoying G. P. Mackenzie, the new governor of the district of Franklin, which is the official name of our island empire, Mr. MacMillan will find a new post still farther north at Buche peninsula.

The money for this was voted in this year's supplementary estimates. There is a real boom in that part of Canada. Eskimos are being brought in from Baffin island and the population is increasing ten-fold and twenty-fold over the long winter night.

This American discoverer of Canadian land will be able to evade our police sentries only by hugging the coast of Greenland, venturing through Robeson channel into Lincoln sea and the polar ocean and landing at the back door of Ellesmere Land, say, on Axel Heiberg island.

Frozen Bone of Contention.

That is our Achilles heel in the archipelago. It is there our American cousins hope to wound us by establishing squatters' rights. It was here that MacMillan proved that Parry's so-called Croker land was really joker land. It is from here that on his present expedition he hopes to fly to the discovery of land in latitudes between our longitudes. Axel Heiberg land is at present a bone, a very much frozen bone, of contention between Ottawa and Washington.

But the invaders reckon without Stefansson's solar and polar reckonings. Steffansson, in 1016, explored the confines of Axel Heiberg very thoroughly, discovered Perley island, Meighen island and Borden Island—those were the days of a Conservative administration—visited Ringnes Land and Amund Ringnes Land, which MacMillan thought one island, was really a minor Arctic archipelago.

In fact, our rights by reason of travel and occupancy are stronger in the west than in the east. MacMillan, in short, is like a boy circling a circus tent to find a peg loose. When he verifies the fact that our tent pegs are too close together and too well driven in he may ask us for permission to help himself to the musk oxen and aviation fields of our Ellesmere Land as he has already asked Denmark for permission to land at Etah in Greenland, opposite our Kane Basin post.

It is said that the MacMillan expedition has scrupled to take out a Canadian flying license lest thereby it formally recognize Canadian Arctic sovereignty. The governor of Maine has not yet met the governor of Keewatin or inspected our Arctic police posts. So Washington is still trying to make up its mind officially to concede our undoubted Arctic status, the possession and administration, which is nine-tenths of international law.

But Mr. Harry Whitney of New York has already decided this question to his compatriots. When sixteen years ago in the cabin of the Arctic at the mouth of the Clyde river in Baffin island he handed over to Captain Bernier $50 in good American money, that was money to bind the tacit bargain that they should keep Maine and Alaska and let us have the pole and all lands subjacent thereto between 60 degrees and 141 degrees west of Greenwich.

Do we own the Arctic islands? Our "mounted" policemen and the good ship Arctic are willing to tell the whole world that we do. And, in addition, there is the historic significance of that crisp and prompt, even in no doubt somewhat reluctant, $50 American bill.

K. OF C. PICNIC WELL ATTENDED

Pleasant Water Trip to Wallace's Point Aboard Stoney Lake.

GAMES AND SPORTS.

The Knights of Columbus organized and carried out a very successful and enjoyable water picnic yesterday, via the "Stoney Lake" to Wallace's Point, where a programme of sports and races was arranged. There were nearly two hundred and fifty people on board, a large number being children. The arrangements for the latter were very generous, all children under 12 years of age accompanied by adults being carried passage free. Among the juveniles were some fifty from St. Vincent's Orphanage and from the Orphanage at Cobourg, the latter being escorted by several members of the order from Cobourg. Many of the Knights also brought their ladies, so that there was a large representative body on board.

The trip commenced at half past one o'clock from the George street wharf, thence down to Rice Lake and back to Wallace's Point, where a three hours' landing was made, and where the seesaws, swings, giant strides and toboggan slides were well patronized by the more youthful members. A number of races for children were also run off, a prize being given to each child taking part. A baseball game was played between the Knights of Columbus and the Bohunks, won by the former, with a score of 6-2. The pitchers were Masterson and McCarney, the catchers Kennealley and J. O'Toole, while O'Toole and Costello officiated as umpires. A second baseball game between the two teams was pitched by Corkery and J. Primeau, the catchers being M. Roche and C. Wolfe, T. Tuckett acting as umpire. The score was 12-10, the game being won by the Bohunks, Dr. Hayes making a home run.

Final events were tugs of war, married vs. single men, won by the former, and Knights vs. Bohunks, in which the Knights scored the victory.

On the outward and return trips, many willing musicians amongst the crowd of ladies provided music for dancing, and cards were also played by many. The return to the city was made about half past eight o'clock, after a half day trip which was manifestly enjoyed by everyone present.

A very energetic and painstaking committee looked after arrangements in splendid style, and was composed of Messrs. J. J. Doris (chairman), J. J. Duffus and James O'Brien.

STORE EMPLOYEES WENT PICKNICKING

J. C. Turnbull Co. Staff Motored to Hall's Bridge Yesterday.

The first regular Thursday half day holiday was spent in a very enjoyable manner by the employees of the J. C. Turnbull Company's establishment, when a large number motored to Hall's Bridge, Buckhorn, for a jolly outing, leaving the store at half past one o'clock and returning in the evening hours.

In the grounds by the school house at Hall's Bridge, a programme was run off, including a game of ladies' softball, resulting in a score of 5-0, a boys' match, featured by several home runs, and resulting in a score of 15-23, after which supper was served in a manner that left nothing to be desired, by Mr. and Mrs. White, of the Windsor House, whose qualities as hosts and the excellence of their cuisine were very much appreciated by the visitors.

After supper, races were run, as follows: Open race for men, 100 yard dash, won by Wilson Dunlop. Open race for ladies, 100 yard dash, won by Miss F. Hill. Needle race, won by Mr. W. W. Turnbull. Potato race, won by Miss F. Hill. Farthest ball-throwing contest, won by Miss B. Dunlop. Boot and shoe race, won by Mr. Percy Sexsmith. Farthest ball-throwing contest for men, won by Mr. Alfred Weston. Sack race for ladies, won by Miss F. Hill.

The programme of sports was entered into with real enthusiasm by all present, who seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly.

MAYOR APPROVES AUTOS STOPPING

Says Chief Newhall Will Likely Have a Report For Police Commission.

SAFETY MEASURE.

Alderman Joseph Crowe's proposals that automobiles should stop before crossing busy intersections is today heartily approved by his worship, Mayor Turner. His worship pointed out that while the matter was introduced in Council at one time, it was not discussed to any extent since the matter was on the order paper for consideration at the Police Convention, which recently took place in Winnipeg.

The Police Commission has not met, said Mayor Turner, since Chief Newhall returned but the Chief will doubtless have some information to impart on the subject at the next meeting.

R. C. Braund, just returned home from an extensive tour of the United States which lasted for some weeks, states that in many cities, all traffic stops for a moment at cross-street intersections before attempting to pass through the thoroughfare, and says that he not only approves the plan but further declares that it meets with considerable success as a solution of traffic difficulties.

When the matter was discussed in Council by Alderman Crowe, Chief Newhall had in mind the possibility of a uniform code of traffic laws in which Canada and the United States might co-operate, thereby eliminating the endless trouble resulting to traffic from the interchange of tourists who are unacquainted with the bylaws of each particular municipality.

As long as each city on both sides of the line has distinctive traffic regulations governing the parking and use of motor vehicles, so long will confusion and danger continue as a factor of city streets.

If uniform parking and traffic legislation can be obtained then the pleasure of motoring throughout Canada and United States will be immeasurably increased as it will not be necessary for each new arrival in a city to look up the police in the city or town to obtain information on local restrictions.

Mayor Turner stated that he has given much thought to the matter and is very anxious to have unified simple legislation which while safeguarding the public will not prove of discomfort and annoyance to guests.

SEVERAL WEEKS TO GET INFORMATION

No Payment on Home Bank Deposits For Some Time Yet.

TORONTO, July 10. — (Canadian Press.)—G. T. Clarkson, K.C., joint liquidator of the Home Bank of Canada, stated to-day that the payments of the 35 per cent. reimbursement of depositors who had les than $500 in the bank would not commence before the middle of August. It will be at least four or five weeks before the initial information necessary for these payments can be provided.

Information necessary before Commissioner Maclean can proceed wtih the claims of these who had more than $500 deposited will not be available until September, the liquidator stated. Justice A. K. McLean, of the Exchequer Court, the commissioner, had a conference with the liquidators in this city last evening.

Canada had, in 1924, 655,121 registered motor vehicles, or one to every 140 of the population.

In Canada seven of the nine Provinces have passed Town Planning Act.

CHEMISTRY AIDS TO INDUSTRIES

Kiwanis Hear of Its Value in Manufacturing Plants of Country.

MUCH RESEARCH.

At the Kiwanis luncheon in the Empress today, President Charles Cook occupied the chair, and J. Wells Frazer provided the Booster topic which described in pithy words the standing of Mr. Frazer and the institution which he represents. Notice of the District Convention, to be held in Ottawa, September 21 and 22, was read, and the members exhibited a strange interest in the announcement.

E. R. Stocker, brother of Kiwanian Walter Stocker, and Dr. Thos. Wearing, Dean of Colgate University, New York, and brother of City Solicitor Joseph Wearing, were presented and welcomed as visiting guests.

The speaker, Mr. Richard Rowat, chemist of the Canadian Packing Company of Toronto, was then introduced and he presented his topic of "Industrial Research in Canada."

Mr. Rowat dealt particularly with the manufacture of the products resulting from wood distillation, the more important of which are acetone and acetic acid.

In years before the war, United States firms carried on the hardwood distillation business disregarding the thought of possible competition from Canada, but due to the war and the increased importance of steel reduction, considerable attention was devoted by government chemical plants with the result that Canada evolved chemical means whereby acetone might be produced. This discovery made a remarkable change in the steel refining industry and as Canada developed large plants, notably at Shawinigan Falls, this country now vies with the States in the industry to such an extent that our Southern neighbor is now seeking a protective tariff in order that their hardwood distillation plants may continue to operate profitably.

This but one instance of the chance which chemical research has brought to industrial Canada.

The question has been asked: "Is our government doing the utmost to aid research of this kind?" And as a reply, there stands the fact that in Canada are Government research laboratories and University laboratories where the cleverest students engage their time on problems of industrial importance.

McGill, because of its proximity to Shawinigan Falls occupies its laboratory with problems relative to that industrial plant, while Toronto University is more keenly concerned with the chemistry of life.

Dr. Douglas McIntosh of the British Columbia staff has perfected a method of refining zinc which will greatly reduce the cost of the product. Great American industries owe their expansion wholly to chemical research and employ competent staffs at a sufficient salary to attract the world's talent. Much of Canada's genius have been drawn there, attracted by larger opportunities than have been presented here.

In a small plant a chemist may be employed. He has routine duties but gives his spare time to the solution of production problems. Should he make some discovery of moment which is of importance in increasing production on lowering overhead, he is relieved of routine work and allowed to devote full time to analysis. It is usually by this means that expansion results.

DEATH OF TWO SUICIDE PACT

Police Believe Detective and Girl Agreed on the Shooting.

GIRL FIRED SHOTS.

RUMSON, N. J., July 10 — Sergeant Detective Henry D. Walling, of Long Branch, and Miss Mary A. Linzmayer, of Atlantic Highlands, were killed early to-day in Walling's Limousine by bullets through the heart, which the police said were fired by the girl from Walling's service revolver.

Walling was 28 years old, married and the father of one child, and a son of William D. Walling, chief of the Long Branch police.

Miss Linzmayer was 22 years old, and was a graduate nurse.

The police expressed the belief that the shooting was the culmination of a suicide pact brought on by Walling's attachment for the girl.

REJECT MINERS' WAGE DEMANDS

Anthracite Operators Say Increase Would Mean One-third Raise.

MUST LOWER PRICES.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 10 (Can. Press) — Rejecting anthracite miners' demands for a 10 per cent. increase in wages for contract workers and $1 a day for day men, on the ground that, together with the other demands, the increase would really mean $100,000,000 a year or a third of the present wage scale, Samuel D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators, at the Traymore Hotel, yesterday afternoon, told representatives of the miners that, with increasing competition and diminishing sales, coal prices must be lowered if full time employment in the industry is to be continued.

Ford Motor of Canada In Action In Australia

Commencing July first the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, through its subsidiary companies, Ford Manufacturing Company of Australia Proprietory, Limited, and Ford Motor Company of Australia Proprietory, Limited, took over the assembly and distribution of its products in Australia. These Australian companies are each capitalized at £1,500,000 and are now erecting five plants in order to adequately take care of the growing Ford business.

Ford bodies and such other parts as can be produced will be manufactured by the Manufacturing Company, while the assembly and distribution of the products will be carried out by the Sales Company. Both organizations have headquarters in Geelong, while the Sales Company will have branches at Perth, Adelaide, Brisbane and Sydney.

Exportation of Ford products to Australia commenced in 1905, growing to more than 1,000 cars annually in 1911-12. The following year 2,626 cars were shipped from Ford City, Ontario, and the growth increased yearly, more than 21,000 cars being shipped in 1923.

The establishment of the two companies gives the Canadian company its second subsidiary organization overseas, the other being in Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

EVOLUTION TRIAL ONLY FANTASTIC

Englishman's View of Tennessee Affair Not Very Flattering.

LONDON, July 10. — (United Press).—The Daily Mail to-day expresses the opinion of the average Englishman on the subject of the Tennessee evolution trial in an editorial denouncing the trial as fantastic. "The evolution trial at Dayton is astonishing. In this country evolution is treated scientifically and is not mixed with religion. The idea of prosecuting a person for preaching Darwinism is fantastic, but it is more fantastic for the trial to be turned into a movie show.

"Dayton took advantage of her new-found fame. A public show never was advertised with greater success. The town is packed with professors, journalists, sight-seers, fundamentalists and mocking scoffers. The scenes are set for a roaring comedy, but it has its serious aspect in an attempt to stifle liberty of thought. This attempt is doomed to failure."

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Cautious Attitude Shown On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, July 10 (Canadian Press)—Forenoon trading developed a series of puzzling cross currents. A cautious attitude adopted by the leading commission houses and a tendency to await the publication of the U. S. Steel tonnage figures at noon curtailed bullish options and made the market more susceptible to profit taking which reached extensive portions in motor shares.

Short selling also broke out in the automobile group on reports of falling off in sales and production. Oil stocks showed little response to announcement of another advantage in mid-continent crude prices. Some of specialties including General Electric, American, American Ice, May Department Stores and Underwood Typewriter developed independent strength. Little interest was manifested in the rail list, but leading high grade issues and members of the southwestern group were steady. Call money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent.

General Reaction After Advances In Toronto

TORONTO, July 10 (Canadian Press)—Brazilian, Winnipeg and B. C. Fishing were the active stocks on the Toronto Exchange this morning. Reaction set in after the general advance of the past few days and almost without exception the list this morning turned downward. Brazilian eased off 5-8 at 36 1-8. Winnipeg a quarter at 50 1-4 and British Columbia Fishing 7-8 at 48 1-2, after selling as low as 47 3-4. Consolidated Smelters also dropped 5-8, at 89. Trading on the whole was fairly heavy.

Good Reports Sent Wheat Prices Slightly Downward

CHICAGO, July 10 — Canadian Press. — Downturns in wheat values took place to-day during the early dealings. Bearish aspects of the government wheat crop reports together with the fact that Liverpool quotations were lower, tended to weaken the market here, and so likewise did the word of cool fair weather in the Northwest. The forecast, however was for warmer temperatures likely to increase the danger of damage by black rust.

Opening prices ranging from 1¼c decline to 1-4c advance, Sept. 143 5-8 to 144 1-4, and December 144½ to 145, were followed by something of a rally but then by a set back, all around. Corn prices were responsive to bullish views taken of the government report about the new corn crop. After opening at ¼c lower to 1c higher, Sept. 103 3-4 to 104, the market scored gains all around. Oats sympathised with wheat rather than corn. Starting at 1-8c to 7-8c off, Sept. 45 5-8 to 45 7-8, oats continued to sag.

In line with hog values, the provision market was firm.

Dutch Leonard Held Boston to Five Hits in Fifth Straight Win.

CLEVELAND, July 9 (Canadian Press).—Cleveland defeated Philadelphia today, 13 to 11. Rain ended the game in the last half of the seventh inning with two Indians on base and two out. At first it was announced that the score reverted to the sixth inning, which would have made the result 13 to 5, but a later ruling by the official scorer in compliance of rule 20 of the American League Rules made all that took place in the seventh legal.

The Mackmen scored six runs in the seventh, driving Uhle from the mound. The Indians scored six runs in their half of the fifth inning, and used all the Athletic pitchers, but Stokes and Rommel roughly.

The Indians' victory put them in sixth place, the Yankees failing to play to a decision. Score:

EDDIE ROMMEL'S GREAT SUCCESS HAS CAUSED CRAZE FOR KNUCKLE BALL PITCHING IN THE MAJORS

BY BILLY EVANS

Few major league pitchers have two good years in succession.

It is an accepted truth in baseball that a pitching star slumps after a big season.

In 1922 Ed Rommel of the Philadelphia Athletics was the twirling sensation of the American League. With a seventh-place club he won 27 games, a most remarkable performance.

The following season, with a better club that considerably improved its percentage, Rommel fell one game shy of getting an even break. Last season he won only three more games than he lost.

Two so-so years, after his extraordinary pitching in 1922, were not caused by loss of stuff. Rommell had his usual assortment of speed and curves but just couldn't win consistently. He simply didn't get the breaks.

This season with the Athletics out in front, riding high on the crest of popularity, Rommel appears all set for a year that will outdo his 1922 performance.

Perfect Pitching Poise

There is no more interesting pitcher in the American League than Ed Rommel. He boasts a pitching repertoire that includes just about everything and, in addition, he has the perfect poise.

Rommel's pitching is almost machine-like. He uses a smooth, easy delivery and throws the fast one, the curve or the slow ball with exactly the same motion. He is grace personified.

EDDIE ROMMEL AND FOUR DIFFERENT WAYS IN WHICH HE GRIPS THE BALL TO FOOL THE BATTERS.

Since the advent of the lively ball, pitchers have experimented with all kinds of deliveries in an effort to curtail hitting. Perhaps no style has been more exploited in the last five or six years than the knuckle ball. Rommel is a past master in delivering it.

Without a doubt, Rommel boasts the best knuckle ball in either major league. As a matter of fact, it is more a finger-nail ball with Rommel than a "knuckler."

Rommel's freak "knuckler" is a most difficult ball to catch. It is an extremely hard ball to judge, because it seldom takes exactly the same break. It has a tendency therefore, to make a catcher look badly, because it is not unusual for him to drop about half of the pitches with Rommel working.

Knuckle Ball Effective.

Cy Perkins of the Athletics, one of the game's greatest catchers, tells me that his main thought is to break the ball down rather than catch it. With runners on the bases in a position to steal, it is almost foolhardy to use the knuckle ball, because of the difficulty experienced by the catcher in holding it.

Rommel has good speed, though not of the Dazzy Vance type. He has a corking good curve. His slow ball is of the best but his greatest weapon is the knuckle ball. Properly controlled, it is almost unhitable.

In his great 1922 season Rommel worked the knuckler overtime. Realizing its great effectiveness it caused a majority of the pitchers to experiment with it. It is now part of the pitching repertoire of nearly every big leaguer. However, there is just one Ed Rommel style.

Rommel says he will surely win 20 ball games this year. Connie Mack is inclined to think it will be 25 or more.

ROYALS WON IN A SLOPPY GAME

Beat Kiwanis 3-2, Scoring Two in Seventh Inning On Errors.

GOOD PITCHING.

Four errors in a row in the seventh inning cost the Kiwanis Midgets a game with the Royals at King Edward School grounds last night. Trebilcock had pitched a splendid game, allowing only four hits, no two of them in the same inning, but the fielding of the team was no good, six errors being shown on the score sheet, one by the hurler himself. On the other hand, Goodson, although he allowed seven hits, five of them coming in two innings, was given airtight support by his mates, who had not the semblance of an error. He also struck out seven, being good in the pinches. Both of the losers' runs were made by clean hits, three singles providing transportation home for Jones in the fifth, while Jones' crashing double to centre in the sixth, sent home Sowden, who had singled.

The Royals broke into the scoring column in the first. After Hope had grounded to Sowden, Jones dropped the last strike on Beavis. He recovered and threw to first in time to head off the batter, but Sowden dropped the throw. Beavis stole second and went to third on Carroll's infield out. Hatton chose this auspicious moment to beat out a grounder to Doughty, which went for a hit, scoring Beavis.

After the Kiwanians had evened matters up in the fifth, and had gone ahead in the sixth, the Royals got off to a bad start in the seventh, grounders to short stop and second base retiring Wilson and Goodson. Hope then dropped a single behind Doughty and stole second. Doughty messed up Beavis' roller. With runners on first and third, Trebilcock missed Spry's grounder, allowing Hope to score the tieing run. Jones had Beavis thrown out stealing third, but McDuffee dropped the ball. Hatton then hit to McDuffee, whose throw pulled Dormer from the bag on what should have been the third out. Beavis scored on the play with the winning run.

Good work in the field by Hope and Hollingsworth featured the play of the winners, while Dormer, Doughty and Sangster showed good form for the losers.

Jones with single and double in three tries was the heavy hitter. Sangster with two singles in three trips and Hope with two in four, were the other batsmen to collect an extra hit.

A surprising lack of sportsmanship was shown by players and supporters of the winning team, who kept up a constant clamor of extremely personal remarks directed at the members of the opposing team

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

As is commonly known among golfers, the forward swing is an exact reverse of the back swing, unless the player makes some violent exertion in the forward swing to change everything. The reason; then, that we drag the club away from the ball, with club-head even with hands, is so that the wrist action will take place late in the back swing—that is, the wrists break over near the top of the back swing. Then when the forward swing, reversing the back swing, takes place, the wrist action will be delayed, in the the natural order of things, until the clubhead is near the ball. Of course there is something of a gradual wrist-breaking all the way back; the thing is not to have this action too fast, The maximum wrist action then takes place as the ball is hit.

BETTER BATTLE WITH GEROW MEN HERE TOMORROW

Petes, Still Mad, Can Hardly Wait for the Game to Start.

LOOK FOR REVENGE.

Jibes of Belleville Fans Ringing in Their Ears Yet.

Tomorrow's Belleville-Peterboro game at Riverside Park will be no love-feast for the Petes are still mad all over at the showing they made in Belleville and at the rude jibes of the Quinte fans, who had a great opportunity to rub it in, and took full advantage of it.

Belleville on the other hand are overjoyed at the prospects of getting into the play off as a result of their last two victories and they will have plenty of fight tomorrow.

It should be full of tobasco all the way and the Petes will have to hit their stride of last week to overcome the Railroaders who are hitting with their usual gusto, fielding snappily and getting much better pitching than earlier in the season. They are the only team that has not been defeated in the second half of the schedule and must be regarded a serious contender.

The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp.

Saturday's Soccer Bill At Oval and King Edward

Peck and Taylor Cup Game; Also Juvenile Championship.

Saturday's soccer bill includes three very important games in the different series of competition.

The Quaker Oats face the Thistle in the semi-final of the Peck Cup on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. Referee, Wm. Rickard. Linesmen, McGregor and McKinley.

During the last two seasons, the Canadian Woollens have carried off the Peck trophy two years in succession but they have to meet the fast Quaker Oats aggregation in the first round this year. No doubt, many changes will be made in the Quaker team, owing to William Curtis being injured last week, perhaps his brother Harry will occupy the position between the uprights. They anticipate a win tomorrow against the Thistle who are in many difficulties through the lack of players and minor injuries, at any rate, all the fans will get a treat in soccer in this competition.

Another very important tussel tomorrow afternoon, is the De Laval versus Warsaw game at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. C.P.C. are the present holders of the much coveted trophy.

Before the foregoing encounter, the Young Vets meet the Juvenile league leaders, De Laval Juveniles This will be an interesteing seventy minute battle because the Vets drew with them in previous league match.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

The Belleville crew will be here tomorrow and everything points to a "wow" of a ball game. Walter Gerow's men, who were regarded as out of the hunt a week ago, have won their last two starts, and with a chance to get up among the leaders have taken the bit in their teeth and are running wild. The Railroaders played smart ball behind effective pitching by Goyer on Wednesday, and the Petes at their best would have had the toughest time in the world squeezing out a victory. The Johnstonites had a terrible blow-up in that game, but they hope to get down to earth again in time for tomorrow's fixture and to register a win over the moguls.

• • • • • • • • •

Tomorrow's games are of great importance. Should the Petes beat Belleville and Oshawa turn the tables on Kingston, the home talent will have first place to themselves again. If they are beaten, however, and Oshawa wins, Peterboro, Oshawa and Kingston would be tied for first and Belleville would be only two games behind the trio. On the other hand, should both Peterboro and Kingston win, the Ponies and Petes will be tied for the leadership, with Oshawa second. Then, again, if Kingston beats Oshawa and Belleville is victorious here, Kingston would be first, Peterboro second and Oshawa third. It is a merry old race.

• • • • • • • • •

The Petes now hold both the best and the worst fielding performances of the season. They are the only team in the Central loop to turn in an errorless game, and they are also the only crew to make eleven errors in one battle.

• • • • • • • • •

Peterboro hockey fans will be shocked to learn of the death of Fred. B. Denison, former local hockey star, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident. "Dennie" was a member of the Peterboro Bear Cats, the junior team with which Joe Dwyer made his start and which went to the O.H.A. semi-finals in 1913. Afterwards he played with the Peterboro intermediate. He was also a star on the old Strathcona team which won the City League championship. He was always popular with players and fans, and the news of his tragic death will be heard with sorrow by many old friends in Peterboro.

• • • • • • • • •

Tomorrow's game will start at the usual hour, 3 o'clock, and will undoubtedly draw a big crowd, particularly as there is not another home fixture until the week after next.

ALL STARS VS. EXAMINER.

Interesting Game Will Be Played After Central League Clash.

Immediately after the Belleville-Peterboro Central League clash tomorrow afternoon, a Mercantile League game will be staged between the Lock Works All Stars and the Examiner. Both teams are tied for first place in the Mercantile and with the leadership of the league at stake, a great game can be expected. The winner of tomorrow afternoon's battle will gain possession of the first half of the league.

Both teams have some well known players on their rosters, the Lock Works including in their list, Ken Baker, Doug Moore, Irvin Bailey, Frank Jobbit, Nicholls, Black and lately they have acquired Ralph who dishes them up for Hillcrests in the juniors. The Examiner have on their line up Johnny Marchen, Harry Dugan, Bill Collins, Ab Delahaye, Harold Franks, Roy Taylor.

This game should be a thriller and the fans would be well advised to stay after the Central game and see the Mercantilers in action. The game will start right after the Central League fixture, and Edgar LeBarr will be umpire-in-chief.

SEMI-FINAL FOR W. H. TAYLOR CUP

Warsaw and De Laval Teams Slated For King Edward Park Game.

The semi-final for the Taylor Cup will be played on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon. The competing teams will be the De Laval and Warsaw. The game is called for 3 p.m. sharp.

Referee—F. McKinley.

MARMORA, July 10.—To raise funds for the equipment of the children's playground at Deloro, a gala day is being held on July 16. An exhibition baseball game, a picture show and a dance will in all probability, be the chief attractions. With an energetic committee at work, the event should be well patronized and highly successful.

PIRATES' CHIEF REVIEWS CLIMB

Started Badly This Season, But Emerged From Slump.

HAVE THE PUNCH.

NEW YORK, July 9.—"Nothin'" —Bill McKechnie, manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, answered without hesitation when he was asked what had caused his club to ascend from last to first place in the National League.

"We've got a good ball club," he went on to say, "and we're up there because we belong there. We're not claiming any pennant, but we would be saps if we didn't think we had a chance.

"From what I hear around the country it seems that a lot of the fans think there was something accidental about the spurt that brought us into first place, and even if we are playing good baseball, they don't thing that we will last. They always keep yelling about 1921, when the Giants took five straight games away from us and beat us out of the pennant. They don't know what a terrible start we got this season, and what a time we had to get going. We had our slump early and got through it. The Giants, the Robins and the Reds are having their difficulties now."

Tremendous hitting, good pitching and a fine spirit have made what looks to be a pennant winner out of the Pirates. The most impressive things observed about this transformed team is its punch, its speed and its hustle. There was a time when the gameness of the team as a whole was questioned, and when its seriousness was doubted But there is certainly nothing timid or slow about this team.

Eight of the team are hitting the ball better than, .330 and three others are around .300. Lee Meadows is having the greatest year of his career, and has been the mainstay of the team. Yde, the southpaw sensation last year, is geting around in shape, and the other pitchers, including 43-year-old Babe Adams, have been doing their duty.

Two months ago, it seemed that the Giants would be first in a runaway race for the pennant, and that the Pirates would do well to get out of the second division. It doesn't take much of a winning streak in the early season to pull a team up, and a short losing streak will act just as quickly in pulling it down.

The Pirates are leading the league by two full games now. Much will depend upon the outcome of the present series.

The Giants are known to be of the opinion that Pittsburg wants to curl up in the heavy going, and they feel that if the Pirates are to be their chief opposition that they will win. The Pirates may convince them that they are wrong in this series.

It has been heard that Fred Clarke, the manager of the club in its pennant winning days, has been responsible for the improvement. Clarke has been sitting on the bench and helping McKechnie, but persons traveling with the club said that he has not interfered with McKechnie, and that the Pirates are winning because they are a good ball club.

PETERBOROUGH C. O. B. L. AVERAGES.

Wednesday's debacle at Belleville did no good to the Petes' fielding averages, while the only batter to gain any points was Shiner Johnston with one hit out of three. Herb Wolfe, who was not in Wednesday's game, still leads with the willow, his average being .350, with Max Swanston second and Hap Harrison third, the three being the only players to hit over .300.

Hap Harrison's hitting record was stopped by Goyer. He had hit safely in thirteen games, during which period he registered one homer, three triples, two doubles and eleven singles, scored eleven runs and drove in thirteen.

Swanston has made the most hits, 19, driven in the most runs, 14, made the most doubles, 5, and is tied with Legon and Harrison in run-scoring with eleven.

Rose has drawn the most walks, 8 altogether, and has been hit 6 times, while Legon has struck out the most, whiffing twelve times.

JAPANESE CART STRANGE VEHICLE

Descendant of Ox-Cart and Picturesque Norinomo

If you have ever traveled in Japan, you know that your visit would be incomplete and disappointing if you did not take at least one ride in the jinrikisha. And if you have ever used this two-wheeled vehicle as a conveyance you remember, with a giggle, how insecure and precarious you felt your position to be. For the first few moments you thought: "No accident can ever befall me while my carriage is drawn hy human beings." But then an alien thought entered your mind: "What if the man should think of something funny, and in laughing, drop the carriage suddenly?"

But this never happens because the rickshaw bearers take their jobs very seriously and often arrange races to see which member of the profession has the most endurance.

The jinrikisha has only come into use in Japan within the last fifty years. Before this time the roads of oriental countries were crowded with all manner of elaborate vehicles. The most frequently used by the upper classes, were ox-carriages, norimono, kago and carts drawn by hand. The ox-carriages, used only by members of the nobility and venerable aristocrats, were constructed of rich lacquer. The curtains suspended in front to afford the desired privacy were of the finest bamboo workmanship, with thick cords and tassels of silk. The whole carriage was upholstered in elegantly embroidered satins, and drawn by an ox gaily bedecked with flags and ribbons.

The ox-cart which is now entirely out of use except in certain parts of China, was succeeded by the norimono. The norimono, although not so elaborate as the ox-cart, was really more picturesque. It resembled a miniature house with a brightly painted roof from the top of which was extended a long pole. This pole was wide enough to admit two men on either side to grasp, hold and support the whole carriage. Thus traveling in the norimono you were suspended in the air during the entire trip, except when the bearers paused for rest.

The kago and the cart which followed it were at first considered too plebian for use by the upper classes but they were finally induced to come down from their "high horses." When the jinrikisha was introduced in 1870, Chinese and Japanese elite accepted the simple carriage with the feeling that "life is not what it used to be." But they accepted it just the same because it was the only type of conveyance available.

4,868,903 of the Canadian population of 8,988,483, in 1921, were of British origin; French, 2,452,751?

INDIANS LEAD IN SECOND HALF

Play Brilliantly in Field to Defeat Keene By 5-1 Score.

TALL CLOUTING.

At Curve Lake last evening, the Indians won a well-earned victory over Keene by the score of 5 to 1. It was the first game in the second half of the East Peterborough Baseball League. Infield errors by the visitors helped Curve Lake get the decision.

Some tall clouting featured the game, Keene getting two three-baggers and the Indians a home run. Keene started a rally in the sixth, but the homesters performed brilliantly in the field and held the invaders to their only run of the game.

ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT.

Keen dissatisfaction with the federal government's stand on the St. Lawrence river development project was expressed by Acting-Premier Hon. George S. Henry, of Ontario, who declared that, notwithstanding Ottawa's edict, Ontario would not cease to press with every means at its disposal for early development.

the indictment, as expected, legal arguments would take most of the court day. Should the programme develop, the selection of a jury to try the case would not begin until to-morrow, with the possibility that the case would not be actually started before Monday.

Thirteen lawyers, eight for the prosecution and five for the defence are in Dayton ready for the trial. One hundred and sixty newspaper reporters are covering the trial and microphones and loud speakers have been installed.

"If man without inspiration attempts to delve into the mysteries of God," states Judge John Raulston, who is presiding, "he finds himself overwhelmed in perplexities. Therefore I am much interested that the unerring hand of Him, who is the author of all Truth and Justice shall direct every official act of mine."

"It would be better for Tennessee to give up school books than to abandon the Bible," declared W. J. Bryan, counsel for the prosecution.

Clarence Darrow, of the defense counsel said: "Scopes isn't on trial. Civilization is on trial. They (the prosecution) are opening the doors for a reign of bigotry and heresy equal to anything in the middle age. No man's belief will be safe if they win."

Opinions In Britain.

LONDON, July 10.—(Canadian Press.)— Some of Britain's most noted divines and scientists condemn the Tennessee law forbidding the teaching of evolution, in a symposium published by Weekly Nature. Some of the opinions say the Tennessee law is the result of "ignorant fanaticism," and that it is a medieval gesture.

The Bishop of Birminham is quoted as saying: "As one who values intellectual freedom, I am shocked that Anglo-Saxon communities should seek by legislation and prosecution to prevent the spread of knowledge. As a Christian I am dismayed by the movement which opposes the reasonable formulation of Christian faith."

"I do not regard the teaching of evolution in any moderate form as necessarily conflicting with the revealed account of creation," Nature quotes the Rev. A. F. Day, of the Catholic Church of Immaculate Conception as stating.

Sir Edwin Ray Lankester, distinguished scientist, stated that the result of excluding the studies of State schools and colleges that which many citizens wish to have accessable for themselves and children would be a boycott of these institutions.

NEW FILM BASED ON HOLLYWOOD LIFE

Anna Q. Nilsson, Lewis Stone Co-featured in Entertaining Vamp Picture.

Something to get excited about — a motion picture without a "juvenile or a flapper!"

This is "Inez from Hollywood" the First National production which opened last night at the Roya'.

The principal roles are played by Anna Q. Nilsson, as Inez and Lewis S. Stone, as Stewart Cuyler. This is in line with the very praiseworthy tendency shown by the most intelligent producers to cast in their leading roles actors and actresses, rather than merely pretty faces and youthful inexperience. Not that Anna Q. isn't beautiful enough to satisfy the most critical in the role of Hollywood's reigning vamp."

Stone has an ideal role as a millionaire man-about-town who is wise enough to escape from the siren's toils only to fall in love with her younger sister. The sister is played by Mary Astor and other members of the cast include Laurance Wheat, Rose Dione, Snitz Edwards, Harry Depp, Ray Hallor and E. H. Calvert.

The picture is primarily an intimate view into the hearts and lives of the Hollywood film folks, and as Directed by Alfred E. Green, who recently performed the same office for "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," it demonstrates Green's versatility. Whereas the latter picture was roaring comedy, "Inez" is the truest and sincerest drama of a woman's heart.

AMATEUR NIGHT

Last night at the Royal another list of local amateurs made their bow and won the approval of the large audience.

The outstanding acts being Clarence Hopkins and Geo. Houghton in "The Tinker Song," and another semi-classic harmony number. Mr. Devey accompanied the boys and by the talent displayed evidently Mr. Devey has a hand in their musical training.

Elizabeth Harrison, with her song, "Don't Bring Lulu," also was up to the mark. The other acts were fair. Tom Dunlop sang "Let Me Be the First to Kiss You Good Morning," Marguerite Dunlop sang "I'll See You in My Dreams," and Genevieve O'Brien did very well with "Pal of My Dreams."

Mr. Harris sang the new Leo Feist number, "Pal of My Cradle Days," with slides, and a new novelty was introduced by the audience singing the chorus of half a dozen of the popular hits, the words being thrown on the screen.

AT THE CAPITOL

BARBARA LA MARR IN "THE WHITE MONKEY"

The vogue for "vamp" ladies seems to be on the wane, or perhaps the newer type of "vamp" doesn't put it across in quite the same way as she used to do. Possibly again, the theme of modern stories isn't as strong as in the days when the siren female was at her height.

Barbara LeMarr has all the finishings, the gowns and the make-up and the poise, of the original "vamp," but she hasn't the punch. She combines a technique that ought to be snaky with an appealing, little girl manner that spoils the effect. When her husband finds her in compromising situations, she immediately assumes an innocent pose, and the poor man falls for the lady time after time.

The trio of men in this picture are exceptionally weak. The husband, instead of smiting his best friend with a good stiff uppercut, when the latter avows his love for the other's wife, weakens and offers him a cigarette with a shaking hand, the friend is unable to hold the love of the woman who fools him to the top of her bent, and the third gentleman, Tony Bickett, the purveyor of toy balloons, also lets his better half get away with a good deal.

As an example of the growing superiority of the feminine gender, the picture is immense. Fleur Forsyte is the wife of Michael Mont, but she retains her pleasant philandering ways even after embarking on the sea of matrimony, and has a good time, sub rosa, with her husband's best friend, the supine Wilfred Oesert, the painter of startling pictures. When she is finally found out, she squirms out of the impending tragic denouement in a commendable manner, avows her love for the husband she has been deceiving, and departs, leaving the painter to a lonely consideration of the ways of a woman.

There isn't any moral to a picture like "The White Monkey," even though the directors strive to point to an anaogy between its story and the modern attitude of unrestful seeking for "something." "You don't know what you want, but you might as well keep looking for it, even if you do stub your toes in the search," might be the lesson of the production.

As a display of exotic gowns and equally exotic feminine wiles, with the always interesting triangle of two men and a woman, the story is entertaining enough, albeit slightly long drawn out in spots. The old father, with his hatchet face, and the cockney pal of Tony Bickett, are refreshing roles in the midst of the otherwise saccharine scenes.

The comedy and short reels are good with this programme. Hal Roach presents Charley Chase in "Looking for Sally," with a laugh-producing bit, the News features are as entertaining as usual, and the Aesop Fables number has the intriguing and cool title of "On the Ice," with the hilarious pen and ink products of the cartoonist's pen having a wonderful time amidst snowy scenery.—Jeannette.

AT THE REGENT

PAL, BUCK JONES' DOG, WINS LAURELS IN NEW PHOTOPLAY.

Fox Cowboy Actor Wins Girl and Defends Gold With Aid of Canine Companion in Thrilling Drama of the Golden West.

Buck Jones bought a white horse, and right after that he must have seen a red-headed girl, for he certainly does have a lot of luck—in the films and out of them. Whether a black and white Boston bull dog is supposed to add anything to the combination or not is not definitely known among the screen 'lucksters,' but anyway a dog answering that description features quite prominently in "Gold and the Girl," which opened last night at the Regent Theatre.

Buck calls his dog pal. All Pal really needs to make life perfect is plenty to eat and a cat to chase, and he gets both around the Fox lot. But there's a lot more involved in being Buck Jones' dog, especially in a picture like "Gold and the Girl."

Pal makes his first entrance with much spirit by frightening the horse on which the fair heroine is perched, none too securely. That gives Buck a chance to do the rescue act, and then the plot begins. Bandits are involved, and gold, as well as desperate flights, thrilling rescues, and wild chases over perilous trails. In all these Pal figures and each time he appears he endears himself more and more to the hearts of his feminine fans.

Incidently, he wins the heart of the screen heroine before Jones is able to do it himself. They are standing on a rustic bridge—Buck, Pal and the girl. The girl looks at Pal and says, "Isn't he a darling!" Later, when she rides away in one direction, and Buck in the other, Pal sits still in the middle of the road gazing after her with an expression for all the world like that of a love-sick swain. Jones calls him, but he does not hear. He is far too intent on the disappearing figure of the girl.

That the interesting thing about Pal. That's what makes him head and shoulders above his canine screen contemporaries. He not only does what he is supposed to do intelligently, but he looks intelligent while he is doing it. He actually "registers" emotion, just as a human actor would do.

That's why his bit of "business" portraying a love-smitten dog, got the most appreciative applause in the whole picture—more even than did the scene where Silver Buck and his master tore after the runaway gold truck. And Silver Buck is used to applause. He has grown to take it as a matter of course. He doesn't indicate it, by look or gesture—for he's a most patrician horse—but it's more than probable that he's just a little jealous at having to share the laurels so generously this time with a mere dog.

LACK OF EVIDENCE BRINGS DISCHARGE

Howard and King Are Freed on Charge of Theft.

At the opening of the case against Edward Howard and Arthur King this morning, when they were charged in the Police Court with the theft of an automobile tire, the property of George Robertson.

Crown Attorney Hatton intimated that the Crown desired the withdrawal of the charge against King, who was accordingly released. J. F. Strickland appeared for the defence.

F. H. Johnston gave evidence of having seen the tire hanging as a spare on Robertson's car while the latter was making some purchases. Witness stated a tire which was produced in court was similar to the one he had seen but was unable to swear as to it being actually the same tire.

George Robertson said he lost a tire on June 9. He described the tire. Asked if he had seen the tire since, witness replied that he thought he had—on a Chevrolet in the police garage. He noticed that on the Chevrolet there were four different types of tires, one of which seemed to be his lost property. He believed the tire produced in court was his, although there were no marks of identification, but the tire was worn similarly as was his, and the tractor treadle marks were the same.

Mr. Strickland elicited from witness an admission that when he bought his car in May of this year, it was equipped with three different types of tire. Mr. Strickland said he had never owned a car, and knew nothing about tires, but he thought a motorist might try out several kinds of tire, and in course of time have quite a variety.

"You might have a car for one year and know nothing about tires," said His Worship, "but you would know all about them the second year."

In dismissing the case, His Worship said the Crown Attorney was frequently called upon by virtue of his office to prosecute in cases where, in spite of a strong suspicion, that they had the guilty person, the Crown was unable to produce sufficient evidence of guilt. In this case there had been no direct evidence of stealing. It was probable that Howard did take the tire, but the evidence was not sufficient to justify his conviction in a British court of justice. Howard must not necessarily think he was innocent alhough he was being discharged. There had been every justification for his arrest. He had been in court on two charges. Personally, His Worship believed he had just skinned clear, and very little additional evidence would have resulted in his being found guilty on both charges. His Worship counselled Howard to mend his ways. Enough had been said to make the police suspicious of him. If ever he came before the court again and was convicted of petty thefts, he must look for no sympathy. He could go free, but he had no reason to be proud of himself.

IN MEMORIAM.

WEAVER.—In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mrs. Thomas Weaver, who departed this life July 10th, 1922.

Her smiling face is missed by all
Who knew and loved her here;
The music of her pleasant voice
No longer greets our ear.

And she, aware of death's cruel sting,
A faithful life did live,
For God can easily take away
The life that He did give.

'Tis true, we miss our mother dear,
We see her vacant chair;
We miss her sadly in our home,
We miss her everywhere.

Remaining friends are left to mourn
And wait their final call;
In heaven above they'll all join in love,
For our Father loves us all.

AURORA GORDON TOPS THE LIST

Great Excitement in the Rotary Carnival Ticket Contest.

The previous announcement showed Robertson Birks on top of the list of ticket sellers for the Rotary Carnival. Miss Aurora Gordon, through a splendid spurt, has now reached the coveted position and the friends of this young lady are bound to see that she holds it.

Others also have their friends working for them, and it has developed into a citizens' contest on behalf of their favorite boy or girl.

It is requested that no adult take any active part other than purchasing tickets. Let the race be won on its merits by the boys and girls.

The standing is now as follows:
Aurora Gordon.
Robertson Birks.
Enid Watson.
Russell Guthrie
Donald Richardson.
Arleigh [illegible]eron.
Muriel Kent.
Harold Cavanagh.
Donald McDonald
Archie McDonald

The first five are running a very close race and the next announcement will likely show considerable change in positions. The others all doing well and are working for one of the capital prizes.

Only the first ten names are published. Those not on the list this time should work hard and get there for the next announcement.

Around The City.

The Cressman Company, Limited, according to their annual custom closed their store for the entire day yesterday. During the summer season, the first Thursday half holiday and the last is made a full day's holiday at this store.

A visiting motorist passing down Chemong Road the other day got stuck in the marsh adjoining the highway about half a mile from Bridgenorth. His car was dragged out, not without difficulty, by another auto and he proceeded on his way to Peterboro with a car smeared over by mud but otherwise undamaged.

The Star of Bethlehem L.O.B.A. will go to Omemee on July 13, instead of to Lakefield as was stated in the issue of yesterday.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Leonard, the dearly beloved son of F. M. and E. Ross, who was drowned in the Otonabee River, 10th July, 1924, aged 25 years.
—Dearly loved and sadly missed.

POLICE AND MAGISTRATES BUSY IN NOVA SCOTIA MINE DISTRICTS

Courts in Colliery Towns Kept Active by Disturbances Caused by Strikers—Authority of Court in Death Probe Questioned.

FOURTEEN ARRESTS AT NEW WATERFORD

SYDNEY, N.S., July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Arrests in connection with various strike activities and disturbances arising out of it are about the only happenings occurring in the colliery districts pending the incoming of the new government which is being looked forward to as promising developments of some nature.

Three men have been arrested at Big Glace Bay in connection with an attempt Thursday night to enter a store at Dominion No. 6. The attempt was frustrated by citizens of the place. The men arrested are William Ryan, Michael White and Albert Stanhouse. They were remanded to the county jail until Wednesday.

Magistrate Campbell yesterday sent nine men from New Waterford up for trial at the October session of the Supreme Court, on various charges of interference and disturbance.

Fourteen arrests have been made in New Waterford in the past couple of days on charges arising out of the strike, and these will come up for preliminary hearing next week.

In practically all cases of strike arrests bail is immediately arranged for.

The inquiry into the death of William Davis at New Waterford on June 11 was adjourned yesterday for another week, pending establishment of the status of the investigation. Counsel for the miners appearing as witnesses instructed them to refuse to give evidence on the ground that the inquiry had no legal status and that examination of witnesses might furnish information leading to arrests on charges of picketing and so forth.

MINERS POOH-POOH OPERATORS' FEAR OF SUBSTITUTES CUTTING HARD COAL TRADE

Negotiations for New Wage Contract in Anthracite Field Open at Atlantic City — Controversial Issues Laid Over.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—The joint scale sub-committee of anthracite operators and miners opened negotiations Friday, and after staking out claims in a general way adjourned until next Tuesday afternoon.

W. W. Inglis of Scranton, who is spokesman of the mine owners, revealed that both sides at the first meeting had avoided the controversial question of arbitration and whether work should continue after September 1, contract or no contract.

James A. Gorman, Secretary of the sub-committee, covered the deliberations with an official statement: "After consideration of the method of procedure on the part of the committee there followed a discussion of substitutes for the use of anthracite coal, the argument of the operators being to the effect that the use of substitutes constitutes a growing menace to the anthracite coal trade. The miners contended that substitutes do not seriously affect the sale of anthracite coal.

"There followed a discussion as to the price of anthracite and bituminous coal and the mining cost of coal."

CALL OUT KLAN TO BAN NEGROES

Whites Storm House Occupied By Dusky Family—Shots Fired.

RESENT INTRUSION.

DETROIT, July 11. — (Canadian Press).—For the third time in three weeks, negroes and whites clashed last night in an exclusive white residential district in the Grand River Avenue section on the west side. A family of five negroes and two negro roomers moved into a house yesterday near Livernoia and Grand River Avenues, and last night hundreds of whites gathered and stormed the place, barricading the negroes in their home. The latter opened fire on the crowd and seriously wounded a white boy. Police, using all available reserve officers and detectives, took the negroes into custody for questioning. The crowds dispersed soon after, but posters were found throughout the district calling for a mass meeting of the Ku Klux Klan on July 25th.

WAR VETERANS' PARADE PLANS

Decoration Day Services Will Be Held in St. Peter's Cemetery.

TWO BANDS.

Tomorrow is the day when Great War veterans remember the men they left behind in France, holding the soil they so dearly won, and other of their comrades who have died since the war ended. It is Decoration Day in St. Peter's Cemetery, to be followed next Sunday by a similar service in Little Lake Cemetery.

All members of overseas forces desiring a part in the ceremony will parade at the G.W.V.A. Hall on Murray Street at 1.45, in uniform if possible. Decorations should be worn. Two bands will be in attendance.

Relatives and friends of service men who were killed in action or who died after the war are invited to place flowers on the Cenotaph during the playing of a selection by the massed bands. There will then be a short service at the Cenotaph, the monument to Captain Brown in Central Park will be decorated, and the parade will proceed to St. Peter's Cemetery by the following route:

George to Charlotte.
Charlotte to Rubidge,
Rubidge to Park,
Park to Albert,
Albert to Alfred,

A Hint To Women!

FEZ, French Morocco, July 11.—(Canadian Press). — The ferocity of the Moorish attacks against the French lines at night may be accounted for, in part at least, by the part the tribeswomen play in them.

These amazons, hands smeared with henna, race after the raiders, shrieking hysterically and grasping at any warrior who for the moment falls back from the onward rush. In the morning those raiders whose clothes are found to be daubed with henna, are summarily shot.

The situation along the front where the French forces are holding the Riffian invaders in check, appears calm for the moment.

TORONTO SEES GREAT PARADE OF ORANGEMEN

Weather Favours Celebration in Headquarters City and Thousands Participate.

RYAN CONSIDERED.

Splendid Programme of Speeches Presented at Exhibition Park By Members of the Order.

TORONTO, July 11. — Canadian Press. — The time honored parade, and attendant celebrations, by Orange men of the "glorious Twelfth," were renewed to-day, with as great enthusiasm as ever before throughout Ontario, Canada, and the world.

Bright sunshine and a cooling west wind in Toronto this morning presaged an ideal day for the celebration which took place "en masse" in the headquarters city of the order in Canada.

Fully ten thousand "Loyal True Blues," young and old, lined up in a gigantic parade that progressed impressively with but one slight deviation along the crowd-lined route from Queen's Park to the Exhibition Park.

One Detour.

A small change in the route was made so that the parade with its numerous and varied bands might avoid passing the home of Peter Ryan (a well known Roman Catholic) who is lying ill.

William III Lodge of Centre District, one of the largest Orange lodges in the world, was represented by almost 600 members.

Ald. John Winnett, County Master, presided over the parade, and William H. Harper was marshal.

With the parade successfully terminated—and conceded one of the finest ever—exhibition park was the centre of Orange activities in the afternoon.

A pretentious programme of speakers had been arranged. Among them were Fred Dane, president of the Triennial Council of the world; Rev. F. C. Ward-Wylie, Chaplain of the Triennial Council of the World; Loftus Reid, secretary of the Triennial Council, and Grand Master of the Royal Black Knights of British North America; Thoma Foster, Mayor of Toronto; Hon. Joseph E. Thompson, treasurer of the Supreme Grand Lodge, and Cecil W. Armstrong, Past Grand Lecturer, for British North America.

CHINESE THREATS.

LONDON, July 11 (United Press).—Barricades are being erected in Canton opposite Shameen, the foreign settlement, according to the Hong Kong correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, who adds that Chinese students are openly avowing their intention of taking Shameen by force.

War With Britain Forecast By Russian Army General

MOSCOW, July 11 (Special by United Press).—A prediction of war between Great Britain and the Union of Socialist Soviet Republic was made by General Frunze, chief of staff of the Russian army at an address before a large number of recruits in a training camp here on Friday.

"We must be ready for open hostilities with the British," the Red general declared. "Recent events leave no room for doubt as to what London is preparing for."

COMET BUS WILL LEAVE VICTORIA HALL ON MONDAY, JULY 13TH, AT 9.30, FOR LAKEFIELD, RETURNING LEAVE LAKEFIELD AT 4.30. 1d10 1372

COUNCIL REQUESTS THE UTILITIES COMMISSION TO CONSIDER R. R. HALL PROPOSAL THAT LEGAL ACTION BE TAKEN AGAINST CAMPBELL MILLING COMPANY

Public Entitled to Full Information, Declared Alderman Crowe—Committee of Whole Council Unanimous—Responsibility Charged to Utilities Commission.

MR. HALL ALLEGES AT LEAST $12,600 DUE CITY FOR POWER USED BY CAMPBELL MILL

Mayor Turner Says Council Desires Mystery be Cleared Up and Emphasizes That Only the Utilities Commission Can Act.

"That this committee recommend that as the Council is advised that the Campbell Flour Mills, Limited, used a quantity of power in the years 1919-21, more than they paid for, and as the Council has been by the courts denied the right to have the matter investigated under section 248 of the Muncipal Act, that copies of the two letters of July 6 and July 10, from R. R. Hall, K.C., be sent to the Peterborough UtilitiesCommission and that the City Solicitor be requested to furnish the Commission with the evidence in his possession bearing on the matter, and that the Commission be requested to consider the whole matter, and further, that the Commission be informed that if it so desires this Council is quite willing to confer with them on the subject."

This was the resolution passed at last night's meeting of the committee of the whole Council, after the question had been thoroughly discussed.

Letters from R. R. Hall, K.C., one of which had been read at the Council meeting on Monday night, and one received yesterday, were read as a start, and this was followed by comment from Mr. Wearing, in which he explained a "prima facie" case as being one which is a good case so long as nothing is heard from the other side. "Mr. Hall," said Mr. Wearing, "says we have a complete case."

Mr. Hall's Letter.

Mr. Hall's letter of July 10 read:

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:

RE CAMPBELL FOUR, MILLS, LTD, AND PETERBOROUGH

According to the report of the meeting of the Council appearing in last Tuesday's issue of The Examiner, the statement is made "we have a prima facie case "but there is no practical evidence for the City to go on."

I beg to state that after making the fullest investigation into the facts I am of the opinion that we have conclusive evidence to prove that the Campbell Flour Mills, Limited, during the three years in dispute had the use of and consumed from 185 h.p. to 235 h.p. more than they actually paid for and that this City is entitled to recover from the company more than $12,600 for such h.p. that was so used and consumed and not paid for.

Facts Set Out.

The following are the admitted facts and the evidence and surrounding circumstances to establish the City's claim.

1.—It is admitted that the flour mill was operated each and every month during the three disputed years, because, according to W. R. Morris' report taken from the books of the Local Commission, the Company during each and every month paid the Local Commission for from 60 to 80 h.p. that was acutally consumed to operate the flour mill during these three years in dispute.

2.—It is admitted that during the three years in dispute there was in the flour mill at 200 h.p. motor to operate the rolls, a 50 h.p. motor to operate the purifiers, wheat cleaning machinery and flour packers, and 40 h.p. motor to operate the sifters, reels and conveyors and in the feed mills there is a 100 h.p. motor to operate the feed plant, the elevator and the apparatus for unloading grain, thereby making the total rating motor capacity of 390 h.p.

3.—It is admitted that during the three years in dispute the flour mill consisted of one unit having a capacity of from 720 to 760 barrels per day and in order to grind any flour at all the whole flour mill plant must be operated.

Operated at Capacity.

4.—The employees who worked in the mill during the three years in dispute will prove that the flour mill was operated to its reasonably full capacity during each and every month of the three years in dispute.

5.—The Company can be compelled on examination for discovery to produce its books and it could also be compelled at the trial to produce its books which will show the actual quantity of flour that was ground from month to month during the three years in dispute.

Must Operate Full.

6.—I have the names of practical millers that can be furnished who will prove that unless the flour mill is operated to its reasonably full capacity, a low and an inferior grade of flour will be produced, whereas in fact the Campbell Flour Milling Co. during the three years in dispute did produce a high grade flour.

7.—According to Mr. Morris' report, the books of the Local Commission show immediately before the three years in dispute the Company was paying for upwards of 300 h.p. on a flat rate basis to operate its flour mill and feed plant and that immediately after the meter was installed the actual power consumption dropped down all the way from 162 to 101 h.p. to operate the same identical flour mill and feed plant and the only sensible explanation that could be given of that wide discrepancy is that the meter was not properly installed and did not correctly show the power that was consumed.

8.—I can furnish the names of electrical engineers who can prove that if a meter is not properly installed that it will only record from one-third to one-quarter of the actual power that passes through it and that is the way they account from the meter not recording the proper amount of power that was actually consumed.

9.—The names of witnesses can be furnished to show that the present capacity of this flour mill is not more than 50 barrels per day, than what it was during the three years in dispute, and yet according to Mr. Morris' report taken from the books of the Local Commission, the Company on a meter being correctly installed consumed over 400 h.p. and some months as high as 445 h.p. and according to the Hydro Commission report has now only a rated capacity of from 750 to 800 barrels per day.

10.—It is a fair inference for any judge or jury to draw that this plant during the three years in dispute could not be operated by less than all the way from 320 to 390 h.p.

11.—Mr. Pope, the secretary of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, in his letter to Mr. S. R. Armstrong, of the 17th of October, 1924, says:

"We found one-third per h.p. per barrel to be the ordinary milling practice in power installations for milling."

I can furnish the names of expert millers who can prove that a 750 barrel mill per day has to be most efficiently equipped with all friction-saving devices to be operated upon one-third of a h.p. per barrel, and therefore 240 h.p. is the very minimum of h.p. that could have been used by the Campbell Flour Mill to operate it to its full capacity.

12.—The Campbell Flour Mills used in its feed plant on an average of 80 h.p. during the time the flour mill was closed down and therefore the total consumption of power by the Campbell Milling Company during the three years in dispute coulld not have been less than 320 h.p. of which at least 185 h.p. was not paid for during each of the three years in dispute.

13.—I can furnish the names of witnesses to either the City or the Local Power Commission who can establish the facts set out in this letter and in my previous letter.

14—The Corporation of the City of Peterborough has an undoubted right under section 348 to bring an action against the Campbell Flour Mills, Limited, and the Local Utilities Commission to force the Company to pay for this power that it has consumed.

Right of Action.

15.—In fact any inhabitant or ratepayer of the City of Peterborough would have a right to bring the same action and the Corporation has not only all the rights of an inhabitant or a ratepayer but also the rights of the Attorney General as well to bring such an action.

16.—The well-known authors Robson and Hugg, in their edition of 1920 entitled Municipal Manual at page 584, say:

"Section 348 provides that where "a contract has been entered in- "to which imposes a duty, obli- "gation or liability in favor of a "Municipal Corporation or the "inhabitants or some of them the "Corporation shall have the right

Father Saved Life Of Son Who Tried To Die By Rope

SASKATOON, Sask., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Helge Olson, a young farmer of the Tofield, Alta., district, owes his life to his father. The lad attempted to commit suicide by hanging from a tree on Wednesday evening. His father cut the rope in time to save the boy from strangling. Young Olson was taken to the Provincial Mental Hospital on Thursday.

BOY'S NEW FISHING LINE A FATAL LURE

Drowned Near His Home in Victoria County.

LINDSAY, July 11.—(Special).—A sad drowning accident is reported from Head River, Dalton Township, Victoria County, when Freddie, the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Montgomery, of Seabright, went to his death.

The little fellow had lately acquired a new fishing line and had left it suspended over the river and held in place by a stone. He obtained permission to go to the river to look after his line, and had been gone only ten minutes when Mrs. Montgomery went in search. She found the stone removed, and thinking the little fellow might have gone into the woods, shouted, but received no answer. Mr. Montgomery and a neighbor proceeded to drag the river and recovered the body two hours after the disappearance of the youth.

FIFTY-FIFTY FLAGS

Veterans Want Union Jack With Stars and Stripes.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Legislation compelling United States automobile tourists to carry an equal number of Canadian flags when playing the American ensign, was urged in a resolution passed by Port Arthur branch of the Great War Veterans' Association. The resolution stated that a certain minority of the visitors from across the line, caused a "natural resentment" by displaying only the United States flag when touring through the Dominion.

500 SUMMER STUDENTS

Registrations at Queen's Makes Another Record.

KINGSTON, July 11.—(Canadian Press).—At noon Friday the total number of students registered for the present session of Queen's summer school was 497, and it is expected that today the total would be over five hundred.

The registration for this year is another record for Queen's, being an increase over last year's figures of 46, and still further registrations to received today.

Think It Over.

S. R. Armstrong, who is responsible for the issuing of marriage licenses in the district, again draws attention to the fact that the law since June 13 has required that three clear days must elapse between the issuing of a marriage license and the performing of the ceremony. Any person who solemnizes a marriage within three days of the issuing of the license is liable to a penalty not exceeding $100, unless authorized by the Provincial Secretary. Lack of knowledge of this law has caused some inconvenience to people who had made arrangements for the ceremony.

It was unearthed by Mr. Whittemore in the ancient city of Khut-Aton, about three miles from Luxor, where the tomb of the Egyptian Pharoah was discovered. Mr. Whittemore reached here yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania.

SHANGHAI COUNCIL REFUSES TO OBEY

Diplomatic Corps Recommended Action Against Americans and Britons.

By Randall Gould
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

PEKING, July 11.—The Shanghai Municipal Council, foreign body in charge of the Shanghai administration, has refused to obey the recommendations of the diplomatic corps for action against one American and two British in connection with the original police firing on strikers and students at Shanghai, according to a Nipper Dempo despatch from Shanghai.

This despatch claims that the recommendations were for a reprimand for Sterling Fessenden, American chairman of the Municipal Council and for dismissal of the British municipal police superintendent and punishment of British Police Inspector Overs, on whose orders the shooting had been ordered.

EZETTA CHAMBERS SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES BY SHOOTING; ACCIDENT BECOMES TRAGEDY

Charge of Stones Entered Her Head on Thursday Evening in Otonabee.

FUNERAL MONDAY.

Loaded Shotgun Accidentally Discharged By Her Little Brother.

Hazel Ezetta Chambers, 27, the victim of a shooting accident in Otonabee on Thursday evening, died in Nicholls' Hospital at 11.15 this forenoon. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Chambers of 270 Reid Street, and was visiting an uncle, Stephen Thorn, in Otonabee, when th tragedy occurred.

Miss Chambers was approaching the driveshed of the house, which is near Wallace's Point, when her little brother, Maxwell, picked up an old-style muzzle-loading shotgun. The gun was kept loaded with small stones for shooting crows. The little boy, not knowing the gun was loaded, and not being familiar with the mechanism, accidentally discharged it just as his sister approached. The charge entered her head.

In Nicholl's Hospital, to which she was rushed in an ambulance, Doctors Moir, Mann and Ray attended Miss Chambers, hoping to save her life at the expense of removing an eye. All efforts proved unavailing, and she passed away today without regaining consciousness.

Miss Chambers was employed as a stenographer in Toronto, and was spending her vacation at her home here. She leaves to mourn her loss her parents; one sister, Gladys; and two brothers, Harry of Detroit, and Maxwell, at home.

The funeral will take place on Monday from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery, at 2.30 p.m., Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings and Rev. J. D. Richardson of Peterborough officiating.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young was not certain this afternoon whether an inquest will be held.

TERMS DRAFTED FOR AGREEMENT WITH RIFFIANS

Text of Franco-Spanish Conference Submitted to Governments for Approval.

RIFFS WIN RESPECT

Military Capacity of Moroccans Has Created Serious Situation for French.

MADRID, July 11. — (Canadian Press).—The text of the accord between France and Spain dealing with their political collaboration in Morocco was completed yesterday after a final revision by the experts attached to the Moroccan conference. The text will now go before the Spanish and French Governments for their approval.

General Gomez Jordana, president of the conference, declared that a plenary session probably would be held to-day, to be followed by another within a few days.

Will Present Terms.

PARIS, July 11. — (Canadian Press)—Horacio Echevarrieta, Spanish millionaire shipowner, who has several times been employed in treating with Abd-el-Krim, Riffian leader, whose forces are now invading Morocco, will, it is understood, present the terms to the leader which have been drafted by the Franco-Spanish conference at Madrid. It is believed he will be accompanied by Major Aguilar of the Spanish Army. The terms probably will be made known to Abd-el-Krim next week at Ajdir.

Riffs Can Fight.

The correspondent of the Temps at Fez describes the situation in Morocco as "neither brilliant nor compromised, but simply serious." Formerly, he says, the French troops found it not difficult to overcome warriors whose only quality was to know how to die. The difficulty of the French task can be conceived when fighting an adversary who to-day knows perfectly how to fight.

"The day is gone," he adds, "when a general like Gouraud could march through Morocco with a column of 8,000 men. The proportions are completely reversed. To-day the war-like capacity of the enemy has doubled, while our young and slightly trained infantry has lost three-fifths of its capacity."

MODERN IDEAS CAUSES SUICIDE

Famous Scene Painter, Deploring Modernism, Hangs in Own Studio.

EXERTED INFLUENCE.

PARIS, July 11. — Canadian Press —A famous old scene painter and decorator Lucien Jusseaume, the innovator in his time of a number of methods and principles that powerfully influenced art and the stage, committed suicide on Thursday. Broken hearted because more modern ideas had ousted his conceptions students found the aged artist hanging from a property pillar in his own studio.

He develped melancholy when the theatre managers began to prefer modern impressionism to his more faithful copies of nature.

Telephone subscribers in Canada now total over 1,037,556, more than one in nine of the population.

PETERBORO FIRM WINS FIRST PRIZE

Warne Bros.' Silverware Window Considered Best in Whole Competition.

A Peterboro store, that of Warne Bros., has been successful in winning the first prize in the silverware week display contest held under the auspices of the Trader Magazine. There were two classes, one open to Canadian stores in cities of over 5,0000 population and the other for stores in cities under 50,000.

Warne Bros.' display won first prize in Class 2, and the Trader says:

"In Class 2 for communities of less than 50,000, the first prize was awarded to the window of Warne Bros., of Peterboro, Ont., trimmed by Wm. Jeffries. The particular merit of this trim was the fact that in addition to being a nicely arranged trim of silverware, the announcement on the vallance: 'This is Silver ware Week — Special lines now on display,' gave a strong tie-up between the display and silverware week. The effectiveness of this window would entitle the Peterboro firm to first place even if there had only been one class in the competition."

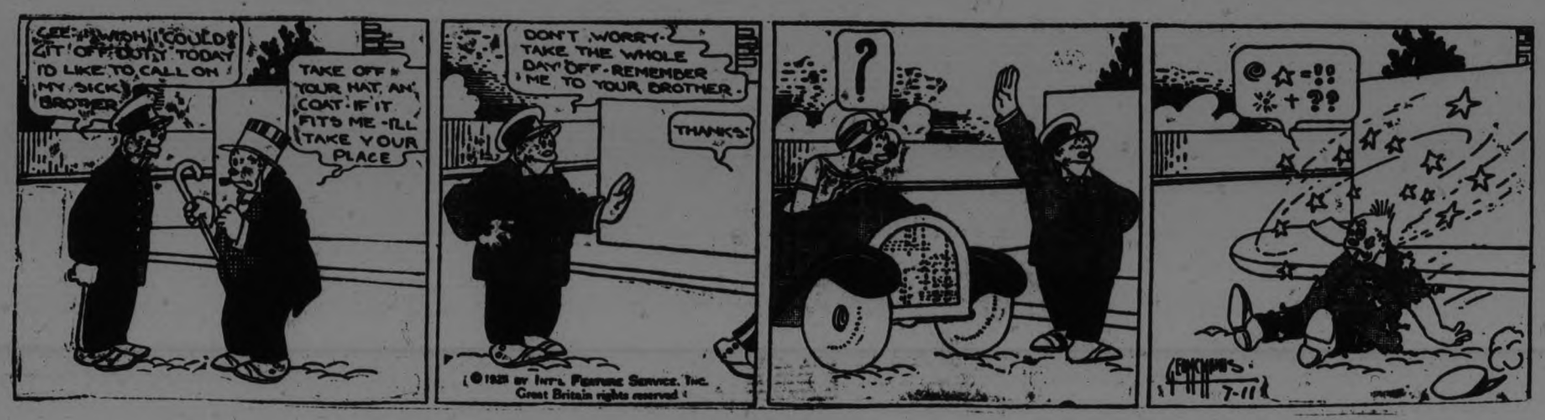
"BRINGING UP FATHER" — Geo. McManus



WILES OF DETHRONED MONARCH FAIL TO GAIN VATICAN HELP

Former King Manuel of Portugal Sought Holy See Recognition.

PLANS FRUSTRATED.

Mother Sat in Sovereign's Tribune—"Pretender Refused Seat There.

(By Thomas D. Morgan, United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright 1925 by the United Press.)

ROME, July 11. — King Manuel of Portugal, dethroned through his flirtations with the sprightly Gaby des Mys has been making an attempt to mount again the Royal Dais—with the aid of the Holy See.

The Vatican however did not succumb to his efforts and he was treated during his recent visit here as Count D'Ouren.

The story of his well laid plan to gain Holy See recognition of him as "a ruling sovereign" has just been revealed.

Manuel came to Rome incognito and applied for an audience with the Pope.

This was granted, but to Count D'Ouren—not "King Manuel."

Then Manuel tried another ruse. He expressed a desire to attend one of the canonizations and to sit in the tribune reserved for sovereigns which procedure would have been interpreted by his monarchist supporters in Portugal as Vatican recognition of his sovereignity.

But the Holy See was already on good terms with the Republic of Portugal, so while Manuel's mother, Queen Amelia, sat in the sovereign's tribune; Manuel himself was placed in the tribune reserved for the family of the canonized saint.

Some Portuguese pilgrims interpreted his front seat as a recognition from the Vatican, and the word went back to Portugal.

Portugal protested, but the Vatican simply replied that it had not recognized him as Sovereign and pointed out that Queen Amelia had been given a place in the royal section because she came as "Queen Amelia," and not as a "Pretender to the throne." But Manuel as a pretender to the throne, it was pointed out, could not be accorded the royal privileges.

RUM FLEET READY FOR RUN TO STATES

Operations on Huge Scale as Cargoes of Rare Liquors Are Loaded.

TORONTO, July 11. — (Canadian Press.)—A special report to Toronto from Port Colborne dated yesterday says: Rum row to-day began to make ready for another onslaught on Uncle Sam's dry frontiers. Rum runners, brewery agents, customs officials and truckers worked and worked under a boiling sun transferring thousands of cases of liquor into waiting motor boats. To-night 15 boats loaded to the gunwales with choice liquors lay at anchor waiting for a favorable opportunity to slip across the lake.

The magnitude of the scale of smuggling operations was revealed to a press representative who visited the exporters' domain to-day. He saw a half train load of the choicest Scotch liquors, beer and champayne lying in box cars in the railway yards. He saw huge trucks—open and covered—loaded to capacity from these same cars. He saw dozens of men on the banks of the Welland canal in the heart of the city unload these trucks and send their cargoes down chutes into motor boats. He saw all kinds of motor boats with capacities of from 1,000 to 1,500 cases load to capacity and pull up the canal awaiting darkness to venture forth into the lake."

INSPECTS CIVIL SERVICE STAFFS

Commissioner Tours Maritime Province on Department Work.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Clarence Jamieson, Civil Service Commissioner for Canada arrived here yesterday to interview the heads of the various public service departments within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner with a view to facilitating the appointments and promotions now under way in these departments.

There were between 75 and 80 in the public service departments throughout New Brunswick who would be affected by the appointments and promotions now under way, he said.

Mr. Jamieson is on a tour of the Maritime Provinces. Later he plans to go to Great Britain to observe and study the methods of handling appointments and promoting in their public service as well as the conditions generally.

He also intends to inspect the extra-Canadian offices in Great Britain and the Continent. These offices include those of high commissioners, the immigration services, the trade commissioners and the archives offices in London and Paris. These offices had not been inspected, he said, since they were placed under the jurisdiction of the Commission several years ago. He hoped to sail from Quebec on July 22.

NORWAY GIVES BOOKS

BERLIN, July 11.—The Norwegian University Library at Oslo has presented the Prussian State Library with 570 volumes of modern Norwegian literature. The collection includes all publications issued in Norway during and after the war. In a letter accompanying the gift the hope was expressed that the collection might prove a profitable asset to German science and that it might serve to cement the intellectual relations between Norway and Germany.

NO INSURANCE.

Fire Committee Decides Not to Insure Vehicles This Year.

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council was held last night after the committee of the whole had risen. L. L. Maguire appeared on behalf of Charles Ackerman to interpret, for the committee, the insurance policies which had been offered them for the protection of the city in case of any damage by or to the motor vehicles of the fire department. It was moved that no action be taken this year.

The question of defects in the electric wiring on the Hunter Street was referred to the Utilities Commission for a report.

Permission was granted for the fire brigade to take part in the parade which will open the Rotary Carnival.

CAMERA DIPLOMACY

"Will you have something to drink?"

"With pleasure," replied the photographer's customer.

When the photo was taken the sitter said: "But what about that little invitation?"

"Oh, sir, this is just a trade ruse of mine to give a natural and interested expression to the face," replied the knight of the camera.—Illustrated Leicester Chronicle.

CARELESS SMOKER CAUSES BIG BLAZE

Flames Rage in Imperial Oil Warehouses—May Take Two Days to Check.

QUEBEC, July 11 (Canadian Press)—Fire, thought to have been caused by a careless smoker, broke out yesterday in an oil and gasoline warehouse of the Imperial Oil Company at Amos, Abitibi, and at a late hour last eevning was reported to be burning fiercely. Reports state that it will take two days to bring the flames under contorl.

The flames last night were confined to the warehouse adjoining tanks but inhabitants of the city fear that the huge reservoir, containing thousands of gallons of gasoline, will explode and destroy the town.

DEVICE AIDS BLIND TO READ BY SOUND

Famous Russian Oculist Has Developed New Apparatus.

LENINGRAD, July 11.—Professor Rosing, a famous oculist of this city, has invented a new device by means of which it is claimed the blind are able to orientate themselves and to read. In this apparatus all daylight effects are replaced by sound. Experiments carried out in the Leningrad Institute for the Blind showed that the children, after the use of the apparatus was explained to them, were able by the different shades of sounds to define many articles in the room and to recognize persons who were passing them.

Professor Rosing is working to perfect his apparatus and is also evolving a new radio apparatus for transmitting graphic images at a distance. By means of this apparatus, Professor Rosing says, every letter of the alphabet will be expressed by different sounds. So far he has succeeded in contriving definite sounds for 18 letters and is hopeful of succeeding in his ultimate task.

Making Fair Progress

Cobourg and vicinity has had a plethora of bad accidents recently and Mrs. Percy Morgan, Grafton, who figured in one of the most regrettable of these, is stated by her physician to be making only fair progress. Mrs. Morgan's clothing caught fire from the flame of a coal oil stove and she was seriously burned about the body. The following day she suffered greatly from shock as well as from burns and her condition was so critical that a transfusion of blood was regarded by her physicians as necessary. This was made, her brother, Mr. Harry Knight, Grafton, submitting to the operation. Her condition is still critical, although hopes of her recovery are entertaincd.

Entrance Pupils Still Anxious

Although adjacent centres have announced Entrance to High School results none have yet been received at Cobourg and those who wrote on the examinations here, are still awaiting anxiously decision as to their fate.

Next Term's School Staffs

So far no resignations have been received by the Public School Board from members of the staff and it is expected the same ones will carry on for the fall term. There are changes, however, on the C. C. I. staff. Mr. W. D. P. Davidson, a former member of the staff, has been promoted to the position of principal. Mr. C. C. Arthur, M.A., will take the position of Classical Master, and Mr. G. Wager retains his connection with the school as Mathematical Master.

SPOILING BEAUTY SPOTS.

It is to be feared that the complaints from various correspondents in regard to the slovenly conduct of many picnic parties are justified.

The evil is not confined to Chemong Park, from which several complaints have come, but is general at beauty spots throughout the district, where the ground is found to be strewn with the remains of al fresco repasts, papers, banana skins, orange peel, tin cans and other debris.

The Examiner calls attention to the fact in the hope that this careless disregard of other people who may follow them may be corrected by those who have been guilty in the past.

The same tendency is to be found at Victoria Park on band concert nights, when newspapers, peanut shells and other rejected fragments are scattered over the grass in spite of the fact that receptacles for such rubbish have been provided.

A little thought on the part of the offenders would save hours of work for the caretaker, and similarly, a little more regard for others would add to the appearance of the various favourite picnic spots in the vicinity of Peterboro, which at present are being spoiled by the indifferences of people who probably pride themselves upon their immaculate cleanliness.

TALK PETERBORO.

Basing its article upon the comment of a visitor who was impressed by the manner in which two or three Londoners praised their city and pointed out features that should be seen, the London Advertiser advises a general adoption of this system by citizens generally.

The Examiner is glad to pass the advice along to the people of Peterboro.

We are perhaps like the girl from Aberdeen who said she never told anyone she came from that city because her mother had told her not to "blow."

But there are occasions when it is quite justified.

We have a beautiful city here, with many things that would interest visitors, and we could easily talk about them more than we do.

Talk Peterboro a little more than usual and the results will be surprising.

The tourist who is told by a dozen or more people of features of Peterboro that he should see is much more likely to extend his visit here than if nobody takes the trouble to inform him about these things.

A little more pride in the home city and a little less reluctance to talk about its good points would have a very beneficial effect.

Too many people are inclined to take the opposite attitude, and no community is helped by that kind of thing.

THE WEST BECOMES HOPEFUL.

A stimulating significance attaches to certain facts disclosed by the official report of carloadings for the last week of June, says the Ottawa Journal. They show increasing commercial activity in the Western Provinces. As compared with the corresponding period of last year, there was a substantially larger movement of live stock, lumber, pulpwood, pulp and paper, other forests products, ore, merchandise and miscellaneous. This could not have happened under adverse conditions as to production and trade.

The West is taking on greater activity than was being exhibited some months ago, and is also shaking off the pessimism which was so painfully general at that time. A visitor to the recently held fair at Brandon observed that he had not in many years found the farmers so cheerful and hopeful. They are not only enjoying the prospect of a bountiful harvest, but are commencing to realise the benefits of diversified methods of farming. They are no longer entirely dependent on wheat.

Industries are springing up in the Prairie Provinces. The movement of pulpwood and pulp and paper, to which allusion has just been made, is indicative of a development which has in it fine promise. Dairying is also both successful and expanding. While there is not likely to be rapid growth in general manufacturing, there would seem to be no reason why the West should not find room for industries which could use certain raw materials lying conveniently at hand in that part of the Dominion. For example, it may not be a mere dream that the day will come when the Prairies, so suitable for the growing of flax, will have their linen mills.

A prosperous West would no doubt mean a contented West. Grain growing is still profitable, and will continue so. But a large section of the country, still dependent in considerable degree on a single crop, must always be exposed to setbacks; and when the West has had to meet adversity in that form it has fallen into the habit of being articulate. It will get over that. Indeed, a psychological change seems to be taking place as cheering evidences of increasing wealth are recognised.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

The action of the Board of Education in advertising for tenders for the proposed addition to the Collegiate Institute should serve to focus public attention upon a question that up to the present has received scarcely passing notice from the majority of citizens.

The board has had a difficult problem to solve in deciding upon the best policy to meet the educational needs of Peterboro, in view of the obvious lack of accommodation in the present Collegiate Institute and the necessity of providing facilities for technical training.

In the first place the Collegiate Institute has been outgrown.

In the present form it is only large enough to accommodate all the city students applying for admission, and by next autumn it is possible that it will not be equal even to the local demand.

For some time it has been necessary to refuse admission to county pupils and a certain amount of revenue has been lost as a result.

In addition, the building has been too small to accommodate all the commercial classes, and these have had to be housed in the old South Central School, a building given up as of no further use for public school purposes and yet pressed into service to relieve the pressure in the Collegiate Institute.

It is obviously a disadvantage to both staff and pupils to have the Collegiate Institute pupils divided between two buildings in different sections of the city, the result being that the commercial students are cut off from the community activities of the Collegiate Institute.

Facilities, too, for the physical culture called for by the regulations are missing from the present Collegiate Institute building.

Unfortunately, in planning the building the Board of Education at that time failed to provide a gymnasium, and it has been necessary to engage the Y.M.C.A. gym at certain hours in order that the physical training prescribed by the Department of Education might be carried out.

In short, it has become absolutely necessary that more Collegiate Institute accommodation must be provided, and it has been decided by the Board of Education after long consideration of the question from all angles that the most economical plan and the one most likely to give the best results is to combine, with the addition to the Collegiate Institute, accommodation for technical training.

These are facts that the Board of Education would do well to stress strongly and to bring before the people between now and the time when the matter will be presented to the City Council.

The facts are known to the members of the Board of Education, but they should remember that the majority of the ratepayers are not familiar with the question.

A STEP AHEAD.

Canada will make another big step forward this year.

As yet, as ages of nations are reckoned, our Dominion is still in its infancy. We have not completely thrown off the swaddling clothes of babyhood. But each year marks another mile-stone that has been passed in Canada's progress to a place of worthy prominence among the nations.

Larger than the United States, and almost as large as all of Europe, Canada is the largest landowner in North America. Enjoying that position we are of the moment the granary of the world.

This year the crop estimate is 350,000,000 bushels of wheat. Half a billion dollars would be a conservative estimate to place on the value of the immense yield which is calculated. That means wealth for the Western farmer.

Wealth for the Westerner means a demand for goods manufactured in Eastern Canada. The money to be derived from the wheat will be spread throughout the length and breadth of Canada. The wheat crop of Western Canada cannot vary by a bushel in increase or decrease without making its rise or decline felt in all of Canada. Our economic system hinges largely on the wheat crop of the West, and when the Western farmer has a good year, then the whole of Canada reflects his prosperity.

But Canada cannot be said to be a "one lung" country. Besides wheat, we have our export paper trade. By present comparison of figures the paper exports are mounting and 1925 will show Canada to be the greatest exporter of paper in the world. We have the largest pulp wood resources of any country from which to draw supplies of raw material.

In this way Canada supplies the two essentials to the life of the world. By Canadian wheat the stomachs of the people are nourished with bread, the most essential of all foods.

And on Canadian paper are printed newspapers, books and magazines which provide intellectual nourishment to men of every race and creed.

There are still other things for Canada this year.

The tourist trade is annually getting to be bigger and bigger. On Friday and Saturday alone 6,000 cars from the United States crossed into Canada at the Border Cities. These people came for tours of from one day to several weeks. Add to this number the steady streams that crossed at other points and then go on to calculate the number that cross in a year and some idea will be gained of the revenue from this source. Be it said, too, that Canada is proving well worthy of visitation by the tourists.

Looking at our mineral resources, we are showing an increase in our production of gold; Ontario alone produces more nickel and cobalt than all the rest of the world combined; Quebec enjoys the same distinction in the production of asbestos.

Each year Canada's trade shows an increase.

There are some handicaps, the railway debt, the lack of population, and our heavy taxation. The Canadian people are beginning to demand economy and efficiency in government.

And, best of all, Canada's natural resources, such as her wheat fields, her mines, her scenic beauties to the tourists, her forests, and her other riches are being developed more and more. With this expansion so, too, do our industries grow greater year by year.

Canada is coming. Sometimes we get impatient. The destiny of the Canadian nation is leadership.

Steadily Canada is climbing to her allotted place. —Border Cities Star.

STRIKE THREATENED BY WORKERS IN RIO

Municipal Employees Have Not Been Paid for April and May.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 11.—The municipality faced trouble early this month when 6,000 employees threatened to strike on account of unpaid wages. A committee recently was appointed to talk with the mayor, who promised to improve conditions. He later arrested the ring-leaders of the movement, and placed federal troops on guard at the city hall to stop trouble.

The office of the treasury stated that the city payroll was unpaid for April and May, the wages due certain departments totalling $1,000,000. The treasurer's office unofficially says that this money was used to pay obligations due on foreign and domestic debts.

The city treasurer has started to liquidate unpaid salaries, the city promising to have the payments completed at an early date. The men accepted the promise and returned to work.

A THOUGHT.

CARRY ON!

Some morning, should you wake to find
Your friends have left you 'way behind
And all the world seems cold, unkind—
Just carry on!

Just plunge alone into the game;
And though you play for wealth or fame,
Or play for love—it helps the same,
To carry on!

Just buckle down when things are slow,
And play it fair, so when you go
We'll pass the word that all may know
You carried on!
—Frank James Bellemin.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 10 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices underwent a sharp set-back at the last today as a result of selling on the part of early buyers who were out to realize profits. Movement of new winter wheat appeared to be increasing and predictions of a hot wave for the northwest led to only a transient upturn in values. The wheat market closed heavy, 2 1-4 to 2 5-8 cents lower, at July 142 1-8 to 142 1-4, and December 143 1-2 to 143 5-8, with corn at 1-2 to 2 3-4 advance and oats unchanged to 3-8c off. In provisions the outcome varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 25c higher.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 10.—The cattle market opened on Monday with the heaviest run facing the buyers this season. With over a thousand more cattle than on the previous Monday, besides almost another thousand billed through for export, the market was badly overloaded. The butcher section especially was weighted down with too many half-finished rough grass cattle. These latter have been a heavy drag on the market all week, and at the close of Thursday's trading there were still several hundred stale rough butcher cattle unsold.

Although Monday's export prices were quoted $7.50 to $8.25, for fat steers, the general average was 25c lower than the previous week. Export demand was fairly active, but the heavy run, and the fact that about 900 cattle were billed through for export, besides those in the market, had a tendency to depress prices. Rogers and Maybee were the principal export buyers, taking during the week about 1,000 cattle. Their shipments to seaboard for the week were about 1,800. It is expected about the same amount of vessel space will be available for next week's shipments.

In the butcher section prices were 25c lower on all grades on Monday. During the week prices for rough unfinished cattle declined another 50c. Good to choice butcher held steady at Monday's original decline.

Calves were firmer early in the week, but eased off in the latter part.

Sheep and lambs held fairly steady at the opening, but easier at the close.

Hogs closed steady at $13 f.o.b. and $14 off cars, thick, smooth. Market a little weak at the close.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 10 (Canadian Press).—There was no change today in the condition of the local grain market, prices for carlots of oats were steady with a moderate amount of business passing with domesti; and country buyers. Sales of No. 2 C.W. were made at 74c, No. 3 C.W. at 68 1-2, extra one feed at 67c.

There was some demand from New York houses and sales of No. 2 C.W. oats were made at 16 1-2 per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, ex. 1 feed at 7 1-2 per bushel over, and No. 2 feed at 54 1-2 per bushel c.i.f. Several loads of No. 4 barley were sold at 97 3-4, and feed barley at 93 1-2, c.i.f.

There were no further developments in the local egg market today, but the undertone was very firm at the recent advance in prices noted. There was a steady demand for small lots from grocers and other dealers to supply their wants over the week-end and a fair trade was done in a wholesale jobbing way. Sales of specials were made at 42c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c, and seconds at 33c per dozen. The receipts yesterday were 1,868 cases, as compared with 5,210 for the same day last week, and 2,017 for the corresponding day a year ago.

A steady feeling prevails in the market for cold storage dressed poultry, and prices show no important change. The demand was fair for supplies for immediate consumption and the movement up to the average for the season of the year, with sales of 10 to 12 lb. turkeys at 40 to 43c per lb, 5 to 9 lb. birds at 32 to 39c per lb., milk-fed chickens at 35 to 40c per lb., selected chickens at 32 to 36c per lb., selected fowl at 18 to 28c per lb.

Selected ducks at 24 to 26c per lb., and selected geese at 18 to 22c per lb.

The demand for honey showed no improvement and the market was dull, but as supplies in first hands on spot were small prices were unchanged with No. 1 white clover honey in comb quoted at 22 to 23c per section.

No. 2 grade at 17 to 18c per section, white extract honey in 30 lb. tins at 11c per lb., 10 lb. tins at 11 1-2c per lb, 5 lb. tins at 12c per lb., and 2 1-2 lb. tins at 12 1-2c per lb.

The receipts of butter were 8,181 packages, as compared with 20,967 for the same day last week, and 5,172 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was no further change in the condition of the maket. The undertone being easy at the recent decline noted owing to the lull in the demand from all sources and the liberal surplus coming forward. The volume of business transacted was small and the market was quiet with Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery quoted at 37c per lb. Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 36 1-2 to 36 3-4c per lb., No. 1 creamery at 35 1-2 to 35 3-4c per lb., and No. 2 creamery at 34 1-2 to 34 3-4c per lb.

The receipts of cheese were 18,084 boxes, as against 26,388 for the same day last week, and 15,306 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was some demand from English importers for supplies and sales of Western No. 1 white and colored were made at 104s per cwt., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 103s. per cwt, but the volume of business on the whole was small. The tone of the local market was steady at the recent reduction in prices, with Western No. 1 white and colored quoted at 21 1-4 to 21 1-2c per lb., and Eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21 to 21 1-4c per lb. On the curb market a few lots were settled for at 20 3-4c per lb. delivered here.

At the United Dairymen Co-operative auction sale of Ontario cheese held at the Board of Trade there were 4,097 boxes offered of, which 2,051 boxes No. 1 white sold at 21 3-16c per lb., 1,850 boxes No. 1 colored at 21 3-16c per lb., and 196 boxes of special colored at 21 1-4c per lb. which prices show a decline of 7-16c to 9-16c per lb. as compared with a week ago, but they were 4 3-4c to 4 15-16c per lb. higher than the same day last year.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To The Examiner:—

Sirs—An item which appeared in your paper on Monday, July 6th, came to my notice to-day regarding the Entrance results at Hastings. This was in the Campbellford "News", and stated that 14 pupils of Thos. Chaplin's wrote the Entrance and 1 passed. That is a mistake—14 pupils wrote at Hastings centre. Only six pupils of mine wrote and three passed. I hope your will correct this at once.

Yours truly,
Thos. W. Chaplin,

LARGE CROWD TO EAT STRAWBERRIES

Bailieboro Anglicans Had Most Successful Social in History.

BAILIEBORO, July 11.—The members and friends of the Anglican Church held their annual strawberry festival on Tuesday evening on the church grounds.

During the early period of the day the weather looked anything else but favorable for a garden party, but the afternoon turned out bright and warm, making the weather ideal for the occasion.

The crowd that gathered on the church grounds and who partook of the bountiful supper of strawberries and the numerous dainties provided by the women of the church exceeded that of past years.

A booth installed within the grounds and well attended to by Mrs. Douglas Fisher, Miss Evelyn Woods and Gerald Armstrong, did a rushing business during the entire evening.

At the conclusion of the supper a splendid programme was provided when a party from Ebenezer United Church presented the play, entitled "The Trick Turned." The play was exceedingly well rendered by each actor, and it is needless to say that it was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. Many of the audience were overheard to state that this play was one of the best amateur plays that they had ever heard.

Rev. Cannon Allen officiated as chairman and Fred Wood and Fred Waterman sold tickets.

Altogether this festival was one of the most successful that the church has had for many years, and the proceeds at the gate, without the proceeds of the booth, amounted to two hundred and fifty dollars.

W.M.S. Meeting.

A missionary meeting held under the auspices of the Bensfort W.M.S. in the Union Church at Bensfort was largely attended on Tuesday afternoon. The President, Mrs. Wilbur Wood, occupied the chair, and a splendid programme was enjoyed. The principal feature on the programme was an address by Mrs. Smith, wife of Rev. Dr. Smith, who with her husband is home on furlough from the mission fields of India. Mrs. Smith is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher of Bensfort, who will celebrate their golden wedding after fifty years of married life on Saturday next, and on account of Mrs. Smith being a former Bensfort girl, she is well known by the majority of people of the community. Mrs. Smith's address was made much more interesting by the fact that she and her husband upon their trip home visited Jerusalem, the Holy City, and the land in which the Lord and Saviour lived. The address throughout was exceedingly interesting and inspiring, and was much enjoyed by all present. Other parts of the programme were a solo, "This is My Task," Miss Marjorie Emberson; a violin duet, with piano accompaniment, by Misses M. Wood and Mrs. Wm. Walters and Miss Ruby McAllister; also a splendid report of the recent W.M.S. convention was read by the delegate, Mrs. Edgar Wood. Mrs. Smith also had many curios from India to exhibit to the people with an interesting tale to each curio. She was also wearing a beautiful gown presented to her by the converted Hindus at the time of her leaving. This is the second furlough that she and her husband have had since entering the mission fields fourteen years ago.

Rev. Mr. Folly, the pastor, was present and took charge of the devotional exercises, and at the conclusion a lovely lunch was catered and provided by the ladies of Bensfort Church.

A hearty invitation was extended to the members of the Bailieboro W.M.S. and quite a number took advantage of the opportunity of attending this very, very interesting meeting.

WILL LIQUIDATE MORTGAGES FOR DETROIT RAILS

Properties Securing Detroit United Bonds to be Sold by Receivers.

FOR BOND HOLDERS

Stockholders Declined to Support Proposed New Financing Plan.

DETROIT, Mich., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Foreclosure of the mortgages securing the recently defaulted D.U.R. bond issues will probably begin "within a very few days" ,it was announced Friday in a letter to the creditors of the company from the receivers, the Security Trust Company of Detroit, and J. W. Simard, of Montreal.

Foreclosure will result in a sale of the property under court decree, it was said at the offices of the Trust Company, and probably a receivership conducted in the interests of the bond holders. The present receivership has been in the interests of the creditors.

Failure of the large stockholders of the company to support the proposed financing plan and to subscribe for receivers certificates, which it was proposed to put out in the amount of $1,660,000, is given by the receivers as the cause of the situation.

When the receivers took possession of the property on March 10, of this year, the letter points, they found available cash of $138,442.80, On July 1 they had on hand $660,000 but against this were accrued payrolls of $130,000 and other obligations incurred in operation by receivers of $283,000, as wel l as claims for personal injuries from accidents.

TESTING CITY AIR FOR HARMFUL GAS

Health Officer of New York Takes Samples To Laboratory.

NEW YORK, July 10. — (United Press).—Samples of air, taken at corners where automobile traffic is heaviest, were being tested in New York City laboratories to-day to determine whether carbon monoxide exists in the atmosphere in such quantities as to be injurious to health. The need for ventilation in vechular tunnels and closed interiors where carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts escapes has been recognized, but Health Commissioner Frank J. Monaghan now is investigating a theory that the gas generated by thousands of motor cars at the city crossings and on the main thoroughfares endangers the health of passengers and pedestrians.

JURY SELECTED AT DAYTON AND FIRST SKIRMISH

State Will Oppose Admission of Testimony by Scientists on Evolution Theory.

EARLY PROGRESS

Defense Contends No Conflict Between Bible and Theorists on Man's Origin.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Twelve jurors who will try the case of John Thomas Scopes, charged with violating the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of theories of evolution in the public schools of the State were chosen yesterday. The first day of the trial moved swiftly on its way, bringing into the open the question of admission of scientific testimony in regard to evolution which will be fought out Monday.

The discussion started in a small way at the first session but gained enough momentum to show that it will be bitterly contested.

The twelve seats in the jury box were filled with little effort. Nine farmers, one school teacher, a fruit grower and a shipping clerk were chosen.

No session of the court will be held to-day. The defence asked for a day in which to cover points they desire to stress in their contention that scientific testimony will show that the theory of evolution and the story of divine creation as told in the Bible are not in conflict.

New Indictment.

The first move of the opening day was to swear a grand jury and present a new bill against the 24-year-old school teacher.

The indictment returned May 25 was considered of doubtful legality on account of an oversight in elapsed time before the summons to the Grand Jury and the actual meeting of that body.

The defendant was re-indicted in almost the identical language used in the first document.

Darrow in Limelight.

A statement by Clarence Darrow, counsel for the defence, showed the first issue at hand. Speaking of the expectation of the defence to bring witnesses from a distance, he said that the defence considered scientists competent witnesses in the case to explain what evolution is. Attorney-General Stewart, replying to Mr. Darrow, said the prosecution would take the position that it was not competent to bring scientists into the case to testify as to what the theory of evolution is, or interpret the Bible or "anything of that sort."

The brief preliminary skirmish ended the incident for the day, the afternoon session being devoted to selection of the jury.

SCANTLING KILLS SAW-MILL OWNER

Crushed to Death Against Drive Shaft at Tamworth.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—A. Milligan of Tamworth, was found dead crushed between a scantling and the drive shaft of his water driven saw mill there Thursday morning. He went out to start the lumber dresser. When he did not return about dinner time the family became alarmed and one of his daughters went to the mill to see what was keeping him. She fund him crushed in the driving machinery and she raised an alarm.

From the appearance of the body and its relation to the machinery it seems that deceased was in the act of releasing a scantling which was used to block a pulley which was on the drive shaft and that he did not remove it quickly enough to prevent it catching in the pulley and as it started was caught by the scantling and pinned against the drive shaft. The force of the water power held him there and his life was crushed out.

MILITARY COUP JAILS CABINET

No Blood Shed in Ecuador Revolt—Military Authorities in Control.

WAS WIDESPREAD

QUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Troops of the Guayaquil Garrison began a military movement Thursday night which culminated in the capture of the civil and military authorities. A similar movement took place at the same time at Quito, the capital of Ecuador, where the military proclaimed General Francisco Gomez de La Torre as military chief of government.

There was no bloodshed at either place.

Government officials at Quito were imprisoned and the movement is believed to have been widespread in Ecuador.

The movement is described as designed to end the present maladministration and it is declared that the military authorities will be in full control pending the constitution of a civil government which will give absolute guarantees.

Dr. Gonzealo S. Cordova is president of Ecuador, and the Cabinet is headed by Dr. A. B. Larrea as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

PROPOSE RIVIVAL OF ANCIENT COURT

Court of the Lord High Steward to be Re-established at Oxford.

OXFORD, Eng., July 11.—An Oxford undergraduate is to be tried in the ordinary courts of Assize on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a motor accident. The frequency of motor smashes in which undergraduates are concerned and the gravity of their attendant consequences has led a famous law don to suggest that the Court of the Lord High Steward should try and punish the offenders.

This University Court has been in existence since 1404, and although it has not tried a case since a century before the days of Blackstone, belief prevails that it still has jurisdiction to try members of the university on charges of treason, felony or mayhem. Its powers are not original, as a true bill must first be found against the accused by the ordinary grand jury. When this court is sitting, its jury must be composed at least one-half by members of the university. Apparently the chancellor has power to make townsmen members for this purpose, as is one in the case of the so-called "Holy Pokers" who are matriculated to serve on the jury of the University Coroner.

The university possesses two other courts as well. The Court of the Chancellor, founded in 1331, is familiar to all thriftless undergraduates as the strong arm protecting Oxford tradesmen. When a bad debt is reported to this court a notice is sent out to the debtor ordering him to pay at once or lose his degree and his bedroom furniture.

The Vice-Chancellor's Court is formed by the vice-chancellor of the university assuming the privileges of his position as a justice of the City of Oxford and the Counties of Oxford and Berkshire. As the powers of a justice sitting alone are very limited it is the custom to make several heads of colleges justices in order that they may sit with the vice-chancelior and increase his powers.

The first circulating library of which there is any record was established at Dunfermline in 1711. The first in London was opened in 1740.

WILL PERPETUATE JOLIET'S LANDING

Sarnia Citizens Plan Memorial to Designate Historic Spot on St. Clair.

SARNIA, Ont., July 11 (Canadian Press)—About the year 1669 Joliet—a native born Canadian—was the first white man to set foot on the shore of the St. Clair river at this point and now a group of prominent citizens are planning to perpetuate this historic spot by the erection of a memorial.

The memorial will take the form of a huge boulder with a bronze tablet attached and it is hoped to have it ready for unveiling during the Old Home Week celebration here, July 18-25.

At the time of Joliet's landing the St. Clair river was known as the "Otisisippi," meaning "clear water." The explorer crossed Lake St. Clair to the south and proceeded up the river on St. Clare's day, and so designated those to bodies of water. The names were afterward changed to St. Clair in common usage. Public subscriptions are being sought for the proposed memorial.

TWO ONTARIO GOLD BELTS

The latest annual report of the Ontario department of mines draws attention to the fact, already noted by those engaged in the mining business that there are two gold belts in Northern Ontario, as indicated on the above map, which is adapted from one appearing in the government report. The northern belt includes the Porcupine, Munro and Lighting River areas. The southern, roughly parallel to it, and stetching east and west, is from 25 to 40 miles to the south and includes the Midlothian, Matachewan, Kirkland Lake and Larder Lake areas. An extension of this belt reaches Rouyn in Quebec province, towards which a railway is now being built by Ontario. The Dome, McIntyre and Hollinger mines are in the northern belt, the mines there having produced 113 million dollars of gold. The report says that the belts are about 70 miles long.

ONTARIO'S SANCTION FIRST STEP IN DEVELOPMENT OF THE OTTAWA RIVER, BUT CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Harnessing of Five Power Sources Waits on Consent of Other Interests.

NEGOTIATE NEXT

Sir Adam Beck Reviews the Hydro Commission's Progress With Project.

LONDON, Ont., July 11.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Adam Beck was interviewed last night with further reference to the announcement appearing in the public press of July 10 relating to the proposed development by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario of various important water powers on the Ottawa River. The chairman explained that in the summer of 1924 the Commission made formal application to the Provincial Government to develop water powers on the Ottawa River, and the Order-in-Council recently passed by the Provincial Government is the authority of the Government to the Commission to proceed with the development of the five water powers referred to, viz., those at Rocher Fendu Rapids, Chenaux Rapids, Chat Falls, Dechenes Rapids and at the Carillon Rapids.

When the Hydro-Electric Power Commission made application for the authority to develop these water powers, said Sir Adam, "it was considered imperative that the Commission should have control of the power rights in Ontario before the Commission would be properly circumstanced to open negotiations with the various other governmental and private interests possessing rights at the various Ottawa sites under consideration."

Other Parties Interested.

"On an international or inter-provincial river it will readily be understood that development could not be made by one owner on one side of the stream without first providing the ways and means for co-operating with the owner or owners of the rights on the other side of the stream, in fact all interested parties would have to come to a common understanding or an agreement with respect to the physical structure, such as dams, etc., involved."

"Now that the Commission has received from the Province the authority to proceed with the development at the various sites mentioned in the Order-in-Council, I believe that the Commission will endeavor as rapidly as possible to secure the co-operation of other interested parties to devise the ways and means of best developing the water powers that are available in order to meet the existing power shortage in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence districts."

Many Difficulties.

Sir Adam Beck was asked how long it might be before the developments under consideration might be expected to materialize, and replied that the Commission was confronted with a great many difficulties associated with the interests involved, and until these difficulties are overcome it will be impossible to even predict when arrangements can be consummated or work commenced.

Sir Adam Beck commented that conditions similar to those on the Ottawa also prevailed with risk to the proposed development on the St. Lawrence River, where the Commission has been authorized by the Provincial Government to enter into negotiations for the development of St. Lawrence power at Morrisburg. Plans have been submitted to the Ottawa authorities, and while these have been under consideration for some time, yet the Commission has not yet received the approval sought.

Away From Heated Cities

Ontario's Highways are a Welcoming Challenge to you

Somewhere a vagrant breeze rustles through orchards and grain fields—somewhere nestling lakes are rippling in laughter—somewhere there is happy health and freedom—and you can find them all in a motor trip in Ontario.

There is a good road to follow. You don't need to stay on the provincial highways. The county roads in most parts of the Province are in fine condition and lead to beauty spots you do not know.

Take a few days off in your car. Take the family with you. In every direction you will see wonderful scenery—rivers and lakes—hills and valleys—beautiful farms and beautiful towns.

Ontario's highways are a welcoming challenge to you and other motorists. Use them, but use them sanely.

See the country as you go. Drive moderately. You cannot make any speed records, although you may break speed limits. Your fast driving tears up the road surface which you and other users of the roads must replace. There is no magic about road repair work. It costs hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, and the money comes out of your pocket and those of your neighbours. In your own interest you should be careful about needlessly doing damage.

The Government is certain of the co-operation of most users of the roads by driving at moderate speeds as provided by the law. Those who omit to comply with the law and this request, should understand that the enforcement of the law will not be relaxed in any respect.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

DEPLORE NEW ONTARIO LAW

Osteopaths Hope Legislature May Learn More of Works.

ASK FOR LAWS.

TORONTO, July 11 (Canadian Press).—The American Association of Osteopathis, at its convention here today, passed a resolution "deploring the position in which the professional brethren in Ontario find themselves because of the mistaken attitude taken by those in authority in resricting the rights and opportunities of competent and thoroughly trained physicians."

The convention pledged itself to "carry the work of public education forward so that Ontario's law-making body will have an opportunity to learn the truth as to the character and scope of the education and training of osteopathic physicians."

The association also went on record as favoring the scientific investigating of the birth control movement, and urged state organizations to petition the legislatures to create laws requiring the sterilization of feeble-minded parents.

Dr. J. W. Bower, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Dr. L. M. Buch, of New York City were speakers during the session.

The convention closes tomorrow.

DO TRENT WATERWAY IN TWO WEEKS' TIME

F. H. Secretan and Wife Will Make Try-Out of Camping Appliance.

TORONTO, July 11.—F. H. Secretan and his wife, Ida L. Secretan, leave the city on Saturday at noon for Peterboro, where they start on a fishing trip which they are undertaking on behalf of well-known sporting interests and with the approval of the Ontario Government.

The trip is primarily for the purpose of testing modern camping equipment, such as the outboard motor boat, umbrella tent, gasoline stove-lamp and fishing tackle, 95 per cent. of which is being manufactured in Canada.

The Ontario Government is interested and lending its support, for the reason that it wishes to encourage the man of moderate means to utilize the Trent waterway, which until now, has been cruised principally by wealthy American yachtsmen.

The firms lending their support to this venture are: D. Pike, Limited, A. R. Williams, the Peterboro Canoe Co., Allcock, Laight & Westwood, the Coleman Stove Company, Michie & Company, Limited, and the British-American Oil Company, Limited. The trip will be completed in approximately two weeks' time, weather permitting.

COUNCIL REQUESTS THE UTILITIES COMMISSION TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL

"to enforce the same by action "and to obtain the same relief "as can be obtained in an action "by the Attorney General. In "the case of agreements of the "nature mentioned to which the "Corporation is not a party "(which is the present case) the "Section confers a new right of "action."

This new "right of action" given to Corporations expressly confers upon the Corporation of the City of Peterborough the right to sue this claim in question.

Moreover The Public Utilties Act R.S.O. 1914, Chap. 204, Section 43, provides:

"The revenues, after deducting "disbursements shall quarterly or "oftener if the Council so directs, "be paid over to the Treasurer of "the Municipality and shall be by "him placed to the credit of the ac"count of Public Utilities Work "and if not required for the pur"poses of the work shall form part "of the general funds of the Cor"poration."

If this $12,600 or more, which should be recovered from the Campbell Flour Mills Ltd. were collected, then this money should be paid over to the City Treasurer and would form part of the general funds of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and would be at the disposal of the Council.

It will therefore be seen that the Municipal Council has a direct right and duty to enforce the payment of this just claim.

I therefore take the liberty of suggesting that the City Council pass a resolution formally and respectfully requesting the Local Utilities Commission to bring an action against the Campbell Flour Mills Limited to enforce the payment of its just claim against them.

Yours faithfully,
R. R. HALL.

Commission Has Right

Referring to Mr. Hall's citing of section 348 of the municipal act Mr. Wearing said, "He says we can go further and are not absolutely blocked." Mr. Wearing read section 348 and explained it as meaning that a council has a right to take action where they had "a good right." He said, "I would be afraid that it would be decided by a court that the Municipality had not the right of action against the Flour Mills because an independent body, such as the Utilities Commission has the absolute right. The court might say to the council 'You have no right because the Company is not dealing with you.'"

Mr. Wearing gave it as his opinion that if the Council asked the Utilities Commission to take action and the Commission failed to do so, that the Council would then have to prove first that the Commission had failed to do its duty.

Alderman Denne said that the Council had gone into the business on Mr. Wearings advice before he had become a member. As he saw it, the people are in the dark, and the Council is in the dark. The Utilities Commission should let the people know and he said the Council should put it up to them to give this information. The Council has sent money on the matter and can't go any further.

Duty of Commission

Mr. Wearing said that when the Council met the Commission there was animosity between them, which he didn't think existed now. The Council could put it up to the Commission and get them to take action.

The Mayor suggested turning the matter over to the Commission and asking them to take action, either to carry on the matter or make an explanation.

Alderman Greene said "The Utilities Commission is under no obligation to consider a suggestion from the Council. If they consider everything is right it would be difficult to get them to take action."

The Mayor suggested that a possible message to the Commission might be, "There is a mystery we have tried to clean up. We ask you to try and arrive at a conclusion as to whether there is any reason to go ahead and try to solve it."

Alderman Greene suggested a conference between the Council and Commission, saying that more could be done by talking things over than by threatening court actions. It wouldnt be fair to the men whose evidence was in the solicitor's possession to make their names public as it might interfere with their livelihood. The action to be taken might be decided by a conference.

Alderman Crowe asked if it did not appear convincing that there was something wrong if the mill was running full and not using as much poer then as now.

When Mayor Turner said that the next step was to ask the Commission to take the matter up, Alderman Fife said he saw the end of the matter. It would be handed over to the Commission which would take no action.

Alderman Denne said it would appear to be common sense, and good law for the Council to inquire into the use of its money. Mr. Wearing agreed with him but said that five judges had declared otherwise.

Alderman Jones said that the proper thing to do was to pass the matter to the Utilities Commission which he thought would co-operate and give the Council information.

The Mayor said that the City would be in no worse position if the Commission failed to act in the matter.

The resolution was then read, moved by Alderman Crowe, containing a clause asking the Commission to sue the Campbell Flour Mills, but this clause was struck out. Alderman Fife asked for the deletion also of the clause asking the Commission to consider the matter, saying that it might as well be asked to sue.

Alderman Greene moved an amendment that no request be made to the Commission but that the Council and Commission should meet and talk the matter over and if the Commission could convince the Council of the advisability of dropping the matter then it should do so. He later withdrew his amendment to second the main motion.

Mr. Wearing read the last part of the judgment to show how independent the appeal judges thought the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Public Should Be Told

Alderman Crowe said there was something owing to the public and when questioned by the Mayor as to his meaning, he said, "There is information owing to the public."

Alderman Meyers, who first opened the matter, was asked for his opinion but he said that it would be better for him to keep quiet as long as he saw that they were taking a forward step. He said "I would have no trouble proving that the commission charged my competitor less than they charged me."

Alderman Fife asked what would be the position of the Aldermen if the Commission decided to sue and asked for backing. He was told that the Aldermen had backbone enough to back up their stand, but seemed to think that some of the backbones might be a little wobbly.

Resolution Unanimous

The resolution was then put and passed unanimously. There were present, Mayor Turner, Aldermen Denne, Jones, Meyers, Greene, Fife, Crowe and City Solicitor Wearing, and City Clerk Armstrong.

A letter which had been on file for sometime was then read. It was from the Local Council of Women, advocating a change in the date of the municipal elections. Letters were read from other cities setting forth the good or bad results they had found after making the change and Mr. Armstrong gave his opinions on the matter.

One day, last June, when I was afield getting bird pictures, and sitting at times on nearby rocks or fences, just watching the processes of nature, I was out of luck, or, as some might say, I was not having success in finding birds to study.

It was a warm day, and I had to let up a little towards noon, for the best times are early morning and late afternoon, and I was not taking my work seriously. I had lost interest and was weary.

About this time, along came a fifteen year old lad, and we chatted a bit, sitting on the fence. I was glad of his company and he was glad of a rest, for he lived out on the edge of the town and had a long way to walk.

This boy was a quiet type of humanity. He could grin like a basket of chips, but was not heavy on the big talk. Every different kind of bird I mentioned, he mumbled, "Got some of them at my place." Every time I mentioned some sort of tree or brush, "Got some of them down home." Every time I said anything, he grinned and, "Yeh, we've got lots of those."

Well! It gets a fellow's goat after a while, you know, and I began to look at this lad with a bit of a question in my manner.

He had a frank, open face, and seemed far too sober to kid me with jokes, and yet, he had a peculiar grin of secret satisfaction which puzzled me to the point of getting down off the fence and doing a little serious thinking all my own.

So, I said to this contented mannered lad, "Fishing is great sport." "Yup," says the lad.

Then I thought maybe I had found something where we could both be on even ground, and he would not have any advantage over me, so I picked on fishing. I would tell him about what wonderful trout fishing we have up in the mountains and how the trout streams are not more than a mile or so from camp and how we enjoy several good catches every season. That would be fine; I would swap fish stories with him and he would not be able to show me anything in that line which would outdo me.

Yes, that was what I thought I would do, but I took another think when he just grinned more than ever and said, "Got them too, and don't need mountains."

???????? "What's that you say?" said I, in very great astonishment. "Why, what do you take me for, to be telling me with your 'Yups' that you have this and you have that, for everything I name in Nature?"

No answer!

This boy got off the fence, slowly deliberately, said he guessed he would go, and started off. It was no time to argue, so he had me for company, for I told him I was going to see for myself. When he said it was quite a walk, I invited him to come in my auto. He did not say one single solitary word all the way.

When we arrived, his mother, who was indeed motherly, met us and made me welcome.

It would take me too long to tell all I saw there. It was the most natural garden I was ever in, with not one artificial thing about it. Pigeons, hens, a dog, but no cat. Apple trees old enough to have holes in them and every hole with a bird's nest. One hole had a great crested flycatcher nest and eggs and the usual cast off snake skin, a peculiar thing about this bird, for a snake skin is generally in the nest. Two bluebird nests with young; several robin nests; our beloved "Rossignol," the song sparrow, in an old can; two wrens, one in a hat on a post, a hole through the crown to let them in and out, the other in a watering can on the fence; an oriole's nest, swinging so low that we at once sent for lumber and built a scaffold from which to photograph it, and, though it was many feet in the air, the birds accepted us as friends after a little patience and we got good pictures.

There were meadow larks in the field beside the house; barn swallows in the barn, the door being kept open for them. A truly wonderful place.

I asked for the trout after a while, thinking at least this part of the quiet lad's story was stretched, but there was a spring on the place and a series of crooked pools and rocks, making a cress lined stream, with good sized trout in it.

All in a small town garden, not more than an acre in extent. A natural and worth while garden.

Needless to say, that boy got some nice bird photos, for we went fifty-fifty; he supplied the birds and I took their pictures.

Boys and girls have asked me so many questions about the snake skin in the crested flycatchers' nests, that I think perhaps a word or two about this bird will be welcome.

The Crested Flycatcher is also called the Great Crested Flycatcher and is an olive brown bird, about the size of a robin. It likes the vicinity of green woods and likes to nest in holes in orchard trees.

It has a grey throat and breast, shading into yellow lower down on the belly and underparts. Its long, light brown or rufus coloured tail is conspicuous when it flies about. It has a harsh note, not very musical, and sometimes folks have these birds in the orchard and do not know it, as it is sly.

Why it likes cast off snake skins for nesting material is unknown. It may think that the skin will scare away all enemy birds. How each pair manage to find the necessary snake skin for almost every nest is a question that will send a naturalist crazy if enough folks get asking, for he cannot answer it.

The Kingbird, the Phoebe, the Crested Flycatcher and the Wood Pewee are all cousins and all eat enormous quantities of annoying insects.

that will weather to a soft or slightly olive green is much superior to a hard, dark green which will shortly turn harsh and bluish.

The construction is important and a much less clumsy appearance is attained if the joints are cross lapped or halved rather than laid one on another and should be nailed or pegged. The square rather than the diagonal should be resorted to and the openings made with longer vertical lines than horizontal. Fan shaped trellises are also very effective.

As to placing on the small property in particular. If not overdone they may be used on the boundary fence to make it more attractive. As a focus point or the background for some garden ornament on axis, they are excellent but they should not be placed in the centre of the garden or a random about the place. Treillage in general may be used to give privacy about the small formal garden, the Pergola or the more utilitarian features, as the drying yard and the vegetable garden. As screening for the garage and similar features it can be made both useful and ornamental.

In modern usage, trellises may or may not have vines trained on them. If vines are used they should be of a variety that will not smother the trellis but just make the sufficient growth to partially cover it just as the trellis should not bulk too largely in the landscape or on the building.

A LINE-O-TYPE.

In 1457 the Scottish parliament did declare golf be utterly cryit down and nocht usit," and in the ensuing generation provided further that "in na place Times Do of the realme there be Change usit fute-ball, golfe or uther silk unprofitabill sportis." Yet later in the reign of James IV, who signed the second statute, there are records that he and his court and even commoners were ignoring both by pursuing the same "unprofitabill" game of golf.

As lately as 1880 a Briton travelling around England with a set of clubs was the object of astonishment an alarm to fellow-travellers and the public, a very common question asked of those so equipped being whether it was not necessary to be a fine rider to play the game, so confused had it always been with polo. It is only in the last two generations that the sport has acquired general fame outside of Scotland, where its development largely centred.

Now, so considerable has this interest in golf become, despatches from Prestwick, scene of the recent British Open, report unprecedented disorder on the course, due to the number of spectators. MacDonald Smith, a favorite for the title, attributes his failure to the swarm of persons who rushed from green to green, trampling on the ball, kicking it as far as fifty yards in some cases, and generally ruining the poise of the contestants. One Briton, Whitcomb, was forced to withdraw when bitten by a dog that had projected itself into the prevailing excitement.

One sees the time when grandstands will perforce be erected around each green to keep the spectators from too intimate participation in the game. Golf will probably never reach a "Take 'im out" and pop bottle fame, but the number of disciples it acquires yearly will shortly make this problem of handling the gallery a very serious consideration with promoters of championship events.

Popularity implies penalties of its own.

Hope is the precious thing that makes the dub golfer yell "Fore!" at someone a quarter of a mile away.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MEETS GRANDPA BROWN'S HELPER.

"Oh you darling!" Doris exclaimed as a tiny little grayish green bird with a lovely soft yellow breast, slipped out from under the leaves of the apple tree and settled on a rose bush near her. "Who are you, anyway?"

"Missy Viree, if you please," chirped the birdling, flipping her little greenish black tail. "My, had I known there was so much work for me to do, I should have returned much sooner."

"Work!" Doris laughed. "What can such a wee birdling do, I'd like to know? Did you travel far?"

"I should say I can work," chirped Missy Viree. "If you only knew how I love work. Just a month ago, I was basking in the warm sunlight of South America. My, but the winters are lovely there and I just found so many good juicy worms and bugs! But I knew Farmer Brown couldn't get along without me, so I hurried back North."

"I'm quite sure Grandma Brown and I miss your lovely songs, all right," sighed Doris. "Sometimes I wish I was a bird, with nothing to do all day long but sing and flip among the trees."

"What a tiresome life that would be, to sing and play among the trees all day," laughed Missy Viree. "Why I'd die if I couldn't work. Do you know, Grandpa Brown's trees are just full of bugs and caterpillars, that will soon destroy them, if the birds don't get busy and kill them? That's the kind of work that I do. If I must say it myself, I am most painstaking and thorough with my work of hunting out the insects. Most birds catch the bugs and insects that rest on the top of the leaves, but no one can say I shirk my duty. I turn every leaf over very carefully and get every thing that will harm a tree. There's nothing in that line that misses me. I'll bet you couldn't tell me where most insects lay their eggs?"

"I Haven't Built My House Yet."

"No, I can't," laughed Doris. "But I'll bet anything you know where to look for them."

"Indeed I do," chirped Missy Viree. "Right where the foliage is young and tender, right at the very tip ends. Wise insect mothers place their eggs there, so the youngsters will have a dainty dinner when they hatch out. It's my business to destroy all those insects, and believe me, I do. There isn't a bird among the feathered folk, who can beat me on thoroughness. I work just about sixteen hours every day."

"Then I'm glad I'm not a bird," said Doris, "for I don't like to work."

"That's too bad," sighed Missy Viree. "I love to work because I know I can help repay Grandpa Brown for his lodging in the trees. I haven't built my house yet. I've been too busy detstroying bugs, so you'll have apples this fall. But soon now, I'll build my nest, then I'll invite you in to see it. Run along now and help all you can, for we only pass this way once and must do all the good we can." Then with a merry chirp and a flip of her black tail, Missy Viree sailed back among the leaves in the apple tree.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A STOMACH ULCER CAN BE AVOIDED EASILY

A few days ago I told you about a method of treatment recommended by a Canadian doctor for the cure of ulcer of the stomach. He advised that eating be limited to two substantial meals a day, spaced five or six hours apart. This plan provides a period of at least fourteen hours a day when the stomach is at rest.

Space did not permit giving you the benefit of the further suggestions made in this report. Some splendid advice was given as to the kind of food to eat in case the stomach is ulcerated.

Space did not permit giving you the benefit of the further suggestions made in this report. Some splendid advice was given as to the kind of food to eat in case the stomach is ulcerated.

Nothing but water is to be taken between meals. Rest after eating is important. It is required of the patient that he lie down for fifteen minutes on leaving the table. It would seem to me that even a longer period would be better.

In case of stomach ulcer diet and order of meals are followed for a full year. This is what the doctor said about foods:

"Tea, coffee, tobacco, spirits, wine, beer, highly spiced sauces or foods, bran, salads, raw fruit or cooked foods with seeds, such as raspberries, are forbidden, as is also any other article of diet which the patient has found to have been a constant cause of trouble. Fowl and fish are to be preferred to heavy meats, and milk soups are a much better choice than thick soups."

This treatment is founded on common sense. It strikes me that it would be a good system to follow, not only in ulcer of the stomach, but in cases of excessive stomach acidity.

"Sour stomach," "heart burn" and chronic dyspepsia are forerunners of ulcer. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," will apply here. It may well be that a diet and method of living such as the Canadian physician recommends, might ward off ulcer of the stomach when there are distressing symptoms which indicate the possibility of the development.

It is a shame that so many otherwise sensible persons, are strangely negligent in their eating habits. They persist in taking things which they know will disagree. They eat heavy meals and irritating dishes by the score.

It is unwise to be so careless. Nature will not overlook these indiscretions. They may be all right on your birthday and Christmas, but practiced every day these habits will bring disaster.

Eat simply, rest a lot, sleep all you can, get fresh air and sunlight, keep well and happy. Then you will live to the century mark.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MRS. L. J. Q.—What causes my stomach to swell up at times?

A.—This is probably due to gases on the stomach. For particulars on this subject kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

DR. Q.—How can I get rid of dandruff?

2.—How can I reduce about twelve pounds?

A.—Shampoo the hair frequently and use a good tonic. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Eat sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

D. R. Q.—What can I do for shingles?

A.—Some kind of body poison is usually responsible for this condition. Overwork and worry are factors in most instances. Try and get plenty of rest and be free from worry. It would be well to have your doctor advise the necessary treatment.

* * *

G. S. Q.—What would you advise me to do for a finger that is swollen around the nail?

A.—This may possibly be due to an abscess about the nail. It would be wise to consult a doctor for a personal examination.

L. E. B. Q.—Is —— good for rheumatism?

2.—Is —— the proper thing to use to make the hair grow?

A.—This may help an acid condition, but you should get at the source of the trouble. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—I do not believe so. Shampoo the hair frequently and use a good hair tonic. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MOWIN'

HAL COCHRAN'S DAILY POEM

Ya have to keep mowin', 'cause grass keeps on growin.' Old nature has made it that way. 'Twas only last week that it looked pretty sleek, but it needs a new cuttin' today.

You get out the mower to trim it down lower. You work in the sun and the shade. The pushing you're doing is constantly brewing a song in the grass cuttin' blade.

The mower's quite trusty but often gets rusty. You halt, while the oil's spread around. Again you are at it; you strongly combat it—the grass that has grown on the ground.

In winter, I reckon, it's summer you beckon, forgettin' there's mowin' in store. But, now you have reason to wish for the season when you will be mowin' no more.

And yet, Mister Cutter, allow me to mutter that mowing is really just play. Just try and not mind it. I'll bet that you'll find it relief from the work of the day.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, JULY, 12-13.

Sunday's horoscope warns against change or travel. There is a possible augury for deception or treachery, but strict attention to affairs may bring substantial returns.

Those whose birthday it is should postpone change or travel and be on guard against fraud or trickery. Application should bring steady return. A child born on this day may be restless and unsettled or subject to subtle attack.

Monday's astrological forecast is a generally fortunate one, indicating change or travel of benefit. But this may not be for those in the employment of others, who should not jeopardize their positions.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year favoring them, especially through change or travel, provided they are not in the employment of others. These should safeguard their positions. A child born on this day may be original and inventive, fond of change, but may make its best success on its own account rather than in the employment of others.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

The solution will appear in Monday's paper.

YOUR GARDEN

GARDEN TRELLISES.

Trellises could be used much more in the garden than they are, as points of interest and to cover up and add beauty to unsightly or uninteresting surfaces or objects. Treillage may also be used on a larger scale to give privacy. It can very well take the place so called "rustic work" and in the majority of cases will harmonize better with the property from an aesthetic point of view.

The design will depend largely upon the architecture of the house and the character of the grounds. Plain well balanced and proportioned designs are superior to anything fancy or elaborate in most cases.

In trellises for placing on a building, there is a nicety of feeling for covering just the right amount of space, neither too much nor too little, which should be carefully studied. Just as with vines, the whole wall may be covered and the architectural beauty lost, if the wall be partly exposed to show any ornament or beauty of line, the vine will but enchance its beauty and not smother it.

Trellises or treillage may be painted or stained and the color will depend on the color of the woodwork of the building or its situation in the grounds. Contrasting colors as green against white or the reverse may some itme be used. If stained ,brown is undoubtedly the best color. If painted, white, brown or green may be used successfully. A green paint should be carefully chosen for such work and one that will harmonize well with foliage. A slight green with an emerald tint,

TEMPTATION

By Juanita Hame

Which shall it be—Love or a Career? She loves the hushed expectant murmur which greets her as the curtain rises and the spotlight picks out her dainty figure from the shadows. She loves the roar of applause which rewards her when her dance is finished and she sinks to the stage in a courtesying gesture which she has copied from the swan—although no swan ever possessed the grace and beauty which is hers.

But ever as she dances, she sees Dan Cupid lurking just over the rim of the light, dangling before her dreamy eyes the heart which he wants her to have—the heart which will give her the love which is her birthright. Does she want it? Can she live without the applause and lights which are now the very breath of life to her? It's a temptation, but a wonderful one and sooner or later she'll succumb—for Love is the most wonderful career of all.

A FASHION MODEL'S DIARY

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A CHALLIS AND SILK ENSEMBLE.

Pam came into the shop this morning and announced that she was making herself the most stunning ensemble suit of the Summer season.

"That is a large boast," I reminded her.

"I know it is," Pam answered, "but I'm using a material that I haven't seen in a single other Summer ensemble, and I do think it is too effective for words."

"What is this smashing material?" I urged her to tell me.

"It's something that's used quite a lot for little children's dresses, but I saw it worn by the head woman in a beauty shop, and she looked so clean and cool and attractive that I was immediately inspired."

Of course, I was terribly anxious to hear what this marvelous fabric could be.

"It's challis," she finally announced.

"I've always thought challis had just enough wool in it tto give it body and that it's one of the coolest, most attractive looking materials for the simple frock," I said.

"The challis I saw was cream with little blue dots on it, but I began thinking how snappy it would be in all white," Pam commented.

Then she reached up on the shelf behind her and produced her sketch pad.

She handed it to me, and I saw a lovely ensemble, perfectly straight, with polka dots about the neck and sleeves.

"You didn' tell me about the polka dots," I said.

"Well, I wanted my white challis outfit to have touches of color, so I got some thin white crepe dotted in red," Pam explained.

"How is the dress beneath this straight coat made?" I asked her.

"It's all a perfectly straight affair, with the upper part made of silk, and the skirt extending up on it in a square bib effect at the front and back," Pam enlightened me.

"And the coat is lined with polka dots?" I queried.

"That's it," Pam verified my guess.

This White Challis Ensemble Is Complemented by White Crepe Dotted in Red.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: I like a young man who is one year my senior. He came to see me one evening, and then I did not see him for about six weeks. Please tell me how I can win his love. —Little Bit.

Little Bit: If you enjoy the company of this young man and if he has shown a desire to cultivate your friendship, why don't you invite him to call on you occasionally? It is not necessary that you wait for him to ask permission. Merely drop him a note asking him to call, and if he is at all interested he will be glad of the opportunity to learn to know you better. Just now content yourself with his friendship and don't worry about love. When he really feels that he is fond of you he will gather up enough courage to "declare himself."

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Let's Talk It Over

PROTESTS ABOUT PAY HELD JUSTIFIABLE.

Here's a letter that's going to hit Susan, the hard working steno, right where she lives.

What's the use of trying to succeed in business—if you're a woman? It can't be done. Oh, yes, you can make a place for yourself—make yourself tolerated, and even indispensable—make yourself financially comfortable. But you can't make them pay what you're worth. You can't forge ahead as a man would and receive a proportionate increase in pay. They won't give it. Why not? Because you're a woman.

No, I'm not a young steno with an exaggerated idea of my own importance. I hold a responsible position and receive a large salary—"for a woman. I am virtually the head of my department and have full power to act. But if I were a man I would be rated and paid as a manager. Because I am a woman I am "the secretary." The manager's salary is just twice mine. He is missed less than the office boy on his frequent trips and vacation. By all the gods, I ought to have his title and his pay.

Why don't I leave and go elsewhere? Because it is the same everywhere! Big Business will not recognize ability in Women. I am no longer young and I was never beautiful. It would be absurd to predict marriage for me. I am as steady as any married woman in the place. I know other women, capable, steady women, working for about half of what they are worth, without recognition of any kind. Why don't they give us fair treatment? They are giving women political equality—why not let us have business equality? —E. B. S.

Is it true? It is! Any working woman will back E. B. S. in her statement. Women are now taking part in almost every conceivable industry. They are performing the most menial manual labor and filling the most responsible executive positions. No one any longer argues about their efficiency or doubts their ability to "produce the goods." Yet in every class of work they perform they are paid less than men for the same service. Why is that?

Two charges are invariably brought against the woman worker. First, that she is not a settled, reliable worker, as she always desires to marry and may leave her job at any time to do so. Second, that she is "taking the job away from some man." Let's analyze the two charges.

It is true that women workers do desire to get married and are apt to leave their jobs to do so. But it is extremely doubtful if the feminine unstability because of this desire is any greater than the masculine unstability of a dozen other desires. Youth likes to move about. If it does not do it for one reason, it does it for another. And the female of the species is not the worst offender in this matter. Boys and men still form the mass of "floating workers." All industries which depend on youthful labor are hampered by this tendency. But since the work performed by one youthful laborer can be taken up by another youthful laborer, the inconvenience is offset. From which it appears that Maggie, who wishes to marry, has nothing on Freddie, who wishes to flit. Yet, despite this fact, Maggie receives less than Freddie for the same service. Why? "Because she's a woman!"

Then comes the older, unmarried women. Now, incredible as it may seem to You Boys, great numbers of those older women workers do not want to get married. The fire of youth has passed and they've learned a lot about men in their years of waiting on a husband. Nope, I'm not speaking from my own bitter viewpoint. Personally, I'm keen on you, Boys. But I'm just telling you how the other girls feel. Many a woman is as set on getting ahead and making her mark as any man, and as capable of doing so. But does she receive his recognition? She does not! "Because she's a woman."

Now as to the other charge: "She takes the job away from some man." If the woman needs that job, why doesn't it belong to her as well as to any man?

Moreover, very few of these working women are without dependents. Nearly always they are supporting aged parents, sick brothers or sisters, or contributing to the support of nephew and nieces. By every law of individual right and social service, these women should be paid as much as men.

Which is, I believe, as neat an argument as any that old Cicero himself ever advanced. But will it get Maggie anywhere? No! Why? Because she's a woman!

THE LURE OF THE FRIENDLY KITCHEN.

What kind of a kitchen is yours? Is it one of those stand-off-and-don't-muss-it-up kind or one of the come-in-and-be-comfy-kind? If you have little children, a homey kitchen spells bliss to them and no other room in the house holds so strong an appeal.

Right when a mother is the busiest about her house work is one of the greatest opportunities for child training. Children are so happy when they think they are helping, that we shall invent all of the little tasks possible to foster the helpful idea.

Every kitchen should boast some comfortable chairs, as well as the usual straight one for various uses. Rush bottom chairs with the shaped back are comfortable, especially if one must sit some time paring and preparing fruits, or vegetables. There is an old fashioned bentwood rocker that is very comfortable, takes up very little room and is handy if baby must be taken up and mothered once in a while, on a busy day.

The built-in wall desk takes up no more floor room when the drop leaf is closed and it is a great comfort. All kitchen bills and accounts, market list, pens, pencils, tags, scissors, string, labels, menus and cook books stand on the upper shelves. The desk and shelves are painted to match the furniture.

One low table, low enough to sit beside and lay things on, is a wonderful convenience. The table may be zinc covered if desired, and should be on rubber rollers.

Another secret of the comfy kitchen is to have every shelf in the closet or on the walls, within reach of the uplifted arms of the average person. No standing on chairs or uncertain ladders to get the extra dish needed.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

WHEN THE RADIO WAFTS IN OLD MELODIES

Yes—no, it couldn't be.

There I sat in my quiet room, with the listeners over my ears.

Everybody was out for the evening. One had gone to a dinner and one had gone to a dance and one had gane to some religious meeting somewhere, and I sat and watched the moon rise over the water and saw the white clouds drifting before the rising moon, and "listened in" to the radio concert—far away.

Someone was playing the piano—what was it she played?

Something with bells in it—a reception, over and over, ringing, ding-dong, ring-ting, ding-dong—no, yes, it couldn't be—it was "Monastery Bells."

For goodness sake, whoever hunted that up out of the attic and put it on the piano and played it over again?

Ring-ting — ding-dong — ring-ting—ding-dong—yes, you could hear the bells of Monastery ringing out in the moonlight and somewhere up the steep path crept a little procession of shadows.

Ring-ting — ding-dong —ring-ting—ding-dong— I do wonder what's become of Julia.

Julia was the minister's daughter and she had red hair and a red-haired temper and red headed brains, too, when you come to think of it, and a red-haired kind heart and red headed generosity.

And she hated the piano—but of course she had to "take lessons" or else she would have been hopelessly out of it—in that day and age.

Whenever we girls got together each one of us had to play and everyone of us had a favorite "piece" or we pretended it was a favorite. It was the one we could play, anyway, and Julia always played "Monastery Bells." Ring-ting — ding-dong — ring-ting — ding-dong. How carefully she played it, with what attention to pedal and to the funny little trills in the treble.

Dear me, how I'd like to sit down and talk to Julia for just half an hour or so and find out what she makes of this piece of music we call life and living. Has it been a gay, joyous affair, for her, or has it turned out to be played in the minolo with plenty of soft pedal in the bass?

Grace always plays "Warblings at Eve"—yes, the mysterious radio player played that, too, right after "Monastery Bells," and then, what do you think? She played "The Maiden's Prayer." I couldn't believe my ears at first, but there it was, the dear old Maiden's Prayer" as big as life, twice as tripply.

How lovely we used to think it was—that was Alice's piece. When it came my turn, I played "The Dove on the mast." I hadn't the faintest idea what it meant, but I made it as tragic and hopeless as I could and had a lovely time being melancholy.

Who were you, anyhow, you who played the old, old "pieces" the other night, for the radio?—I do wish I knew you. I wonder how many of the people who "listened in" recognized them—and remembered?

SOUGHT THRILL; IS NOW SOUGHT

Deserter From the Aviation Corps Accused of Murder of Man.

HECTIC CAREER.

MINEOLA, N.Y., July 11.—(Canadian Press). — Having committed murder to get the super-thrill of his hectic career, in the opinion of the authorities, Philip K. Knapp, 27-year-old ex-College Beau Brummel, deserter from the United States Aviation Corps and wrecker of women's hearts, is being sought by the West police.

Knapp is accused of choosing for his victim, a modest trusting man, Louis Panell, a Hempstead taxicab driver.

The desire for a super-thrill was revealed in a letter written in the third person which Knapp left in his locker at Mitchell Field, addressed to his father, William W. Knapp, an engineer of Syracuse, N.Y., and commandant of his squadron.

"Anything was welcome that endangered his life," the letter said. "Frankly, the thought of self-destruction has been considered, but in that, although the result was desirable, the excitement, the utter enjoyment of facing death was absent, and now he finds that life in the army is entirely too humid to satisfy that insatiable longing. What would be done next will be done unknown to all, absolutely. A different name will be used, and in this large world the utter impossibility of detection is evident."

U. S. SHIPS IN POUND FOR POACHING LAND

Fines of $6,000 Collected For Encroachment of U.S. Craft on Canadian Ground.

TORONTO, July 11. Canadian Press. — In an effort to put an end to the lifting of sand and gravel by American concerns from valuable Ontario deposits along the Niagara, St. Clair and other rivers, Hon. Chas. McCrea, Minister of Mines, has placed watchmen at vantage points, with the result that one American concern has already paid fines amounting to $6000 for encroachment.

The Holloway Sand Company of Buffalo on Wednesday last, despatched two of its dredges across the boundary line at Bridgeburg to dig gravel on the Canadian side.

Their presence was reported by a watchman, and the Collector of Customs seized the vessels for a breach of the customs regulations, and tied them up on the Canadian side.

Fines were subsequently imposed.

NATURE'S WARNINGS.

Danger Signals That Everyone Should Take Seriously.

Pain is one of Nature's warnings that something is wrong with the body. Indigestion, for instance, is characterized by pains in the stomach, and often about the heart; rheumatism by sharp pains in the limbs and joints; headaches are a sign that the nerves or stomach are out of order. In some ailments, such as anaemia, pain is not so prominent. In this case Nature's warnings take the form of pallor, breathlessness after slight exertion, palpitation of the heart and loss of appetite. Whatever form these warnings take wise people will not ignore the fact that many diseases have their origin in poor blood, and that when the blood is enriched the trouble disappears. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are most helpful in such cases because they purify and build up the blood to its normal strength. In this way it tones up the nerves, restores the appetite and gives perfect health. Miss Hazel Berndt, of Arnprior, Ont., has proved the great value of this medicine and says:—"I am a young girl and have been working in a factory for the past four years. For two years I had been in such poor health that at times I could not work. I was thin and pale, and troubled with headaches and fainting spells. I doctored nearly all this time, but it did not help me. My mother advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using them for a while I could notice an improvement in my condition. I used nine boxes and can truthfully say that my health is restored. When I began taking the pills I weighed 97 pounds and now I weigh 114. I feel that I owe my good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and hope other ailing people will give them a fair trial."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GUIDAL MAP SHOWS LOCAL TOPOGRAPHY

Clear and Distinct Presentation of Roads, Lakes and Villages.

The finest map of the Kawartha Lakes and Peterborough County yet seen for tourists' purposes has just been published in the city. It is a beautifully-conceived outline map, with all confusing cross lines and be-fuddling symbols eliminated, and the roads stand out clear and distinct.

Perhaps in no particular is the accuracy of the map so clearly shown as in the representation of Stoney Lake, where every island is shown and every point marked. Elevations of lakes and high hills are shown.

That the map is thoroughly up-to-date is shown by the marking of the Patte-Wolff fox farm at Chemong, the Rotary Camp at Clear Lake, and other points that have more or less local interest. A complete index on the back of the map gives qlick reference to any point sought; tabulations of fish and game laws are ready for handy consultation; a list of the best hotels in the district helps the itinerant traveller there is a time-table of busses, trains and boats connecting with the Kawartha lakes, and a handy map of Peterborough city is also given.

In fact, the whole map is so attractive that even the man who does not intend following its trails will find pleasure in poring over it. If a map can be said to be "beautiful," this is the map. And to the man who is going touring in this most beautiful of Ontario summer resort districts the map is the indispensible guide for which he has been waiting. As a souvenir of such a trip the map will recall vividly the beauty and grandeur of the scenery through which its roads wind.

Bound in a durable green heavy paper cover, the map fits comfortably in the coat pocket, handy for quick reference at all times. It is aptly called the "Guidal" tourist map.

ORDER SISTERS TO PRODUCE GIRL

Brother Charges Abduction to Convent—Girl's Father Took Her There.

"CONVENT NOT JAIL."

MONTREAL, July 10. -- Canadian Press. — The Sisters of Notre Dame De Charite Du Bon Pasteur, have been served with a writ of habeas corpus ordering them to produce in court to-day Albina Fontaine, 20, who it is claimed, was abducted from Granby, and incarcerated in a Montreal convent last Friday.

Appearing in the application for the writ is Wilfred Lapointe, the girl's half-brother.

The Sisters of Notre Dame claim the place is not a woman's jail.

The story told by the Sister Directress of the Maison St. Helen is that early last Friday morning Miss Fontaine was brought to the Bon Pasteur convent by her father and another man. The father explained that her half brother had been trying to wean her away from the Roman Catholic Church. He is also said to have stated that the two children his wife had before she married him were protestants, and that one of them, Wilfred, had enticed the girl to live with him.

HOMES HALF-MILE HIGH PROPHESIED

Four-Deck Streets, Elevated Parks, Are Forecast by Noted Architect.

Buildings half a mile high, streets in four or more levels, fresh air piped from the country, elevated parks—these are a few of the things we may see in the typical American city in the next quarter of a century or so, if recent predictions made by Harvey W. Corbett, noted American architect, are fulfilled.

Mr. Corbett is president of the Architectural League of New York. Unlike many other experts, he does not believe that the future will bring the "decentralization" of our big cities. On the contrary, long study of modern trends in architecture, city planning, and business and social life, says Popular Science Monthly for August, has convinced him that our cities will become more and more crowded. And facing this contingency, he believes we of this generation should begin now to plan buildings and highways with an eye on the problem of handling people and traffic of the future.

The streetcar and elevated railway, says Mr. Corbett, will disappear. Streets will consist of four or more levels, respectively for pedestrians, slow motor traffic, fast motor traffic, and electric trains, the uppermost level being raised above the present street level.

Buildings half a mile high or more will contain offices and commercial establishments on the lower floors and dwellings, schools and amusement places on the upper. These latter will be reached by spiral escalators and will be supplied with pure air piped from the country. On the roofs of the buildings will be airplane landing fields. City parks will be raised to the level of elevated streets, with convenient auto parking space beneath.

"Though Mr. Corbett's vision of the future city contains much imagination," Popular Science Monthly declares, "it is in no sense fantastic. It is supplied by a practical man and a noted architect."

FLYING SAILBOAT TESTED IN BALTIC

Odd Monoplane Carries Collapsible Masts and Sails for Emergency.

High above the Baltic Sea recently a seaplane soared. Suddenly it dived, straightened out within a few feet of the water, and soon was skimming the waves. Observers watcher the manoeuvre with interest that changed to astonishment when they saw two sails rise above the hull of the now floating airplane. The noise of the engines ceased, and the plane scudded through the water, with a snappy breeze behind the sails, as smoothly as any sailboat.

This astonishing new type of all-metal flying sailboat, just perfected, was being tested by Robrbach Metal Aeroplane Company of Copenhagen. Its sails—a mainsail, foresail and jib—are collapsible, and when not in use are carried in the body of the ship. They serve as auxiliaries to the airplane engines, providing an added element of safety on long cruises. Should one engine fail, the other would still keep the plane going; but should both engines fail, the sails would carry the boat along until the engines had been repaired, or until help arrived.

Again, should a tempest drive the plane far from its appointed course and the fuel supply run low, the sails could be resorted to and the fuel supply conserved.

As described in Popular Science Monthly for August, the machine is of the monoplane type, with cantilever wings set at an unusually acute angle. The wings, of duralumin, are so strong that the crew can walk safely along them, a feature of considerable value in docking. There are two auxiliary stabilizing pontoons situated under the wings.

The hull is divided into watertight compartments by bulkheads designed so that the machine will float with any two compartments flooded. Two 12-cylinder engines are mounted above the hull on hollow metal struts that carry the motors and propellers clear of the wing structure. They are said to develop a speed of 1,800 revolutions a minute, furnishing approximately 720 brake horsepower.

AIRPLANES DROPPED TO TEST STRENGTH

New Methods for Testing Safety of Landing Gear of Planes.

With the continued increase in flying speeds, and consequent increase in landing speeds, the problem of safety in landing is one that is engaging the best efforts of aeronautical engineers. Since safe landing depends not only on the skill of the pilot, but on the strength of the airplane's structure, the U.S. Army Air Service recently standardized a remarkable set of tests to determine exactly the ability of landing gears to stand up under various loads and shocks.

In these tests, as described in Popular Science Monthly for August, the airplane to be tested is stripped to the fuselage, then loaded with bags of shot representing the weights of motor, wings, and equipment. With the tail of the machine supported on a scaffolding, the nose is lifted vertically by a block and chain until it reaches a certain height. Then, by means of a trigger release hook, it is dropped suddenly on an inclined platform designed to simulate a cross-winding landing.

In this manner the fuselage is dropped successively from increasing heights until failure occurs. The drop varies from 12 to 40 inches, according to the type of plane.

To determine accurately the live loads at which failure occurs, and to obtain comparative data on shock absorbing systems, a shock-recording instrument was designed. This consists of a pair of circular plates with holes, through which a set of spindles, fitted with needle points at their lower ends, is free to slide. The movement of each spindle is governed by weights placed on top of the spindle and by an adjustable coilspring that fits loosely around it and is fastened to a collar locked to the spindle.

Clamped to the lower plate is a circular recording paper. The record of shock is made by small holes pricked in this paper by the points of the spindles as they plunge downward in response to an impact. Since, by varying the compression of the spring, each spindle can be set to record a definite acceleration of gravity, location of the pin pricks on the record tell the story of the shock to which the landing gear is subjected.

STILL CAPTURED AT PURDEYVILLE

Apparatus and Owner Were Brought to Peterborough by Stewart and Maker.

APSLEY, July 11.—A frame home in Methuen, owned by Bert Carol and occupied by Fred Post, was burned to the ground this morning about eight o'clock. Two little children were asleep upstairs and were rescued with difficulty. A quantity of the contents was saved. This is the fourth time that Post has had the misfortune to lose his home by fire.

Foot Injured.

Andrew Post, of Glenalda, while working on the bridge at Owenbrook, which is being repaired this week, had the misfortune to drive a spike clean through his foot, which will lay him up for some time.

Mr. Buller, with License Inspector Stewart and Provincial Police Officer Maker captured a still near Purdeyville on Friday and took the apparatus and the owner to Peterborough. This will help to clean up what is considered a notorious stampin' ground for moonshiners and bootleggers.

The word chapel comes from capa, a chest. The word was originally applied to the chest in which the relics of a saint were deposited, after ward to the apartment in a church or cathedral in which the chest was kept. These chapels were dedicated separately, but were known by the name of the saint whose relics they contained.

READY FOR TRIAL OF ANDREW PEPALL

Preliminary Hearing Will Take Place on July Fourteenth.

TORONTO, July 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Twenty witnesses are expected to be called by the Crown when the preliminary hearing takes place on July 14 of the charges against Andrew Pepall, who was brought to Toronto on July 5 from Los Angeles. It is stated that James C. McRuer, former assistant Crown Prosecutor, who is now on the Pacific Coast working for the Dominion Government in the fruit combines investigation, will return to Toronto at once to take charge of the preliminary trial for the Crown. Mr. McRuer had charge of the preliminary investigation, and he supplied the evidence in the Jarvis, Smith and Pepall cases.

Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., counsel for Pepall, stated to-day that they are ready to go on with the case on the 14th.

There is a possibility that Slaght may request permission to call Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, from Portsmouth penitentiary to testify at the hearing.

DISTILLING LIQUOR IS BAD PAYING JOB

Says Magistrate Langley in Imposing a $225 Fine.

Sentence of a fine of $225 and costs or six months in gaol with hard labor was imposed in the Police Court this morning by Magistrate O. A. Langley on Nat. Carrol, who pleaded guilty to being in unlawful possession yesterday of a still in Chandos Township.

In passing sentence His Worship spoke at length on the folly of engaging in illicit distilling. Men in this business, he said, never make good in the long run. Sometimes a man does make money, but he never gets into a good house and lives aright. He becomes furtive and sneaky in his manner. The prisoner himself showed evidence of this. His Worship said he could almost tell from accused's demeanor in the box and his almost inaudible replies that he had been engaged in the illegal business.

"A man in Windsor," said His Worship, became one of the big men in the business and for two years made lots of money. Where is he now? Down and out, with not a cent to his name." His Worship pointed out that accused himself exemplified the fact that the business was no good in the long run and counselled him to keep out of it as the fine and imprisonment went up with every conviction.

ROUND SHOULDERS DEPEND ON POSTURE

Standing Properly Prevents Stooping—Simple Balancing Exercise.

TORONTO, July 11.—"Keep your eye on the small of your back, if you would avoid round shoulders," said Dr. Anna L. Hicks of Portland, Maine, addressing the Osteopathic Women's National Association in annual convention here today.

"Avoidance of round shoulders depends upon posture, and posture is a matter of balance.

"To balance properly, stand with your back against a wall touching as much of the wall from your heels to your head as possible. Incline the head just slightly forward, trying to touch the wall with the back of the head, farther and farther down toward the neck.

"With this increase in the inclination of the head, the stretch on the back muscles is increased, and a hollow is produced in the small of the back, causing one to stand with hips forward, head up, and chin in."

Dr. Jenette H. Bolles of Denver, Colo., President of the Osteopathic Women's National Association, was the first woman ever graduated from an osteopathic college, having received her degree at the American School of Osteopathy in 1894.

She reported that local chapters of the Osteopathic Women's National Association have engaged in many worth-while activities during the past year, among which were supervision of community playgrounds; aid in establishing and conducting clinics; examining school children; working for better moving pictures; establishing scholarships for young women; furnishing hospitals; contributing to the great convention of the International Council of Women, held in Washington in May.

108 IN MARATHON GOLF.

Winnipeg Player of 53 Made Made a Day Of It.

WINNIPEG, July 11.— "Marathon golf," the latest sporting craze, has found its way to Winnipeg. Several enthusiasts recently have been out on the links with the rising sun, and strung off an unbroken series of holes. But the feat of J. W. Kelly, a member of the Winnipeg Golf Club, promises to remain for some time as a record of supreme endurance.

Although 53 years of age, Mr. Kelly reeled off 108 holes during a single day, resting only for a few minutes to lunch. He played creditable golf for the entire six rounds and his marathon card gives him an average of 85.

Madden To Meet Dempsey on Labor Day in Ten Rounds.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan City promoter, announced that Bartlet Madden, of New York, had signed articles to meet Jack Dempsey in a ten round no decision fight for the world's heavyweight championship on Labor Day. Fitzsimmons said he would be unable to complete negotiations wth Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, until the champion and his bride return from Europe on July 14th. He declared he had received a cablegram from Dempsey, however, stating that the latter would accept the match if he could get into condition on such short notice. Fitzsimmons proposes to stage the bout in his own arena at Michigan City.

VILLA-FOLEY FIGHT OFF.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 10.—The ten round bout between Pancho Villa and Vic Foley, scheduled for the night of July 17 here, has been postponed indefinitely. Villa's manager has notified Jack Allan, local promoter, that Villa is still suffering from an ulcerated tooth. It is unlikely now that Foley will enter the ring before Aug. 16 when he meets Jack Lewis, at Regina.

COBB PICKED SOX PITCHER

Only Manager in Majors to Name Pitcher for Opposition.

NEW YORK, July 11. — Ty Cobb enjoys the unique distinction of being the only major league leader to pick the pitcher for the opposition. It happened this way.

All New England, it seemed, importuned Cobb to permit Owen Carroll, Holy Cross pitching star, to make his debut in Boston. Since Carroll had been with the club only one day prior to the Boston visit, Cobb wasn't keen for starting him.

The Boston management wanted Carroll to make his debut on a Saturday, if Cobb agreed to let him start there. President Quinn, of the Red Sox, knew that with Carroll as an added attraction the fans would pack the park. They did. Over 25,000 turned out to pay him homage.

Here is where Cobb got in his master stroke. Naturally, he wanted Carroll to get away to a good start. He wanted him to win his opening game if possible.

Manager Fohl of the Red Sox figured to use Ehmke last Saturday, as it was his regular day to work. Incidentally, he had four straight wins to his credit.

"I will pitch Carroll against Boston on Saturday," agreed Cobb, "but will not work him against either Ehmke or Quinn. Boston must use some pitcher other than one of the two veteran stars."

Boston agreed to the dictates of a rival manager. Ehmke pitched a day out of turn and was beaten 6—3 in ten innings. Ruffing the youthful Red Sox star, was used against Carroll.

Cobb probably is the only manager in the history of the majors who has told the opposition whom they could and couldn't pitch and got away with it.

Cobb, of course, figured that in permitting Carroll to start against Boston with only two days' major league experience he was granting the Bostons a financial favor.

Because of that he insisted Boston should show some consideration toward Carroll. He stipulated that neither of the club's two veteran stars should be used against his college phenom and won his point.

The Red Sox then proceeded to take revenge by scoring eight runs in six innings and driving the Holy Cross star to the showers. Detroit, however, eventually won the game, 11-9.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

In practice swings with a golf club you are never conscious of body action at all. That is the way the real swing should be made. One of the most difficult lessons in all golf to learn is that those seemingly simple practice swings you make, without conscious effort, are exactly the swings that would drive the ball far and straight if you would only put them on the ball. Reverse yourself for experiment purposes — when you swing in practice, swing with all the force and might you can command. Then, when you swing at the ball, swing easily, as if you didn't mean it at all. This will probably give you the surprise of your golf life, and will open before you the true path to ease and ryhthm in golf.

CROFT DEFEATS ADA IN PICTON

Deloro Defeated 8-7—Smelters' Hits Scattered—Errors Costly.

MARMORA, July 11.—Deloro was unlucky in their game with Picton at the latter place on Wednesday. Costly errors and lack of punch at the right moment gave Picton the victory by the odd run in fifteen. Under ideal weather conditions, a good crowd witnessed the game. Croft went the whole route for Picton, pitching good ball. Ada pitched unchanged for Deloro. Picton were slow in starting, Croft walking the first two men, the third batter hitting a single, scoring Ada from second. Deloro could not increase their score until the fourth, when two errors and a double gave them an additional two runs. In the fifth, a double, a walk and a single gave them an extra two. Their final score came in the seventh, when two singles and a double brought their total to seven. Picton failed to get a man past second until the fourth, when two singles and an error yielded them one run. In the fifth, two hits and an error gave them three runs. From here on they were held tight by Deloro until the eighth when an error, a sacrifice and three hits brought their score to the level of their opponents. In the ninth the first batter hit a fly to left field. The unexpected happened in Brown muffing it. The next batter flied to right field, but the succeeding three batters hit safely, and gave Picton the winning run. Brown brought off a nice running one-hand shoestring catch in the seventh, when he robbed Croft of a nice hit. Quinn, the Deloro catcher, who has been handicapped for some weeks with a sore thum, received further injury to it and had to be relieved by Boudreau.

Umpires were—Woodley of Belleville at plate; Way of Picton on bases.

HEALTH RULES OF JUDGE GARY

Be Moderate in Everything, Advises U. S. Steel Magnate.

EAT WHEN HUNGRY

NEW YORK, July 11—Elbert H. Gary believes he has beaten Ponce de Leom. He has not found a fountain of youth. But he has found the place where "the best medical minds in America" are teaching men to live healthily and happily into their advancing years.

The veteran head of the United States Steel Corporation, with an almost feminine diffidence quite apart from tht rest of his character, admitted in a special interview with the New York American yesterday that he is "well up in the seventies," Actually, he is seventy-eight.

He looks barely sixty. He had just come to his house near Jericho, L.I., after tramping over his big farm with a group of guests. He walked vigorously up the steps, while some of the younger guests puffed behind. He is tanned the deep tan of the outdoor man. His figure, clad in knickerbockers, is round and firm. His eye is clear and he snaps answers to questions with the unhesitating sureness of a man whose body fits him so comfortably that he is hardly aware of it.

Health Rules

He is going back to his "fountain of youth," which Ponce de Leon missed. It is the Gary Hospital of the United States Steel Co., at Birmingham, Ala. Judge Gary was attracted to the work of the dietitian and his staff at that hospital when he visited it during a tour of inspection of steel company plants. He spent two weeks there last month. The dietitian gave him a set of rules which he calls the Fourteen Golden Rules for Health. He has promised to follow them. He is going back to learn more about them in another ten days. They are designed especially for men of advancing years. Here they are:

"1. Exercise in the open air, but do it moderately.

"2. Breathe deeply of pure air as much as possible.

"3. Leave alcoholic stimulant alone. Take tea and coffee if you happen to like them.

"4. Drink pure water.

"5. Eat little meat. Eat red meat but once a week.

"6. Eat little starch, fat or sweets; eat plenty of green vegetables containing mineral salts; eat whole wheat bread; eat good, fresh fruit and drink milk if it agrees with you.

"7. Follow regular habits.

"8. Get plenty of sleep.

"9. Work hard, mentally and physically, but not too long.

"10. Lead a good clean life.

"11. Keep an even temper and avoid excitement.

"12. Never get angry or indulge in controversy.

"13. Obey the Golden Rule.

"14. Eat only to satisfy hunger, not to please the palate."

Americans Fittest

It was suggested to Judge Gary that he looked as if he needed these rules very little for himself. He replied:

"I've followed the principle that underlies them most of my life. I've kept my conscience clear. I've worked hard. And I've been abstemious.

"And I believe that most Americans have done the same. I believe that Americans are the fittest race in the world today. If older men will follow the rules these Alabama experts have laid down they will continue to be fit."

With the prospect of long life thus before him Judge Gary was asked:

"Do you see any great change in the industrial world of America coming during the next twenty-five years?"

He replied:

"No. I do not. I'm not talking business down here on Long Island, but I think I can say this: There will be no great change, but there will be improvement, there will be change for the better."

Judge Gary's second course of training at Birmingham will last ten days or two weeks.

RUSSIA INCREASES GROWTH OF COTTON

Attempt Being Made to Cut Textile Imports By Cultivating Plant.

MOSCOW, July 11 (Associated Press)—Russia is now making extensive experiments in cotton growing in several districts of the Soviet Union. The use of cotton in the Soviet textile industry is increasing greatly and the insufficiency of Russian-grown cotton makes it necessary to spend large sums of money for the purchase of cotton abroad. At present there are but a few areas in Turkestan and the Trans-Caucasus which cultivate cotton, and attempts are now being made to raise cotton also in the Kuban district where the climate is specially adapted to it.

New areas also have been selected in the Turkestan and Fergana district where experiments on an extensive scale are now being carried out. Should the experiments prove satisfactory the Russian authorities hope they will be able to satisfy the country's need for cotton without resorting to purchases abroad.

IRISH CROPS GOOD.

After Belated Start Hot Weather Improves Outlook of Harvest Conditions.

DUBLIN, July 11 (Associated Press).—The crops in the Free State were this year at least three weeks later than usual. At the beginning of June the continued rain had caused some apprehension for the next harvest, but fine hot weather changed everything, and reports from all districts are regarded as encouraging. The prospects of the potato crop on the poor wet soils of the Western counties are said to be more doubtful.

CONFERENCE AT SWEDE CAPITAL

King Opens Sessions With Address of Welcome in Royal Palace.

CHURCHES ATTEND.

STOCKHOLM, July 10 (Associated Press).—Sweden will be host in August to 700 of the world's foremost Christian leaders, including 160 official delegates from the chief Protestant bodies in the United States, chosen to represent their denominations at the Universal Conference on Christian Life and Work. The Swedish Church and civil authorities have co-operated in formulating an impressive program of public meetings in the capital's leading auditoriums, committee sessions in the House of Parliament or in the seclusion of private estates in the suburbs and recreation tours to the country's historic shrines and scenic beauty spots.

The Archbishop of Sweden, Nathan Soderblom, heads the organization committee, and the king will open the sessions with an address of welcome in the State Hall of the Royal Palace. All the delegates will be the guests of Swedish families during their entire stay. At least 1,000 Americans, including families and friends of the delegates, are expected to attend.

The series of conferences, which will occupy the entire month, will begin with that of the World Alliance for Promoting International Friendship Through the Churches, lasting from August 6th to 8th. From August 9 to 18 there will be the preliminary sessions of the International Committee of the Conference of Christian Life and Work in preparation for the Universal Conference itself, which will last from August 19 to 30.

The delegates, coming from all parts of the world, will be met by official travel marshals at various ports. The Swedish government has granted free pass visaes to all delegates.

The principal public sessions will be held in the Academy of Music, the religious services and a special communion in the different churches, and open air meetings at Haga and at Skansen, a unique park that reproduces ancient Sweden in miniature. In connection with the 700th anniversary of the Cathedral at Visby on Gotland, there has been arranged in the museum of that city an exhibition of medieval and modern church art.

ATLANTIC FLIGHT BY FRENCH FLIERS

Aces Contemplate Non-Stop Hop For July if Permission Can Be Obtained.

PARIS, July 11 (Associated Press.)—Paul Tarascon, French "ace" and pioneer in prewar flying in Europe, has been bringing all the pressure he can to bear on M. Painleve at the war office and M. Laurent Eynac of the aeronautic department to enable him to make his proposed non-stop flight across the Atlantic this summer.

Tarascon, who lost a leg before the World War and had difficulty in getting into the service, will be accompanied by another skilled air pilot, if the flight is made, Francois Coli, a naval officer who accompanied Roget on his France-Roumania flight and on his "stunt trip" of crossing the Mediterranean twice in one day.

It is planned to start the flight toward the end of July, provided the necessary government authorization can be obtained, leaving from Le Bourget airdrome, just outside of Paris, and making the jump to Mitchel Field on Long Island. The French air authorities are counselling the two pilots to take off from Ireland or nearer the French coast than Le Bourget, and to aim for Newfoundland as a first landing place. Tarascon and Coli, however, persist in maintaining the flight can be made without a landing and are demanding a fair chance to prove it.

The plane they intend to use is the Breguet "Paris-Tokyo" model made famous by Captain Pelletier D'Oisy on his flight a year ago. The engine will be either the Hispano-Suiza or the new Renault.

TINY HANDWRITING FORMS PART OF BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 10 (Associated Press).—John Spears who lives at Cowichan Bay on Victoria Island recently presented the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley with a unique collection of handwriting specimens. He claims the all-around championship in miniature writing with pen and pencil.

Spears has written 12,125 words on the back of a postcard with an ordinary pen and the naked eye, and the Lord's Prayer on a space no larger in area than the end of a lead pencil. He also has written a book of 90 pages totalling 10,000 words, each page about the size of a postage stamp.

WARNING GIVEN TO YOUNG SWIMMERS

Miss Littlefield Tells Learners to Stay in Shallow Water.

A very timely warning to young swimmers and to parents both, was given at the Young Women's Christian Association swimming pool last evening by Miss C. Littlefield, when she spoke of the danger of children or amateur swimmers going into water above the waist. On the occasion of a swimming meet held at the pool last evening by about thirty of the girls of Miss Littlefield's classes, past and present, an interesting programme of stunts and diving was presented, and Miss Littlefield spoke at some length on the hazards to youthful swimmers, who had little or slight experience in the water, or even those who could swim to a certain extent, in going in beyond the waist. They should keep to the shore line and not essay any deep water work.

In connection with the tests last evening, two girls did extremely well; Ina Terrace doing the pool's forty-nine feet in nine and one-half seconds, and a junior, Rhoda Cullen, covering the distance in ten seconds.

Brother of City Solicitor Joseph Wearing Tells of University Doings.

ARDENT SPORTSMAN.

Dr. Thomas Wearing, brother of City Solicitor Wearing, is spending a few vacation days in Peterboro between addresses which he presents on Sundays at the First Baptist Church in Ottawa.

At present the quarters permit the attendance of 800 but when expansion and re-modelling, amounting to 750,000, have been carried out, extra students may be cared for.

Dr. Wearing stated that the interest in athletics was especially keen and mentioned the Colgate and Syracuse classic, which is played before 70,000 spectators annually.

The Colgate baseball team was defeated only twice and on those occasions by Carroll pitching for Holy Cross. Carroll has since been added to the Detroit roster.

Dr. Wearing will be in the city for a lengthy period.

Each Faction Gave Indication of Policy, But Neither Side Showed Trumps.

SEEK PUBLIC FAVOR.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 11. — Canadian Press. — Desperately anxious to gain support of public opinion, the leaders of the anthracite operators and miners yesterday met to set about developing plans of campaign.

Neither side showed its full hand. Each gave an indication of what its general policy will be.

That of the operators, outlined by Samuel D. Warriner, is to demand arbitration, while that of the miners, as cited by John L. Lewis, is to stress the hazard of the miner's work and the need of higher pay.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

"BLUFF,"

A Story of a Girl Who Bluffed New York, With Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno, at Royal Monday.

The Sam Wood Paramount production, "Bluff," which has its premiere at the Royal Theatre Monday, is a story of New York City, with its fashionable hotels Fifth Avenue modiste shops and its bluff—a romantic melodrama with many light comedy twists, produced after the usual fashion of the man who made 'Prodigal Daughters,' 'Bluebeard's Eighth Wife,' 'His Children's Children' and 'The Next Corner,' and featuring Agnes Ayres and Antonio in the principal roles.

Miss Ayres, as Betty Hallowell, has a hard time making New York recognize her genius as a designer of gowns. The big city has her almost beaten until she gets the idea of putting up a big front and bluffing her way to fame and fortune. From this point on the story builds to a big dramatic climax, with Antonio Moreno, playing Robert Fitzmaurice, a young attorney, furnishing much of the drama.

A cast of all big names plays in support of the leading players in this production. There are Roscoe Karns, E. H. Calvert, Clarence Burton, Fred Butler and others just as well known. Willis Goldbeck, who prepared the continuity for "Scaramouche," wrote the scenario.

"COUNTRY STORE NITE" AT ROYAL MONDAY.

Monday is "Country Store Nite" again at the Royal, which means that at least fifty people will get a worth-while prize.

AT THE CAPITOL

POLA HAS FINE CAST IN "CHARMER."

Robert Frazer, Wallace MacDonald Play in Support.

Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture, "The Charmer," which brings the star to the screen in her first big comedy role in a picture laid in an American setting, opens a three-day run on Monday at the Capitol Theatre.

"The Charmer," adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan from Henry Baerlein's highly successful novel, "Mariposa," was directed by Sidney Olcott, who made "The Humming Bird," "Little Old New York" and others. The story has to do with a Spanish dancing girl, who is taken under the wing of a prominent theatrical producer and becomes the rage of Broadway.

Robert Frazer and Wallace MacDonald head the supporting cast in the production. MacDonald, recently seen with Betty Compson in "New Lives for Old," has the role of a multi-millionaire philanderer, who becomes infatuated with Miss Negri, as the dancing girl, Mariposa. Frazer as MacDonald's chauffeur, also is attracted to Pola. All through the picture these two vie with each other for her affections.

Other big names in the cast include Trixie Friganza, noted stage comedienne, who plays Mariposa's mother in the picture and furnishes much of the comedy relief; Cesare Gravina, Gertrude Astor, in the role of a married woman in love with MacDonald; Edwards Davis, who played in "Contraband" and others, and Mathilda Brundage, MacDonald's mother and Manhattan's leading snob in "The Charmer."

"The Charmer" brings Pola Negri to the screen in the type of role that first won her fame. It's a great story with a great cast and should prove great entertainment.

"Give and Take," Sparkling Comedy, a Chautauqua Feature

"Give and Take," uproarious comedy success by Aaron Hoffman, which recently had an immensely popular New York run, will be one of the big features of the coming Dominion Chautauqua.

The story of the play centers around a wealthy California fruit canner, who has spent thirty years of his life in developing a business for his son, who, when given the reins, attempts to run the business on the "industrial democracy" plan. Most amusing and unusual situations, together with a delightful love story, characterize this irresistible play, which will be presented by a cast of New York actors.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

To-day, we have men and women, calling themselves evangelists and mission workers, who are preaching doctrines opposite to the plain teaching of the Scripture. Professing to preach the Gospel (glad tidings) they instead are preaching very bad tidings; tidings that are diabolical and false. They make God to be a fiend, by telling the people that "hell" means a place of endless torments, a great lake of fire and brimstone, that God has ready to put all in, who do not come up to His requirements. They preach Satan's old lie, that man does not die, so it is no wonder they do not preach the resurrection truth; and of course cannot tell the glorious truth, that Jesus is the Savior of all men, saving all from "death" (the penalty for sin). In the resurrection morn, those who have deliberately deceived the people by preaching these blasphemous, lying doctrines, will they not awake to shame and contempt? Let us all take courage, these erroneous teachings and their result will soon be a thing of the past; when the Kingdom of God shall be established here on earth.

M. T. BUTCHER.

Parker, Marmora, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Campbell S. Jordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Jordan, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Upon their return they will reside in Peterborough, where the groom is well and favorably known.

MARKET WARM PLACE TO-DAY

Eggs Were 32 to 35 Cents; Butter 35 to 38 Cents.

CHERRIES COMMON.

There was a good patronage of the farmers' market this morning. Centres of interest on the open space were the shampooing exhibition by a warm young vendor of a patent hair restorer and shampoo mixture, who demonstrated on a lady and a small youth his prowess and the qualities of his medicament, also the collection of articles vended by the auctioneer, who had boots and bedsteads and even a high silk hat, on sale. A crowd that must have been hypnotized by the auctioneer's eloquence, because they weren't doing much bidding, stood under the hot sun, gazing at the articles on exhibit. In an open carriage slumbered a pink faced baby, its head enclosed in a tight cap, a pink woollen coat extending to its knees, with black woollen stockings on its warm little legs.

Hay on the open market this morning was $12 for the load.

Little live ducks, energetically sipping water in a covered crate, were 25 cents a piece. Their larger dead brothers upstairs were selling at 30 and 35 cents a pound.

A couple of fat little pigs, perspiring under a covering of hay, were $13 for the pair.

Red raspberries were 15c a box downstairs, and 30 cents in the basket section, with a two quart and three and one-half quart pail selling respectively at 50 and 90 cents. Black currants were 25 cents a quart, small red cherry currants 10 cents, while larger red currants downstanrs in excellent quality, were 15 cents Bright red cherries in quart boxes were 15 cents also, and white currants were priced at the same amount. Strawberries were 20 and 25 cents a box. Red cherries in baskets in the lower entry were 75 cents, and black sweets were 20 cents a box.

Green peas in the pod were priced at 4 quarts for a quarter, and shelled peas at 35 cents a quart measure. Fresh beans were 20 cents a quart.

Eggs were 32 to 35 cents a dozen this morning, butter sold form 35 to 38 cents a pound, cream was 30 cents a pint, and spring chickens were 35 cents a pound, with older birds at 25 cents.

Potatoes were 20 cents a peck on the open market, one man asking $1.10 for a bag, while his neighbor sold his supply at $1 and 80 cents

Flowers were plentiful, both upstairs and down. A pretty color combination was the pale blue of larkspur and the bright orange of the tiger lily, selling at 25 cents for the bunch. Red roses were 5 and 10 cents, bright yellow marguerites 15 cents, red sweet william 40 cents for a large bouquet, and a combination at the same price was a mixture of gaillardia in red-gold shades, baby's breath and larkspur.

Around The City.

George street was enlivened this morning shortly after 9 o'clock, by the spectacle of an automobile travelling at a speed very slightly below the limit, with a hound in full pursuit.

A 17 year old boy who had pleaded guilty earlier in the week to taking hay from Nicholls' Oval came up before Magistrate Langley this morning and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Things have been very quiet this season at the Government Dock in the city, said the Harbourmaster yesterday. On account of the uncertain weather prevailing so far, there have been fewer excursions than usual leaving from the wharf for the trip through the lakes. This year only one steamer, the Stoney Lake, has been used in the excursion service, as compared with three and sometimes four steamers in former years. In past seasons one could always depend on several United States vessels passing either up or down stream, going or coming from the Great Lakes. Up to date, only one American ship, the Dream Lady, hmas passed this way during the present season.

The increasing development of motor driven vehicles has had an adverse effect on the figures of freight-carrying vessels, the returns for which show considerable depreciation from those of former years.

JURORS HAVE NOT DARWINIAN BUG

Scopes' Hearers Have No Pronounced Views on Evolution Theory.

DAYTON, July 11 (Canadian Press).—All of the twelve jurors who will sit in the case of Scopes have "heard of evolution, according to their replies to Darrow's examination. Most of them heard very little of it, "until this thing came up."

'Have you heard Mr. Bryan talk on evolution?" was one of the Chicago lawyer's favorite question. He frequently wished to know if the prospect had heard his minister talk about evolution. Some had, and some could not remember.

The men questioned invariably declared that they cared nothing for the opinion of their neighbors. One juror after admitting that he had heard a sermon on evolution, said he could not find out whether the sermon was for or against evolution.

ARREST MADE FOR INFRACTION OF LAW

Hamilton Man Held on U. S. Warrant For Violating Immigration Mandate.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 11. — (Canadian Press). — Charged with violation of the immigration law, Joseph Thompson, of Hamilton, Ont., was being held to-day, following his arrest by immigration authorities on a warrant from Washington.

The eight men arrested with Thompson at Nine Mile Point, on June 25, and charged with ale smuggling, were scheduled for a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Phillips, but obtained another adjournment of their cases until July 15.

ARCTIC LAND IS NORTH OF ALASKA

Any New Possessions Found by MacMillan Will be in That District.

CHICAGO, July 11.—If any new possessions are added to the United States by the MacMillan-Navy expedition, which involves no special effort to reach the North Pole, it is believed the land must be found somewhere between the Pole and Alaska. But in previous explorations mirages, soundings and tidal conditions have been the only encouragement that something other than ice exists in that region.

Admiral Peary on his polar trip stood at one far northern point and saw what he believed to be land some 50 miles away. He called it "Crocker Land." Commander MacMillan on his special Crocker Land expedition, wiped this spot off his maps, because after travelling 150 miles across a field of solid ice to a point well beyond where "Crocker Land" was supposed to exist, it was as far away as when he started.

MacMillan returned to the point from where Peary had sighted this supposed land and he too beheld this imaginary country — rugged hills and wooded stretches. It appeared to be a permanent mirage. MacMillan took a number of soundings in the territory, however, and the current indicated there might be land. Tidal observations taken at Etah and Cape Hubbard, checked with those taken at Point Barrow, Alaska, showed also that the tide at Point Barrow arrived four or five hours late. Some obstruction causes it, according to MacMillan.

The ice formation also favored the presence of some huge block. Up to 150 miles the ice was as smooth as a billiard table but after that it was almost impossible to travel over it because of its roughness. MacMillan described it at that distance as resembling a group of city buildings which had been squeezed by huge hands and jammed together.

MINE OWNERS MAKE PROPOSAL

Baldwin Government Gets Information on Coal Situation—Possible Changes.

WAGES AND PRICE.

LONDON, July 11. — (Canadian Press).—Endorsement by powerful council of the Trades Union Congress of the position taken by the British coal miners in their dispute over a working agreement to replace the one that expired June 30 increases the seriousness of the situation in British industry.

Only yesterday the Baldwin Government completed conferences by which it obtained first hand information on both sides of the controversy for the purpose of bringing miners and mine owners together at a round table conference. The basis of the owners' proposal for a new agreement, to which miners are objecting, is five working days of eight hours with six hours on Saturday, making a total of 46 hours weekly instead of 42. Owners further propose to discontinue the 14 per cent. increase in wages granted because of a decrease in the number of working hours due to lessened production and the establishment of a seven-hour day by agreement of May 15, 1924.

Operators say the present wage scale keeps the price too high, and also that their profits have been decreased.

For every two-cent stamp which they use, the rialroads of this country must haul a ton of freight 1.7 miles. To get the money to buy a paper of pins they must haul a ton of freight about 4 1-2 miles. To buy a pint of fountai pen ink they have to haul a ton of freight 68 miles. One cypress crosstie like those used by the Atlantic Coast line, takes all the earnings rom hauling a ton of freight more than 100 miles; and there are about 2,900 crossties to every mile of track.

FINANCIAL NEWS.

Price Movements Restricted Dodge Common at New Peak

NEW YORK, July 11 (Canadian Press).—With few exceptions, price movements on to-day's brief session of Toronto Stock Market were narrow and generally inconsequential. Bear traders succeeded in forcing sharp reactions in a few issues lacking inside support, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe being hammered down over 13 points to 139, but subsequent short covering carried it back to around 146. Steady accumulation of some of the standard industrials, notably American Can., was the supporting influence in other quarters. Pools suspended operations in most issues although Dodge Bros common which established a new peak just under 30, held firm around that price. Spirited bidding also took place in Certainteed Products during the last hour. Jordan Motors, Atlantic Refining, General Baking and Foundation Co. sold down two points or more. The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 400,000 shares.

Toronto 'Change Closes With Bread and Smelters Leading

TORONTO, July 11. — (Canadian Press.) — Stock exchange closed. Industrials featured an active session of Toronto Stock Exchange this morning which closed an eventful week. Canada Bread and Consolidated Smelters were outstanding in trading and Smelters advanced steadily to 91 1-2, current high, closing at that at noon for a gain of 1 1-2 points.

Bread "B" Preferred climbed a point to a new high at 87 1-4. Atlantic Sugar climbed one point at 32 and Brazilian 3-8 at 56 3-4, all these issues closing at high. Winnipeg was under pressure and sold down a point and a quarter to 49. Lake Shore featured unlisted with ten cent gain at 5.95.

Black Rust Reports Raise Price Of Western Wheat

CHICAGO, July 11. — (Canadian Press).—Increasingly serious reports about black rust conditions in the North-West led to a sharp early advance in wheat prices to-day. From Fargo to Jamestown, North Dakota, all wheat except Durum was said to show 10 to 100 per cent. of head stems infected. Furthermore, prevailing weather was apparently of a kind to promote development of the plague. With active commission house buying, offerings scarce and the Canadian Government crop report construed as bullish, operating prices here, ½c to 2c higher, Sept. 142 3-4 to 143 3-4 and Dec. 144½ to 144 3-4, were followed by a rise that lifted Sept. 145 and Dec. 146 1-8.

Corn and oats went up as a result of wheat strength. After opening at 3-8c to 1¼c higher, Sept. 105¾ to 106, corn continued to climb, Sept. touching 107¼.

Oats started at a shade off to ½c up; Sept. 46 to 46 3-8. Gains all around ensued. In line with hogs and grain, the provision market was firmer.

Chicago Experiences Big Shake-Up In Wheat Prices

CHICAGO, July 11. — (Canadian Press).—Sensational upturns in the price of wheat were witnessed today of as much as 8 cents a bushel in some cases. The hot wave threatening a big increase of crop damage from black rust in the spring wheat belt was largely responsible. The market closed excited at the top most figures reached in July, 1.54 to 1.54½.

NEWS BLOCKADE CHEATS PEOPLE OF POLE STORY

Associated Press Correspondent Underwent Great Hardship in Vain.

THROWN IN WATER.

Government Refuses Right of Air to Send Wireless Report to World.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—How a staff correspondent of the Associated Press underwent hardship and peril to learn the fate of the Amundsen-Ellsworth Polar expedition and then was prevented from giving his news to the world for three days is related by J. A. Bouman, of the London Bureau of the Associated Press in a report to his head office.

Sent to Oslo and thence to King's Bay to get the story of the safe return of the expedition, Bouman, a man of fifty-two years, and not particularly robust, was forced on two occasions to trust himself to unseaworthy craft in his efforts to reach the returning explorers' party. Once he was thrown overboard into the icy water by a drunken sailor.

He was blocked in his attempt to give his "copy" to the world by the Aero Club of Norway and the Norwegian Government who undertook to protect what they conserved to be the contract right of the purchases of the Amundsen personal story to bottle up details of the rescue work as well. Bouman found that he was unable to get wireless delivery of his messages from King's Bay until three days after Amundsen's arrival.

Diplomatic Corps Report is Lengthy Statement of Facts "Decidedly Not Sensational.."

By Randall Gold
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

PEKING, July 13—The diplomatic Corps report on the origin of the Shanghai shooting situation is a lengthy statement of facts, containing no recommendations for dismissal, and reprimanding no one, it was learned here to-day. (Earlier reports claimed one American and two British officials were blamed and some versions claimed dismissal was recommended for two Britishers). The report embodying a summary of the commissioners' findings was characterized as "decidedly not sensational." Several powers are reported anxious to publish the report, believing this to be the best method of quieting alarmist rumors as to its nature.

NO CONFIRMATION.

Unknown at Present That Sir Henry Thornton Continue as President of C.N.R.

OTTAWA, July 13. — Canadian Press. — Confirmation or denial of the report that Sir Henry Thornton would continue as president of the Canadian National Railways for another five years, with an increased salary, could not be obtained early to-day.

Right Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Premier King, are absent from the capital.

HAVEN'T DISCUSSED IT.

OTTAWA, July 13 — Canadian Press. — The government has taken no action in the matter of renewal of a contract with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, it was learned on good authority this morning. Major Graham Bell, Deputy Minister of Railways and a director of the Canadian National Railways, when asked if he knew of a renewed contract with Sir Henry Thornton, said: "I don't think Sir Henry or the Government have even discussed the matter."

THE EARLY REPORT.

MONTREAL, July 13. — Canadian Press. — The Gazette this morning publishes a report that Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways has been engaged by the Canadian government for a further term after the expiry of his three year term in October next, and that his salary has been increased from $50,000 to $75,000, with an additional allowance of $25,000 a year for expenses.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARIES BEATEN AND SLASHED BY CANTONESE SOLDIERS

British Consul Demands Apology, Punishment of Assailants and Reparation for Injuries—Two Women Stabbed at Mission Post.

PEKING, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—Cantonese soldiers on July 9 forced their way into the English Presbyterian Mission at Wukingfu, fifty miles in the interior of Kwangtung, where they beat one missionary and injured him with knives. They also beat two of the women missionaries, cutting them slightly with knives.

The British Consul at Swatow has demanded an official apology, punishment of the guilty persons and reparation in the form of compensation.

The missionaries, after hiding several hours, left Wukingfu, arrived in Swatow in an exhausted condition. Foreigners were ordered to leave, and departed the same day for Swatow.

Posters Inflame Canton.

CANTON, July 13.—Canton is quiet, but belief is expressed that a further attack upon the foreigners is being planned.

Inflammatory posters displayed throughout the city depict Indian soldiers, killing Chinese, the women and children standing by, weeping, as their husbands and fathers are massacred.

Many official pictures of those killed in the recent disturbances also are being exhibited, these showing women and children among the victims.

Great dissension is evident among striking Chinese here because many are left without food or shelter under the present method of distributing relief funds. The present estimate shows 250,000 strikers are in Canton and each one is entitled to shelter and food valued at 20 cents daily.

To provide for transportation service by water from Canton to Hongkong when the threatened strike becomes effective on river vessels, arrangements have been completed by forign naval units for an emergency service.

Sultry Heat in Court Where Evolution Trial is Heard.

MOVE TO QUASH.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Court was delayed 25 minutes in opening this morning for the resumption of the trial of John T. Scopes on a charge of violation of the Tennessee law against teaching evolution theories in public schools.

A sultry heat sat upon the courtroom, and electric fans played about from the walls in an effort to make the atmosphere more endurable. Judge Raulston, taking judicial cognizance of the weather, changed his suit of blue woollen to one of linen. William Jennings Bryan appeared collarless as well as without a coat.

The indictment against Scopes was read and the defence moved to quash, John R. Neal making the motion.

In making the motion, the defence advance 14 reasons, ten of which alleged the act forming the basis of the indictment violated various provisions of the Tennessee Constitution and the Constitution of the United States. Of the others, one set forth that the indictment is so vague as not to inform the defendant of the nature and cause of the accusation against him.

The second claim said that the statute upon which the indictment is based is subject to the same infirmity because it is so indefinite as not to enable the defendant to know what is forbidden.

Owen Sound Reports Shaking, But Instruments Have No Record.

OWEN SOUND, July 13 (Canadian Press.—Owen Sound was visited by second earthquake tremor this year, last evening about 10.07 o'clock. The tremor did not last longer than ten or fifteen seconds but was quite marked and was accompanied by a rumbling such as would be made by a large heavy truck passing along the street. It was felt at many places in the Owen Sound district.

Officials of the Meteorological Office in Toronto stated today that they have no seismographic record of the earthquake which is reported from Owen Sound as having occurred in that city last night. If there had been an earthquake in the Georgian Bay vicinity, stated Seismologist Young, there would have been a record on the instrument in Toronto.

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 13 (Canadian Press). — More than a hundred persons were injured and fifty arrests were made in four riots late Saturday night, the disturbances growing out of a demonstration in commemoration of the Battle of the Boyne. Fifty thousand Orangemen participated in a parade which near midnight was attacked by opposing factions. Bottles and missiles of all kinds were thrown indiscriminately, the riots continuing until large forces of police separated and dispersed the combatants.

SEES BIGOTRY OF PURITANS

London Times Says Englishmen Astonished at Dayton Spectacle.

IS THIS FREEDOM?

LONDON, July 13.—The Sunday Times say Englishmen are naturally so astonished at certain superficial circumstances of the evolution trial that its essential significance is in danger of being lost upon them, and continues:

"Obscured by grotesque impedimenta of broadcasting, movies and other factors hardly making for dignity, with which Americans elect to invest their solemn official occasions, a principle of first importance stands involved, a principle on which the whole of progress depends, namely, the freedom of human thought. In the United States liberty is a common word. It has generally been regarded there as a common possession. But what are we to think? Here is a school teacher of a modern republican country on trial by at State for the crime of teaching the theory of evolution. This is religious persecution of a kind with which Europe was more familiar in the Dark Ages. Americans, it seems, retain in their blood something of the bigotry of their Puritan ancestors. Progress is not merely an affair of material things; it appears in mental and spiritual enlightenment. The New World has something to learn from the Old. Fortunately for humanity, no attempt to put back the clock can succeed. Faith cannot be protected by law nor propagated by force. What is done is done. Galileo stands despite the Inquisition and Darwin stands, rage King Bryan Canute and his Fundamentalists never so furiously. As for freedom of thought, enactments of man shall not prevail against it."

Dog Howled Death Watch at New Ontario Shack.

MATHESON, Ont., July 13. — Canadian Press. — Attracted by the barking of a dog a neighbor entered the shacks of Olbert Teets, a pioneer resident of this section, and found the occupant dead on the floor. A coroner's jury placed the blame for his death on home brew. Three men, alleged to have been members of the drinking party and named Campeau, Gervais and Laporte, are held by the provincial police on charges of breaking the Ontario Temperance Act, and will come before Magistrate Atkinson this week.

FRENCH SENDING MORE DIVISIONS TO FIGHT RIFFS

Colonial Troops Now in Ruhr Will be Transferred to Morocco.

SPANISH AID SMALL

Gen. Naulin Will Have 100,000 Troops When He Assumes Control.

PARIS, July 13. — The French War Ministry has decided to transfer three divisions of colonial troops, now in the Ruhr and France, to Morocco. General Stanislaus Naulin, newly appointed Commander-in-Chief of the French Moroccan forces, will have about 100,000 men at his disposal when he takes charge on July 18.

The French and Spanish Governments have arranged to co-ordinate their military operations against Abd-el-Krim's Riffian tribesmen. The Spanish effort will be on a rather small scale, it is understood, but nevertheless it is expected to have real effect.

Reports circulated among the various Moroccan tribes that Abd-el-Krim's contemplated offensive against Fez would be successful caused a panic among tribes friendly to the French. They began to flee to the south with their herds of cattle, their horses and all their possessions. They are now moving back to their old territory, reassured by the news of Abd-el-Krim's reverses in the attacks upon the French.

Riffians Checked.

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, July 13.—Advices from the French zone confirm the belief that the situation there is still such as to require the greatest care on the part of the French high command, for, although some of the recent fighting has been in favor of the French troops, the Riffians have been checked only momentarily.

From native sources it is learned that Abd-el-Krim actually has twenty-five troop units distributed along the French front between Ouezzan and Taza. Although these effectives are not great in numbers, it is declared they are kept active in order to maintain the morale of the tribesmen.

Sidi Mohan, Abd-el-Krim's brother, is in charge of the military operations. He makes his headquarters among the Beni Uaram, a powerful Berber tribe, against which the French fought for more than ten years without being able to subdue it.

DYNAMITE BOMB DESTROYS HOME

Police Believe Political Enemies of Owner Responsible For Explosion and Fire.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 13. —(Canadian Press).—An explosion believed to have been caused by a dynamite bomb wrecked a two-storey brick and frame store and dwelling here this morning. The building was owned and occupied by Joseph La Tona, an insurance agent and supervisor from the third ward. Fire followed the explosion, and the building and contents are a total loss. The damage is estimated at $20,000. No one was injured in the blast, all the members of the La Tona family being out of the city. La Tona recently announced his candidacy for renomination as supervisor. The police believe political enemies among the foreign-born community may have been responsible for the explosion.

BIRDMEN SEARCH THOUSAND ISLES

Man Hunt From Air to Get Alleged Deserter and Slayer of Taxi Driver.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—An airplane search of the Canadian border in the vicinity of Alexandria Bay and the Thousand Islands is to be made by army air officers as part of an extensive hunt instituted for Philip Knox Knapp, deserter from the Army Air Corps, and who is regarded as a killer for super thrill.

The air hunt for Knapp, who is accused of having killed Louis Panella, Hempstead taxi driver, after he had exhausted all other means to get a "kick" out of life, centres out of Plattsburg, N.Y., from which place the plane has already scoured the foothills and woods of Northern New York and now its attention is to be turned to the Thousand Islands.

COMRADES' LAST HONORS PAID TO CAPT. F DENISON

Former Peterborough Boy Buried at Little Lake Cemetery With Military Tribute.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Death Followed Spinal Injury — American Legionaires Accompany Body

The body of Captain Fred Denison, member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of U.S.A and the American Foreign Legion, was borne to the Little Lake Cemetery Saturday where with full military honors the burial service was conducted.

The body, which was sent from Jackson, Michigan, was escorted by Private Leonard Binder, Vice Commander of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars of U.S.A. and Sergeant Patrick Sullivan, who was with Captain Denison when he made the fatal dive while swimming which resulted in his death.

This is probably the first time that American soldiers accompanied the body of a comrade to the burial place in Canada.

Private Binder paid a glowing tribute to the honour of the departed soldier when he said: "I had just been acquainted with Fred a short while but I have never met anyone who so forcibly impressed me with his sterling character. I felt, after having talked with him five minutes that I had known him all my life."

Sergeant Sullivan, who was with Captain Denison at the time of his death described the fatality in graphic words. He said that Fred had called upon him to go for a little picnic to the beach not far out of Jackson.

He was full of the joy of living as they made their way onward. Arrived at the beach they swam around awhile until Frank and his (the sergeant's) son, swam to the diving platform. Both dived from the lower boards without mishap and then Fred went to the topmost deck which must have been quite twenty-five feet above the water, which was, the sergeant explained, exceptionally low for the season and he believed that Fred was unaware of its shallow depth which could not have exceeded six feet.

Spine Broken

Fred hesitated a short while and then dived downward straight as an arrow. When he didn't come up directly the sergeant perceived that something was wrong and swam quickly to his aid. He was taken to a hospital and for two days hope was felt for his recovery which might have resulted from a successful operation. However, before it could be performed the spinal column snapped at the seventh vertebrae and Fred died as he had lived, heroically.

Such was the story as related by his friend and comrade, Patrick Sullivan.

At the cemetery the burial service was read, and three volleys rang out as the firing party sighted their rifles above the soldier's body, then fixed bayonets and stood at the "present" while the mournful notes of the "Last Post" sounded, responded to by the distant and reassuring Reveille.

One by one the soldiers filed past dropping each one, a token upon the coffin as they paid silent tribute to a comrade who was respected for his bravery and loved for his personal qualities.

The officers who acted as bearers were:

Lieut. Col. W. Gordon Hall, Captain M. R. Sloan, Captain J. Abraham, Captain H. Dodds, Captain E. Nicholls, Lieut. J. Davidson.

Militia units and War Veterans combined their forces under respective leaders Captain S. Whatley and Captain R. E. Layfield, and acted as the escort, the firing party being composed of members who had seen active service in France.

While Mrs. Denison, wife of the deceased, Mrs. Ecclestone, a sister of the deceased, and Mr. Ecclestone who were motoring, were unable to arrive in time for the burial service there were a number of relatives including Captain Stanley Ecclestone of Jackson, Michigan, a brother-in-law of the deceased and his brothers, Captain G. P. Ecclestone of Toronto, J. N. Ecclestone of Niagara, A. E. Ecclestone and family of Toronto, H. M. Borland, uncle of the deceased, of Guelph, and his wife, A. W. Robinson of Coldwater, Miss M. U. Borland of Coldwater, Mrs. D. D. Denison of Coldwater, stepmother of deceased and Mr. J. C. Short of Port Perry.

Service at G.W.V.A. Hall

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. A. J. Langford who was assisted at the cemetery by Adjutant Arthur J. Smith, officer in charge of the Salvation Army.

Dry America Bootlegs Alcohol To Wet Canada

MALONE, N.Y., July 13 (Canadian Press)—"Dry America is now bootlegging to wet Canada. The rum smuggler on his way north carries raw alcohol, purchased in New York and Syracuse. On his return journey he carries whiskey and beer. The alcohol is the more profitable cargo of the two."

These statements were made yesterday by Lieutenant Herman H. Gorenflo, troop B, New York State Police, which patrols the Canadian border.

BUSINESS BLOCK IN VILLAGE OF ATHENS BURNED ON SUNDAY WITH $100,000 DAMAGE TO NINE STORES

Blaze Flamed Up in Bakery Shop and Spread Rapidly Through Block.

NEAR BROCKVILLE

Volunteer Fire Brigade Lacked Apparatus and Water Supply.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., July 13. — Damage estimated at $100,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed nine buildings in the main street of the village of Athens, about 17 miles from here, early Sunday morning.

The blaze originated in the bakery business owned by Wilfrid Coones, and spread until it had destroyed eight other buildings on the south side of the street between David Johnston's store and A. Brown's harness shop.

The fire was discovered not long before two o'clock, and in spite of the efforts of the volunteer brigade succeeded in spreading to adjoining premises and wiping eight of them out before its course could be checked.

The Fire Centre.

The merchants who suffered loss of buildings and stocks were as follows: Omer Dack, grocery; George Charlton, tailor; Abel Kavanagh, barber; Wilfrid Coones, baker; Lewis Stevens, baker; Clifford Hewitt, garage; Cyril Churchley, jeweller; Charles Yates, gents' furnishings; R. J. Campo, general store.

Residential apartments over some of the stores were also gutted as well as barns, store houses and other outbuildings, with the result that the loss is estimated to reach a total close to $100,000. The presence of a stone fire wall saved the general store of J. D. Johnston, and other places which were threatened were saved from damage only by the exertions of the volunteer fire fighters.

The Dack grocery was housed in a large brick building, the Charlton tailor shop and Kavanagh barber shop in a stone building. Both bakeries were in frame structures. The garage in another brick and frame building, and the Churchley, Yates and Campo shops in a large frame place.

Assistance was asked for from Smith's Falls and Brockville, but the local brigade did not respond because of no water facilities in the village for the triple combination pumping engine.

The insurance on the destroyed property could not be ascertained, as telephone lines in the village are out of commission.

PARADE ROUTE.

Members of the Loyal Orange Lodges will assemble at the Market Square to-night at 8 p.m. Will march up Water street to Dublin, cross to George and down George to Victoria Hall.

WAR VETERANS KEEP TRYST WITH COMRADES WHO SLEEP IN ST PETER'S R.C. CEMETERY

Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Brien Brings Message From General Foch.

ROLL CALLED.

Seventeen Reported "Missing" in Solemn Moment of Retrospect.

About 100 Great War Veterans together with representatives of public bodies, and a large number of spectators marched yesterday to honor the memory and decorate the graves of the soldiers of the Great War, who lie buried in St. Peter's Cemetery, Captains Layfield and Whatley in command. There were present G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M. P. P., representing the Dominion Parliament and the Provincial Legislature respectively; Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Crowe and Denne on behalf of City Council, and Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church.

Promptly on the word of command the veterans lined up at attention in front of the Cenotaph, and Captain R. E. Layfield and Captain Rev. Paul Costello approached the cross, while the massed bands of the 57th Regiment and the Salvation Army played Crumling's "Meditation." Captain Layfield stood at the salute. The shadow of the cross fell along the grassy sward; the Union Jack, for which the men died, waved gallantly on a staff behind the Cenotaph; and a hush fell on the gathering as the tributes of memory to the dead were laid at the foot of the memorial.

G. N. Gordon, in depositing a wreath, was giving expression to a nation's thanks; W. H. Bradburn, a token of gratitude from the province; Mayor Turner from the city, and the others who followed laid

FORMER PASTOR ST. PAUL'S DEAD

Rev. Dr. E. F. Torrance Passes Away at Kingston on Sunday.

FUNERAL HERE.

KINGSTON, July 13 (Special to The Examiner)—Following a week's illness the death occurred here on Sunday of Rev. Dr. Edward Fraser Torrance, a former pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterboro.

The late Dr. Torrance was born at Montreal on September 8, 1852, and was educated at the Montreal High School, McGill University and Edinburgh University. He entered the Presbyterian Church and on May 8, 1876 received a call to St. Paul's Church at Peterboro. On June 28 of that year he was, at the age of 23, ordained and inducted into that charge and for 31 years thereafter filled that charge. A man of refinement and culture and high ideals, he earned the sincere respect of not only his own congregation but of the entire community. During his long pastorate in Peterborough the membership of his church had more than doubled, increasing from 369 in 1867 to 780 in 1907. In 1894 Knox College conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He resigned his charge in Peterboro in July, 1907 and came with his family to reside in Kingston, where he associated himself with St. Andrew's Church, and assisted in pulpit supply. In 1899 he married Helen Dennistown of Peterboro, daughter of the late James F. Dennistown, Q.C.

Surviving him are his widow and three children, Frederick W. Torrance and Mrs. Morrill Desbrisy, both of Toronto, and Miss Jessie at home. The remains will be taken to Peterboro for burial.

The funeral of the late Dr. Torrance will take place from St. Paul's Church to Little Lake Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. D. A. Thompson of Hastings will officiate.

New Water Loosed May Pay Santa Barbara Quake Loss

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 13.—If the great increase in water flow which has followed the earthquake throughout the country continues and becomes the normal water supply of the district, Santa Barbara and its surroundings may expect from this source alone a benefit that will pay the earthquake loss many times over in years to come, according to estimates of ranchers.

Several geologists assert that the shocks probably opened into the subterraneon water flow of the valleys and other underground water reservoirs that never before have been available to this district.

Virtually all streams in the earthquake zone show a marked increase in flow since the shake-up.

SIXTY KILLED OVER WEEK END

Drowning Took 28; Auto Crashes 19; Lightning 4; Heat 6.

HEAT WAVE TOLL.

CHICAGO, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—More than three score of persons were killed throughout the United States as the result of the heat wave, lightning, automobile, flying and bathing mishaps and other causes over the week-end.

With thousands of persons seeking relief from humidity at the beaches, deaths from drowning led the fatalities, twenty-eight lives being lost. Nineteen were killed in automobile smash ups, four were slain by lightning, six died of heat, three perished in a train explosion, and one met death in an aeroplane accident.

HEDGE MAKES BICYCLE

LONDON, July 13.—A man living in London suburb has built a bicycle entirely of hedge sticks. A crotcher stick serves as a fork for the bicycle.

Government experts on coke for household use are encouraging as to its possibilities. It is estimated that 52 per cent. of the domestic fuel requirements of the acute fuel area of Ontario and Quebec could be supplied.

Find Cause Of Cancer But Not Yet Its Cure

LONDON, July 13 (United Press) — The British Medical Research Council is believed today to have taken an important step toward the isolation of an organism which causes cancers.

After years of investigation, the council is scheduled to publish a statement on its work soon.

In anticipation of this report, a portion of the press prints without confirmation headlines that the cause af cancer has been found—but not the cure.

The papers warn against the assumption that the disease can be universally prevented.

The Council, apparently by the use of a strong microscope, has located an organism present in all cancer cases but invisible to ordinary glasses.

DRUG SYNDICATE DEFIED LEAGUE

Operated on Huge Scale When Anti-Opium Conference Sitting.

GENEVA, July 13.— Existence of a huge international syndicate dealing in millions of dollars' worth of heroin, cocaine and morphine, and operating at Geneva, Basle, Genoa and Constantinpole during the months that the opium conference was in session was revealed in a document at the League of Nations headquarters yesterday from the British Foreign Office.

The international character of the syndicate is shown by its connection with citizens of Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain, Persia, Japan, China, Russia and Turkey. Also several German and Swiss drug firms are involved.

ENGINEERS VISIT IN CAMPBELLFORD

Annual Excursion To Inspect Electric Units On the Trent River.

Fifty members of the Peterboro branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada made the journey to Campbellford on Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual outing of the branch. The chief attraction for the excursionists were ahe automatic stations at Campbellford.

At Dam No. 8 the visitors inspected the automatic gate operation and a demonstration was made of the machines in action. The station is controlled by a supervisory control system which starts the machines, brings them up to speed and switches them into the line without any manual attention whatever.

Proceeding to Power House No. 10 at Ranney Falls, the party was shown Dam No. 8 switched on automatically to the Ranney Falls system. The power house is built on solid rocks, through which the race way has been cut, and from the stone excavated to make the raceway, the power house was constructed.

Dam No. 8 was the next attraction, where the party had an opportunity of watching it go in and out of service automatically.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the party journeyed to the Fair Grounds, where little groups were formed, some who played tennis, others who swam, a few who both played and swam, but the majority decided to watch the softball game between a team from the Peterboro E.L.C. men who hit the dust before a side from the Hydro. Here are the men who were defeated but not disgraced by a score of 8-4 in their disfavor: Klein, catcher; Dobbin, pitcher; Crease, 1st base; Turnbull, 2nd base; McLeish, 3rd base; Burgess, short stop; Burchill, short stop; Canning, right fielder; Carruthers, left fielder; Manning, centre fielder.

After the game the whole party was re-assembled in the Christ Church Parish Hall, where supper was served.

Some community singing was indulged in, and the following chorus was sung with a particular and appropriate fervor:

"Engineers who work on railroads,
"Engineers who work on boats,
Engineers who never are seen working,
For whom some other guys are goats,
Engineers who've made a lot of money,
Engineers forever broke like me,
But all the best of them are members and are proud of the E.I.C."

Official Welcome.

Deputy Reeve Palisser, in the absence of Mayor Meyers, welcomed the branch to Campbellford. He regretted the absence of the Mayor, but was glad to be present and welcome such a body of men as the E.I.C. All walks of life were indebted to the Engineers, and without them we would have neither luxuries nor conveniences. He was voicing the sentiments of the people when he said, "Campbellford welcomes you, come again."

Mr. Keneally, chairman of the branch, said they had been welcomed in Campbellford on previous occasions, and had felt sure of a similar welcome on the present occasion. On behalf of the Peterboro branch he wished to express the gratitude to all in Campbellford.

Mr. Logan gave a humorous recitation, "The Day I Played Baseball."

Interchange Ideas.

Mr. Malcolm, resident Hydro engineer in Campbellford, spoke a few words on the progress of the work in Campbellford. He was glad to have the Peterboro men with them. It was good to meet the other fellow and interchange experiences.

Rev. Mr. Clark said the Deputy Reeve had welcomed the visitors on behalf of the town. He wished to welcome them on behalf of the parish. He was glad he had been with them on their tour of inspection. Some people think the clergy are only interested in preaching, but this was not the case. He was intensely interested in what he had seen on the tour of inspection. When some of the engineers were explaining things to him, a great deal of it was like Greek to him, but he managed to understand something of what he had seen. He thanked them for the privilege of accompanying them.

Ross Dobbin, in thanking the ladies who had served the supper, spoke of having seen automatic substations, automatic engineers and automatic baseball players. He congratulated the ladies on having served supper automatically. The branch had been in many places on excursions, but Campbellford was the best of the bunch.

R. B. Rogers, the dean of the engineers of Peterboro, who was called upon to say a few words, said Campbellford was half a home to him. He had lived there at one time and ever since always enjoyed a visit to Campbellford. He thought he was speaking for all the members when he said they had had a splendid trip.

After the singing of the National Anthem the company dispersed and cars were headed for home. Some of the younger engineers were loath to leave Campbellford. Some of them got home before midnight and some didn't!

STERN BRAND OF TRAINING FOR MILITIA

Northumberland Regiment in Camp at Cobourg Over Week End.

INSPECTION HELD.

Route March Was Part of the Programme—Rifle Practice.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, July 13. — Evidently the propoganda of Miss Agnes McPhail, M. P., against the alleged spread of the spirit of militarism is having little effect upon the young men of Canada. The Campbellford Company of the Northumberland Regiment came into the summer camp here 40 strong, four officers and 36 privates, and of the latter about 90 per cent are wearing uniforms and carrying arms for the first time. They are learning the routine of camp life with enthusiasm. Their duties here are strenuous; life in a military camp is not a holiday by any means, but if any of the young recruits expected anything of the kind they are coming no disappointment on realizing that the reverse is the case.

Four Companies in Camp.

There are four companies living in tents behind the armouries: Campbellford, Norwood, Cobourg and Brighton. Lt.-Col. J. F. Wolfram of Colborne is commander, succeeding Col. F. D. Boggs, of Cobourg, who is now head of the brigade. The officers of the Campbellford Co'y are Major J. M. Bygott and Lieuts. W. Ellis, J. Evans and George Free. Company Sergt.-Major T. Iliffe has been made Regimental Sergeant-Major and Harold Hanna of this company now wears the stripes of a Sergeant.

There is a signal corps this year for the first time in the history of the regiment, and Campbellford is the headquarters of this unit. The officers are Lieut. M. H. Sergeant and Sergeant T. W. Chaplin, the latter being principal of the Hastings Public School. This unit comprises 10 men. The other officers on the roster are: 2nd in command, Major H. S. Neilson; Adjutant, Major H. C. Craig; Quartermaster, Major H. McCullough; Chaplain, Captain E. M. Pickford; Medical Officer, Captain W. G. Jamieson; Majors, H. Sauva, F. Webb, Lieutenants E. A. Hircock, R. E. Drope, F. Pepino, W. M. M. Manley, H. Belford, T. Cousans, G. Stanmore, K. Roblin, A. M. Mack.

Capt. P. J. Kelly, of Campbellford, is not in the camp this year on account of illness in his family, but was a visitor here Saturday.

Inspection Saturday.

Saturday was the big day, when the regiment was inspected by Major-General Elmsley, O.C. of Military District No. 3. There has been a marked change in the training given at these camps since the Great War. Less attention is given to military points and panoply and the men are drilled in that stern school of warfare which proved so effective in the trench fighting in Flanders. In the inspection Saturday there was a march of two miles and each company put on a company attack, advancing 600 yards on the run, then stopping at 200, 300 and 100 yards for target practice, each man firing 40 rounds. The skill of each company in the use of the rifle will be decided from this competition.

The music for the inspection was furnished by the Regimental Band of Campbellford, which came down Saturday and made its first appearance on the parade grounds, under the leadership of William Larson, A.C.L.M. The high reputation that this band has always enjoyed as the leading military musical unit in Central Ontario was more than sustained by the performance Saturday.

Sunday Service.

A drum head religious service was held in the park Sunday morning, when the music was furnished by the Kilties Band of Cobourg and the Regimental Band which were massed for the occasion.

The mess dinner was held in the Armories Saturday evening when one of the most prominent guests was Major Belford, M.L.A. for East Northumberland. The major's son, J. H. Belford, who was with his father overseas and who is a lieutenant in the Brighton Company, is now acting paymaster of the company. Capt. A. E. R. Jones of Brighton, regular paymaster, is resigning his position and going south for the benefit of his health.

The Day's Routine

Reveille is sounded every morning at 5.30 and the men are given until 7.30, when breakfast is served, to set their camps in order, dress and polish their buttons and arms. At 8.30 they parade for roll call and then march to the grounds where the daily drill is held. They return to camp at 12.30 for dinner and drill in the afternoon from 2 to 4.30 Supper at 5 o'clock makes the close of the day's activities and "lights out" is sounded at 10 o'clock.

The Signal Corps

The work of the signal corps is among the most interesting in the service. The men are instructed in flashing signals in the morse code, with flags and with lamps. Sergt. Major Fowler of Kingston held an examination in signaling, the test consisting of translating two messages given with flags and two with lamps. Three took this examination, Sergt. Smith of Cobourg, Lieutenant Sergeant and Sergt. Chaplin of Campbellford. The results will be made known later, after the answers have been passed upon at headquarters.

The youngest soldier in camp is Jack, the 13-year-old son of Major J. M. Bygott of Campbellford who is with the signal corps.

The camp will break up Tuesday.

JEALOUS WOMAN SLAYS CHILDREN

Found Wandering in Bush With Rifle—Children Dead at Home.

HUSBAND MISSING.

SUDBURY, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—Driven frantic by grief and jealousy because of the disappearance of her husband, who is now believed to be in Toronto, Mrs. Kussack, wife of a section hand at Foleyet, is now in district jail here awaiting trial on a charge of slaying her two small children, who were found dead in the Kussack home on Saturday afternoon by Provincial Constable Keene.

Neither the woman nor her husband was in the place, and after the discovery a search was at once instituted. The woman, carrying a rifle, was found wandering in the bush near the town shortly afterwards, and was taken into custody. It is assumed that the children were slain while sleeping.

Details at hand are meagre, but it is known that there had been some trouble in the Kussack home.

Mrs. Kussack was recently away from home for some time, and during her absence a housekeeper was employed. The children are said to have shown great affection for the woman, and bitterly regretted her departure last week.

Mrs. Kussack is said to have been considerably perturbed by the regard which her children showed for the woman.

DIED IN HURLING CHILD TO SAFETY

Grandmother Crushed Under Train—3 Year Old Girl Injured.

TORONTO, July 13. — (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Katherine Josephs, aged 60, was killed and her grandchild, Angeline Eatzess, aged 3 years, was injured on Saturday evening when struck by the Canadian Pacific Montreal train near Winchester Street bridge. The woman was walking along the tracks when the flier, bound for Toronto, struck her. Mrs. Joseph, unable to get from the tracks before the train hit her, hurled the little girl clear of the engine. The child was hurt in rolling down the cinder embankment. The grandmother's body was crushed beneath the wheels of the train.

ORANGEMEN AT CHURCH.

Campbellford and District Lodges Hold Annual Parades.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13—As a preliminary to the celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne all the Orange Lodges attended divine service yesterday. Members of L.O.L. No. 36 and the True Blues paraded to Christ Church in the morning and listened to an appropriate discourse by the rector, Rev. G. E. Clarke. The members of L.O.L. No. 526 attended the Baptist Church in a body in the evening, the speaker being Rev. Edmund D. Forde, pastor of the church.

On Seymour Circuit

L.O.L. 2322, Petherick's Corners, with visitors from Campbellford and Wellman's, paraded to Zion United Church, Petherick's Corners, at 3 p.m., there being about 60 in the procession There was a large choir composed of members of the order, J. H. Bell of Campbellford acting as organist.

Choosing as his text the words "Ye are the salt of the earth," Rev. C. D. Daniel, the preacher, himself a member of the order, told the visitors that their influence is not on the wane but that they still have a part to play in the affairs of the world greater than that of any other secret society, in business, in community and especially in religious life. By their constitution the members are committed to the great work which makes for civil and religious liberty.

INVITE UNIONISTS.

Burnbrae Group is Without a Church—Seymour Gives Welcome.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13. — The Unionist group of the church at Burnbrae, who have been without a church home since the question of union was voted upon by that congregation, have received a unanimous invitation from the Official Board of the Seymour Circuit United Church to cast in their lot with the different congregations in that field, which consists of four places of worship — the English Line, Hoard's, Petherick's Corners and Stanwood.

Twelve members of the Official Board met at the Seymour Parsonage Saturday night, with Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of the circuit, presiding. The Burnbrae group of Unionists were represented by Malcolm Totten, Andrew Milne, George Anderson and William Rannie.

After the situation had been discussed, the following resolution, moved by John Park and seconded by D. T. Petherick, was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, that whereas Seymour Circuit is part of the United Church of Canada and is therefore directly interested in every church group in Canada, and whereas we believe that the United Church group of Burnbrae church, having withdrawn from that body because of their allegiance to the United Church of Canada, are now without a church home, we do hereby place ourselves on record in extending to this group a unanimous invitation to attend any of the churches on our circuit and that our people will cordially welcome them in making their church home with any of our congregational groups.

This was signed on behalf of the Board by Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor and E. J. Mitchell, recording steward.

The members of the Unionist group from Burnbrae expressed appreciation of the invitation and stated that a meeting of the Unionists would be held early this week when an answer would be drawn up.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM REID BALL

MILLBROOK, July 13.—William Reid Ball, whose death, following a lingering illness, took place on Tuesday, July 7, was born on the family homestead, Fallis Line, 83 years ago last May.

His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ball (Elizabeth Lowery), were among the pioneer settlers of Cavan Township, coming to this country by sailing vessel from County Cavan, Ireland. The difficulties and privation incident to life in a new country were the lot of Mr. and Mrs. Ball, who had the satisfaction of seeing virgin forest give place to fertile, well-cultivated fields, and of establishing a comfortable homestead, before their decease.

Deceased was one of a family of two sons, his brother, Josiah Ball, who also lived for a time on Fallis Line, passing away at Toronto some four or five years ago.

Succeeding his father on the family property, which he considerably improved, Mr. Ball took his place as one of the most successful, and prosperous, farmers of Cavan Township. About thirteen years ago he decided to retire from an active, agricultural career, and removed to Millbrook to reside, purchasing the McCartney home on King Street.

During his residence on Fallis Line, Mr. Ball's marriage to Adeline Walsh took place, and to this union seven children, four sons and three daughters, were born. One daughter died in infancy, and one son, Mr. Herbert, passed away five years ago. His wife predeceased him, her death occurring in 1917. The immediate surviving relatives are three sons, J. Ormond Ball, of North Monaghan; W. E. Ball, Millbrook, Harry Ball, who resides on the homestead; and two daughters, Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, Fallis Line, and Mrs. Reg. Armstrong, Bailieboro. There are nine grandchildren.

In religion a Presbyterian, deceased gave practical assistance in building Fallis Line Church, since its location was convenient to his home, and the older men on the Line were anxious to have a place of worship in their immediate vicinity. Grace Church, Millbrook, was his church home after removing to the village, and when its commodious and up-to-date shed was built some two years ago, he gave valuable help with that work also.

Definite signs of the malady which caused his death appeared at least two years ago ,and for the last six months there was a marked decline in health, the final illness being of some weeks' duration. Since his wife's death, deceased had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball, but during his last sickness was with his daughter, Mrs. W. F. Fallis.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. W. Fred Fallis, Fifth Line, Cavan, on Thursday, July 9, the services at the house and graveside being in charge of Rev. F. H. Howard, assisted by Rev. Joseph Wilks. The many beautiful floral tributes laid upon the casket were an evidence of the esteem and affection in which deceased was held.

The pall-bearers were all relatives and included Messrs. Robert Fair (Peterborough), Jos. Walsh, Jos. Staples, Richard Howden, C. Lough, and Alex, Walsh (Port Hope).

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Mrs. (Dr.) C. W. Walsh, of Vancouver, B.C.; Mr. A. Walsh, Mr. Paterson, Miss Florence Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Garnett, of Port Hope; Mr. George Walsh, of Toronto; Mr. Reid and Mr. Ferguson of Peterborough; Mr. H. Preston, Bethany; Mr. and Mrs. McGimpsey of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Barker, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Armstrong, Bailieboro; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ball, North Monaghan.

Interment was in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Millbrook.

WILLIAM McKNIGHT.

MILLBROOK, July 13. — William McKnight of Cavan, died on Saturday, July 11, having attained his 69th year. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Robert J. and John, and two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Armstrong and Miss Ethel McKnight, all of whom reside in Cavan.

The funeral, under the auspieces of L. O. L. Number 46, Frazerville, will take place at 2.30 p. m. on Tuesday, July 14, proceeding from the house to the Presbyterian cemetery, where interment will take place.

Joanna Amelia Chynoweth

On Sunday at 12.00 midnight, Joanna Amelia Chynoweth, of 80 Victoria Ave., died at Nicholl's hospital after a brief illness. She is survived by her husband, George Tremain, her son, John Collins, daughter, Mrs. W. A. Zeihr; three sisters, Mrs. Theodore Thornton, of Peterborough, Mrs. H. Mills and Mrs. Norman Cooper of Wainwright, Alberta; and five brothers, Joseph Chynoweth of Dongola, Ont., James and Richard of Coleville, Sask., and William and John of Wainright, Alta.

Particulars concerning the funeral will appear later.

COMRADES' LAST

Rev. A. J. Langford, conducting the service at the Great War Veterans Hall, read part of the 14th chapter of John and said that He stood upon the very threshold of the spirit world when He spoke those words of comfort and prophetic hope to His followers. It is a message needed by, and meant for, all ages And today it comes to us fresh and comforting still.

It is difficult to express spiritual realities by means of a language that has to do with material things. And yet if words mean anything they reveal that spiritual reality lie beneath and behind material things. Jesus teaching concerning God contains a new element. He calls God Father, and teaches us to call Him Father. The new thought here is that God is a loving and benevolent Being who wills good to all His children. "God is love," holy, Father love, and this attribute colors all other attributes of His Being.

Many of the circumstances and happenings of life are strangely perplexing, baffling, indeed, to the human mind. But of one thing we are sure, that behind this world and its people, there is a benevolent being who is God, our Father, whose very nature is holy love, one who would by the discipline of life bring us to a real spiritual experience and moral character said Rev. Langford.

Through this devious way of life He would lead us to "life indeed" and to home and heaven.

This is the Christian faith, the Christian hope, the Christian assurance. Let us trust God, and not be afraid, for

"Behind the dim unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow
Keeping watch above His own."

McMILLAN'S ARMADA

Does "Eating at Night" Interfere With Your Sleep?

NEARLY everyone likes to have something to eat at bedtime. Yet too often we eat, at this time, foods which are difficult to digest. The result is that we roll and toss in bed for hours, unable to sleep.

Often you've had that experience, haven't you? Well, here's a suggestion:

Grape-Nuts is made from whole wheat and malted barley, which give to Grape-Nuts a wealth of nourishment—energy-giving carbohydrates; iron for the blood; phosphorus for the teeth and bones; proteins for muscle and body building; and the essential vitamin-B. They give to it, too, a tempt-ingly-appetizing flavor—its crisp, crunchy granules have a delicious nut-like flavor that everyone likes. But here's the important point—Grape-Nuts is easy to digest! Baked 22 hours—it is one of the most digestible of all foods. That's why Grape-Nuts is a perfect bedtime treat. You can SLEEP after eating Grape-Nuts at night. Try it at bedtime to-night and see! You'll enjoy it as much as you do at breakfast.

All grocers have Grape-Nuts in wax-wrapped packages. Ready to eat. One serving—4 teaspoonfuls—costs less than one cent. Serve with milk or cream.

"There's a Reason"

Grape-Nuts

Made in Canada

Doctors and dentists are emphatically warning us that we must eat some hard foods that require chewing. Grape-Nuts must be chewed—and its pleasant "crunchiness" and delightful flavor tempt you to chewing. This starts digestion in the mouth—where it should start—and gives to teeth and gums the exercise which alone can keep them in healthy condition.

Mail the coupon and we will send you two individual packages of Grape-Nuts free—enough for two breakfasts. We will also send you "A Book of Better Breakfasts," containing menus for a series of delightful health breakfasts—and written by a former college physical director. Follow these menus and form the habit of healthful breakfasts.

The news of the wheat crop gets better and tter.

Now the Dominion Bureau of Statistics tells us at the wheat yield for the whole of Canada will tal 365,000,000 bushels, as compared with 262,000,- 00 bushels last year, and an average crop of 326,- 00,000 bushels during the past five years.

In addition to this splendid wheat crop, the same uthority estimates bigger yields in oats, barley, rye d flax seed.

The estimated increase in these crops when the er prices are considered means that the farmers Canada will have $200,000,000 more to spend than year.

That means a great deal not only to the farmers to the whole country.

It means more business for Canada's merchants, e orders for Canadian factories and employment fo Canada's workers.

The crop prospects are excellent, and a successful harvest will spell prosperity for the Dominion.

YESTERDAY'S CEREMONY.

The local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association carried out yesterday the annual ceremony of decorating the graves of fallen comrades who are buried here, St. Peter's Cemetery being visited.

It is a matter for congratulation that so many ex-service men and so many members of the two bands braved the long march on a hot afternoon in order that the memory of former soldiers should be kept green.

One of the most splendid objects for which the W.V.A. was organized was the carrying out of this ed duty of honouring the comrades who have ed on, and when the association is merged into nion that promises to follow Earl Haig's visit to da, it is to be hoped that the annual ceremony coration will be held as usual.

particularly pleasing feature yesterday was T eing of a wreath upon the monument in Cent- rk, erected to the memory of Capt. Brown, kill- the Northwest Rebellion in 1885, and the sound- of the Last Post as a tribute to a soldier who had given up his life forty years ago in fighting for Canada.

For many years this monument had been neglected, and it is necessary to thank the local branch of the Great War Veterans for their action in each year remembering this hero of an earlier conflict.

HOPEFUL SIGNS.

In spite of the burning of fiery crosses, which is considered by some people as symbolic of a new outcropping of racial and religious intolerance, signs are not lacking that a better spirit is being developed that will drive out much of the suspicious bigotry that seeks to divide Canadians into hostile camps.

In Toronto on Saturday the big Orange parade was diverted, departing from the long established route in order that the playing of the bands would not disturb a splendid old Roman Catholic citizen, Peter Ryan, who is seriously ill.

Here yesterday, on July 12th, the anniversary of the Boyne, men who later in the evening participated in the Orange church parade were among those who marched several miles on a blazing summer afternoon to a Roman Catholic cemetery to pay tribute to the memory of Roman Catholic soldiers who had joined the great majority.

The two incidents are auspicious omens that will be hailed as an offset, at least, to the launching of a movement imported from the neighboring Republic and against which, unfortunately, it is impossible to protect ourselves by tariff barriers.

Our soldiers overseas did not fight as Protestants and Roman Catholics, but as Canadians; there was no religious intolerance in the trenches.

Is there any reason why we cannot live at home under the same conditions?

RURAL SCHOOLS.

In his capacity as Minister of Education and in enting the annual report of the Department of cation, Premier Ferguson pays much attention to question of transferring the administration of al schools to township boards.

It will be remembered that a bill to bring this ge about was introduced at the recent session of Legislature and withdrawn in order that ratepay- throughout the Province might study the proposed lation and furnish the department with their s on the subject.

The Examiner's information is that the majority ural citizens are opposed to the change.

Yet, it must be admitted, that Mr. Ferguson s out a very strong case in favour of township ds, presenting an array of reasons that are difficult to logically gainsay.

He points out—and Peterboro County conditions confirm his assertion—that there are at least three advantages under the present system—first, that any schools have too small an attendance to justify eir maintenance; second, taxation for school purses in any township is not fairly distributed among e ratepayers; and third, the opportunities for high hool education are inadequate and unfairly distributed.

With 177 schools in Ontario with an average at- nce of fewer than 5 pupils and 891 with fewer 10 pupils and 2,902 with fewer than 20 pupils, easy to see what the Premier is driving at.

In these one-roomed schools with five or less s education costs practically $250 per pupil per ; and while the Province pays a share of the cost, chief burden is upon the ratepayers of the sec- , and Mr. Ferguson is undoubtedly correct when complaints of the cost of education effect when the Province is aware at least a large part of the ex- of the people themselves.

should be taken under re- terboro County, who upon investigating the conditions and the proposed remedy may discover that their present reluctance to see the educational structure changed has no sound foundation.

The Examiner believes that the child in the county should have equally as good educational facilities as the youngster in the town, but doubts very much whether under present conditions among the rural schools such facilities can be expected.

THE NEWSPAPER CODE.

It seems strange that the impression ever got started that newspapers have no code of ethics; that they consider themselves news merchants, with a broad commission to sell to the public whatever the public may be supposed to want, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

This loose impression accounts for a good deal of thoughtless diatribe against newspapers on the score of their alleged catering to the baser appetites of the multitude while they withhold or show less enterprise in gathering and writing the more solid and informative news which nourishes and enlightens public opinion.

When newspaper writers and publishers assemble in convention nowadays the principal business of their sessions is the discussion and formulation of "codes" for newspaper conduct. The Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association met in Asheville, N. C., the other day and adopted such a code, which expresses no radical or reform policy on the part of the newspapers at all, but merely restates what has come to be a tolerably clear working creed of most reputable newspapers in our day.

Say these publishers of the South:

Recognizing honest differences of opinion exist, we may vigorously maintain our own position without denouncing others as dishonest and unfair.

Decency should be the guiding star in the printing of news, editorials, advertising and all feature articles or illustrations.

"Is it fit to print and to be read by my own brother!" should be the test, rather than "Will it sell more papers!"

Consideration for the unfortunate and for guiltless victims of the faults of others.

No story justifies needless damage to a good reputation nor wanton pain to an innocent.

Respect and tolerance for those of different religions, races and circumstances of life.

Honesty in all dealings, whether with readers, advertisers, employees or competitors.

Truth first, last and always.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors formally adopted a similar code two years ago.

NEW BUILDING METHODS.

Great Britain's shortage of housing accommodation and its accompanying relative shortage of skilled workers in the building trades has resulted in a great effort to find new methods of constructing dwellings. That effort has been directed to the designing of buildings the parts of which could be made in quantities in factories and could be assembled in a short time by unskilled workmen. In this effort a number of engineers and steel companies have been participating.

A good deal has been written of the Weir steel house that has been the subject of contention between its designer, Lord Weir, and the building trade unions. The Weir house, in so far as its walls and roof are concerned, consists of timber frames faced externally with steel sheeting. There are also a number of other types of dwellings in which steel is used in various forms and of these types samples are to be erected by eighty-six local authorities in England and Wales. Toward the cost of these demonstration houses the British Ministry of Health is contributing £34,000. At least ten of these local authorities had pairs of houses in course of erection by the middle of June. One type of dwelling, invented by a Blackpool architect, has a steel frame and a patent cradle roof and is so fashioned that operatives of all the necessary trades can get to work simultaneously. Once the foundations for these houses are prepared a block of four of them can be completed, ready for occupation, it is asserted, in nine days. Some hundreds of these have already been erected in the north of England. Another house is constructed on much the same principle as the Nissen huts that were used during the war. This type has a roof made of semi-circular steel ribs bolted to the foundation concrete and is being studied by the municipal authorities of a number of places. A pair of steel-framed cottages with cork walls covered with a material known as gunnite has been built in Kent by a Middleborough firm. Another dwelling consists of steel framework filled in with concrete slabs. A number of other systems are being considered by firms that have been making sectional buildings for residential use in other countries and that believe they can produce dwellings suitable for occupation in Great Britain. The attempt to devise methods of erecting standardized dwellings rapidly and at a lower cost than brick ones, it is believed by many, will bring the solution of the housing problem in centres of population in the United Kingdom much closer, but it has raised, as can be readily understood, new and complicated problems in the building industry.

From the bare descriptions given in British newspapers of the steel houses now being introduced in the British Isles it is difficult to reach a conclusion whether or not they are attractive in appearance. The houses that are to be built for exhibition purposes evidently are intended to enable the public authorities to determine whether or not they will appeal to the public taste. In the meantime, the endeavors of Governments that have held office in Britain in the past few years to increase housing accommodation in the country appear to be producing results apart from the introduction of fabricated and assembled houses. Contracts have been approved for the erection of 150,000 buildings under the Housing Act of the present Government and of 83,000 under the legislation of the Labor Government, and this year, it is announced, some 3,000 brick or concrete houses are being completed for occupation every week.—Mail and Empire.

Broken Ties.

We met by the old trysting tree
Where once to meet we were so fain
But better had it been for me
If I in Flanders fields had lain
For Jean was bound by nuptial vows
Ere from the cursed War I came
Yet though my hopes were blighted all
I would not her too harshly blame.

For she was told that I had made
In War the Sacrifice supreme
Then vanished her fond hopes as fade
Morn radiant tints in noon days beam
And to escape a father's sway
Tyranic, ah the pitious plea,
She forged the bonds one direful day
From which now only death can free.

Although her heart had never known
For him love's deep sweet ecstasy
Her fetters had not irksome grown
Nor sighed her Soul for liberty
Till after four long years of strife
Peace loosed at last my captive chain
And as from death restored to life
She welcomed me long mourned as slain.

True love the Heaven born never dies
But lives forever in the soul
However hopeless or unwise
Or held by duty's firm control
Jean greeted me as ne'er before
With fond embrace and rapturous kiss
And Heaven methought holds not in store
For me a moment's purer bliss.

God knows if it were fate's decree
That I must give that kiss to win
My very life I'd give it free
Nor count the cost if 'twere not sin
O how I longed my arms to twine
Round that loved form and closely press
Her to this breaking heart of mine,
In one last, parting, fond caress.

And yet I must not, for between,
Us, tho of souls akin,
Were Sacred barriers, which I ween
To thus o'er pass had traitorous been,
Nay, stern voiced duty, bade us part,
Forever, spite of fierce regret,
In vain those bitter tears now start,
Life's Sun, in gloom, for us has set.

God's spotless Angels, from the skies
(Save for that one unguarded kiss)
Gazing with tender pitying eyes
Beheld not word or deed, amiss.
Had Fate, but dealt that cruel stroke
On me alone, and left Jean free,
I had borne it calmly, but nigh broke
My tortured heart, her grief to see.

And yet, her noble soul shrank not
Duty's harsh mandate to obey,
She knew that happiness is sought
In vain, except in honour's way.
Ah, why did Heaven to mortals deign
Hearts formed in love's resistless mould
Then doom them through a passion vain
To pain and bitterness untold.

No more that dear loved voice I'll hear
Save in delusive dreams of night
In dreams alone her smile shall cheer
Her image bless my longing sight
Our happy trysting next will be
Beyond the grave, in that sweet clime
Where pain and parting ne'er can be,
And love like ours, is not a Crime.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 11 . — Canadian Press. — Sky-rocketing prices for wheat to-day, accompanied reports of 100 per cent. black rust infection to wheat stems in North Dakota, together with news of a widespread hot wave that carried temperatures of around 100 degrees. Net advances ranging from 5½ cents a bush were established and the wheat market closed excited at the day's top-most figures, July delivery $1.54 to 1.54½; Sept. 1.48 3-4 to 1.49 and December 1.50 to 150 3-8, corn finished, at 1 3-4 to 3 1-4 gain; oats 7-8, a 1 to 1¼ up, and provisions showing 5c to 30c advance.

The rise in price came when fear became general as to the likelihood the excessive heat would bring to a crisis the black rust menace of heavy destruction of the Spring wheat crop, both in the northwestern States and Canada. The fact that the domestic winter wheat crop has been relatively small this season made apprehension the greater regarding possible extensive harm to spring wheat. Besides, estimates were current that based on the latest Canadian government crop report and taking no account of unusual damage from black rust, the 1925 exportable wheat surplus from North America would be 75,000,000 bushels loss in 1924, and that the worlds carryover would be at least 100,000,000 bushels below last year's.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 12. — Canadian Press. — The New York houses were the market for oats on Saturday and sales of No. 2 feed were made at ½c per bushel under the Winnipeg July option c.i.f. and they were bidding 3 3-4c per bushel under the same option for No. 4 wheat. Cash oats on the local market closed strong and prices for car lots were advanced 2c per bushel with No. 2 Canadian western quoted at 76c, No. 3 C.W. at 70 1-2c extra No. 1 feed at 69c.

A feature of the past week was the strength in the local egg market and prices closed with a net gain of 1c to 2c per dozen.

The volume of business was fair, and final sales of specials were made at 44c, fresh extras at 40c, firsts at 36c and seconds at 33c per dozen.

There was some demand for car lots of western eggs and sales were made of fresh firsts at 32c per dozen and seconds at 28c per dozen f.o.b. Winnipeg, while Ontario country shippers sold fresh extras at 32½c per dozen; firsts at 30 1-2c and seconds at 25c f.o.b. shipping points, cases returned.

Owing to the lull in the foreign demand and the lower prices bid over the cable a weaker feeling prevailed in the local butter market the past week and prices declined 1c to 1½c per lb. The demand for local account has also been somewhat limited and the market on the whole was much quieter. Western No. 1 pasteurized creamery was quoted at 37c per lb; Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized creamery at 36½c to 46 3-4c per lb; No. 1 creamery at 35½ to 35 3-4c per lb, and No. 2 creamery at 34½c to 34 3-4c per lb.

The trade in cheese for export account was quieter owing to the fall off in the demand for foreign buyers. Values were reduced 3-4c to 1c per lb., while in the country they ruled ¼c to 1 1-16c per lb lower than the previous week.

Western No. 1 white and colored on spot were quoted at 21 1-4c to 21½c per lb., and eastern No. 1 white and colored at 21c to 21 1-4c per lb.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

STARTLING NEWS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Sir:

The latest information from our missionaries in China is startling. The movement against foreigners is really a movement against foreign dictation and the Christian religion. The Great War showed the Chinese that western Nations were more eager to preach Christianity than to practice it. Further advice from America seemed superfluous. But no, we were and are still ready to advise everybody on everything. The Chinese looking at the so-called Christian nations said: "If we do not get these devils out they will destroy us too." Yet there is another phase to it. Our people here in Ontario, as in many of the U.S., are not thinkers. We are very practical. We just wish and do. But people who do things without thinking because it looks like profitable business are often caught by their own foolishness and fail. Just think of it, this "business method" we hear so much about provides in Canada alone about 40 failures a week. Now, the Chinese are not protesting against all this because they do not agree with it, but because they do. Social Service and good citizenship from the religion of Kung Fu Tse (Confucius) who so far furnishes the beliefs of the Chinese as to be the one subject in which their scholastic students must pass their examinations. Christianity, as taught by Christ is the development of the individual who will do all good things naturally and not by compulsion or in driven herds. It is the very opposite of Cunfucianism and of Social Service or Community-ism as we understand it. Now, say the Chinese since America, etc., reject their own religion in favour of ours let their missionaries begone home. It is for China to send missionaries to Canada not for Canada to send missionaries to them.

This statement of the case is the correct one, but it will probably prove too recondite for most of our people to understand. They can find out about it however, if they will step into the nearest laundry. The Chinese do think they have survived all other nations.

J. H. Burnham.

A THOUGHT.

SERVICE.

We're born to service, you and I;
And should we need the urge of words and pen
To show us duty to our fellowmen?
The chain of service spans the world;
And he who fails to weld his link,
Lo, weakens all the rest, and lets them sink
And sag and drag, and lose their power,
Because his part is missing.
We're born to service, you and I;
The more we're blessed the more we're bound to bless,
The more we gain, the more we owe Success.
Responsibility expands apace with growth.
The loyalty and faith that lifts us up
Should be repaid in like, to fill the cup
Of others, needing help and hope,
To send them bravely forward.

—Herbert S. Stalk.

OUTDOOR LIFE

When locating a camp-site your immediate consideration is water, wood, safety and accessibility to supplies, fish and game.

Keep away from dead trees that might fall on your tent. Burn cans and camp refuse. Keep the camp clean and sanitary.

Don't pitch your tent in low places or too close to your water supply. If your horse drinks out of a lake, stream or spring, you can safely drink at the same place.

A dog, on the other hand will drink any kind of water, good or bad, when thirsty.

Drink sparingly of water that is ice cold when you are overheated. It often develops cramps.

The first Canadian Baronetcy was created by Charles I. in 1625, 300 years ago, in Sir Robert Gordon, in Nova Scotia.

DAYTON BANNED FREE THINKER'S SOAP BOX TALK

Skeptic Suppressed by Only Constable in Tennessee Mountain Town.

"A DISTURBER"

Darrow Says Bryan Putting "Chinese Wall" Around the State.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 13.—Evolution became a more lively issue in Dayton Saturday, although court was adjourned and the town's visitors were mostly blue-overalled mountain eers come to "trade."

Everywhere in the tiny business section of the village, moving with the sun to keep in the shade, or else sitting in Robinson's drug store, where it all started," the backwoodsmen defended Fundamentalism against Modernism and free-thinking to the point where once the police had to come to the rescue of one man by arresting him for "disturbing the peace."

Scopes Goes Swimming.

John Thomas Scopes, whose name hereabouts has been synonomous with evolution and who has been, and is yet, the least considered personally of all the characters in this famous misdemeanor case, was hardly in evidence in a village where every one meets everyone else in a five minutes' walk. He appeared at Robinson's drug store once, ignored the newspapers shouting his name and projecting his likeness, drank a lemonade and went swimming.

William Jennings Bryan, in his shirt-sleeves and collarless, sat on the lawn of the cottage he occupies, receiving calls practically the entire day from admirers. Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone, Arthur Garfield Hays and Dr. John R. Neal, of counsel for the defence, spent the day together making their final determination of the scientific witnesses they will call if they are allowed to present their testimony.

So all the town's excitement was on Main and Market Streets, where local Fundamentalists, overwhelmingly in the majority, Eastern Modernists and a mid-Western Free Thinker held forth for one and all, careful only to choose a shady spot in which to talk.

"Free Thinker" Arrested.

A. S. Winn of Acanada, Mich., whose cards read "Independent Free Thinker and Lecturer," began a speech at Main and Market Streets to a score of men. He talked loudly and in a few minutes the crowd had grown to a hundred, including Sid Strunk, Dayton's sole policeman.

Winn's subject was 'Jesus Christ,' but his words were unfamiliar to the mountaineers, who have heard their circuit-riding preachers use others, and presently the silence of the crowd was ominous. There was a nervous hum, and suddenly Sid Strunk broke through, collared Mr. Winn and led him diagonally across the street to the office of Justice of the Peace S. D. Sanborn.

"He wasn't talking right," said Sid Strunk, "and I was afraid some

FEWER DRUNKS IN COBOURG'S COURT

Magistrate Floyd Notes the Change Under 4.4 Sale.

(By a Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, July 13.—County Police Magistrate Floyd stated to The Examiner representative Friday that since the 4.4 beer was put on sale the number of cases of drunkness has fallen off. During the month of June he disposed of only two such cases in the county, an unusually low record.

From this the Magistrate infers that while the new beer is not intoxicating it apparently satisfies the thirst of the majority who desire a stimulant and that the traffic in bootleg liquor is falling off as a result.

DETROIT ATTRACTS FRENCH CANADIANS

Roman Catholic Churches Doubled in Two Years.

MONTREAL, July 13 (Canadian Press).—The influx of French-Canadians into Detroit is to a large extent responsible for the rapid increase in the number of Roman Catholic churches, which have doubled in the last two years, Father Stephen Wittliff, stated here Saturday. He is the pastor of St. Martin's on the Lake in Detroit and is visiting in Montreal. There will be a dearth of priests there shortly unless priests are recruited from other places, he said.

Laborers should be sure of employment being going to Detroit, he said, because the number of available jobs is not stable and is constantly subject to conditions of the moment. He prophesied that Detroit would have from two to three million inhabitants by 1930.

MANY DROWNINGS OVER WEEK END

Youth Lost When Swimming in Pond—Canoe Upset —One Missing.

FIRST OF SEASON.

INGERSOLL, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—The first drowning accident of the season in this district occurred on the farm of D. W. Clark, West Oxford, the victim being Albert Hocking, a young English lad, 19 years of age, who lost his life in a small pond while in bathing.

CANOE UPSET.

CHATHAM, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Melvin Stenton, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Richie Stenton of this city, was drowned in the Thames River here yesterday afternoon when the canoe in which he was riding upset. This is the first drowning victim at this point this season.

BELIEVED DROWNED.

CORUNNA, Ont., July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Morris Slutsky, of Detroit, is believed to have been drowned yesterday at Stag Island. He was last seen when he went swimming about 11 o'clock in the morning, and late last night he had not returned. His clothing was found at the spot where he went swimming.

SAVED DAUGHTER—LOST LIFE

PORT ARTHUR, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Joseph Butler, aged 41, was drowned yesterday afternoon in Current River, not far from Black Bay bridge, when he rushed into the water to save his 9-year-old daughter, Annie, from drowning. Successful in saving his daughter's life, he lost his own. He pulled her to safety after she had fallen into a hole while she was bathing in the river, but fell in the hole himself, and, being unable to swim, was drowned.

CHANGING SEATS IN CANOE.

HAMILTON, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Changing seats in a canoe yesterday afternoon resulted in Wm. Petch, aged 17 years, one of three occupants, losing his life, when the craft overturned in the bay off Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Two other youths, James O'Brien and Fred. Jacobs, were rescued by the occupants of another canoe and motor boat.

LEAPED TO DEATH.

WINDSOR, July 13. — (Canadian Press).—With a brief explanation to persons standing on the Canadian National Railway docks that he "had not had a swim in a long time," a man whose identity as yet has not been established, leaped into the Detroit River on Saturday night and was not again seen. The police do not believe the stranger intended to end his life, and he was carried away by the strong undertow caused by the car ferries.

FRENCH SENDING

Predicts Peace In Fall.

WASHINGTON, July 13.— The Franco-Riff war will end early in October, according to Dr. David Fairchild of the National Geographic Society, who is now in Morocco. His prediction is made in a letter, parts of which the National Geographic Society made public Saturday.

"With the serious preparations which the French are making here," Dr. Fairchild writes from Casablanca, "I think that the war will be over about the first of October and it will be safe to come here as it is to go to Baltimore. So far the war has not made the slightest difference in our travel in our automobile anywhere and everywhere we have wanted to go, and we have been out late into the night and feel as safe as we do in the suburbs of Washington."

Women Incite Riffians.

FEZ, July 13.—The ferocity of Moorish attacks against the French lines at night may be accounted for, in part at least, by the part of the tribeswomen play in them.

These Amazons, their hands smeared with henna, race after the raiders, shrieking hysterically and grasping at any warrior who for a moment falls back from the onward rush.

In the morning those raiders whose clothes are found to be daubed with henna are summarily shot.

MAYBEE OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Twenty-six Women From All Parts of Northumberland at Cobourg Meeting.

AT DUNHAM HOUSE

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, July 13.—The strains of God Save the King," heartily sung with 26 female and five male voices harmoniously blending, emerging from from the dining room of the New Dunham House, at 4.30 Friday afternoon, marked the close of the first campaign meeting yet held to advance the interests of Milton E. Maybee, M. P., who has been renominated by the Conservative party to succeed himself in the Dominion Parliament. Mr. Maybee's campaign may now be regarded as officially launched, and it is significant that the first organization gathering on his behalf was composed of the recognized women workers in the party from the towns and villages all over the County of Northumberland. Every urban centre was represented, the total number of women present being 26. Of this number Campbellford sent five—Mrs. C. W. Turner, Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, Mrs. F. Bonnycastle, Mrs. Tom Church, and Mrs. James Saunders. Warkworth was represented by Mrs. (Dr.) C. C. Armstrong and Mrs J. Owen, and Hastings by Mrs. (Dr.) W. Wilson, Mrs. (Dr.) J. H. Hess, Mrs. Nelson Beavis, Mr. J. M. Baker, and Mrs. A. E. Spooner. Mrs. Maybee, wife of the member, was also a delegate, and the leading speaker of the day was Mrs. Howard Fallis of Peterboro, provincial organizer, who instructed her sister voters in the mysteries of conducting a political campaign.

The male delegates present were Mr. Maybee and those redoubtable workers for the party Drs. W. E. Wilson and J. D. Hess of Hastings: H. L. Walker of Warkworth, Col. F. D. Boggs, of Cobourg.

The Dunham House was the rallying point of the delegates and after lunch they took possession of the dining room and remained in session until nearly 5 o'clock coming from their deliberations with the well-pleased expression of those who have passed through a pleasant and edifying experience. None but the initiated were admitted but after adjournment the men delegates talked freely of the situation, predicting success for the party standard in the Federal election, which they appear satisfied will be held during the coming autumn. One of the reasons for their belief that the Government will appeal to the country before the close of the year is the excellent prospect of an abundant harvest general throughout the Dominion.

Liberals are Inactive.

So far the Liberals of the riding, aside from selecting Fred Slade as their candidate at the recent convention in Warkworth, have made no move to prepare for the election. election.

CHEESE BOARD WANTS HELPER

C.N.R. Officials Refuse Man to Help Load Cheese at Campbellford.

MEETING HELD.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13. — A meeting of the Cheese Board, the first in several months, was held on Saturday evening, and though the attendance was large and the discussion animated, the members, after sweltering in the close room for over two hours, adjourned without accomplishing anything.

The plan of grading the cheese at the depot when it is shipped from here went into effect a week ago Saturday. The C.N.R. Company officials refuse to furnish a man to help with the loading, and the meeting was called to discuss the advisability of engaging a helper for J. L. Irwin, the official grader, the different factories to bear the cost. On Saturday R. Innis, chairman of the Board, on his own responsibility, engaged a helper, to whom he paid $2.

The shippers are not unanimous on the question of having the cheese graded here, some maintaining that it would make a better showing if sent to Montreal in an iced car before being tested. Others at the Saturday night meeting held that the railway company, not the cheesemakers, should furnish a man to load the boxes. A motion by William Anderson to have a helper engaged and paid by the shippers failed to find a seconder, and with that the meeting broke up.

APPLE CROP IS UNDER AVERAGE

Canadian Estimate Bigger Than Last Year—Good in British Columbia.

OTTAWA, July 13 (Canadian Press).—Commercial apple crop prospects as at July 2 last indicated a total crop of 95 per cent. of 1924, when 2,749,544 barrels were harvested, or 64.3 per cent. of a five years' average of 3,088,504 barrels, according to a crop report just issued by the Department of Agriculture.

The prospective commercial apple crop for British Columbia compared with 1924 indicates 90 per cent, or 2,097,900 boxes, or 80.5 per cent of a five years' average crop, the report states. The slight reduction is caused by winter injury and the hot weather during the past month.

The Ontario apple crop showed generally an increase over last year, especially in the Georgian Bay and Eastern apple-producing districts. According to prospects on July 2 the indications were for a crop 120 per cent. of 1924, or 60 per cent. of a five years' average. This would forecast this year's commercial crop at approximately 821,772 barrels.

A yield of 90 per cent of 1924, or 64.057 barrels is forecast for Quebec, which is equivalent to 60 per cent. of a five years' average commercial crop.

With the season one week later than usual in Nova Scotia, and the fruit nicely setting, the present prospects for the commercial apple crop indicate 125 per cent. of last year or 90 per cent. of a five-years' overage, or approximately 1,434,083 barrels.

DIABETES DEATHS GAIN IN 20 YEARS

Many Deaths Can be Prevented by Intelligent Living.

In a recent health talk broadcast from Station WGY, Schenectady, Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., State Commissioner of Health, stated that the death rate from diabetes had increased over 50 per cent. in the last twenty years. He said further that by correct living many cases can be prevented and that by early discovery of established cases, permanent cure may sometimes result.

"Through the efforts of health departments and because of better housing, increased wages and better living conditions generally," said Dr. Nicoll, "the general death rate has decreased enormously in the last quarter of a century. This result is due especially to the fact that relatively few babies under 1 year of age die as compared with former years when the mortality rate of this group was terrific. In addition, communicable diseases are no longer such important causes of death as they were a few years ago.

"In spite of this reduction in the general mortality rate, there is one disease from which fatalities are continually increasing—diabetes. During the last twenty years in the United States the death rate from this disease has increased 52 per cent. and among the Jewish people there are about as many deaths from diabetes as from tuberculosis.

"Recent medical discoveries which permit more intelligent and more successful treatment of diabetes have created an interest in the disease which previously did not exist. It is not my purpose this evening, however, to discuss the medical treatment of established cases of diabetes; that I shall leave to your own doctor. The point which every one should know is that by intelligent living, many cases of diabetes can be prevented.

"Diabetes is ten times as common among people who are over-weight as among those who are under-weight. Furthermore, after the age of 50 this ratio is doubled. If you are thin at that age, your chances of developing diabetes are but one-twentieth as great as they are if you are fat.

"Some people with diabetes became aware of the fact because of certain symptoms such as loss of weight, lack of strength, headache, or skin eruptions. No one symptom, however, can be set down as absolute evidence of diabetes, although some diabetics do suffer with an almost unquenchable thirst and drink enormous quantities of water. Probably most cases of diabetes are discovered accidentally when an individual is examined for life insurance and chemical tests show an excessive amount of sugar secretion. Others are discovered in a similar manner when a person consults his doctor for perhaps some trivial complaint.

"It has been said previously that the treatment of diabetes has been enormously improved in recent years. If the disease has been established any great length of time, however, treatment cannot cure; it can only relieve the symptoms and must be continued indefinitely, otherwise the symptoms return. However, if diabetes is discovered sufficiently early, some physicians claim that by proper treatment immediately the disease may be permanently cured.

"With these facts in mind, the sensible course of procedure must be apparent to every one. First, don't let yourself get fat, and you will run less chance of developing diabetes. This can be done by proper adjustment of your diet to the amount of exercise you take. Fat cannot accumulate unless you take in more than you burn up. Second, go to your doctor every year for a physical examination, or at least have certain chemical tests made once a year so that if diabetes does develop you may be placed under immediate supervision and treatment."

SHE WAS WEAK, THIN AND NERVOUS

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamines.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help as all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamines in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Warne Drug Co., McDerimd & Jury, Jas. Lynch and Bond's Drug Store is selling lots of them.

The Province of Quebec boasts the lowest per capita taxation on debt account of any province in Canada.

PUT A FEATHER IN YOUR BONNET.

Little dashing felt hats are the favorites for present wear. This has not been a "straw" summer, although leghorns have had a fairly good sale.

The small felts come in bright shades, many of them trimmed with the new feather mounts of curled soft feathers, resembling a breast of a bird, in two-tone combinations of purple and mauve, or sand and orange.

Embroidery is all the rage. White hats are embroidered in black designs and blacks in poudre blues and reds.

Fabrics promise to be strong for fall wear, with a preponderance of felts and satins.

One perky little cream straw hat of close-fitting style has a black enamel ornament in the front, its surface emblazoned with Chinese characters in gold.

The Suzanne Talbott turbans, with a rather to-heavy look, that a hat periodical of French origin mentions as being so popular at the store with the whimsical name of Le Jardin de m Soeur (The Garden of My Sister) are not seen here to any extent.

About Ourselves And Other People

By Winifred Black

WHAT BECOMES OF A "STEPPING-OUT" SISTER?

Her sisters are worried about her—terribly worried.

She's handsome, she's rather clever and, dear me, what pretty clothes she wears and how well she knows how to wear them.

And she isn't as young, as she used to be, her sister says.

"Grace is 27 now," said the sister, "and I thought she would be married and settled by the time she was 23. She always had dozens of beaus and she could have married half a dozen times within the past five years."

"But you see, she went into the city to work. She said she was bored to death here in the country, in this little town, so she got a job. It sounded like a pretty good job to me too, for a girl like Grace, without any great business training. But she soon got tired of it and changed to something else.

"And then she quickly changed again to something else, and now she is always changing and never satisfied. She goes out such a lot; almost every night. She goes "stepping" as she calls it to dinner at some cafe and dancing afterwards and she gets home so late. She is tired and doesn't want to get up in the morning and then they quarrel with her at the office and out she walks.

"She has a real sweetheart out here—a nice fellow he is too—he is crazy about her and I think she is really fond of him. But he is just her age and the older men she knows have spoiled her. She wants pretty clothes and jewelry and lots of good times and she says Jim would expect her to settle down and economize and have a family of children and wash her own dishes and sweep off her own porch and mend Jim's socks and count his clothes for the laundry and wear made-over dresses and shabby gloves and shoes that are not quite the latest things and she just can't bear the thought of it.

"And I don't see what's going to become of her. Lots of these men she goes to parties with live somewhere else. They are just in town for a few days and take her out for a good time and I just know that some of them are married. One of them sent her a beautiful bracelet from Seattle the other day. I wish she wouldn't take it, but she says she isn't quite sure who sent it and it really is such a beauty.

Nothing wrong about it, well no, perhaps not—just yet.

But where does she think this road she is leading is going to take her.

Or does she ever think at all—I wonder.

Will the day ever come when she will wish she had married Jim and settled down, even if she did have to wear a pair of shabby gloves once in a while and a hat that wasn't quite the smartest thing in town? What do you think about it, girls?

KEEPING TEETH ATTRACTIVE.

Recently I consulted a dentist on various questions regarding beautiful teeth, and because many of us are apt to grow lax in our attention to our teeth, I want to refresh my readers a bit in regard to this.

It is really unfair to yourself and your dentist to make your visits infrequent, for he cannot do as much to make your teeth healthy and beautiful if you let them get almost out of his control before you consult him. If you have grown lax in your method of brushing them, or in any matter of special care in which he has advised you before, he makes you realize that you are risking your general health unless you become more particular.

In the first place, procure a good tooth powder or paste. Let your brush be small enough to reach around to all the corners of your mouth.

Brush your teeth carefully at least twice a day. If you have the opportunity you may brush them after lunch, too, to good advantage, but many of us do not have this opportunity. At least, do not fail to brush them when you get up in the morning and before you go to bed at night.

You will find it an excellent thing to use a mouth wash of warm water and salt after each brushing. Salt is one of the best antiseptics known and it strengthens your gums and gives them vitality.

Always brush slowly and thoroughly, letting the motion be free from your gums up over your teeth; that is, down on the upper teeth and up on the lower ones.

Every moment you spend in caring for your teeth is well spent. Good teeth promote good health and beauty. Uncared for teeth give no end of trouble as you grow older.

Let's Talk It Over

HOW AN EGOTISTIC WAY RUFFLES FEATHERS.

"I just want to tell you how fed up I am getting on this Inferiority Complex bunk that is being pulled everywhere these days," says Pink. "It sure is bunk with a capital B. As far as I can see most people have a Superiority Complex—only one never hears of that!" Leaving all the science out of it and getting down to horse sense, hasn't Pink hit the nail a resounding wallop on the head. But isn't most of this superiority stuff pulled because we've a sneaking suspicion that we're not so darned superior after all?

Here's what Pink says:

Don't think I have a grouch against anyone or anything beca use I haven't but I just want to tell you how fed up I am getting on this Inferiority Complex bunk that is being pulled everywhere—it sure is bunk with a capital B. As far as I see, most people these days have a superiority complex—only one never hears of it!

Just what is a complex, anyway? Webster says it is something "intricate, not simple, difficult." Well, it seems to me that it is very simple, this "inferiority complex." It is just plain self-pity! And people to-day have little of that. But a superiority complex is downright vanity—self pride—doggoned stuckupedness. And 99 per cent of the people are just that. One can make excuses for a person if he has done something worthwhile, but those people are the very ones who are inoffensive, just working harder to accomplish more.

I believe everyone should hold himself erect and not slink around, have a happy expression and try to be affable to others, but this awful egotistical manner that is so prevalent now gets my goat.

PINK.

The Czar of all the Russias, in the old days when the Czars were supposed to be something extra choice, never put on half the "side" that a really officious floorwalker puts on. He didn't have to. He knew he was the Main Squeeze, and everybody else knew it. Therefore he could afford to be simple about it and homey in his manners. He could slap the butler on the back if he felt like it. Now a floorwalker, especially a real dumb floorwalker, has to be right up on his toes every moment to impress folks with his importance. He has to snap his fingers at the cash girls and stare superciliously at the women customers who ask for cotton underwear and a great many other things to show his superiority. otherwise he'd be overlooked in the crowd.

Superiority Complex? Maybe—but it seems more like the other kind to me. No one wastes time trying to impress the world with what it knows already. It's only when you're trying to put something over that you have to get up on your ear and hoot about it.

TODAY'S FASHION

—By Vera Winston—

A Single Black Velvet Flower Trims This Bright Red Chiffon Dance Frock.

The slim, slightly flared dance frock above is very striking in effect. This is partly due to the smartness of its line.

The dress has a deep V in the front and back. A feature which makes it appear slimmer than ever is seen in the numerous vertical seams which mark the dress. These seams enclose fulness, which is cut out all along the seams except at the lower edges of the frock, where it flares in graceful swirls.

A single black velvet flower decorates the shoulder.

BENSFORT W.M.S. HEARS ADDRESS

Mrs. Lloyd Smith of India is an Interesting Speaker.

BENSFORT, July 13.—The Women's Missionary Society of the Bensfort United Church held its July Meeting in the church on Tuesday. Several members of the Bailieboro W.M.S. as well as a number of visitors from the immediate vicinity were present, and enjoyed with the Bensfort W.M.S. the privilege of hearing Mrs. Lloyd Smith of Nellore, India, give a talk on her work with the American Baptist Mission in India. Mrs. Smith, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fletcher, also gave a most vivid and interesting account of her journey from India to her old home in Bensfort.

Mrs. Edgar Wood gave a paper on Christian Stewardship, which was very interesting; a violin duet by Mrs. W. Walters and Miss May Wood was much enjoyed. A solo, "My Task," was splendidly rendered by Miss Marjorie Emberson. An interesting feature of the programme was a display of curios from India and samples of beautiful work done by children in the Mission schools.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Smith for her excellent address and was heartily endorsed by the entire gathering. She was assured of the interest, the sympathy and the prayers of her old friends in Bensfort Church.

The meeting which was conducted by the president, Mrs. W. C. Wood, assisted by Rev. Mr. Foley, was followed by a social half hour. Refreshments were served by the group in charge.

IN THE KITCHEN

By Jeanette Norton

SOME COOLING DRINKS FOR HOT DAYS.

In preparing cold drinks for hot days it is wise to keep a bottle of light sugar syrup in the ice box for sweetening them, as sugar melts slowly and there is a great deal wasted by attempting to dissolve it in cold liquids. In making preserves all the fruit juices or syrups may be set aside to use in this way, for with the addition of a little lemon juice they will not be found too sweet.

Chin Chow Cooler.

Squeeze the juice of six oranges, two lemons, two grapefruit, and one lime. Add a half cupful of ginger syrup, or juice from the preserved ginger jar, and a half cupful of sugar syrup. Set aside to ripen. When ready add a bottle of ginger ale and a bottle of sparkling water, shaved ice in each tumbler. Also drop a cherry in each glass.

Chilled Cafe au Lait.

Make a pint of very strong coffee, add to it a pint of rich hot milk. Pour this over the yolk of an egg, beaten with a half cupful of sugar. Stir until all is blended, then strain and add a half pint of hot cream. Let stand to cool. After it cools sufficiently ,set in the ice box against the ice to chill. Serve in tall glasses with a teaspoonful of whipped cream on top of each glass. Decorate with a cherry.

Raspberry Vinegar.

Wash and pick over four pounds of red raspberries, then crush them and cover them with a quart of vinegar. Let stand over night. In the morning add three pounds of sugar and bring very slowly to boiling point, then boil gently, skimming carefully for ten minutes, then strain through a jelly bag. Reheat and bottle and seal. In making the drink, use a third of a glassful to two thirds of sparkling water. It is a good idea to bottle in small bottles, so only open as much as will be used at one time. Ripe, well flavored berries should be chosen.

Currant Flair.

Wash and stem three quarts of fresh cherry currants, then put them into a preserve kettle with a cupful of water. Melt together slowly then stew gently until soft, then put through a jelly bag. When drained put three quarters of a pint of sugar to each pint of juice. Heat, boil up gently and skim, while the juice boils seven minutes. Then bottle. Use the same proportion to a glass as the raspberry vinegar. Sparkling water used with the juice makes the best drink.

Sicilian Lemonade.

Pare six lemons, thin, after washing them carefully. Squeeze the juice of twelve lemons over the peel and let stand for six hours. Then add two cupfuls of sugar and three pints of boiling water; add a pint of fresh pineapple juice, then a pint of scalded milk. Mix, strain, chill and serve in punch glasses, half filled with shaved ice.

Turkish Sherbet.

Make a syrup of a cupful of sugar and three quarters of a cupful of water. When it is cold stir it into a cupful and a half of strained lemon juice, and add a cupful of clear, well strained chicken stock. Freeze to a frappe consistency and serve in sherbet glasses. This is especially good for afternoon tea.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE BEARS. VI

by W.J.ENRIGHT.

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE LITTLE PIGS. I

by W.J.ENRIGHT.

Just why the Kingfisher should have feet that must bother him at times, is more than I know. Fallen arches are no fun.

The toes of the Kingfisher are peculiar. Two of them are only one, for half their length, or to put it in another way, two of the toes are joined together for half their length. He certainly has weak feet.

Once I played football against a boy who had small feet and thin legs, built for speed and a head and shoulders like a man. He was a tough fellow to stop. It is just a similar case in build when we look at the Kingfisher. He has a powerful head and long, strong beak and knows how to use his wings in support, when the game is on.

Did you ever hear of the Laughing Jackass of Australia? Or, maybe it would be more natural to say, "Have you ever been called a laughing jackass?"

Well now, there really is such a bird in Australia, and I saw a live one in New York not long ago. It is about three times the size of our Kingfisher, but very similar. I did not hear it laugh, but would like to, for the laugh of our own Kingfisher, they say, is a joke in comparison. However I sure do like to follow a Kingfisher in a small craft for he will enjoy the game.

Up near Brantford, a few weeks ago, I watched one of these birds fishing. He would perch on the same places each time he would pass up or down. There was one dead pole right in the water, a good high one too, and he would sit there and appear half asleep, then jump off, hover a moment to aim, drop like a stone, close his wings and strike, then return to the post and juggle the small fish to get it down head first. How he kept the slippery thing in place I can't say, but you just try tossing a fresh fish up and catching it in one hand.

Some fishermen think this bird gobbles up all the trout and is no good. I persuaded one of these men to come with me and watch both what they ate and what they brought to the nest, and all they took were minnows. The man not only changed his mind, but has enjoyed his fishing more with this bird for company.

YOUR HEALTH

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

HOW AN INFANT'S NEEDS CAN BE ANTICIPATED

Hot weather is here. This is a trying time for every member of the family. We complain about it and make our discomfort known to everybody.

But the little baby is suffering just as much as any of us, perhaps more. He can't make his particular suffering known, so we must anticipate it. Have you ever stopped to think of all the things you can do to make life more comfortable for him during the hot days of July and August?

Besides the necessity of providing for his personal comfort, it is desirable to keep the health just a little above par. If this isn't done, we must make sure that it does not fall below par

Flies, mosquitoes, roaches, water bugs and all other insects are possible carriers of disease. Of these pests, the flies and mosquitoes are most deadly. These tiny insects carry all sorts of tinier germs, and they fly from an infected swamp, garbage pile or other place, to a clean house and a clean baby. This habit makes them dangerous enemies to good health.

I have seen a mother who has no other thought than watchful care of her baby, pick up from the floor or table and hand to the child a used nipple, a teething ring, a spoon or some other article. This goes into the baby's mouth without any thought on the part of the mother to all the germs which these articles carry.

Everybody's resistance is low in hot weather. This statement applies with particular force to the bottle fed child. The least difference in the milk or other food, irregularity of the feeding time, as well as unclean nursing bottles and nipples, are enough to bring on an attack of summer diarrhea, cholera morbus, or even some more serious condition.

It is easy to avoid most of the summer complaints of children. Guard the house against flies and other disease-carrying insects by having all windows and doors carefully screened. Protect the crib or bed with mosquito netting. The soiled clothing and especially the diapers of the young babies, should be put to soak in cold water as soon as they are removed from the child. Do not overdress the children in the summer. This bad practice leads to overheating and it may be the underlying cause of heat rashes, stomach disorders, and other ailments.

The greatest care must be used in the treatment of nursing bottles and nipples. The bottles should be rinsed out after being used and then filled with cold ater.w The nipples shoudl be put in wate- too. Before us'ng them again, bottle and nipples should be thoroughly boiled to kill all the germs which may have found their way to them.

If you will follow these simple precautions in the care of your house and your baby you need have no fear of the summer heat.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M. M. W. Q.—What is the cause of cold feet at night when getting in bed?

A.—This is probably due to poor circulation, and by building up the general health you should help this condition. For further particulars kindly send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

ANXIOUS. Q.—We have a dog that wants to sleep in bed with us. Is it harmful to let him do so?

A.—It is not wise to allow a dog to sleep in bed with you, as dogs carry germs which may be given to human beings.

H. A. Q.—What can I do for my eyes? They ache and seem to water a lot.

* * *

A.—It would be as well to have your eyes examined, as you may need glasses.

YOUR GARDEN

SAVING YOUR OWN SEED.

Seed of all kinds will be ripening now and a few pointers on saving it for your own use will be in order.

Flower Seed.—It is a good plan to select ones seed with discrimination from the best plants or best flowers, gather than at random. Whether one keeps the colors and varieties separate, will depend on his or her collector's enthusiasm and interest. This selection from the best stock will largely prevent deterioration.

Having collected the seed, clean it thoroughly of all husks, small bit' of stem, etc., and store it away in carefully labeled envelopes or packets. These may be placed in a tin box or some such receptacle and put away in a cool dry place.

In certain cases where the seed drops readily, or is liable to injury or pilfering by birds, the seed should be collected in the pod or head before quite ripe and spread out to ripen. As soon as it is dry and ripe it may be cleaned and stored. With Poppies and Columbines for instance, a short stem may be taken with the head and the whole bunched covered with a paper bag and hung upside down in a convenient place. The bag will collect the seed and later the stems and heads may be discarded.

Tree and Shrubs Seeds.—Some seeds such as the maples, will not stand long storing and are better planted right away.

Those surrounded by a fleshy casing should have the pulp removed and then the seeds may be dried and stored. If the fruit is allowed to dry, it will be difficult to separate the seeds.

Nuts and Acorns.—These are better planted at once or stratified over winter and preferably exposed to the frost (especially the nuts).

Stratifying consists of placing alternate layers of moist sand and the nuts in a box, to the depth of a foot or so. This will keep them moist and prevent drying out and weakening of the germ. They may be stored down cellar or left out in the open.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JULY 14.

Adverse positions of the important planets dominate on this day. Setbacks, disappointments and annoyances may be looked for in business as well as all other affairs. It might be well to defer all matters possible and wait for many propitious planetary auspices. It might also be admonished that precautions be taken to guard against accidents and illness.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of setbacks and disappointments. They should be careful of their physical condition and guard against accident. A child born on this day may require strict and early training to lead it into ways of truth and integrity.

Empire Day, May 24, is a holiday honoring the birthday of Queen Victoria, superceding the old "Queen's Birthday."

What's Wrong?

Yesterday's Decoration parade to St. Peter's cemetery under auspices of the war veterans was of the high order that is becoming usual with such affairs in Peterborough, and the tryst with the dead was faithfully kept by many Peterborough comrades. But there was still a lack of interest in the decorating of the Cenotaph, the only wreaths and flowers placed there being the official tokens from city representatives, political leaders, and the G.W.V.A. It would be incorrect and wrong to say that the relatives of the Canadian heroes have forgotten the dead. But to the visiting onlooker it might appear almost as though Peterborough's soldier dead are remembered only by a handful of their comrades.

What is the explanation of this apathy? Does not the simple military service appeal to civilians?

It is suggested to the officers in charge of next Sunday's ceremony that civilians be not required to appear before the audience to place their tokens of remembrance on on the Cenotaph, but that an invitation be extended to them to place their flowers there any time on Sunday before the service.

Perhaps the explanation lies in the national trait that bars ostentation even in so noble a thing as remembrance of the soldier dead.

Foch's "spearhead" troops have a warm spot in the General's memory, it appears from the message delivered yesterday by Right Rev. Bishop O'Brien.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID'S BEAR HUNT ENDS QUEERLY.

One day while David was visiting his Aunt in Ceylon, he decided he would go out on a bear hunt. His Aunt gave him a lunch tied up in a bag and with his gun over his shoulder, David started out.

He hadn't gone far when he saw a queer looking animal ambling along under the trees.

At first Dicky thought it was a big dog, because it had such long shaggy hair, but when the creature turned around, Dicky saw his mistake and dropped his gun to run.

"Goodness, sonny, don't run," cried the animal, "I won't harm you. I thought you were hunting bears?"

"I am," replied Dicky ashamed of himself. "I am hunting bears, but I never expected to see anything like you." Then he picked up his gun.

"I'm a bear, Sloth Bear, so folks call me," said the animal. "I guess you don't know much about animals in Ceylon. Haven't you ever seen a Sloth Bear before?" David shook his head.

"You see I've never been in Ceylon before," he stated. "You must be at least six feet long, aren't you?"

"I'll say I am," chuckled Mr. Sloth

"I've Never Harmed Anyone."

Bear. "Don't be afraid to look at me. I have never harmed anyone in all my life. Sloth Bears are very polite. We never bother man unless he first disturbs us. Did you ever see a nose like this?" and he wiggled his flexible yellow nose. "I couldn't get along without that nose. You see I live on ants, honey and fruit. I was just going for my dinner now. Hop upon my back and I'll show you the easiest way to get a good square meal."

David, always ready for new adventure, jumped upon Mr. Sloth Bear's back and away they went through the forest, until they came to a great big ant hill.

David crawled down from his back, just as Mr. Sloth Bear rooted his funny nose in the ground. He scraped away the sand from the ant hill, until he reached the large combs down in the very bottom of the anthill. Then he held the comb between his front feet and blew violent puffs on the comb until it fell apart. Before you could say, "Jack Robinson," Mr. Sloth Bear had eaten every ant on the place. Not an ant missed his moth.

When he had finished, he licked his mouth and yawned.

"I like some honey, too, but I'm afraid the bees would sting you. Let's go back toward Aunt's house," suggested Mr. Sloth Bear. "Funny I'm still hungry."

"Eat with me," said David. "Aunt put me up a lovely lunch and I'll share it with you." He sat down under a tree and together they ate the lunch. After they were finished David bade his new friend goodby and hurried home.

Of course David's aunt thought David had fallen asleep and dreamed his adventure, but David knew better.

A STORY WITHOUT WORDS

Encouraging Business Reports

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada reports as follows on conditions during May:

The reports, on the whole, are encouraging for the month of May. A marked betterment in the employment situation is apparent throughout the territory which is in line with the improvement shown for the Dominion. Increased activities in some industries together with a heavy demand for farm labour and the large amount of building underway are mostly responsible for absorbing the unemployed.

The movement of merchandise which according to the Montreal Gazette has shown an improvement this year of 20,889 loaded cars over the total for the same period of 1924 (four and a half months) is considered an encouraging sign for increased business activity.

Building.

The value of construction actually started before May 31st is somewhat less than the total for the same period a year ago. However, the respective totals for the two months alone show May, 1925, to exceed May, 1924, by well over a million dollars and in view of the exceptionally large volume of contemplated work it is reasonable to suppose that the volume of construction this year will soon overtake and probably pass last year's total.

Total Canadian construction awards for May, as compiled by MacLean Building Reports, Ltd., were $34,052,100 as compared with $24,886,900 in the previous month, and $32,996,900 in May, 1924. Residential building accounted for 48.2 per cent of the May total; business building 34.5 per cent; industrial building 9.6 per cent; and public works and utilities 17.7 per cent. The activity was distributed among the provinces as follows—Ontario, 50.9 per cent; Quebec, 35.4 per cent; Prairie Provinces, 7.1 per cent; British Columbia, 4.8 per cent; and the Maritime Provinces, 1.8 per cent.

Contemplated new work reported in May aggregated $60,906,500. For the year to date the contemplated figures show an enormous increase over 1924. The totals are $284,960,000 for the first five months of 1925, and $160,886,100 for the same period of 1924.

Building in Toronto continues to show the activity begun in the fall of last year. The total value of building permits issued during May, 1925, amounted to $2,800,000, a total slightly higher than that for May, 1924. The total for five months of this year ($10,000,000) is about $1,400,000 higher than that for the same period a year ago.

Building permits for Montreal, not including Montreal West and suburbs were valued at $2,818,000 for May, 1925.

From Ottawa come reports of a record increase in construction, many large undertakings having been started this year. Building permits for the first five months total nearly $3,128,000 compared with $853,500 for the same period of 1924.

Trade

It is perhaps worthy of note that for the first April since 1919 Canadian trade showed an excess of exports over imports, according to a bulletin of the Department of Customs and Excise.

The totals are approximately as follows:

	April 1945	April 1924
Exports	$59,909,000	$48,883,000
Imports	59,104,000	60,173,000
Balance	$ 805,000	$11,292,000

Although the favourable balance for April this year is only about $805,000 it is a considerable gain over the unfavourable balance of over $11,292,000 for the same month a year ago and the unfavourable balance of over $14,500,000 for April, 1923.

From the above totals it will be seen that the excess of exports over imports for April, 1925, is due not so much to a decrease in imports, the decrease from a year ago being about $1,000,000, as to an increase over the figures of April, 1924 for exports, of about $11,000,000. The total increase in trade was about $10,000,000.

Pulp and Paper

Exports of pulp and paper for April, according to a report of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association were valued at $9,723,830, a total somewhat less than that for the preceding month but higher than the total of $9,343,892 for April, 1924.

For the first four months of 1925 the total exports of pulp and paper were valued at $48,307,000, an increase of $2,396,000 over the value of those for the corresponding period of 1924.

Milling

Execution of the Maple Leaf Milling Company's Russian flour order has been completed and payment of the final cheque for $300,000 has been made by the Amtorg Trading Company, Moscow's New York Commercial agency, states the New York "World." This marks the conclusion of what is said to be the largest milling transaction in the history of the world, a contract covering the actual shipment of $16,395,000 worth of high grade flour.

Rubber

The following article taken from the New York "World," May 17, shows that the rubber industry in Canada is making steady advances.

"In the twelve months ending March, 1925, exports of automobile tires (casings) amounted to 619,724 valued at $6,183,492 compared with 521,544 for the same period last year, valued at $5,701,903. Inner tube exports amounted to 701,564, valued at $1,012,130, against 439,958 last year, valued a $641,244. Forty-eight countries are now on the list of Canada's customers for motor tires, and the list is a growing one. Exports of rubber boots and shoes in the same twelve months this year amounted to 685,102 pairs, compared with 469,914 pairs last year. A similar increase is shown in rubber belting, exports for this year amounting to 858,463 pounds against 465,091 last year."

Mining.

According to the Montreal Gazette over six hundred million dollars is today actually invested in the mining industry of Canada. In point of capital investment, mining exceeds all Canadian industries, with the exception of agriculture and railway transportation.

In 1921 the mining industry was credited with a total investment of capital amounting to $559,514,154, and with par valuation of securities amounting to $774 749,281. These figures give some idea of the tremendous size of the mining industry in Canada and lend solid weight to the Government authorities' statement that "the mineral industry is our most important basic industry through which raw materials are supplied not only to the two allied industries of metallurgy and chemicals, but also to all other industries. It is doubtful if any other industry, even agriculture, offers so great opportunities for immediate expansion."

Miscellaneous.

"With only one twelfth the population of her southern neighbour, Canada has one fourth as much trade. Eighty per cent of her present population live within one hundred miles of the border; expansion must be northward from that line. We are prone to think of the Dominion as supreme in food production but her future lies as well in the development of her immense mineral wealth, minerals of the "coming" rather than the "passing" era. Canada's national wealth exceeds that of any other area of its size—and the Dominion is greater in area than the United States."

of the boys'd take hold of him. I guess 'disturbing the peace' is the charge."

It was the charge, and Mr. Winn got a suspended sentence on condition that he spoke no more.

"There are two things necessary to crime under the Tennessee statute," said Clarence Darrow, defence lawyer: "one, teaching a theory of creation contrary to the 'Divine Account' as recorded in Genesis; two, teaching that man was evolved from a lower order of animal life. These are purely questions of fact.

"With one or two exceptions every juror in this case has stated he knew little or nothing about evolution. The same thing could be said about almost any jury that would be assembled in any State in the Union.

"As there are some thousands of different religions, and some 500 sects of Christians, naturally there is some difference of opinion as to the divine account as taught in the Bible. More than one account is given of the creation of man in the Bible, and these do not agree. Men have debated a long time as to the meaning of much in the Bible, and especially of the account of creation, and yet a Tennessee jury that has given no attention to evolution is supposed to know, first, what evolution is; secondly, what the Bible teaches in reference to the creation of man, and, third, whether these theories and the account in the Bible are in conflict. And Mr. Bryan says they should decide all this without evidence. It is obvious that no jury can accomplish any such thing.

Says Prosecution Runs Away.

"The effort to keep the defence from offering evidence in this case is a plain effort to run away from the facts, and it is doubtless on account of their inability to get any scientific man in the world to deny the facts that prove the correctness of evolution. This is further shown by the fact that Mr. Bryan delivered a public talk here and said the facts of religion and evolution would at last be brought to light. This Tennessee jury is expected by the State, without any evidence, to find that no man can be a Christian and an evolutionist, and this despite the fact that millions of the ablest men in the world, including a large proportion of students of religion, are both Christians and evolutionists, and among these are the ablest scientists of the world.

"Mr. Bryan's statement about the rights of Tennessee to protect its religion is ambiguous, if he means that any State has the right to pass a law which prohibits the teaching of a theory that is contrary to any religion, and in doing so he is flying in the face of every State Constitution.

"The fact that any theory or scientific view may be contrary to any religious idea furnishes no right for a State to prohibit it. If this was true, then most of astronomy and astrology would fail under the ban. The Constitution of Tennessee contains one of the strongest guarantees of religious liberty among all the Constitutions of the Union, and no law that would undertake to establish religion or measure conduct would have any validity in this State or any other State without getting rid of the Constitutions.

"Whether the scientists come from Tennessee or outside to tell the meaning of evolution cannot matter. Science is the same everywhere. The Constitution does not permit the Legislature to put a Chinese wall around the State of Tennessee, as Mr. Bryan seems to thing should be done."

LIBERALS CHOOSE TWO CANDIDATES

North Oxford and Kent Conventions Name Two Doctors.

WOODSTOCK, July 12—Dr. D. J. Sinclair, M.P. for North Oxford, was unanimously chosen as the Liberal standard-bearer for this riding at a meeting of the North Oxford Reform Association held in the Town Hall here Saturday. There were no other nominations.

The choice of Dr. Sinclair appeared to have been taken as a foregone conclusion and this, coupled with the fact that the farmers of the district are in the midst of their busiest season, resulted in a smaller attendance than would otherwise have been the case. Nevertheless it was an enthusiastic meeting and Dr. Sinclair was assured of solid support by the rousing ovation which was given when he accepted the nomination. The meeting was featured by splendid addresses by the candidate, by James Malcolm, M.L.A., North Bruce and Duncan Marshall of Olds, Alta., organizer for the Liberal party.

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATICS

Local Druggists Sell Rheuma on Money-Back Plan.

Start taking it to-day. Rheuma acts at once on kidneys, liver, stomach and blood, and you can sincerely exclaim: "Good riddance to bad rubbish."

Many people, the most skeptical of skeptics right in this city and in the country hereabouts, bless the day when McDermid & Jury and other good druggists offered Rheuma to the afflicted at a small price and guaranteed money refunded if not satisfied. If you have rheumatism get a bottle of Rheuma to-day.

A victim of his own good nature and of mistaken kindness on the part of his young owner wanders, or rather waddles, about the streets of the city. One does not often see him. Encroaching age and fat have made him unable to take more than short rambles. He is a brown collie dog that once was lean and gay. He is just as good-natured as ever, but anyone can see that the burden of the flesh weighs him down. He is so fat that it is hard for him to navigate and his broad back is wide and roomy. His red tongue hangs out as he waddles after his small master. One can imagine him heaving a sigh of resignation as he attacks plates of food from time to time, remarking internally, perhaps, "Well, it's a short life and a well-fed one, anyway."

Canada exported 2,711,460 dozen eggs in 1924; that Canadians consume 26 dozen per head in a year, and that the Canadian people are now approaching the consumption of an egg per a day per head, requiring 270 million dozen.

ORANGE ORDER ANNUAL PARADE TO MURRAY ST. CHURCH SUNDAY

Peterborough and District Lodges Addressed By Rev. Dr. Rose.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

Seven Hundred Members Hear Exhortation to Continue Good Work.

On Sunday evening, July 12, Orangemen connected with Lodges of Peterborough and District paraded to Murray Street Baptist Church, where services conducted by Rev. C. W. Rose were attended by nearly seven hundred members of the Order. Dr. Rose delivered an address particularly suited to the occasion, an address calculated to inspire the brothers of the organization with a pride of membership and a desire to maintain the right of religious liberty.

The Parade was led by the band of L.O.L., number 50, followed in order by the City District Juveniles, Nassau Juveniles, the three ladies lodges, Vimy Ridge, Star of Bethlehem and Eastern Star, The Orange Young Britons, Nassau L.O.L., 457, Monaghan L.O.L., 2440, Downer's Corners L.O.L., 321, Keene L.O.L., 494, Diamond L.O.L., 80, J. W. Bell L.O.L., 1175, Duke of Manchester L.O.L., 50.

The procession was in charge of County Master J. J. Cunningham, and was directed by County Marshal L. C. Petty. Other prominent figures were District Master W. G. Lockie of Number 1. District, H. Sunman of number 3 District, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., His Worship Mayor Turner, Alderman Denne and E. F. Ried, Past County Master.

After the parade from the church the members assembled in Victoria Hall where votes of appreciation were given Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D., the Murray Street Choir and the soloist, Mrs. J. E. Middleton, who sang "Come Unto Me" by Linday.

Dr. Rose in his sermon indicated some of the principles governing the Orange Order, and enlarged particularly on the portion of the Constitution which deals with Religious Liberty, as it was defined, developed and defended. The words of Doctor Rose are recorded as follows:—

Religious Freedom.

On behalf of the officers and members of Murray Street Baptist church I extend to you, the Orangement of this City and surrounding towns and villages, a very cordial welcome. We appreciate the honor you have conferred upon the pastor and church by assembling with us for worship on this, your Anniversary. The service you have rendered, both in the defense of the principles of the Christian religion and the Empire, makes all who are not members with you your debtors. But for your recent endeavors a flag less Canadian than the Union Jack would be at this moment on its way to the masthead, said Dr. Rose.

There is a disadvantage in not being a member of the Orange Lodge which I feel and many others recognize. A few lines written by Whittier, after some one had presented him with a wreath of flowers which he placed against the window with the blurred, or stem side toward the street, make this clear.

"They cannot from the outside see
The perfect grace it hath for me,
For there the flower, whose fringes through
The frosty breath of autumn blew,
Turns from without its face of bloom
To the warm tropic of my room
As fair as when beside the brook
The hue of bending skies it took."

Though I cannot describe the Orange Lodge from within I am not entirely ignorant of its character. It is a tree planted and rooted in a garden protected by a wall. The tree, however, has grown above the wall and its branches have been full of blossoms and also blessed with abundant fruit. Though storms as searching and as pitiless as those which sweep the winter seas have beat upon it, yet with trunk erect and branches unbroken, and roots holding with a mighty grip it stands with new rings of growth upon it, and with increased weight of fruit.

Though you have frequently heard sermons dealing with the distinctive principles for which The Loyal Orange Association stands I am sure you will be glad, both for your own sake and others, to have some things brought to your remembrance which are set forth in the "Constitution and Laws of the L.O.A.". Under the heading—"General Declaration," there are a number of things which I will name and emphasize before elaborating what I consider the major principle of your Order.

United Action.

The first is the naturalness and reasonableness of united action on the part of those who have common rights to protect and common interests to defend. It is shown that by division the benevolent objects of true patriots are frustrated and their best and noblest efforts for the public good defeated. The saneness of such statements must appeal to every thoughtful person. Protestants, like Catholics, should act together. They should also think together and clear through the problems of the day and centuries. By this I mean the Protestants should act intelligently and in harmony so that the force of their conviction may result in lasting good for all mankind. This union must not be for the detriment of others, but rather for their good in harmony with God's purpose. In my judgment whatever plans are made, and unitedly supported, must be proclaimed openly. As secret treaties between nations are expedients fraught with more evil than good so do I believe that efforts in the name of religion which conceal the main purpose, and also the methods of attaining it, are to be condemned. With a single worthy purpose, a united people, victories for the right will come. Orangemen do proclaim their purpose.

Membership.

"The Loyal Orange Association" is formed by persons desirous of supporting, to the utmost of their power, the principles and practices of the Christian religion, to maintain the laws and constitution of the country, afford assistance to distressed members of the Association, and otherwise promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the due ordering of religion and Christian charity and the supremacy of law, order and constitutional freedom.

Liberty for All.

The second point in the Declaration deals with the duty of every Orangeman to aid and defend all loyal subjects of every religious persuasion in the enjoyment of their constitutional rights. This is an object worthy of Christians everywhere. Religious Liberty, the mother of all real liberty, is the birthright of every person in the world and to work for it is to work in harmony with the thought of God and the convictions of mankind. "The Association demands as an indispensible qualification, without which the greatest and wealthiest seek admittance in vain, that the candidate shall be deemed incapable of persecuting anyone on account of his religious opinions."

Qualifications.

A third section deals with other qualifications for membership in these words. (1) Toward God—An applicant for admission should have a sincere love and veneration for his Heavenly Father; a steadfast faith in Jesus Christ as the only Mediator between God and man; and a firm reliance in the guiding, witnessing, and sanctifying power of the Holy Spirit. He should be a diligent reader of God's Holy Word, a sincere observer of the Lord's Day, and a regular attendant at His House; endeavoring to bring forth the practical fruits of righteousness and obedience to God's commands, as an humble and consistent servant of God and follower of his Saviour. (2) Toward King and Country—He should be loyal in thought, word and act to the Sovereign and the British Empire, being Protestant; seeking their prosperity and integrity; strengthening their ties and supporting the principles which have been the foundation of the nation's greatness; ever ready to promote civil and religious liberty; to maintain the Protestant faith as the purest form of Christianity, and the basis of Constitutional Government of the people, by the people, for the people; and to build up the Empire in Unity and Godliness. (3) Toward Mankind—He should be of temperat and kindly habits, striving to be an example to others, as a true Christian citizen. He should abstain from swearing and profane language, from dishonesty and intemperance of every kind. He should seek the welfare of others; be just, considerate, and tolerant in his judgments, especially toward those who are opposed in faith and principles; ready to assist those who are needy or oppressed, and to promote the spirit of friendliness and brotherly love. These may be summarized as follows.—The Glory of God, the Welfare of Man, the Honor of his Sovereign, and the Good of his Country should be the motives of all his actions.

Religious Liberty.

Dr. Rose then discoursed on the main theme of his address. "Orangemen are believers in and the defenders of Religious Liberty," he said. This is their repeated claim and, while they have no more a record of consistency all through their history than members of other worthy fraternities, yet it is true that they have with commendable zeal and devotion through the greater part of their lives lived in keeping with their principles. It is expected that the time will soon come when Religious Liberty, as understood by Orangemen, will have a fuller content even than today and that civic disabilities due to religious beliefs will disappear. If the cleavage between State and Church is complete; if each is given freedom to look after its own God-appointed work, then there should be no reason why the religion of the person seeking, or being sought, for positions of leadership in Civic affairs should be a barrier to the highest office in the gift of the people. So long however as one or more great company of Christians has its representatives at the capitols of nations seeking the advantage of that particular company, regardless of the feelings, and often rights of others, will there be injustice, ill-will and a whole brood of evils.

Religious Liberty Defined.

Religious Liberty is freedom to worship God according to one's own convictions, or not to worship God if one does not believe in him, or believing does not wish to worship. It means freedom from human control, restraint, handicap in religious matters. It means that the Jew, the Mohammedan, the Buddhist, the Pagan, as well as Christians, have the privilege to follow their own desires in regard to religious matters, so long as such freedom does not interfere with the corresponding rights of others.

This principle when applied means, for example, that a Catholic should never be taxed to support a Protestant church or school. Such a tax would mean that the person was compelled by the State to support religious beliefs not held. This would be a very grievous offence and it is easy to imagine the sense of injustice that the devout Catholic would feel. You probably wish to say that "such a thing as a Catholic in Canada being compelled to support churches and schools in which they did not believe has never been demanded." In such reaction, however, you are mistaken. In the Province of Nova Scotia, about 250 years ago, Catholics were denied even continued residence. A person who sheltered a priest was heavily fined. Four-fifths of the money received for the support of the Anglican clergy and schools was at one period forced from the pockets of Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians and others who did not share their views. This injustice is still going on in England and many other countries, and it cries to heaven for remedy.

As we condemn the action of those who forced Catholics to support Protestant churches and schools and as we condemn Anglicans who require Baptists and others to support their schools so, with equal emphasis we condemn any effort and every effort on the part of Catholics to force Protestants to support the Catholic Church and schools. Schools composed largely of Catholics and with teachers of the same faith, so long as they do not teach either the Catholic or Protestant religion as such, should be supported by all. It is an injustice to a Protestant to be compelled to attend a Catholic school because the Catholic religion is taught there. It is not an injustice for a Catholic to be compelled to attend the Public School for the Protestant religion is not taught there. The practice of the strong disregarding the God-given rights of others must be stopped. The State should not put it's power back of one form of religion and against another. The State should provide equal rights for all and special privileges for none. A free church in a free State, and free individuals whether in any church or not, is the goal we should seek. This statement that I have just made is, as I understand it, what is meant by the words in your Declaration, "Pure Religion and Liberty" and "Religion without persecution or trenching upon the rights of others."

2. Religious Liberty Developed.

The growth of belief in and the practice of Religious Liberty is one of the miracles of modern times. The little seed has become a mighty tree; the little rivulet has grown into a mighty river; the evening-star has become a tropical midnight-sky, all alight. That the time will come when the State will take its hands from the last Church and individual in the world as far as religious matters are concerned is as sure as the purpose of God. I knew that there is today, as there has been for a long time, a determined effort to make again the Pope the supreme power in the State as well as the Church. I know that back of this age-long movement that there is much intelligence, sacrificial devotion, prayer and faith, accompanied by the conviction that such is the will of God and His way to correct the ills of mankind. Such a union in the past has been a colossal failure. That the plans now so far advanced to control the legislative-councils of the world will be defeated is based upon the conviction that the shoulder of the Almighty is back of the movement to thwart it.

The first modern exposition of Religious Liberty was made in America in 1614 by Leonard Busher. His subject was "Religious Peace, or a Plea for Liberty of Conscience." The burden of this Plea was that men might have the liberty to worship God in the manner that they believed to be right. At the time this appeared there was in existence a confession of faith which reads—"We believe that the magistrate is not to meddle with religion or matters of conscience, nor compel men to this or that form of religion, because Christ is the King and Lawgiver of the Church and the conscience." The honor of being the first to advocate Religious Liberty has been claimed for Jeremy Taylor. This cannot be supported for he wrote nealy forty years after Busher, and his claim was for toleration which is not liberty—"Toleration implies that somebody falsely claims the right to tolerate. Toleration is a concession while liberty is a right. Toleration is a matter of expediency, while liberty is a matter of principle. Toleration is a gift from man, while liberty is a gift from God."

The name of Roger Williams is inseparably connected with the history of religious Liberty. He was its greatest advocate on this Continent and, at the time that he lived, in the whole world. He claimed that "conscience should be free, and men should not be punished for worshipping God in the way they were persuaded he required." For the stand taken he was banished from Massachusetts in 1635, and by the men who had fled from their own land in search of religious freedom. This is hard to believe yet it is true. This great man went into exile among savage Indians and endured the hardships of banishment in the winter season and all on account of principle.

On June 12, the President von Hindenburg of Germany promised "conscientiously to respect and protect all creeds." He did that in my judgment, not because of innate or achieved love of freedom religiously for others, but rather because the pressure of public opinion at this hour is such that any other course would be embarrassing. The world is ready for freedom religiously as never before, though not entirely ready yet, for tomorrow some earnest Christians will be taxed for the support of forms of religion in which they do not believe.

Religious Liberty Defended.

Religious Liberty is a child of Providence, continued Dr. Rose, yet it has been entrusted to the men and women of this day to defend. It has in it undreamed of powers for good. To defend it there must be heroism and self sacrifice. We are God's soldiers to defend the citadel of Religious Liberty. The battalions that attack and besiege it are many and when once driven from its walls they return, and with a persistence worthy of a better cause continue their misguided endeavors. Since, however, the effort is in the interest of that which is right, and so, for the benefit of the many, we may be certain that some day every soul will be free to worship God without any penalty attached. The history of the last few years, as well as the last four centuries, furnish striking illustrations of the spirit that should control in the noble movement.

The world is in a malleable condition today. The iron of mankind is at white heat and laid on the anvil ready for heavy blows. The providence of God makes clear where to strike and you are one of God's agents to shape this iron into a useful instrument. May God give you courage, controlled by wisdom, and above all, the spirit of good-will for man.

"By all for which the martyrs' bore their agony and shame;
By all the warning words of truth with which the prophets came;
By a future that awaits us, by all the hopes that cast
Their trembling beams across the shadows of the past;
And by the blessed thought of Him who
for earth's freedom died,
Strike quick, strike hard, strike now on God Almighty's side."

While the Congregation was retiring, Miss Bessie Elcombe, organist, played Mendelssohn's licentiate organ postlude, "Sonata Number 1."

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His justice, and all these things shall be added unto you," was the text of the sermon preached at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning by Rev. P. Butler.

As an example of the care exercised by the Creator over those of His people who sought first His word, the feeding of the multitude in the wilderness with a few loaves and fishes was cited. These men and women had followed Christ for three days and some were fainting from hunger and weariness. From the scanty supplies at hand, He fed over four thousand of them. This is a parallel for those who show zeal in God's work and in doing His will. Their Heavenly Father will have regard to their material as well as to their spiritual wants.

The rewards of God are not only in the spiritual order. He gives to His faithful followers health and peace of mind, contentment and good homes, and He gives sanctifying grace. To those who are compassionate to the poor, to those who forgive their enemies and who strive faithfully to do God's will in this world, there comes a reward direct from the hand of the Almighty and the expectation of an eternity of happiness hereafter.

Her Wonderful Teeth

Remove the dingy film that's clouding yours and you'll be surprised that your teeth are just as white and charming as any one's—make this unique test.

HERE is a simple test that proves the truth that most of us have pretty teeth without ever knowing we have, or ever revealing it.

This is the reason:

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most toot' troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and constantly combat it. It is ever present, ever forming.

Old-time dentrifices were unable to combat it successfully. And tooth troubles were a serious problem.

Now modern science has discovered a new way. A new-type tooth paste called Pepsodent that acts to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap or chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Or buy a full size tube at any druggist's today. See what beauty lies beneath the film on your teeth.

WAR VETERANS KEEP TRYST, ETC.

their symbols of remembrance as friend to friend and brother to brother. The Last Post and the Reveille were sounded and the procession moved to the monument to the memory of Captain Browne in Central Park, where a halt was made. Some decorations were laid on the monument and the parade set out, an array in two lines, marching along George street and through Charlotte, Rubidge, Park, Albert, Alfred, Chamberlain streets, to Monaghan Road, to St. Peter's cemetery. In Albert street, just as the parade was halted for ten minutes rest period one of the men was overcome by the heat and exhaustion but recovered after a few minutes attention. Arriving at the cemetery the whole array gathered around a small platform from which some brief pregnant addresses were delivered.

A Solemn Duty.

Rev. Captain Paul Costello reminded the gathering that they had come to the cemetery because of a solemn duty, the duty of honoring fellow citizens, who gave their lives out of love for us and our country. Few of those who gave up their lives and shed their last drop of blood for their country, were buried there; the vast majority of them slept somewhere in France, somewhere in Flander's Fields." It was gratitude for what their country had done for them that took them to France. It was gratitude that brought all that parade to the cemetery to do honor to our fallen fellow citizens. They went for our sakes; they died for us. God Himself died on a cross for us; paid the supreme sacrifice for us. Our fellow citizens went to France, and paid the supreme sacrifice for us who were left behind in fair old Canada, the fairest land in the world.

Rev. Paul Costello led the gathering in responsive intercession for the souls of the dead, after which he called upon the Right Reverend M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterboro.

Bishop O'Brien.

Bishop O'Brien at the outset of his speech addressed himself specially to the returned men and said: "To you gathering is the cemetery is nothing new. The cemetery has become your friend. Year after year you have come here. Your lives since coming home have been spent among the living and the dead." He called upon them still to show the spirit of comradeship formed during the war. It was impossible for men to live together for four years without becoming attached to one another. He wondered what it must have cost them when they were called upon to bury a comrade who had perhaps been with them the day before. He had been in France, had seen the graves of thousands of British, French and Germans who had made the supreme sacrifice. He had been in places where one still could see the names carved by Canadian soldiers during the war years. He wanted to read to them what the great commander in chief of the allied armies thought of the Canadians. He was in the presence of General Foch on June 25, 1920. He well recalled how the war-scarred veteran threw up his hands as he said: "The courage and the dash of the Canadians was admirable." He wished to remind his hearers that Marshal Foch spoke in French, and when he used the word 'admirable' he used a word that has a deeper and greater meaning than the English word. "They were heroes all," said Marshal Foch, "from the highest to the lowest. All that the commanders had to do was to be worthy to command such men. They were all heroes from one end of the line to the other."

Most of you have read Shakespeare, continued the Bishop. He wanted to remind them how Mark Antony, in his great speech on Caesar roused his audience to explosion point by showing them Caesar's mantle torn by wounds and scars. Let the soldiers show their wounds and scars, their war worn mantles and a grateful country could not fail to be kind to them.

Foch had said: "If you want to see what kind of men the Canadians were go to Vimy." He had been to Vimy, and he did not know how any man came back. He hardly knew how any man survived on either side of that great holocaust. He called upon them to show the same spirit of loyalty to their country, to live every day of their lives in loyalty to the best country in the world, to be good citizens every day of the week. A peaceful, industrious citizen could not be anything else but a loyal citizen. We were not called upon now to fight for our country but we are all called upon so to live that the country will be better because we have lived in it.

Captain Layfield.

Captain Layfield said Bishop O'Brien had brought them a message from Marshal Foch. He wanted to bring them a message from their great British commander, Marshal Haig, who had consecrated the balance of his life to work among the returned men. Marshal Haig's great ambition now was to unite all the returned men's various associations into one unified body. He could not help repeating a remark he heard from Haig's aide de camp who said that Haig in his present labors had not behind him the army law but had his own wonderful personality in its stead. Now was the time to unite. He drew an analogy between the present position of the returned men with the position of the allied army before the establishment of a unity of command. It was a bitter pill for many of the highly placed British generals to accept subordinate positions but when all personal differences were sunk and Foch was placed in supreme command they all knew the results that followed. Next Sunday might be the last day of his service in his present capacity with the Veterans but he would always be a member. It would be a grand thing if all units united into one and if his last task would be to assist in that union.

Rev. P. Cotello in a brief speech urged his hearers not to forget the noble women who had paid the supreme sacrifice.

The massed bands played "Nearer My God to Thee," and the roll was called. Rev. Father Costello, in a loud clear voice called out the names

A baby cried, and from the road came the noise of passing traffic, but all else around the circle was still save for the padre's call and the officer's reply. When the list was complete the sounds of the Last Post and the Reveille echoed across the cemetery, with the sun shining warmly on the stone crosses of the dead. Headed by the Union Jack a company of men visited in turn the grave of every comrade, decorating it with wreaths and tiny Union Jacks bearing the Canadian coat of arms. FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

ELECTRICITY CAN MAKE FARMING MOST ATTRACTIVE BUSINESS IN THE WORLD, SAYS OWEN D. YOUNG

Head of General Electric Company Sees Great Advance Coming.

DUTY TO SERVE

Companies Must Serve the Farms With Electricity and Develop Apparatus.

By SILAS BENT.

Farming can be made the most attractive business in the world, and the farm home the finest in the country, in the opinion of Owen D. Young. Himself born and reared on a farm fifteen miles from a railroad, he knows the drudgery the life imposes. As Chairman of the General Electric Company's Board of Directors, he is confident that the burden can be lifted alike from the shoulders of the farmer and of his hard-driven wife if the electrical industry will but meet the obligation which confronts it.

Mr. Young regards it as an obligation, rather than as a new market. He is interested in the problem from the social rather than the economic standpoint. He looks more eagerly to the improvement of the farmhouse, which is the home, than of the farm, which is the plant.

"Those of us who left the farm," he said the other day, when he had consented—three months after the first request was made—to discuss the subject, "left it because of the things which the city man had and we had not. We wanted the cultural advantages and the creature comforts which urban life afforded."

To put the rural district on an equal footing with the city is the duty not alone of electric light and power companies, but of electrical manufacturers, public service commissions and every governmental agency which can lend a co-operative hand. Mr. Young, who is commonly accredited with having had the principal part in formulating the Dawes plan (although he would be last to admit it, probably), has bent his attention now upon this domestic problem.

"In its sociological aspect," he said, "this is primarily a problem of making living conditions on the farm comparable with living conditions in the city. I look forward to the day when the old Blue Monday shall vanish from the farm calendar; when an electrically driven machine shall milk the cows, an electrically driven separator produce the cream, and an electrically driven churn make the butter; when an electrically operated washing machine shall do its work while the family is at breakfast and electric sweeping machines and sewing machines shall bear their part of the burden.

"Its economic aspect is important because nothing interests all of us more fundamentally than our food supply. We can produce our food supply adequately and cheaply only by keeping the most intelligent people on the farm, men and women who will be able to manage the farm as a business to their profit, so as cheapest cost. We cannot have adequacy and economy in our farming industry under present conditions. We cannot have it so long as the farmer is at a disadvantage in the standard of living.

Electrical Industry's Responsibility.

"It is the electrical industry's job to make its contribution to these two things, adequacy and economy in farm production. Otherwise, the electrical industry will be found wanting. And it must accept a problem of this magnitude and character as presenting a duty rather than a new market. The question is, How can it be profitably done? How can a business of this size and importance be developed in such a way that the electrical industry can sell its service for what the purchasers can afford to pay? Anybody can produce goods at such a price that no one can afford to buy them. That is not business; business demands that the price shall be within reach of the potential customer, and that there shall still be a fair return to the producer.

"There are two divisions of the electrical industry. One is the public service branch, which supplies light and power. The other is the manufacturing branch, which supplies the machinery and devices necessary for utilizing the light and power. And it is incumbent upon the manufacturing branch even more than the utilities branch to meet this problem. It must make and develop the necessary machinery. It can be done. The manufacturing branch supplied the textile field, it provided the machinery for the mine and the railroad, for the steel mill and the bakery. The dentist has electricity at his elbow for service, the surgeon his X-ray, the physician his lighting apparatus, so that he can observe bismuth as it moves down into the stomach.

"Now that the silos are to be filled, the grinding machines to be operated, the curd to be cut, the manufacturer of electrical machinery must meet the need. When I was a boy we lifted hay into the barn by hitching a horse to a rope and getting the hay up with a pulley. On my farm now—it's the same farm where I was born—I'm having an electric motor harnessed to do the work.

"And it will not be long before the farmer will have an electric refrigerator in his kitchen. I remember how many trips I had to make to the cellar when I was a boy to get the butter or the milk. I remember how often my mother had to make that journey down the stairs and up again. What a reflection upon the far-spread fame of this country, what a reflection upon our inventive genius and our technical achievements, that we should still be freezing water wherewith to cool our food! I do not doubt that within a few years we will have electric refrigerators in every home. They are on the way. But the farmer needs them even more than city folk, because the ice man will not visit scattered homes and the use of natural ice is so difficult as to be almost out of the question. An electric refrigerator in the farm kitchen will be a long step toward comfort and real convenience."

Mr. Young, who had been sitting with his feet cocked up on a radiator behind his desk, paused to knock the ashes from his pipe and refill it.

Power Now Available.

"The electrical manufacturers have neglected the farmer," he continued, "because until recently there have been no power lines near the farm. They have confined themselves to the thickly settled communities, where there were within reach plenty of houses to light or industries to utilize power. Now the power is there, being carried alongside the farm, and the farmer is beginning to ask 'Why can't I have some of this?' Now for the first time it is up to the manufacturer to study and develop this field for the farmer's benefit. It is up to him to satisfy the farmer's needs.

"As for the public service companies, their obligation is no less clear. The original idea of a light and power company was to do a local business under a franchise, with a power plant large enough to serve the city or village. When they first started out their idea was to supply only the large users of light and power. Their engineers applied a slide rule to see whether a prospective customer was desirable from the point of view of consuming current. They didn't want the small fry.

"Then these companies found that the privilege of serving the community meant that they must make the service available to everybody within the community; theirs was not a problem of a particular line, but of a social unit, and of service to every one within that unit. The newsboy living with his mother in a tenement had as much right to electric light as the banker in a fifty-room mansion. This was the social obligation assumed by the companies when they agreed to supply service. This was the social pressure brought to bear on them. And, although, it may have happened that the large users of current had to pay more for it, in order that the small user might get it at a rate within reach of his pocketbook, nevertheless the community as a whole was better off. The companies were supplying a great service to everybody, not to a few.

"Now, I have never believed that there was any obligation on the part of these isolated utilities, serving their particular communities, to go out into the country at a loss and serve the farmers, too. But the next step in their development, a step which was economical and in the public interest, was to abolish the little, uneconomic, isolated unit, and to tie fifteen or twenty or more towns into one, served by a single large plant. Consider the economy of this merely from the point of 'spares'; each separate plant, we will say, must have a reserve unit to bring into play in case of accident or breakdown; for twenty isolated plants that meant twenty 'spares,' but for one big plant serving all these cities and towns it meant only one. Great economies of operation were effected in this and other ways.

"In establishing these large plants, serving many communities, high-power currents were carried through the countryside. The companies, having undertaken to serve all the members of that community, just as they were obligated to serve all the members of the village or city. We can't inquire whether farm electrification will pay; we have no right to push that sliding scale too far. The sliding scale can sometimes be used to defeat the ends of social justice. The companies are entitled to a fair return on their capital within the district as a whole, in order that service may be given at reasonable rates to the new people who demand it. This is the new problem; or, if you perfer, it is an extension of the old problem.

Political Objections.

"Some political objections have been raised to the extension of electric light and power service over the larger field, but the farmers should be the last to raise such an objection. They should be its chief beneficiaries. They are in somewhat the same position to-day as that newsboy a quarter of a century ago. Before, nobody was obligated to serve them. Now they are potential customers.

"The authorities controlling electric light and power rates, the companies supplying that service and the manufacturers making machinery for it should co-operate on a program to supply the farmer with all its advantages, and they should co-operate in educating the farmer as the nature of those advantages. The technical engineers of the manufacturers and of the utility companies must co-operate with the agricultural colleges in order to learn what the farmer needs and how he can best be served.

"The electric light and power companies must now have their agricultural departments, just as they have their industrial departments; and they should have in their service not only men who know the electrical business but those who know farming. It will do no good, as I have observed before, for the power companies to send a man to install a milking machine who doesn't know on which side of the stanchions it belongs. One reason farmers have not been open-minded about the use of electricity is that the electrical industry hasn't been open-minded enough to learn what the farmer really needs. Every element must co-operate to meet this problem, and every element must co-operate to engage the sympathetic and intelligent interest of the farmer.'

Mr. Young paused. It seemed possible that he was musing over the technical difficulties involved in the problem, for farm machinery is slow machinery, while the electric motor is at its greatest efficiency, as a rule, when revolving from 1,200 to 1,800 times a minute. How may slow-speed machinery be adapted to this whirling dervish of the machine world? Mr. Young waved the question aside. He had no doubt that these merely technical questions would be answered readily enough.

"But there is a question in my mind," he said, "whether we can at present supply electric power in practicable farm for the moving machinery about a farm, such as the tractors and thrashing machines. I do not see that this is likely to happen for some years, until the storage battery is made much better than it now is."

Thomas A. Edison, it may be said aside, is still plugging industriously away at this matter of a lighter and more efficient storage battery. He has been plugging at it for years, and still hopes to add it to his long list of inventions.

Uses on the Farm.

But, pending the success of Mr. Edison or some other wizard, to what uses can electricity be put on the farm, outside of the home? So far as our conversation had gone it had spelled chiefly relief for that "pale, tired and discouraged woman," (the adjectives are Mr. Young's), the farmer's wife. What of the farmer himself?

For pumping, for grinding the cattle's feed, for cutting silage, for milking and churning, electric power may readily be adapted to the farmer's needs: and it would be utilized in daylight, as Mr. Young pointed out, when current is almost valueless. The farmer has already taken advantage of the radio, the telephone and the automobile: and the automobile has been a great factor in bringing him good roads. There still remains the matter of lifting backbreaking tasks from his shoulders. Manual labor, practically abolished in the city and the factory, is almost as much a matter of course on the farm to-day as it was forty years ago, when Mr. Young was doing the chores.

"The farmer and his wife work from daylight until long after dark," he told me. "I worked on a farm until I was twenty-one, and the only power we knew was man power and natural horse power. I remember well the grinding drudgery imposed on my mother. When the day's work was done, all of us were exhausted. We had no strength, no spirit, for books or music or games. We were too tired to do anything but go to sleep."

The Young farm of 120 acres was—and is—near Van Hornesville, N. Y. The family has tilled those fields since 1750. As a small boy Owen D. Young often brought the cows in from pasture, helped milk them, hitched up a team and took the milk to a cheese factory at Van Hornesville, and then returned home for a six o'clock breakfast. The rest of the day went like that, and nearly every day was as busy as another. In a sketch of his life, I told how, wandering into the shaded County Court one day with his father, he heard some lawyers arguing a case, and decided he'd like to have easy work like that to do. It was not merely an escape from drudgery he sought, of course; it was the things he could get in a city which he couldn't get on a farm. When he speaks of the motives back of the urban population growth he speaks by the book, and from the heart.

"Electricity," he summarizes, "can lighten farm labors and increase farm profits. It will check the exodus of the better type of citizens from the farm. It will make the farmhouse the most delightful home we have in this country."

RISE IN ANIMAL PRODUCTS SALE

Export From Canada Has Increased 20 Per Cent. in One Year.

MIXED FARMING

An increase of 20 per cent. in the exports of animals and animal products from Canada during a single year ought to be sufficient evidence that Canada's farming activities do not consist entirely of grain raising. This is what took place last year. The total value of these exports averages about one-third that of all grain and vegetables product combined. Last year the former amounted to more than $163,000,000 while the latter was $443,208,000. No better evidence can be obtained that mixed farming is making rapid progress, and that the farmer is thus assured against total loss during a year when adverse conditions have affected the grain crops in his locality.

Some thing of the direction in which the livestock industry is developing is seen in the first half-year's figures for marketings throughout Canada. Taking the country as a whole, cattle sales fell off slightly, from 319,925 to 332,733, while the sales of calves increased by nearly 7 per cent. A decided expansion has been taking place in the development of the bacon industry, and the total sales of hogs jumped 14 per cent., from 619,244 to 707,004. During the same period the total value of sheep sold declined by more than 35 per cent. The trend of prices is, of course, the major factor in this movement towards the greater production of young cattle and hogs.

According to statistics recently prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the total value of livestock in Canada has increased during the past year from $613,260,000 to $641,144,000. The largest contributor to this increase was a rise of more than $10,000,000 in the total value of hogs. The total value of cattle rose $9,000,000, and there was a slight increase in the value of sheep.

Products Find New Markets.

An encouraging phase of the farm animal industry is the widening of the market which our products are building up, in competition with the products of other countries which specialize more intensively in these lines. The total value of meat exports, for example, has increased by more than 36 per cent. during the pas year. Last year's shipments were worth $30,000,000, against $22,000,000 the year previous. Pickled and dry salted pork made the largest gains, and, in respect to markets, the greatest increase in shipments was to the United Kingdom. Even outside the United Kingdom, Canadian pork products are building up a favorable reputation for superior quality.

Canada's profits from the livestock industry are not confined to the actual value of the animals and meats sold. A substantial profit is added by further manufacture and by certain processes, especially the latter. Although the total revenue from farm animals, according to official figures, was less than $100,000,000 last year, the value of animal products, as stated above, was $163,000,000.

PROTESTS GOVERNMENT TREATMENT OF INDIANS

Chief Bigwin of the Reindeer tribe, who at the unveiling of a monument to Champlain at Orillia on Dominion Day took occasion to protest against the treatment of the Indians by the government. "When we sent councillors to complain to the King about it, they could not see him," the old chief said. "The forest are going and we are going with them."

BREATH OF NEW MOWN HAY

By DELA MAE DOWNS, Hastings

Oh, sweet is the scent of a dew-drenched rose,
In the dusky dawn's pale light,
And sweetly sad is the song of the breeze,
In the darkly silent night.

Oh, sweet is the call of the mocking bird,
In the twilight's rosy shades,
And sweet is the voice of the crystal rill,
As it steals through willow glades.

Oh, sweet is the nectar-breathing blossom,
That sails on the winds of May,
But sweeter far to my world-weary soul,
Is a breath of new-mown hay.

Back o'er memory's welling tide it floats me,
To the happy, peaceful days,
When mystery's magic veil, enshrouded life,
And rose-tinted all its ways.

Once again through homestead groves I wander,
'Neath the harvest moon's bright ray,
While upward floating from the starlit meads,
Comes the Breath of new-mown hay.

Now as then, I built a vast dream mansion,
Illumined with triumphs grand,
Bright realms of the future I explore,
Guided by, fair Fancy's hand.

Ah! those were days of unalloyed delight,
And gladness, that could not last,
And how my care-worn spirit loves to roam,
Back to that enchanted past.

I have outflown the wildest fancied flight,
I have conquered in Life's fray,
Earth's Goddesses of power and happiness,
At my feet their laurels lay.

But Oh! for the golden moonlight dreams
In the dying hours of day,
When upward on an evening zephyr borne,
Came the breath of new-mown hay.

NE YARD HAS 1,000 KINDS OF INSECTS

Astonishing World of Bugs and Flies Swarms in Typical Garden.

Your back yard garden probably is the home for at least 1,000 different kinds of insects!

This astonishing information comes from Dr. Frank E. Lutz, Curator of Entomology of the American Museum of Natural History, under whose direction there has just been opened to the public the most amazing zoo in the world—a 40-acre menagerie of insect life—in the Interstate Park near Tuxedo, N.Y. This zoo, he estimates, will contain at least 5,000 different varieties of insects.

Dr. Lutz's surprising revelations about the swarming world of bugs, caterpillars and flies to be found in the typical American back yard, arise from a collection of insect species caught and counted in his own back garden in Ramsey, N.J. In this plot of land 75 by 200 feet, part of it planted in lawn, part in vegetables, and part in flowers, he found more than 1,000 species. And, since the garden in this case is in no way unusual, he declares that every family who owns a back yard is harboring fully as many.

Dr. Lutz's collection, described in the August issue of Popular Science Monthly, was made casually, during two summers. In all but one of 23 general classifications into which all insects are divided, representatives were found. The most numerous of back yard guests, he tells us, are aphids, or plant lice. If left to grow unmolested, the hordes of these insects would bring starvation to all of us by destroying all vegetation. Next in number in the garden are ants, and a distressing fact is that these two classes have joined forces. The lice are the ants' "cows." They excrete a sweetish substance called "honeydew," which is very much liked by certain species of ants. These ants work hard to care for their tiny "cows."

Fortunately, though, lice have enemies as well as friends in the insect world. One of these enemies is the familiar lady-beetle. Another is the aphis-lion, often seen flying about electric porch lights in the summer evenings. Its young are voracious consumers of plant lice—so much so that Dr. Lutz goes out into the field, gathers aphis-lions and turns them loose in the garden.

Craftiest of all garden insects, he says, is the ferocious-looking doodlebug or ant-lion which develops into the manish fly. The doodlebug larva makes a pit in loose gravel and hides at the bottom with just its powerful jaws protuding, ready to seize its prey. When an ant or other insect tumbles into the trap, it is assisted in its fall by showers of sand thrown up by the lion. Once in the pit, the victims fate is sealed.

RUST DAMAGE NOT SERIOUS SAY EXPERTS

Indications For Best Wheat Crops That Canada Has Ever Had.

REASSURING REPORTS.

Very Little Stem Rust and Leaf Rust Inconsequential, Say Pathologists.

WINNIPEG.—As usual during the second half of June is a time of alarms about the crop, and our American crop experts from the big grain houses having begun to talk black stem rust in the spring wheat states, farmers and grain men alike in the Canadian prairie provinces began to get uneasy. Fortunately, this year Manitoba is supplied with a Dominion pathologist and a provincial pathologist at the M.A.C., and it has been possible to obtain reassuring reports from this source. After three days spent in the south and south western portions of Manitoba, Dr. D. L. Bailey, chief of the Dominion plant pathology laboratory located at the Manitoba Agricultural College, gave out the following definite statement on the situation on June 24:—

"From a very careful survey of crop conditions in southern and south-western Manitoba, in the whole territory covered, myself and assistants found just one pustule of stem rust and that on a very early variety of wheat in a test plot on the experimental farm at Morden.

"A considerable sprinkling of leaf rust, which is, of course, not dangerous, was found, and the crop is very lush and rather waterlogged, and while this is favorable to the development of stem rust where the spores exist, it will prevent any rapid spread of the spores to other districts. Two of our investigators who have been in Portage la Prairie and contiguous districts report the same condition as to leaf rust, but not a single pustule of stem rust found.

Dr. Lambert, at St. Paul, with whom we are working in close co-operation, reports by wire that very few pustules of stem rust have been found either in Minnesota or North Dakota, and absolutely nothing to warrant reports as to wide-spread existence of black stem rust which have been circulating throughout the press trade gossip.

The situation is receiving the very closest attention from this department and the farmers of Manitoba may rest assured that they will have the most authoritative reports on the progress of conditions that we are able to furnish. At the present time there is nothing to warrant alarm as to the ultimate outcome, although it is usual at this time.

Reports of rust along the Soo Line in Southwestern Saskatchewan upon investigation proved just as little authentic. It is extremely early for black stem rust to appear and while there is an excess of moisture in a number of places the temperatures both day and night have not been favorable to the development of the spores. No one who is familiar with grain conditions on the prairies doubts for a moment that a few hot muggy nights might develop rust and any extended development of rust at the present stage of the crop would do very serious damage, but no such conditions exist at present and they may never develop. Apart from the spread of rust damage and the percentage of loss from cutworms, which have been unusually plentiful, the Canadian West never had a better stand of wheat than she has to-day, in fact the wheat fields look very much better and more promising than they did on the 24th day of June in the famous crop year of 1915, of happy memory.

One great difficulty under which Western crops have always labored is the tendency for people to visit a few spots and take them as samples of the whole. Supposing the three prairie provinces were to lose 2,000,000 of the acreage seeded to wheat it would still have in that cereal 4,000,000 acres more than the amount under wheat in 1915, and the loss of 2,000,000 acres is, to say the least, highly improbable. Never once since the wheat belt extended from the eastern boundary of Manitoba clear through to the Rockies, has there been a total crop failure and never once in the past twelve years has the condition at the time of writing been so generally favorable.

W. M. Graham, the Indian Commissioner who has been in the West since 1871 and who has this year 1,000,000 acres of crop land under his supervision, most of it wheat, has returned from a two weeks' tour of the West, stated to-day: "In all my long experience of the West and even remembering 1915, I have not seen such prospects as we have to-day over the West."

EGGS DEMAND CARE.

Better Prices and Market Follow Shipping Conditions.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 13 (By Canadian Press).—Walton Peteet, a prominent co-operative marketing expert from the United States, addressing farmers and city business men on dairy, livestock and poultry pool-drives, said: "If you are wise you will bring the women into prominence in your egg and poultry pool. It has been my experience, that they make better co-operators than the men, and they have often succeeded where the men have failed. The egg business presents more opportunity for elimination of waste than practically any other industry, and the farmer, alone, has the power to cut down this waste, due in large part to bad eggs." He explained that Pacific coast egg producers had advanced their business to the point where they were able to ship eggs 2,000 miles in eighteen days, and sell them in New York at better prices than the local producers, owing to the better and more uniform quality. The speaker intimated that Canada might want to send eggs to the Old Country some time, and that greater care in the handling of the eggs would ensure a better market for them.

'WARE POISON!

Poison Ivy—It is easily recognizable by its leaves, which are always composed of three distinct leaflets, and of a bright green or mixture of green and red.

WESTERN CROP IS PROGRESSING

Cutworms Do Slight Damage at Local Points, Although Not Serious.

RAIN BENEFICIAL

The crops have made good progress during the last two weeks according to telegraphic reports received by the Saskatchewan department of agriculture. Rains have fallen pretty generally all over the province and there is no place where moisture is urgently needed, although in the Smiley and Meota districts rain will be welcome in a few days. Hail has occurred in a few places and serious damage has been reported.

On some farms north of Unity and Adanac, the cutworms continue to do damage to the crops although there are signs of their disappearance in many districts. The most serious damage from this source is in the east central district. Taking the province as a whole the damage will not be great in proportion to the total acreage in crop. Fall rye seems to have escaped injury but there are several reports of sweet clover being attacked by cutworms. Reports are contradictory regarding the influence of the rain on their activity, but apparently the damage is less than would have occurred during a dry period. Gardens throughout the province have suffered more than field crops and in some cases they have been planted a third time. The weather during the past week has been ideal for growth and the grain is generally well advanced for this season of the year. At Fort Qu'Appelle some of the grain is reported to be in the shot blade. There is apparently very little change in the acreage of potatoes as compared with last year.

CROP REPORTS

General—Wheat is in shot blade in many parts of the prairie provinces, growth generally is further advanced than in the average year, and western crop conditions are favorable on the whole. In Ontario, all crops have been improved by two weeks of satisfactory weather, and fall wheat is filling out well. In Quebec, a yield of hay above the average is practically assured, while in the Maritime Provinces all crops are doing well. In British Columbia, hay and grain are doing well, but fruits will be below average.

Prairie Provinces.

Edmonton District—Rains fairly general, wheat in shot blade, hail more or less general, but damage comparatively small. Some points in the eastern section need rain. Calgary District—Rains generally, crops growing rapidly. Small isolated damage from hail. Cut worms caused 25 per cent. loss in parts of the middle and northeastern section. Reseeded areas progressing favorably. Lethbridge District—Good general rains. Crops progressing rapidly. Some slight hail damage. First cutting alfalfa started. Sugar beets thinned and in healthy condition. Range good. Northern Saskatchewan—Weather conditions favorable. Grain growing rapidly and well advanced for season of year. Cut worms damage fairly general, running 10 per cent. in some districts. Prospect at present good. Southern Saskatchewan—All grains making rapid progress with wheat in shot blade. Weather is warm and moisture sufficient for the present excepting in the vicinity of Maple Creek, where rain is needed. The outlook generally is encouraging. Hay crop and pasture in good condition. Manitoba District—Crop conditions favorable except in limited areas, where excessive rains have caused flooding. Wheat in shot blade and rye headed out. Other coarse grains doing well. Usual scattered hail damage. Pasturage excellent.

Province of Ontario.

Fall wheat is in head and is filling well. The straw is short but an average yield is promised. Spring wheat, barley, and oats have made rapid growth. Corn and root crops are excellent. Timothy hay is a short crop, but clovers are heavy. Raspberries are abundant and apples and pears promise well. Recent rains have benefited the pastures, which are now in fair condition.

Province of Quebec.

Crops generally have made satisfactory progress and a yield of hay above the average is now practically assured. Pastures continue in excellent condition. In the eastern and southern districts, the soil is very wet owing to recent rains, and hot, dry weather is now essential to ensure a good crop. In the Northern and Lower St. Lawrence districts, the weather has been cold and dry, and rain and heat are needed.

Maritime Provinces.

New Brunswick and Nova Scotia—Hay in most parts promises an excellent crop. Grass pastures good. Potatoes making satisfactory progress. Apple blossoms have set well and prospects good for a large crop. Prince Edward Island—Abundant rains have fallen and crop prospects have rarely been better.

Province of British Columbia.

Hot dry weather has been beneficial to most crops. Hay and grain are doing well, with prospects of good average yields. Grasshopper plague in dry belt is less than last year but still serious. Very good crops of roots and other vegetables are expected. Large increase planted in onions and tomatoes. Hops promise good yield. Apples sizing up nicely but will not be over 65 per cent. of average, cherries 25 per cent. of average, strawberries 60 per cent., picking finished. Other small fruits are below average. Pasturage good.

CHARLES BROWN SERVES FAMILY FOR LONG TERM

Parents Were Slaves Who Won Freedom By Escaping Taskmasters.

CAME TO COBOURG.

Skilled in All Farm Work, He Excelled Most in Farm Operations.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13.—It is nothing unusual for The Examiner to record the fact that a minister has served 40 years or more in the same pulpit, that another man has stood for nearly half a century at the throttle of a locomotive, or for that length of time has looked after the safety and comfort of the passengers in the coach behind. When the lives of others are written emphasis is given the fact that they have spent all their years in the house or on the farm on which they were born, that they have always attended the same church or given the same political party with unswerving fidelity. In such instances following closely one path of duty has brought at least a minimum of trials and a measure of financial reward.

But here is a unique case—that of a man who has been in the employ of one family of farmers for 42 years, and who is now working for a man who was not home at the time the subject of this sketch began his service with the other's father.

His Parents Were Slaves.

Charles Brown, at the age of 71, still lives and works on the West farm which is situated on the Hastings Road about a mile beyond the corporate limits of Campbellford. In that time he has seen three generations of the West family in possession of the homestead. He put in the greater portion of that length of years with the late E. C. West who was town clerk of Campbellford for some time before his death nearly two years ago, and whose son, Marshall, is now carrying on the farm.

Fidelity of His Race.

The case of Charles Brown affords an example of the fidelity to the interests of their employers which was characteristic of the older members of his race. He was born in Watertown, N. Y., seven years before the breaking out of the American Civil War. Both of his parents had been slaves in the South but were free at the time their son was born. His mother had been for years with a rich Southern family and her owners becoming inbred with the growing abolitionist sentiment of the times had set her free, giving her a bonus of $2,000 to start life in the free states of the north. Even that small fortune, for one in her position, was scarcely adequate compensation for the years she had spent in their service.

Father Ran Away.

Charles Brown's father won his freedom by his own efforts. His owner's son, whose personal attendant he had been and to whom he was attached, told him one day that his father intended to sell him "down the river," a fate which the average slave dreaded worse than death. Perhaps the son had been reading "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and had come to the conclusion that slavery was a curse alike to master and man. Whatever the inspiration he advised Brown to make a break for liberty and staked him to money with which to make his way north.

Travelling by night and lying concealed all day, Brown finally reached Watertown, N. Y., after a trip that lasted for 12 weeks. Once on the soil of the State of New York he was safe from capture as the Fugitive Slave Law was not in effect at that time. In Watertown he met the woman whose release from her bonds had been easier and the two were married.

Came to Cobourg.

When Charles was six months old his parents brought him to Canada, the mecca of their race in the days before the "Battle Cry of Freedom" was sounded in the United States. They landed in Cobourg and spent some time in the township of Haldimand, later moving to the vicinity of Burnley. When Charles grew up he worked for 12 years on the farm of the late Comfort Curtis at Warkworth. In 1883 he entered the employ of the West family, and never left it. His health is somewhat broken but he still performs the lighter tasks about the farm and the relationship that is creditable alike to employer and man is almost certain to continue to the end.

A Faithful Servant.

Brown is modesty itself and cannot see that his record is at all remarkable. He is spoken of by others who have known him for years as a faithful servant, and who was skilled in all branches of farm work. Before the reaping machine was introduced, Brown has been known to cut five acres of grain in one day with a cradle. He could bind by hand 1500 sheaves in a day, gathering them from the swath left by the cradle. He was equally skilled in the use of a scythe, cutting either grass or peas, and as a plowman and handler of horses was never excelled in the neighborhood.

Those who paid his wages all these years were never worried by the labor problem and now Brown, spending his declining years in comfort and with no care for the future, is reaping the reward of his faithful service.

PETES SLUG THEIR WAY BACK INTO THE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP BY BEATING RAILROADERS 12 TO 5

Belleville Uses Up Whole Pitching Staff Trying to Stop Johnstonites.

PLENTY OF HITTING

Swanston and Wolfe Each Drive in Four Runs to Swell Petes' Total.

(By F. D. C.)

By hammering out a 12-5 victory off four Belleville pitchers at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon while the Oshawa Motorists were squeezing out a win over the Kingston Ponies, the Peterboro Central Ontario Leaguers are again out in front in the hectic race.

The ineffectiveness of the Belleville pitching staff, all of whom were in action during the matinee, made Saturday's triumph a comparatively easy one for Manager Johnston's talent who came back to form after Wednesday's catastrophe and played winning ball.

None of Belleville's three regular twirlers, Keon, Jeffrey and Goyer, working in that order, had much luck in baffling the Petes who made sixteen safeties, hit safely in every inning and scored in all but two, and before the game was over the Railroaders March of the Wooden Pitchers had resulted in the trio of official heavers disappearing from the mound and the debut of First Baseman Harry Mills as a twirler.

He pitched like a good first baseman.

They Were Generous

In addition to being hit hard, and in bunches, the visting boxmen had great difficulty in locating the plate, issuing eight complimentaries, of which six were cashed in for runs.

Al. Heckman, sent back at the Railroaders after losing on Wednesday, was much steadier than the Belleville gunners, giving out but one pass and, although hit hard at times, especially by the Mills brothers who collected seven hits, pitched himself out of several holes nicely and outside of the seventh inning when the Gerowmen bunched four hits for three runs and tied the score, was not in great difficulty.

A feature of the game was the hitting of the Mills brothers for Belleville and of Swanston and Wolfe for the Petes. The Belleville pair got more hits but Swanston and Wolfe did much more execution with theirs, each driving in four runs, while the latter registered four tallies on his own account.

Belleville started Hughie Keon, former Tweed right-hander, on the rubber and he disappeared in the fourth when the Petes were leading by 4 to 1. Jeffrey, the Railroaders left-hander, was the relief force and when Belleville tied up the count in the seventh had a chance to add a win to his string. He filled the bases in the Petes' half of the same inning with nobody out and Goyer was called upon to save the game. The third gunner looked to be working under difficulties for he was hit hard and finally gave to Harry Mills in the eighth.

How It All Happened.

Belleville scored one in the first. Ross singled past the box, Heckman deflecting the drive with his bare hand. Weir sacrificed and W. Mills singled over second to score Ross, taking second on the throw in. H. Mills singled to left and stole second, but Heckman put on the brakes by fanning both Hagerman and Meagher.

The Petes got it back in their half. Wolfe worked Keon for a pass and was sacrificed to second by Holyman. Swanston pasted a double over Wicky Ross's head and the tieing run was over. Bob Ross flied to Weir and Heckman struck out.

In the visitors' second Blakely rolled to Holyman and Casey to Heckman, both on the first ball, and Keon fanned.

In the homesters half Harrison missed three and Rose's long drive to right found Casey waiting for it. Hall singled to right but was forced at second, Balkely to Meagher, by McPherson.

The Railroaders wasted two good hits in the third. Ross was thrown out by Swanston on a roller in front of the plate and Weir whiffed. W. Mills singled to centre and H. Mills hit safely past second, but Hagerman fanned.

The Petes took the lead Wolfe walked and stole second. Holyman bunted safely. Swanston fouled to W. Mills but Bob Ross doubled to left, scoring Wolfe. Heckman struck out and Harrison rolled to Meagher.

Meagher started Belleville's fourth by drawing a base on balls, but remained on first while Blakely struck out, Casey flied to Wolfe and Keon rolled weakly to Harrison.

Gooy Bye Mr Keon.

Keon's lack of control drove him out of the box in the Petes' end of the canto. He walked Rose to start with and after Hall had sacrificed him to second and McPherson had rolled to Blakely the Belleville pitcher filled the sacks by passing Wolfe, who immediately stole second, and then Holyman. Swanston ripped a single between Harry Mills and Meagher, scoring Rose and Wolfe. Keon pitched one ball to Ross and then gave way to Jeffrey, the left-hander winding up the scoring for the moment by striking out Ross.

In the fifth Ross was thrown out by McPherson and Weir flied to Hall. Peeney Mills got his third hit, a line single to left, and H. Mills hoisted one to Holyman.

The Johnstonites went another notch in front. Heckman singled to third and was sacrificed to second by Harrison, who looked to have the throw beaten at first. Rose doubled past third to score Heckman. Hall rolled to Meagher and McPherson to Weir.

The invaders got that one back in the sixth. McPherson made a nice play to retire Hagerman but Meagher and Blakely singled through short and Casey slammed a double to right, scoring Meagher. McPherson tore over to the fence to make a fine catch of Jeffrey's foul and Ross was thrown out by Heckman.

Wolfe flied to Weir and Holyman struck out. Weir dropped Swanston's high fly near the foul line, giving the batter a life, and Ash, sent in to bat for Ross, singled between short and third. Heckman struck out.

Tied Up—For A Moment.

Belleville staged one of their characteristic rallies in the seventh to tie the score. Weir singled through McPherson. W. Mills singled to right. H. Mills dropped a single back of third, scoring Weir and when Holyman made a wild throw home W. Mills also registered and H. Mills reached third. He was held their while McPherson and Rose made fine play on smashes by Hagerman and Meagher, but Blakely came through in the pinch with a long double to left scoring H. Mills with the fieing run. Casey struck out.

The Petes came right back in their half and won out. Jeffrey started his own downfall by hitting Harrison. Rose beat out a perfect bunt down the first base line and Hall drew a walk, filling the bases. Out went the left-hander and in came the right-handed Mr. Goyer. McPherson hit to Meagher, Harrison being shot down at the plate, but Wolfe uncorked a double to left centre, scoring Rose and Hall. Hardill, a left-handed hitter, was sent in to bat for Holyman and singled off Goyer's glove on a hard drive, McPherson coming in. Swanston hit to Weir and Wolfe was out at the plate. Ash beat out a slow roller to Weir for his second hit. Heckman was thrown out by Goyer.

In the eighth Goyer rolled to Rose and Ross to Johnston, who had replaced Holyman at short. Weir struck out.

The Petes made the game sure. Harrison cracked a single over second and Rose walked. Hall smashed a single over second, scoring Harrison. This was enough for Goyer and Harry Mills went to the mound, Wicky Ross taking first, Casey centre and Goyer right. Wolfe singled to right, Rose and Hall crossing the plate. Johnston Swanston doubled down the left field foul line, Wolfe scoring from first. Ash rolled to Weir.

In the ninth McPherson made a great pick-up of W. Mills' hard smash and threw him out. H. Mills flied to Ash in right. Hagerman doubled to right and Meagher was safe on Johnston's fumble. Blakely's high foul to Harrison wound up the battle.

OSHAWA'S THREE DOUBLES IN 10TH BEAT KINGSTON

Ponies Scored One Run in Extra Inning as Their Final Bid.

WIN FOR LENNOX

Gallagher Retired in Fourth and Young Finished for Kingston.

OSHAWA, July 13.—In a ten innings battle between Kingston and Oshawa at Alexandra Park here Saturday Oshawa won by a score of 5-4. Joe Daly sent Ted Gallagher to the mound against Oshawa and for three innings got by with what he had, but with the score three to nothing in his team's favor in the fourth and two men on the bags, for Oshawa, through two safe clouts, he as captain of the Ponies chased himself to the bench and sent Young to the mound. To use Gallagher's own expression, "I could not break a pane of glass today."

Young was no better and in the sixth, seventh and eighth Oshawa got to him for hits and runs enough to tie up the game, and with both teams going scoreless in the ninth the fixture went into the tenth with Kingston getting one across the pan but in Oshawa's half Dainty, the first man up poled out a two bagger, then Tyson came through with a two ply clout and Morrison duplicated, sending Dainty and Tyson both over for the tieing and winning runs, with nobody out.

The teams were:

Oshawa—Rowden, ss; Dainty, rf; Tyson, c; Morrison, 3b; Saunders, 2b; Roddick,l f; Dineen, 1b; R. Fair, cf; Lennox, p.

FILIPINOS LIKE GUM

HONOLULU, July 13. — An American chewing gum manufacturer wanted to introduce his product to the Filipinos. He gave away one million sticks to the natives, and now his orders are pouring in.

SPORT GOSSIP AND COMMENT.

Saturday night found the Petes again escounced on the top of the Central Ontario League ladder, the four teams having broken even during the week and thus leaving the standing unchanged, as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Peterboro	9	6	.600
Oshawa	8	7	.533
Kingston	8	7	.533
Belleville	5	10	.333

Games this week: Wednesday—Peterboro at Kingston; Oshawa at Belleville. Saturday—Peterboro at Oshawa; Kingston at Belleville.

* * * * * * * *

The Petes have two hard games away from home this week, clashing with the Ponies in Kingston on Wednesday and journeying to Oshawa on Saturday. Frank Whitehouse, who has beaten Kingston three times in succession, will be used against the Ponies in Wednesday's game, and the Petes are hopeful of beating Joe Daley's men on their own territory.

* * * * * * * *

Saturday's game was stopped for two minutes at the end of the third inning, while the players stood with uncovered heads, as a tribute to the memory of Fred. Denison, former well-known Peterboro hockey star whose funeral took place on Saturday afternoon.

* * * * * * * *

Belleville's pitching staff looked very bad. All three of the regulars were hit hard and their control was bad, the eight complimentaries dished out being good for six runs. Heckman gave but one base on balls, thus maintaining the fine record of the Peterboro twirlers, who have supplied free transportation to only fifteen batters in the same number of games.

* * * * * * * *

"Scotty" McPherson turned in a fine card at third base on Saturday, making several pretty stops and throws, while his running catch of Jeffrey's foul fly near the fence in the sixth was a feature. Ray Rose's diving stop of a hard smash from Meagher in the seventh on which he held Harry Mills on third and threw out the batter was another outstanding defensive play.

* * * * * * * *

The loss of Saturday's game is credited to Jeffrey, Belleville's southpaw. Although the winning counters were scored off Goyer, Jeffrey went out with the score tied and the bases full and thus was responsible for the three runs left on the sacks by him. Had Belleville not sewed up the game the loss would have gone to Keon, the starting pitcher, but once the teams were on even terms it was up to Jeffrey. Goyer, who was suffering from a lame arm, was called upon in a desperate attempt to save the game, and he did not appear to be overjoyed over the S.O.S. message.

* * * * * * * *

Hap Harrison, after going hitless on Wednesday for the first time this season, came back Saturday with one safe blow, and it looked very much as if Base Umpire Sullivan cut him out of another, for he apparently beat out a bunt in the fifth.

* * * * * * * *

As a lead-off man Herb Wolfe was a huge success, walking three times, stealing two bases, crossing the plate on four occasions and coming through, in addition, with two solid smashes, each of which was responsible for a pair of counters.

* * * * * * * *

Manager Shiner Johnston batted 1000 in his pinch-hitting selections on Saturday. He sent Ash, a right-handed hitter, in against Southpaw Jeffrey in place of Bob Ross in the sixth and the youngster came through with a hit, and in the seventh he delegated Jeff Hardill, who hits from the port side, to bat for Holyman against Goyer, the big young pitcher responding with a drive that sent a run over.

* * * * * * * *

Peeney Mills swung a mean bat. Heckman could not keep the ball out of the groove for the big fellow, and he showed his appreciation by cracking out four ringing hits. It took a fine stop by McPherson to keep Mills from having five blows in five trips to the plate.

* * * * * * * *

Belleville have dug up a good youngster in Blakely, who has been playing fine ball at shortstop for the Railroaders and hitting in good style. He should improve steadily and right now is a handy man to have around.

* * * * * * * *

The next home game for the Petes is scheduled for a week from Wednesday when the Oshawa team will be here for a twilight game.

LOCKWORKS WIN FROM EXAMINER

Heavy Hitting Featured the Game in Mercantile League.

POOR FIELDING

The Lock Works All Stars defeated the Examiner team 12-8 in a Mercantile League game which was played right after the Central League fixture. The game was a listless affair, poor fielding and base running being turned in. The pitching was also very poor, both teams smashing the ball hard and often.

Connors was on the mound for the All Stars and turned in only a fair game. He was hit hard but was awarded good support. Scates started for the Examiner but was relieved in the second by Edwin Dugan, he being the best of the trio of pitchers.

Some heavy clouting was turned in, Harold Franks for the Examiner hitting a thousand. Franks collected four hits in four times up, including a triple, two double and a single. He drove in five runs with his hitting. Harry Dugan, Collins and Marchen each collected two hits. For the Lock Works Black, Jobbit, Bailey and Nichols were the heavy hitters.

The fielding features were supplied by Nicholls and Thorndyke for the Locks Works and Edwin Dugan for the Examiner.

The line ups:

Lock Works All Stars—Jobbit, c; Black, 1b; Moore, 2b; Bailey, 3b; Thorndyke, cf; Nicholls, ss; Clancy, lf; Baker, rf; Murray, lf; Connors, p.

Examiner—Dugan, c; Marchen, 2b; Collins, ss; E. Dugan, cf, p; Franks, lf; Delahaye, 3b; Taylor, 1b; Dorrington, rf; Scates, p, cf.

KIWANIS 10—DODGERS 4.

Both pitchers, Ernie Connors for the Kiwanis and Doc Connors for the Dodgers, pitched good ball, each having twelve strike outs.

CARACTUS WON CHICAGO DERBY

Dark Horse at 30 to 1 Was Neglected by Crowd of 35,000.

A TRACK RECORD

CHICAGO, July 13.—(Canadian Press)—The darkest of dark horses in the betting, Caractus, a 30 to 1 shot, raced to victory by a neck in the $20,000 Chicago Derby at Hawthorne Saturday leaving a crowd of 30,000 to 35,000 spectators gasping in excitement at the startling upset.

King Nadi thundered across the wire in second place, two lengths ahead of Silver Fox owned by Harry F. Sinclair.

Caractus, owned by C. W. Reidinger of Lexington, Ky., was admirably ridden by Jockey Harry Thomas, travelling the mile and quarter in 2.04 flat, clipping a fifth of a second off the track record for the distance established by In Memoriam two years ago.

Not many in the immense throng of 40,000 which turned out for the Derby had cause to cheer, for the winner was almost neglected, and opened and closed at the same odds, while most action was round the favorite and Gifford A. Cochran's Dangerous, the other Eastern horse, which finished 6th. Kentucky Cardinal was fourth, while Arbitration, ridden by the great Earl Sande, was next to last after having been played from 10 to 1 to 8 to 1. There were no scratches in the field of nine.

MONTREAL VICTORY

MONTREAL, July 13.—(Canadian Press).—Carsteel soccer team of Montreal won the initial tilt with Ulster United of Toronto in the first of the Quebec-Ontario Provincial semi-finals of Connaught Cup competition here Saturday afternoon. F. DYER SCORED DE LAVAL'S SIX Creamery Crew Blank Warsaw in Taylor Cup Semi-Final Soccer.

MEET C.P.C. NEXT

De Laval defeated Warsaw 6 to 0 in the W. H. Taylor Cup semi-final soccer match at King Edward Park, Saturday. The winners will meet C.P.C., the cup holders in the final.

Frick, the De Laval goal keeper, was absent owing to injuries. His place was admirably taken by Fowler, who filled the breach admirably. The feature of the play was the display given by Frank Dyer, who scored all the goals, two in the first half and four in the second, one from a penalty.

De Laval won the toss and with the wind and sun behind them Dyer at once sent in a dandy which young Darling saved, and W. Darling sent to F. Bell, who tested Fowler. He threw out to Hensby, who sent well down the field. Bell relieved. Cooper met the return and gave to Dyer, who made no mistake and beat Darling. From the centre kick H. Darling made a grat effort to score. His shot hit the crossbar and went out. From the goal kick, Frost sent to Bennet, who in turn gave to Long. F. Bell met the shot and seemed to hesitate and Dyer robbed him and scored the second goal of the game.

Second Half.

Upon resuming with the elements in their favor, Warsaw went at it with a will, and Bell missed an open goal. Foster, who made his first appearance for Warsaw, sent in a great drive which Fowler saved at the expense of a corner. Payne took the kick and placed well, Hensby cleared with a huge drive. The De Laval now took up the running, and Cooper, who fed Dyer with some nice ground passes, sent Frank away who again beat Darling with a great shot.

H. Darling made an individual effort Ward just robbed him in the nick of time. The De Laval came again, and Palley sent in a nice centre and Dyer again scored. Cooper saved a certain goal by heading out of danger. Palley sent out to Lindsay, who made a splendid run and centered. There was an infringement of the rules in the forbidden area and a penalty was awarded. Dyer took the kick. Darling touched the ball, but there was to much force behind it and he scored his fifth goal. The Warsaw team seemed to be discouraged and now acted on the defence. Frost saw on opening and sent in a great long drive. Darling made a good save. Dyer however, met the return and scored No. 6. Time was now called and the De Laval left the field victorious by 6 goals to 0. George Blowers, the well-known player, made an excellent referee.

The Teams.

Warsaw.—Goal, B. Darling; backs, H. Payne, J. Bell; Halves, Foster, W. Darling, C. Payne; Forwards, Milford Payne, R. Darling, H. Thompson, J. Bell, H. Darling.

De Laval.—Goal, Fowler; Backs, Huck, Frost; Halves Ward, Cooper, Harvey; Forwards, Lindsay, F. Dyer, H. Long, H. Pulley, Bennett.

Referee—Peorge Blowers.

YALE - HARVARD BEAT BRITISH IN TRACK TOURNEY

Oxford - Cambridge Team Tied Americans in First Places.

RECORDS LOWERED

G. A. Lowe of Cambridge Won Mile and Half-Mile Races.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 13.—(Canadian Press).—The combined Yale and Harvard track team defeated the Oxford-Cambridge combination in an international track and field meet at Soldiers' Field Saturday, 7½ to 4½. Under the English system of scoring, only first places count, but in the event these are evenly divided the point system reverts back to second places. The teams divided first places in Saturday's meet, each winning six out of the twelve events, but the United States had an edge in second place victories, winning seven outright and splitting with their opponents in another, while the invaders won four second outright. Under the American system of scoring on a 5-3-1 point basis, the United States athletes enjoyed a margin on their English rivals, scoring 61 points to 47 for the Oxford - Cambridge athletes.

The meet, the seventh of the international contests in which Oxford and Cambridge have combined against United States teams, brought out three new records. At the same time two others were equalled.

In winning the pole vault, Sabin Carr, of Yale, shattered the meet record of 12 feet with a vault of 13 feet.

L. L. Robb, of Harvard, contributed a record-breaking performance when he topped the sticks in the 220-yard low hurdles in 25 seconds, 1-5 of a second better than the meet record established by T. Huhn, of Oxford, in 1923.

Lowe's Two Records.

The outstanding individual of the meet proved to be a determined English runner, D. G. A. Lowe, of Cambridge, the only double winner of the meet. Lowe won the half-mile in the record-breaking time of 1.53 2-5 and then gave his team an even break on first places in the final event, winning the mile in 4.21, two-fifths of a second slower than the record for this event.

Lowe's time for the half-mile was 1 and 3-5 of a second better than the meet record established by Tom Campbell, of Yale, in 1921. Lowe is one of Britain's Olympic winners in the 1924 competitions at Paris. Against the greatest half-milers in the world Lowe ran what Paavo Nurmi claimed to be nearly a perfect race when he won the 800 metre event in 1.52 2-5.

Other British Winners.

A. E. Porritt, of Oxford, the crack sprinter of the English team, came home in record time in the 220, equalling the mark of 21 3-5 seconds established by H. M. Abrahams, of Cambridge, in 1923. Porritt is a New Zealander, who is pursuing advanced studies at Oxford. He is the oldest man on the invading team, being 25 years of age.

Lord Burghley, of Cambridge, a member of the ancient house of Cecil, won the 120-yard high hurdle event handily, but received a setback in the 220-yard low hurdles. Burghley topped the timbers in 15 3-5 seconds in the high hurdles, which is 1-5 of a second slower than the record for the event. In the low hurdles, the English nobleman trailed Robb of Harvard and Cole of Yale to the tape.

DODGERS' VICTORY

NEW YORK, July 12.—Charlev Grimm's double with Brooks on base in the sixteenth inning today gave Chicago a 9 to 8 victory over New York. Hartnett's wild throw to the box in the ninth allowed Young to score, tying the count to 8 all.

Meusel smashed his twelfth homer of the season, with one on base in the first inning. Brooks poled out his tenth circuit drive of the year in the sixth with two on.

Jackson, Giant shortstop, turned his ankle in the fifteenth inning returning to first base. Score:

Brooklyn, 4; Pittsburgh, 3.

BROOKLYN, July 12 (Can Press) Taylor's homer with one out in the ninth inning today broke a deadlock and returned Brooklyn victorious over Pittsburgh, 4 to 3. Kremer and Osborne had a pitchers' duel, but Osborne would have won easily if Cox had not lost three flies in the sun which went to two triples and a double. Score:

EIGHT PLAYERS AGAINST ELEVEN FOR PECK CUP

Thistle Opened the Scoring and Score Was 2-1 at the Interval.

TWO GOALS EACH

Quakers Evened Up, While Solitary Eight Fought Valiantly.

Eleven players failed to defeat eight in the Peck game at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon. The "Jags" could muster only the "wonderful twice four" for the tussle and it is an achievement never accomplished in local soccer circles before, for an aggregation to put up such a brilliant display and still live to fight it out another day, after a drawn game of two goals each.

At the face-off the Thistle had only eight players against the Quakers' ten, who were augmented a little later by the eleventh man. Within eight minutes the Thistle took the lead, Williams taking advantage of the opening made by Richmond when Browell placed an accurate centre in front of the gaol. A few minutes afterwards, the left winger had Curtis guessing, when an oblique shot was placed into the far corner of the goal. Quicker than it takes to record, the goalkeeper leaped into the air and touched the sphere around the post for a fruitless corner.

Williams Equalized.

The "Jags" were the dominating factor in the early stages, but fell away to allow the blue and white stripe boys to immitate their tactics against Edgar's charge that finally brought the equalizer when Gardner slipped across a body-high soht to Tommy Williams (Quakers) who made no mistake as he drove a fast one into the net. Both elevens again on even terms resulted in spicy attacks from the three forwards of the Thistle who were met by a robust half-back line.

Claim Penalty—Not Heeded.

On one occasion the "solitary three" broke through their opponents' defense who were in the shooting distance for goal. The full-backs tackled with precision, but an accidental hand by Willshaw frustrated the plan and the claim of a penalty which fell upon deaf ears. It was an accident and play proceeded. Craig sent forward to his left wing that met no opposition until Frank Wade stopped their progress to goal, then a continued bombardment rained upon the Thistle goal where Edgar stopped some snappy shots and the ball, hitting the upright also cross-bar until Jack Wade repeated the attack at the other end.

Dawson's Good Try.
